Assessee is an income tax payee and had been regularly filing its income tax returns for last 23 years. Assessee could not file its return of income under section 139(1) for assessment year 2022-23 for reason that accountant of assessee fell ill and subsequently on account of such illness had to resign due to which books of account could not be finalized which resulted in delayed filing of return. Assessee had sought for condonation of delay on ground of genuine hardship. CBDT refused to condone delay on ground that assessee had adopted a casual approach and took more than three months' time to find a suitable replacement for its accountant which constituted wilful negligence on part of assessee and same did not constitute genuine hardship. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that materials on record did not substantiate any wilful negligence on part of assessee. Delay did not appear to be on account of any negligence or mala fide of assessee as illness and subsequent resignation of accountant was an entirely unforeseen event which amounted to genuine hardship. Accordingly the delay is condoned. The Assessee is directed to file the return within 15 days. Circulars and Notifications : CBDT Circular No. 9/2015, dated 9-6-2015. (AY. 2022-23)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Compensation wrongly shown as taxable-Application for condonation of delay of revised return-Genuine hardship-Refusing to condone the delay can result in a meritorious matter being thrown out at the very threshold and cause of justice being defeated. As against this, when the delay is condoned, the highest that can happen is that a cause would be decided on merits after hearing the parties-Delay is condoned-Directed to decide on merits. [S. 119(2)(b), 143(1), Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013, Art. 226] 1451

Assessee received compensation under Right to Fair Compensation Act on compulsory acquisition of its land. Due to oversight, compensation was in-correctly included in total profit. Realizing later that no tax or stamp duty applied to award, assessee sought leave for a revised return. It filed an application for condonation of delay under section 119(2)(b) which came to be rejected on ground that no genuine hardship was shown by assessee. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that when an assessee feels he has paid more tax than what he was liable to pay will certainly cause hardship and that will be certainly a genuine hardship. Court also held that when assessee strongly felt that award that it received under Right to Fair Compensation Act need not have been offered to tax, concerned authority should have condoned delay and considered matter on merits. Accordingly the delay in filling the revised return is directed to be condoned and the Authority concerned is directed to decide on merits. (AY. 2022-23)

S. 119 : Central Board of Direct Taxes-Charitable Trust-Delay in filing Form No 10B-Delay of 1257 days-Oversights by the Chartered Accountant-Human error lacking any malafide intention-Delay was not intentional or deliberate-Assessee could not be prejudiced on account of an ignorance or error committed by professional engaged by it-Delay is condoned. CIT(E) is directed to proceed with the re-turn in accordance with law. [S. 11, 119(2), Form No 10B, Art, 226] 1452

Assessee, a charitable trust filed its return for assessment year 2016-17 on 6-9-2016, declaring nil income and seeking a refund. Assessee failed to submit Form No. 10B along with return, which was eventually filed on 15-2-2020, with a delay of approximately 1257 days. Despite explaining delay as an oversight by their Chartered Accountant/Auditor, condonation application under section 119(2)(b) was rejected by CIT(E). On writ allowing the petition the Court held that since assessee had been filing its returns and Form 10B for subsequent years within due dates on this ground alone, delay condonation application should have been allowed because failure to file returns for AY 2016-17 could be only due to human error lacking any mala fide intention. On facts the delay was not intentional or deliberate and therefore, assessee could not be prejudiced on account of an ignorance or error committed by professional engaged by it. Delay is condoned. CIT(E) is directed to proceed with the return in accordance with law. Followed, *Sarvodaya Charitable Trust v. [S. 10(37), 119(2)(b), Art. 226]

The assessee filed a 'Nil' return on behalf of her husband with an application for condonation of delay in terms of s. 119(2)(b). The Pr. CIT rejected the application because the assessee had not established that the land in question was agricultural land and further, had not produced relevant evidence of fulfilment of conditions specified in section 10(37)(ii). Held that though the Circular authorizes Pr. CIT to consider even merits of refund claim while exercising delegated power u/s. 119(2)(b), this was illegal for the mandate of the Act cannot be avoided through any administrative circular issued by the Board. Since Pr. CIT had gone into merits of the claim for refund when the application u/s. 119 (2) was filed for condonation of delay in preferring said refund claim and a decision on merits on delay condonation application had not been taken by Pr. CIT, matter remitted for fresh consideration. (AY. 2012-13)

Aggrieved, the assessee preferred a writ before the Hon'ble Madras High Court held that the power under section 119(2)(b) being quasi-judicial in nature and which could result in adverse civil consequence, must be exercised in compliance with principles of natural justice. Since the impugned order does not assign reason but only contains the conclusion, the order was set aside with a direction to consider the application after granting a reasonable opportunity of hearing within a period of 8 weeks from receipt of the Hon'ble High Court order and pass a speaking order. A search operation was conducted on Zee Lab Premises group's premises in Karnal, Haryana, under section 132, leading to discovery of incriminating material related to assessee. A show cause notice was issued to assessee, whereby, for purpose of an administrative, convenience, coordinated investigation and assessment, case of assessee was sought to be centralized at DCIT, Central Circle, Karnal, Haryana from ITO, Delhi and assessee was called upon to furnish objections, if any, against proposed transfer. Assessee objected, citing no link to searched party. After considering objections, revenue centralized and transferred case from ITO Ward-51(1) Delhi to DCIT, Central Circle, Karnal, under section 127. On writ High court held that there is no fundamental right to be assessed at a particular place and when powers are invoked under section 127, territorial nexus becomes irrelevant and what becomes more prominent are interests of adjudication and collection of taxes. It further held that since assessee had duly been given an opportunity of hearing and after considering his reply, revenue had passed impugned order and moreover, details furnished by assessee in response to notice showed that certain transactions pertaining to unsecured loans existed between assessee and searched persons, it could be said that, powers under section 127 was invoked on grounds of administrative convenience and meaningful assessment warranting no interference. [S. 56(2)(viia), 120, 124, 127(2), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that the case of the assessee had been transferred from the jurisdictional Assessing Officer to the Deputy Commissioner, Central Circle-16, New Delhi to the Income-tax Officer, Ward 21(1), New Delhi without passing the mandatory transfer order under section 127 which was a prerequisite before transferring the case and there-fore, the assessments were invalid. By way of a centralisation order dated July 16, 2008, the case of the assessee was transferred from the jurisdictional Assessing Officer to the Deputy Commissioner, Central Circle-16, New Delhi. From the assessment years 2008-09 to 2015-16, the assessee was being assessed by the Deputy Commissioner, Central Circle-16/20, New Delhi. No decentralisation order had been furnished to evidence a legitimate transfer of the assessee's case from the Deputy Commissioner, Central Circle-16/20, New Delhi to the Income-tax Officer, Ward 21(1), New Delhi. The Department's contention that by virtue of an order dated November 15, 2014 passed under section 120 by the Assistant Commissioner read with Central Board of Direct Taxes Notification dated October 22, 2014, the Income-tax Officer, Ward 21(1), New Delhi had inherent jurisdiction over the assessee was not tenable. Such a situation could not be countenanced in law as it would lead to confusion and chaos since at a point, one or more Assessing Officers not only would have jurisdiction over the assessee but also could proceed with the assessment proceedings simultaneously. That on perusal of the order dated November 15, 2014 passed under section 120 by the Assistant Commissioner read with the Central Board of Direct Taxes notification dated October 22, 2014, would reveal that these notifications could not run contrary to the legislative mandate of section 127. The jurisdiction of the Deputy Commissioner, Central Circle-16, New Delhi over the case of the assessee was assigned by a separate order of centralisation dated July 16, 2008. Therefore, once the case of the assessee was centralised, the transfer of the case of the assessee to another Assessing Officer would not be permissible without a decentralisation order or transfer order under section 127 contrary to the underlying objective which the Act sought to achieve by virtue of the powers enshrined under section 127. Accordingly, the assessment orders passed, for the assessment years 2014-15 and 2015-16, by the non-jurisdictional Assessing Officers making additions under section 56(2)(viia) were set aside. Since the assessment orders were quashed and set aside on the ground of jurisdictional error, the orders of the Tribunal challenged in the appeals were also set aside. The Revenue was given liberty to proceed through jurisdictional authorities, if otherwise permissible, in accordance with law. (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16)

[S. 132A, 132B, Art. 14,136, 300A] 1465

Cash was seized from one of the employees (the assessee before the Court) by the Telangana police and handed over to the Income Tax Department. The department, the very next day, conducted search operations under section 132 on both the employer and the employee. In the warrant issued, the place of the search was left blank, and the names of the two witnesses were from locations different from where the search was con-ducted. The Court ruled that a warrant issued under section 132 by the Principal Director of Income Tax, which fails to mention the search place, is invalid. The Court further observed that the documents (Panchnama) used to conduct the search were fabricated, as the witnesses were from places different from the search location. High Court has directed the Department to refund cash of Rs. 5.00 crores to assessee with interest at 12% p.a. along with costs of Rs. 20,000. Petitioner filed writ petition seeking direction to respondents to return his original documents seized from his house during raid conducted by officials against his son assessee. Petitioner sought return of documents which were not only seized from premises of petitioner, but also from third party houses. Respondents submitted that only five documents were seized from premises of petitioner and these five documents were evidence to prove case against his son assessee, as they pertained to transactions between petitioner and his son. Respondents further submitted that only on completion of entire assessment proceedings, they could return original documents. Court held that since petitioner also sought return of documents which were seized from third party houses, he had no right to seek those documents which were seized from third party premises. Further, petitioner is entitled to only five documents seized from his premises, however, he could only seek those documents upon completion of assessment proceedings. Until completion of assessment proceedings, petitioner is not entitled for original documents and he is entitled to get only a copy of those documents.

S. 132 : Search and seizure-Reason to believe must exist at time of issue of warrant of authorisation for search-Department must give specific details to justify search-Merely on basis of warrant of authorisation-Search and seizure invalid-Survey-Notice of survey issued pursuant to search is not valid-Interpretation of Taxing Statutes-Strict construction. [S. 131(IA), Art. 226] 1469

Allowing the petition the Court held that the issuance of the notice under section 131(1A) after conducting of the search operation under section 132 was illegal and without jurisdiction and contrary to the provision which was very clear and there was no ambiguity. Even if there was an ambiguity the benefit of the ambiguity must go the assessee. The Legislature having clearly laid down the manner in which the notice under section 131(1A) was to be issued, the said manner had to be mandatorily followed. Any manner other than what was provided in the provision was necessarily forbidden. There could not have been any material that could be a reason to suspect that any income had been concealed or likely to be concealed by the assessee. Held that since the Principal Director (Investigation) and the Deputy Director (Investigation) had stated that the search and seizure action under section 132 was conducted on the basis of the authorisation issued by the Principal Director (Investigation), Guwahati and that during the post search investigation, the Deputy Director (Investigation), Dibrugarh had issued the notices under section 131(1A), it was evident that the search operation under section 132 had been carried out without issuance of notice under section 131(1A) but merely on the basis of the authorization. Therefore, the search conducted under section 132 and the subsequent notices under section 131(1A) were illegal and without jurisdiction. That the Department had not placed any material whatsoever to indicate that the assessing authority had any material on the basis of which he had reasons to suspect that the assessee had concealed or was likely to conceal any income. The very fact that the Department had issued notices under section 131(1A) after the search and seizure operation under section 132 was conducted, showed that there was neither any reasons to suspect nor material before the Assessing Officer on the basis of which search operation could have been conducted under section 132. Hence, the two essential conditions being absent before the search was conducted, the search was without jurisdiction. The authorization issued for the search, the consequent search and seizure under section 132 and the notices issued under section 131(1A) were quashed and set aside. Taxing statutes are to be interpreted strictly and the assessee cannot be taxed by inference or by analogy. In case of any ambiguity in the taxing provision, the benefit of such ambiguity should go to the taxpayer.

1470 S. 132: Search and seizure –Freezing bank accounts-As per section 132(8-A), order of freezing bank accounts could not remain in force for a period exceeding sixty days from date of order. [S. 132(3), 132(8A), Art. 226]

During search and seizure operation under section 132, several persons/entities were found to be involved in hawala transactions through bogus RTGS and crypto currencies. Pursuant to same and on basis of certain suspicious transactions, accounts of assessees were 'debit frozen' i. e. no withdrawals were allowed to avoid leakage of revenue. Order was issued on 30-4-2023, rigour period stood concluded by 30-6-2023. On writ, the Court held that perpetuation of freezing of bank accounts beyond 60 days was completely unsustainable and de hors the provisions. Thus, letter dated 30-4-2023 having already lived out its life ceased to have any significance by virtue of operation of law. The same was therefore to be declared unenforceable and it was directed to 'de-freeze" the concerned bank accounts of assessees.

1471 S. 132 : Search and seizure-Satisfaction note did not disclose any information which the authorities to have reason to believe were satisfied-Search and seizure action is quashed-Revenue may utlise the information or material in such proceedings as they may be so advised and to utilise the information or material in such proceeding against the assesse as is permissible in law. [S. 132(1)(a) to (c), Art. 226]

The petitioners/assessees comprising of assessee-company, its directors and were the directors' relatives leading manufacturers of forging and engineering products required in the automobile industry. The assessees were regularly assessed to income-tax and wealth tax and no penalty under section 271(1)(c) had ever been levied upon the assessees for any concealment or furnishing inaccurate particulars of income. A search was conduct-ed at the business premises of the assessee-company as well as at residential premises of other assessees, a (directors and their relatives) pursuant to an authorization issued by Director of Income-tax (Investigation) under section 132(1). The assessees submitted that by the initiation of search proceedings and also by the manner in which the proceedings were con-ducted, they were apprehensive that the Revenue would, without jurisdiction or authority of law, proceed against the assessees to make assessments and/or reassessments of the past six assessment years in the case of all petitioners and raise huge demands by way of tax, interest and penal-ties, which would cause hardship and prejudice to the assessees. It was the assessee's case that authorizations issued against them were unconstitutional, ultra vires, invalid, without jurisdiction, etc., and were liable to be quashed and set aside on the ground that the conditions specified under section 132(1)(a) to (c) are not satisfied. Before the Court the Revenue produced the contents of the file of the department given in a sealed envelope by respondents has been read. Having considered the contents thereof, it was opined that the file does not disclose any information which would lead the Authorities to have a reason to believe that any of the contingencies as contemplated by section 132(1)(a) to (c) are satisfied. The reasons recorded, only indicates a mere pretence.

The material considered is irrelevant and unrelated. For the sake of maintaining the confidentiality, the reasons recorded in the file are not being discussed, suffice to say that the information noted therein is extremely general in nature. The reasons forming part of the satisfaction note have to satisfy the judicial conscience. One is not satisfied. The satisfaction note does not indicate at all the process of formation of reasonable belief. The adequacy or sufficiency of the information has not been questioned. Court held that apart, the note also does not contain anything altogether regarding any reason to believe, on account of which, there is total non-compliance with the requirements as contemplated by section 132(1) which vitiates the search and seizure. It does not fulfil the jurisdictional pre-conditions specified in section 132. Accordingly the Court held that the action of respondents taken under section 132(1) cannot be to sustained The same is, therefore, quashed and set aside. As a result, all consequent actions and notices cannot be sustained and accordingly quashed and set aside. Court also held observed that as regards the averments in the affidavit in reply, the views expressed in Balkrushma Gopalrao Buty v. Principal Director (Investigation) [Writ Petition No. 1729 of 2024, dated 23-4-2024] is agreeable that respondents cannot rely upon what has been unearthed pursuant to the search and seizure action as the information giving a reason to believe as contemplated under section 132(1) must be prior to such seizure. Court also clarified that order quashing the search proceedings does not preclude the Revenue from taking any such proceedings as they may be advised and to utlise the in-formation or material in such proceedings as they may be so advised and to utilise the information or material in such proceeding against the assesse as is permissible in law. Allowing the appeal the Hon'ble court held that the revenue did not secure any incriminating material qua the assessee during the course of search. No incriminating material even according to the revenue was found during the search action. A completed assessment could be reopened only if incriminating material was found during the course of search action. Hence, the addition made by the AO is unjustified and deleted. (AY. 2006-07)

[S. 132A, 132B, Art. 14, 226, 300A]

Cash was seized from one of the employees (the assessee before the Court) by the Telangana police and handed over to the Income Tax Department. The department, the very next day, conducted search operations under section 132 on both the employer and the employee. In the warrant issued, the place of the search was left blank, and the names of the two witnesses were from locations different from where the search was con-ducted. On writ the Court ruled that a warrant issued under section 132 by the Principal Director of Income Tax, which fails to mention the search place, is invalid. The Court further observed that the documents (Panchnama) used to conduct the search were fabricated, as the witnesses were from places different from the search location. Court held that an income tax inspection and/ or investigation would be permissible only in respect of a past event but not for possible future contingencies; and if assessee was going to disclose and explain cash of Rs. 5.00 crore in its income tax re-turns for 2019-20, there was no basis for proceeding with any coercive action against it as it would clearly violate Article 300-A of Constitution of India. [S. 132, Art. 136] 1475

The petition is filed for invoking the S. 132((3) prohibiting the petitioner from removing articles (Liquor bottles) in the cup board at the residence of the petitioner. Court held that Section 132(3) can be invoked for imposing prohibitory order in regard to various articles which for reasons other than the reasons mentioned in second proviso to S. 132(1) make it impossible or impracticable for the competent authority to take physical possession or to remove. Liquor is undoubtedly a thing which is a valuable article since it has value in the market. Thus, by the very wide sweep and extent of expression "valuable article", liquor stands included within the expression "valuable article". Contention of the Revenue that power of seizure of liquor is exclusively vested with Excise authorities and thus the Revenue authorities by implication are denuded of any such power of seizure of liquor is untenable order is an outcome of colourable exercise of power by the Revenue authorities which have wrongly invoked S. 132(3) since the facts and circumstances were suitable enough for invocation of S. 132(1) seizing the article. Accordingly the petition is allowed. SLP of Revenue is dismissed. (AY. 2023-24)

S. 132A : Powers-Requisition of books of account-Cash seized by Police-S. 132A does not empower the Department to requisition a Court to deliver any seized assets, and the provision is referable only to an officer or authority-Order passed by the Magistrate is quashed-Asst. Director with whom the amounts were entrusted to return the amount released-The petitioner is directed to file the return disclosing the amount and Revenue is directed to finalise the assessment in accordance with law. [S. 132, 147, 148] 1476

The petitioner has filed petition before the High Court against the order passed by the Magistrate who has handed over the cash seized by Police. Allowing the petition the Court held that under S. 132B, an asset seized during a search under S. 132 or requisition under S. 132A can be applied by the Department to settle any existing liability of the person. On the facts the seizure was effected on 8th Oct., 2022. Income earned by a person during the financial year 1st April, 2022 to 31st March, 2023 is to be assessed in the year 2023-24. 1st petitioner, being an assessee is bound to file a return of income not before 31st July, 2023. If the 1st petitioner does not disclose the income that has been detected, the Department would have time to complete the assessment till 31st Dec., 2024. Department would have the power to assess escaped income under S. 147/148 before the expiry of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year. S. 132A would not empower the Department to requisition the Magistrate. S. 132B would also have no application. 1st petitioner is yet to file his return. He would have to disclose the sum of Rs. 40 lakhs, which was seized from his employee. Revenue can thereafter complete the assessment in accordance with the provisions of the Act. As there is no valid order of assessment and no culminated demand for income-tax, the Revenue cannot aspire to keep the money on the premise that there will be demand later in point of time. At present, there is no authority of law under which the money can be demanded and be kept by the Revenue. Order passed by the Magistrate ordering the handing over of the amount to the Revenue cannot be sustained. *Abdul Khader v. Sub-Inspector of Police & Ors. 1477 S. 132B : Application of seized or requisitioned assets-Search and seizure-Strictures-Return of seized cash-Inordinate delay in returning seized cash-Clear case of high handedness on the part of the officers of the Revenue-Entitled to interest on amount returned-SLP of Revenue is dismissed. [S. 132, Art. 136]

Allowing the petition the Court held, that notwithstanding the order of the Tribunal which attained finality on September 25, 2014, the Revenue did not consider it fit to return the cash of Rs. 2,60,000 that was seized on or about July 9, 1996. Moreover, even after the Principal Commissioner passed the order under section 132B of the Act, on December 31,2019, the Revenue did not consider it fit to process and refund the amount. Even after the petition was filed and served and the lawyer appeared for the Revenue, the Revenue still did not consider it fit to return the money. Therefore, there had been an inordinate delay and this was nothing but a clear case of high handedness on the part of the officers of the Revenue. The assessee would be entitled to interest at 12 per cent. per annum for the post-assessment period, i. e., from September 25, 2014 until payment/realisation. Court also held that the Income-tax Act, 1961 recognises the principle that a person should only be taxed in accordance with law and hence where excess amounts of tax are collected from an assessee or any amounts are wrongfully withheld from an assessee without authority of law the Revenue must compensate the assessee. SLP of the Revenue is dismissed. (AY. 1991-92)

Assessee, a jeweller, handed over cash of Rs. 36.12 lakhs to his worker (Om) requiring him to undertake rail journey to Kolkata to buy jewellery. On 31-8-2022, the said worker was apprehended by Government Reserved Police (GRP) at the Railway Station and in course of search by police authorities, Rs. 36.12 lakhs was recovered from his bag. Later, that information was passed on to Income Tax Authority who subjected cash recovered from Om to proceeding under section 132 (1A). On 15-9-2022, assessee made an application to the Assessing Officer in terms of section 132B(1)(i) read with proviso to section 132B(1)(i) to release amount seized. On writ the Court held that provisions of section 132B(1)(i) being directory, jurisdiction of Assessing Authority to deal with assessee's application dated 15-9-2022 did not lapse or abate upon expiry of period of 120 days. Therefore, Assessing Officer was to be directed to decide application of assessee and if nature and source of cash seized was duly explained, such refundable amount would attract liability of interest under section 132B(4) read with section 132B(1) Matter remanded.

S. 133A :Power of survey-Income from undisclosed sources-Construction of commercial and residential buildings-Director disowning contents of paper found in the course of survey-Addition is deleted. [S. 133(6)] 1479
Held that merely on the basis of piece of paper found during the survey these could not be considered to be credible evidence in the eyes of law to prove the receipt of unaccounted money by the assessee in respect of all the flats sold by it. Neither the assessee nor its directors had accepted the contents of the piece of paper the director having disowned the contents of the paper, it would be not admissible. The enquiries made by the Assessing Officer with some of the buyers did not also show that the assessee was suppressing sale receipts. The Assessing Officer did not have any credible material with him to support the addition. The Assessing Officer could not have resorted to extrapolation on the basis of assumptions and presumptions. The addition relating to additional consideration should be restricted to the evidence found and should not be extrapolated. Hence the entire addition was deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 133A : Power of survey-Statement in the course of survey-Bogus purchases-Statement was retracted within six days-Assessment based solely upon statement of one partner could not be sustained-Without rejecting books of account no addition can be made as bogus purchases-The acceptance by the assessee of the addition in one assessment year could not lead to a conclusion that in all these assessment years, the assessee had inserted bogus purchases in a similar way-Reassessment is valid. [S. 131, 131(IA), 133, Indian Evidence Act, 1872, S 31] 1480
Held that the Department never accepted the retraction statement filed by the assessee on February 14, 2018. There was a prima facie material available in the form of statement recorded under section 131 of the Act from the partner in view of the bogus purchase said to be recorded by the assessee in its books of account, coupled with certain other documents to suggest that income had escaped assessment. With a view to examine these materials which came to the knowledge of the Assessing Officer subsequent to the original assessment, the reassessment proceedings were initiated. The doctrine of "change of opinion" could not act as an embargo for exercise of power vested under section 147 of the Act. On merit the Tribunal held that the authority erred in holding that the assessee had inserted bogus purchase into his accounts without bringing on record any evidence to hold that entire transactions were not genuine and had relied only upon the statement of one of the partner recorded on February 8, 2018, which was later retracted by all the partners on February 14, 2018 (within a short date of 6 days). This had not at all been considered by the Assessing Officer or the Commissioner (Appeals). The Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals) did not mention this retraction statement in their order. It was the duty of the Assessing Officer to consider the letter in true perspective and to comment on it which he failed to do so. The assessment having been framed by the Assessing Officer without considering the retraction of statement filed by the assessee, the addition could not be sustained. That the acceptance by the assessee of the addition in one assessment year could not lead to a conclusion that in all these assessment years, the assessee had inserted bogus purchases in a similar way. The principle of estoppel could not be applied. The case of the assessee was to be examined in the light of evidence brought on record and in the present case, there was no evidence brought on record with regard to bogus purchase or creation of any undisclosed assets by the assessee in all these assessment years. That addition could be made only when it is shown by the evidence brought on record that the books of account are not reliable as there are material errors and omissions existed therein. There should be concrete evidence for considering the purchase entries in the books of account as bogus. In the present case, the sales and purchase shown by the assessee lead to profit and the profits declared by the assessee progressively increased from year-to-year and without any material to suggest that they were bogus it could not be said that the purchases were bogus. That once the statement recorded under section 131 or 131(1A) or 133A of the Act was retracted by the assessee, the Assessing Officer without rejecting the books of account could not make any additions towards bogus purchases. Accordingly, the additions made on the premise of bogus purchase in all these assessment years were deleted. (AY. 2012-13 to 2015-16, 2017-18)

The Central Information Commission passed an order directing the Central Public Information Officer/Deputy Commissioner (E) to provide copies of all the documents submitted in the exemption application and the file notings granting the approval relating to the PM CARES Fund under the right to information application filed by the respondent. The information was denied to the respondent and the appellate authority on the ground that the information sought was exempted from disclosure under section 8(1)(j) of the Right to Information Act, 2005. On the question whether or not section 138(2) of the 1961 Act which contained a non obstante clause would override section 22 of the 2005 Act. Allowing the petition the Court held that the applicability and overriding effect of an Act over other statutes could not be decided merely by when the Act came into force and it is for the courts to discern and interpret which Act will prevail over the other. The Income-tax Act, 1961 which is a special Act governing all the provisions and laws relating to Income-tax and super-tax prevails over the Right to Information Act, 2005 which is in the nature of a general Act. The information sought for by the respondent was covered by section 138(1)(b) which specifically states that information relating to an assessee can only be supplied subject to the satisfaction of the Principal Chief Commissioner or Chief Commissioner or Principal Commissioner or Commissioner as the case may be. Therefore, section 138(2) of the 1961 Act would prevail over section 22 of the 2005 Act. Court also held that That propriety demanded that the Central Information Commission ought to have followed the decision of the larger Bench in G. R. RawaL v. DGIT (Inv) 2008 SCC OnLine CIC 1008 which was binding on it. On facts since the information sought for by the respondent related the PM CARES Fund which was a third party, it ought to have been heard. The Central Information Commission ought to have followed the procedure specified under section 11 of the 2005 Act, which prescribes that any information related to a third party could only be divulged after giving notice to the concerned third party, before ordering grant of information as sought for by the respondent.

S. 139 : Return of income-Revised return of income-Bar of limitation-Revised return was filed after expiry of prescribed time-Tribunal directing Assessing Officer to consider assessee's claim made in revised return-Order of Tribunal is set aside by the High Court-Order of Assessing Officer confirmed by Commissioner (Appeals) is restored-Appeal of assessee is dismissed. [S. 139(5), 143(1)(a), 143(2), 254(1), Art. 136] 1482
For the Assessment Year 1989-90 the assessee filed its return of income on November 19, 1989 and later filed a revised return under section 139(5). Pursuant to the issuance of intimation dated August 27, 1991 under section 143(1)(a) the Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 143(2) for scrutiny assessment. In the course of hearing, the assessee filed another revised return on October 29, 1991 and claimed deduction of deferred revenue expenditure. The Assessing Officer treated the second revised return as non-est and completed the assessment. The Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed his order. The Tribunal held that under the scheme of the Act the assessee was entitled to make a claim, which otherwise was omitted to be claimed in the return during the course of assessment proceedings and reversed the order of the Commissioner (Appeals). On appeal,allowing the appeal of the Revenue, the Court held that under the provisions section 139(5), while the assessee was entitled to file a revised return it had to be filed within the time provided therein, i. e., at any point of time before the expiry of one year at the end of the relevant assessment year or before the completion of the assessment, whichever was earlier. On the admitted fact that the assessee had filed its second revised return on October 29, 1991 beyond the one year time limit from the end of the assessment year 1989-90, the provision could not be relaxed in any manner to accept the plea of the assessee. If the Act had stopped just with recognizing such right and has stated nothing about the time frame within which it should be done, then, the assessee's claim may stand the scrutiny of the statute. But when the Act stipulates that a particular act has to be performed within the particular time, it goes without saying that anything done beyond the time set forth in the section losses the statutory protection. Accordingly the High court set aside order of Tribunal and Order of Assessing Officer confirmed by Commissioner (Appeals) is restored. On appeal by assessee, dismissing the appeal the Court held that section 139(5) of the Act, at the relevant time, permitted the furnishing of a revised return at any time before the expiry of one year from the end of the relevant assessment year or before the completion of the assessment, whichever was earlier. When the revised return dated October 29, 1991 was filed, it was barred by limitation in terms of section 139(5) of the Act. The Tribunal had not exercised its power under section 254 of the Act to consider the claim. Instead, the Tribunal directed the Assessing Officer to consider the assessee's claim. The Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to consider the claim made by the assessee in the revised return filed after the time prescribed by section 139(5) for filing a revised return had already expired. Order of High Court is affirmed. (AY. 1989-90)

The assessee had to file his Income-tax return before March 31, 2015 but the Income-tax return was filed on August 22, 2015, and because Income-tax return was belated by about five months, an application was filed on November 15, 2021 under section 119(2)(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, for condonation of delay in filing the Income-tax return. The application was rejected on the ground of limitation. On a writ the Court held that the assessee's application for condonation of delay in filing the Income-tax return on August 22, 2015 was to be restored for consideration in the light of the reasons offered to explain the delay between March 31, 2015 and August 22, 2015 and with the directions to consider the application within a reasonable period from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order. Court also observed that in the case of a delay in filing an application to condone delay in filing-returns according to the terms of Circular No. 9 of 2015 dated June 9, 2015 ([2015] 374 ITR (St.) 25) the period of six years will have to be computed with reference to the date when the belated Income-tax return is filed. Editorial: Affirmed by division bench, PCIT v. Vivek Krishnamoorthy (2025) 474 ITR 506/ 175 taxmann.com 681 (Karn)(HC)

1484 S. 139 : Return of income-Condonation of delay-Reasonable cause Illness of spouse of chartered accountant-Delay is properly explained-Delay is condoned-Order of PCIT is rejecting the application is set aside. [S. 119(2)(b), Art. 226]

The assessees were members of one family. Their accounts as also all issues in relation to their income-tax returns were handled by a Chartered Accountant, who could not take timely steps on account of ill health of his spouse. For such reason, the returns of the assessees could not be filed within the stipulated time. The assessees filed an application under section 119(2)(b) praying for condonation of delay in filing of their returns claiming that there was bonafide and a legitimate cause, requiring the delay to be condoned in filing of the returns. The assessees also submitted all the medical papers in support of their contentions that the case as made for condonation of delay was bonafide/genuine as reflected from the medical papers. The Principal Commissioner disbelieved the assessees' case when he observed that the reasons were not genuine reasons preventing the assessees from filing income-tax returns and rejected the application. On writ the Court held that the approach of the Principal Commissioner appears to be quite mechanical, who ought to have been more sensitive to the cause which was brought before him when the assessee prayed for condonation of delay. In such context, it can never be that technicalities and rigidity of rules of law would not recognize genuine human problems of such nature, which may prevent a person from achieving such compliances. It is to cater to such situations the legislature has made a provision conferring a power to condone delay. These are all human issues and which may prevent the assessee who is otherwise diligent in filing returns, within the prescribed time. It also cannot be overlooked that any professional, for reasons which are not within the confines of human control, by sheer necessity of the situation can be kept away from the professional work and despite his best efforts, it may not be possible for him to attend the same. The reasons can be manifold like illness either of himself or his family members, as a result of which he was unable to timely discharge his professional obligation. There could also be a likelihood that for such reasons, of impossibility of any services being provided/performed for his clients when tested on acceptable materials. Such human factors necessarily require a due consideration when it comes to compliances of the time limits even under the Income-tax Act. The situation in hand is akin to what a Court would consider in legal proceedings before it, in condoning delay in filing of proceedings. In dealing with such situations, the Courts would not discard an empathetic/humane view of the matter in condoning the delay in filing legal proceedings, when law confers powers to condone the delay in the litigant pursuing Court proceedings. This of course on testing the bona fides of such plea as may be urged. Such principles which are quite paramount and jurisprudentially accepted are certainly applicable, when the assessee seeks condonation of delay in filing income tax returns, so as to remove the prejudice being caused to him, so as to regularise his returns. In fact, in this situation, to not permit an assessee to file his returns, is quite counter productive to the very object and purpose, the tax laws intend to achieve. In this view of the matter, the delay which is sufficiently explained in the instant case would be required to be condoned Resultantly, the order is quashed and set aside. The revenue is directed to permit the assessees to file returns without penalty, fees and interest, if any, within a period of two weeks. All contentions of the parties on the merits of the returns are expressly kept open.

S. 139 : Return of income-Delay in filing of return-Deduction of tax at source-Refund-Genuine hardship-COVID-19 –Court held that genuine hardship and it should receive a liberal construction-Court held that this being a case of genuine hardship caused to assessee, delay-Order rejecting condonation of delay application is quashed. [S. 54, 119(2)(b), Art. 226] 1485

Assessee, a US resident failed to file his return for assessment years 2020-21 and 2021-22 due to COVID-19 pandemic which affected his parents and his in-laws and he could not travel to India On returning to India, assessee realized that a large amount was deducted at source for relevant assessment years and that he was entitled to a refund. He filed an application under section 119(2)(b) seeking condonation of delay which was dismissed. Court held that assessee had filed compliant in US for theft from his car in which his passport was also lost. Further, assessee informed reason for condonation of delay before Commissioner wherein he referred to his parents and parents-in-law being affected by pandemic and death of his father-in-law in year 2021-Whether section 119(2)(b) enables CBDT to condone delay in case of genuine hardship and it should receive a liberal construction. Court held that this being a case of genuine hardship caused to assessee, delay in filing ITRs was to be condoned, order rejecting condonation of delay application is quashed. 1486 S. 139 : Return of income-In valid return-Tax audit-Business of profession-Order is set aside and matter remanded to the Assessing Officer. [S. 139(9) Art. 226]

The Assessing Officer treated the return as invalid. On writ the assessee contended that order passed under section 139(9) treating returns filed by assessee for relevant assessment year as invalid without assigning any reason whatsoever as to why returns were treated as invalid. The assessee also contended that it is It engaged in a Business and was not carrying on any Profession, and tax audit limit was 10 crore and not Rs. 50,00,000/-, which was applicable to Profession. Allowing the petition the Court held that since question/issue as to whether assessee was carrying on business or engaged in profession had neither been adverted to nor addressed in impugned order, impugned order was to be set aside and matter was to be remanded back to revenue for consideration afresh. Matter remanded. (AY. 2021-22)

1487 S. 139 : Return of income-Invalid return-Condonation of delay-Central Board of Direct Taxes-Genuine hardship should be construed in a liberal manner-Delay is directed to be condoned. [S. 119(2)(b), 139(9) Art. 226]
Assessee-company filed return of income in its old name, even though by that time its name had already been changed. Assessing Officer issued on assessee notice under section 139(9) asking it to rectify defects within prescribed time. As assessee did not do needful within prescribed time, its return was declared to be invalid. Assessee filed an application under section 119 seeking condonation of delay in not responding impugned notice. P Chief Commissioner rejected application. On writ the Court held that W since delay in not responding to notice was neither deliberate nor on account of culpable negligence or any mala fides and issue was only of correcting name of assessee in return, Competent Authority is directed to permit assessee to correct its name in return. S. 139 : Return of income –Delay in filing return-Pendency of ruling before Authority for Advance Rulings (AAR)-Genuine hardship-Delay is condoned-Directed to pay cost of Rs 50000 each petition. [S. 119(2)(b), 245R(2), Art. 226] 1488

Assessee, a Singapore based company, approached Authority for Advance Rulings (AAR) in relation to its three projects and authority provided a ruling to effect that income earned from said three projects were not taxable in India. With regard to three other projects relating to assessment years 2012-13, 2013-14 and 2014-15, respectively, assessee again approached AAR and requested for a ruling with regard to tax liability in India. After receipt of ruling that income was taxable in India, assessee filed return. Assessee filed application for condonation of delay, however same was rejected. On writ the assessee claimed that it experienced difficulty in filing returns because digital signature certificate (DSC) of one of foreign directors could not be obtained easily and eventually, returns in respect of all three assessment years were filed in March 2017. The assessee claimed that it did not file return prior to due dates on bona fide belief that application for advance ruling would be held to be not maintainable as per section 245R(2). The Court held that assessee's assertion that it could lose valuable right of requesting for an advance ruling by filing returns of income while applications were pending before AAR could not be disregarded as lacking credibility. In view of facts that applications fell within scope of expression genuine hardship in section 119(2)(b), delay in filing returns of income seeking refund were liable to be condoned. S. 139 : Return of income-Carry forward of loss-Return is filed within time-CIT(A) is recording wrong date-The Assessing Officer is directed to carry forward the loss. [S. 139(1), 139(4), 139(5)] 1489

Held that the original return filed for the assessment year 2019-20 dated November 26, 2019 depicted that the assessee had filed the return well within the time-limit specified under Explanation 2 to section 139(1) of the Act which was November 26, 2019. The Commissioner (Appeals) by recording the wrong date of filing of the return by the assessee, i. e., February 20, 2020 for the assessment year 2019-20, erroneously held that the assessee had filed the return belatedly, which ultimately resulted in not allowing the loss claimed by the assessee for the assessment year 2019-20. On the facts, the Commissioner (Appeals) had committed error in not allowing the carry forward of losses. The Assessing officer is directed to allow the carry forward the loss as claimed by the assessee. (AY. 2020-21)

S. 139A : Permanent account number-Same number is allotted to another person-Income-tax Department was to be directed to forward a letter to CIBIL/other credit information companies informing about issuance of same PAN to assessee as well as to other person. [Art. 226] 1490

Department issued Permanent Account Number (PAN) to assessee and later on same PAN was also issued to another person who had obtained loan and was a defaulter and, therefore, due to same PAN, CIBIL score of assessee had been affected adversely. Assessee filed the writ petition to cancel the Permanent Account Number (PAN) allotted to other person. During pendency of petition, mistake was corrected by Income-tax Department by accepting that assessee was the first allottee of the said PAN and Department cancelled the allotment of same number to the other person, which was allotted inadvertently. Allowing the petition the Court held that since ambiguity arose due to erroneously assigning the same PAN to two persons, Income-tax Department was to be directed to forward a letter to CIBIL/other credit information companies informing about issuance of same PAN to assessee as well as to other person. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the competent authority had duly applied its mind by taking into account not only response of assessee but also comments of revenue and due and sufficient opportunity was afforded to assessee before sanction was granted for special audit. 1493 S. 142 (2A): Inquiry before assessment-Special audit –Limitation-Power to extend time limit for submitting audit report lies with the assessing officer and not the Commissioner-Appeal of the Revenue is dismissed. [S. 132 142(2C), 153A, 153B, 260A]

The assessee, engaged in the business of construction and allied services, was subjected to a search under section 132 and pursuant thereto, a special audit of the assessee's books of accounts was ordered. The Special Auditor made a request for extension of time to the Assessing Officer who forwarded the request to the Commissioner. The Commissioner granted an extension of 60 days for furnishing the audit report. The Hon'ble Delhi Tribunal held that such extension of time granted in the matter did not align with the provisions of section 142(2C) and therefore the assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer was barred by limitation. On appeal by the Department, the Hon'ble Delhi HC held that since the initial timeframe for the conduct of the audit is mandatorily required to be fixed by the Assessing Officer as per section 142(2C), the power to vary the original time frame by way of extension under the proviso appended to it has been consciously conferred by the Legislature only on the Assessing Officer and such power being non-delegable, the same could not have been discharged by the Commissioner. (AY. 2007-08, 2008-09)

S. 143(1) : Assessment-Intimation-Revised return filed within limitation period-Scrutiny assessment ignoring revised return not valid-Processing of return under Section 143(1)(A) not an assessment order-Penalty Not Imposable [S. 143(1)(a), 143(IA), 143(3), 260A, 271(1)(c)] 1494

Held allowing the appeal the Court held that the intimation under section 143(1)(a) having been set aside, no adjustment made under section 143(3) survived. Once the "object", i.e., the intimation stood removed, its "shadow", i. e., the consequence [which was the order u/s 143(3)] could not survive. In view of the surviving limitation to file a revised return, the assessee was within its rights to file the revised return. The assessee's return had been processed under section 143(1)(a) and the Assessing Officer had disallowed part of the interest payments claimed by the assessee and the Commissioner (Appeals) was of the view that the assessee ought to have been granted an opportunity of hearing and had accordingly, remitted the matter to the Assessing Officer to proceed afresh. The correctness of that order was not challenged by the Revenue and hence the same had attained finality. Consequently, by way of legal effect caused, the original return of the assessee became pending, at the stage of processing. One year time from the end of the assessment year 1995-96 having survived, the assessee had filed its revised return and had not been rejected by the Assessing Officer. Instead of processing the return as revised, the Assessing Officer had initiated scrutiny assessment proceedings, under section 143(3) computing the net loss. The provisions of section 143(1A), would apply and remain confined only to situations covered under section 143(1)(a). Consequently, the assessment proceedings and order passed under section 143(3) were invalid. That, on the facts involving demand of additional tax on simple processing of income, penalty being imposable for concealment of income consequent to scrutiny assessment order under section 143(3) had no application. The processing of a return under section 143(1)(a) was not an assessment order. (AY. 1995-96)

Held that payment of employees' contribution to PF and ESI made beyond the due dates can be disallowed while processing the return under s. 143(1)(a); since the said payments were not claimed as deduction under S. 37(1) in the return nor the claim was certified by the auditor, it could not have been allowed while processing the return. [S. 143(1)(a)(v), 194Q, 26AS]

Tribunal held that as per s. 143(1)(a)(vi), the total income of the assessee can be disturbed by making adjustment by making addition of income appearing in Form No. 26AS which has not been included in the computation of income in the return of income. CPC has no right to reduce the refund claimed by the assessee on the ground of income not offered by the assessee according to Form No. 26AS. In the case of Kachha Artiya, only the commission income is required to be shown; gross sales cannot be the income of the assessee. Accordingly, the AO is directed to grant full credit of the TDS.

Held that though the assessee alleged that the email address sanjay@markoline.com was discarded in January, 2019, no evidence or proof is brought on record that the necessary changes were made in the taxpayer profile on the IT portal prior to the aforesaid date of communication. Accordingly in view of para 6 of the Notification No. 2 of 2016, the email address sanjay@markoline.com is the primary email address for the purpose of issuing electronic communication. Therefore, the communication dt. 17th March, 2019 of the proposed adjustment under s. 143(1)(a) sent at the aforesaid email address is a valid communication. As regards late payment of employees contribution the Tribunal held that the disallowance is justified and the matter is remanded to the AO to find out any extension was granted under the relevant statutes for payment of employees' contribution to ESI/ PF. [S. 154, Form No 10B] 1500

Held that the Central Processing Centre had grossly disallowed the entire expenditure claimed by the assessee without putting the assessee on notice of such adjustment. This unilateral act of the Revenue was not in consonance with the provisions of law and could not be held justified. The matter was remitted to the jurisdictional Assessing Officer with a direction to rectify the mistake and allow the claim of expenditure in accordance with law. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 143(1) : Assessment-Intimation –Prima facie adjustments-Tax Audit report showing unpaid interest-Prima facie adjustment within jurisdiction-Interest on delayed payment of value added tax-Interest not specified for deduction on actual payment basis-Disallowance is not attracted-Interest liability against delayed discharge of statutory liability is entitled to deduction-Interest-Levy of interest is mandatory. [S. 37(1) 43B(a), 139(1), 234A, 234B, 234C, Maharashtra Value Added Tax Act, 2002 S. 30] 1501

Held that the tax audit report stated that the assessee, while computing its taxable income, failed to disallow the interest payable which remained unpaid by the expiry of the time-limit prescribed under section 139(1) of the Act. Thus, the disallowance under section 43B(a) of the Act was on the basis of the return and the accompanying tax audit report. Therefore, there was no infirmity in the orders of tax authorities in carrying out the disallowance through prima facie adjustment under clause (iv) of section 143(1)

(a) of the Act. That in the absence of statutory provisions, i. e., a specific entry under section 43B(a), the interest liability incurred against delayed discharge of statutory liability was entitled to deduction under section 37(1) of the Act without being subject to disallowance under section 43B(a) of the Act. Consequently, the order confirming the disallowance of interest payable on Maharashtra Value Added Tax statutory liability under section 43B(a) of the Act is set aside, and the Assessing Officer is directed to delete the disallowance. That the levy of interest under sections 234A, 234B and 234C is mandatory. (AY. 2019-20)

Assessee-company calculated tax liability on taxable income at rate of 25 per cent as per rate provided under First Schedule of Finance (No. 2) Act, 2019. It stated that turnover in financial year 2016-17 excluding excise duty was at Rs. 226.49 crores and excise duty was at Rs. 28.93 crores aggregating to Rs. 255. 42 crores only. Assessing Officer processed under section 143(1) return filed by assessee and calculated tax at rate of 30 per cent considering turnover exceeding Rs. 250 crores. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since issue whether to include excise duty or exclude excise duty from amount of turnover for determining rate of tax in pursuance to First Schedule of Finance (No. 2) Act, 2019 is a debatable issue and same could not be resolved while processing return under section 143(1), adjustment made by Assessing Officer is not sustainable. Held that the Assessing Officer before making any adjustment or disallowance to the returned income was duty-bound to intimate the assessee either in writing or in the electronic mode. However, no intimation had been given to the assessee before making the adjustment or disallowance either in writing or in electronic mode. [S. 36(1)(va), 143(3),246A] 1504

The return of the assessee was processed with additions for ICDS adjustment and a disallowance under section 36(1)(va). Subsequently, the case was selected for scrutiny and an assessment order was passed. The Assessing Officer passed the assessment order under section 143(3) maintaining additions/disallowances made under section 143(1). Commissioner (Appeals) upheld said addition. On appeal the assessee challenged CIT(A)'s failure to adjudicate addition assessed under section 143(1). Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had only challenged assessment order passed u/s. 143(3) and not intimation u/s. 143(1) before first appellate authority. Section 246A allows for an appeal against intimation under section 143(1), which assessee should have filed and since assessee did not appeal section 143(1) intimation, their ground lacked merit hence dismissed. [S. 37(1), 143(1)(a)(iv)] 1505

Assessee paid certain compensation in favour of a hospital and claimed same as expenditure. Compensation was remitted for violation of patents/trademarks. Assessing Officer issued intimation calling for tax audit report. Pursuant to which it was noted by Assessing Officer under clause No. 21(a) of Form 3CD that certain amount was listed under entry of expenditure by way of penalty or fine for violation of law. Assessing Officer proposed adjustment for said amount on ground that same was not disallowed by assessee while filing return. Thereafter, adjustment was made under section 143(1). CIT(A) affirmed the order of Assessing Officer. On appeal the Assessee contended that Assessing Officer failed to pass speaking order. Tribunal held that the adjustment was made on basis of entry made by tax auditor of assessee and omission noticed in returned income by Assessing Officer and the Assessing Officer communicated proposed adjustment and thereafter, passed intimation order along with reasons of adjustment duly specified as part of intimation order. Tribunal held that under intimation authority of Assessing Officer is limited to carry out adjustment based on return of income and document provided, since tax auditor had categorized said amount as penalty, amount was prima facie disallowable under section 143(1)(a)(iv) and thus, Assessing Officer was not required to pass a speaking order for said adjustment made in strict terms. However as claim of assessee that said expenditure was not for any purpose which was an offence or prohibited by law was not examined by Commissioner (Appeals), it was appropriate to restore this issue back to file of Commissioner (Appeals) for deciding afresh on merit of addition. 1506 S. 143(1) : Assessment-Intimation-Deduction only on actual payment-Goods and Services Tax-Return filed after extended time-Prima facie adjustment based on Tax audit report-Payment to extent made after due date for filing return can only be disallowed-Matter remanded to the file of CIT(A). [S. 43B, 139(1), 139(4)]

Held, that the assessee had filed its return after the expiry of the extended due date wherein a claim against goods and services tax liability was made. This by provisions of section 43B of the Act was subject matter of actual payment any time before expiry of the extended due date failing which the Assessing Officer disallowed the claim for deduction under section 43B of the Act on the basis of the tax audit report under section 143(1)(a) of the Act. However, the first appellate authority perfunctorily confirmed the disallowance on the basis of delayed filing of the goods and services tax return without vouching the exact amount of goods and services tax discharged by the extended due date, i. e., October 30, 2019 and confirming the disallowance under section 43B of the Act for the balance amount of goods and services tax paid beyond such extended due date. The matter was to be remanded to the appellate authority with a direction to deal with this limited issue in accordance with law. (AY. 2019-20)

1507 S. 143(1) : Assessment-Intimation –Prima facie adjustment-Inclusion of excise duty in the turnover for determining rate of tax-The adjustment made while processing the return is not sustainable. [S. 44AB, 143(1)(a), 145A]

Held that while issuing guidance note on tax audit report under s. 44AB, ICAI has clarified that if the assessee is following inclusive method of accounting, then the excise duty should be part of the turnover, and vice versa if the assessee is following exclusive method of accounting i. e., that the taxes such as GST, Excise duty, etc. collected from customers on behalf of Government is shown under separate account and payment of the taxes to Government is debited in such separate account, then the value of taxes should be excluded from the turnover. In the present case, the assessee has claimed to have maintained accounts using exclusive method of accounting which is not disputed by the Revenue. The ICAI does not mandate to include the excise in the amount of turnover as alleged by the Revenue. The adjustment made while processing the return is not sustainable. (AY. 2019-20)

Upon a challenge to the issuance of a notice under section 143(2) on the ground that the same was issued by an officer who was not a prescribed income tax authority, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court observed that a plain reading of section 143(2) along with CBDT's Notification in exercise of powers under Rule 12E indicated that either of two authorities being Assistant or Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (International Taxation) had the authority to issue the notice. Accordingly, the validity of the impugned notice was upheld and the petition was dismissed. (AY. 2023-24)

The Assessing Officer passed the assessment and made certain disallowances. The Tribunal noted that there was no disallowance of Rs. 5 lakhs or more pending in appeal and no finding to effect was available that an identical issue had arisen in the current year. The Tribunal thus quashed notice under section 143(2) and scrutiny assessment framed on the ground that instructions issued by CBDT for the selection of cases for scrutiny were not satisfied in the instant case. The High Court held that since instructions issued by CBDT had not been complied with, the Tribunal had rightly quashed the notice under section 143(2) and scrutiny assessment. (AY. 2006-07)

Assessee filed return on 14.10.2016. Notice u/s. 139(9) of the Act issued to the Assessee on 06.02.2017. Assessee cured defects on 18.02.2017. Subsequently, again, 2nd Defective Notice u/s. 139(9) of the Act issued to the Assessee on 10.07.2017. Assessee cured defects on 20.07.2017. Notice u/s. 143(2) of the Act was issued on 11.08.2018 and Notice u/s. 142(1) of the Act was issued on 31. 08. 2018. As per Section 143(2) as amended by the Finance Act, 2016, Notice u/s 143(2) of the Act could have been issued within 6 months from the end of the financial year in which the return of income is filed. The High Court held that the time limit should be reckoned from the date of filing the return u/s. 139(1) and not the date of curing defects u/s. 139(9). Thus, in the instant case, the due date was 30. 09. 2017, being within 6 months from the end of the FY in which the return is filed (i. e. from 31.03.2017, being the end of FY-from 139(1) date 14.10.2016). Thus, Notice u/s. 143(2) of the Act dated 11.08.2018 was held to be time barred and consequently, Notice u/s. 142(1) of the Act dated 31.08.2018 shall also collapse. (AY. 2016-17)

Tribunal admitted the additional ground raised by the Assessee challenging the jurisdiction of the AO in issuing notice under s. 143(2) goes to the root of the matter. On facts, the Assessee has informed the shifting of residence from Delhi to Gurgaon, and the change is reflected in the return filed. The notice issued by the Assessing Officer from Delhi is without jurisdiction, hence quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 143(2): Assessment-Notice-Reassessment-Notice issued beyond time prescribed-Order is null and void. [S. 139(4), 147, 148] 1515

The first notice dated 20th Feb., 2011 under S 143(2) was issued when no return of income was available on record and therefore, the said notice cannot be said to have been issued to verify whether the Assessee has understated the income or has computed excessive loss or underpaid the taxes in any manner hence cannot be considered as valid notice. Return which was filed on 31st March 2011, the time-limit for issuance of notice under S. 143(2) as per the proviso to cl. (ii) was available only till 30th Sept., 2011. Second notice under s. 143(2) was issued on 17th Oct., 2011, i. e., beyond the time-limit prescribed under the provisions of s. 143(2). Therefore, the second notice is also invalid as per the provisions of S. 143(2). Since the assessee did not furnish its return of income within the time allowed under S. 139(1), as per S. 139(4), the assessee had time till 31st March 2011, to furnish its return of income, i. e., one year from the end of the relevant assessment year 2009-10. Accordingly, the return of income filed by the assessee on 31st March 2011, is within the time allowed under the Act. The requirement of issuance of a valid notice under S. 143(2) cannot be dispensed with. Since no valid notice under S 143(2) was issued by the AO and the assessment was completed without following the mandatory requirement, the entire assessment proceedings concluded under S. 143(3)/ 147 are null and void, hence quashed. The assessee has not filed the return of income. Cash was deposited in the bank on various dates. Cash of a certain amount was deposited in the bank account of the assessee on various dates throughout the financial year. The assessment was reopened by issuing a notice u/s 148. In response to the notice, the assessee filed the return. The assessment was completed by the Assessing Officer by making certain additions. On appeal, the CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had not issued a statutory notice under section 143(2) in response to a return filed under section 148. Tribunal held that non-issue of statutory notice under section 143(2) invalidated the entire proceedings and said defect was an incurable defect and also beyond the scope of section 292BB, and, therefore, the assessment order is held to be bad in law. 1530 S. 143(3): Assessment-Rejection of books of account - Business Expenditure - Deduction of tax at source-Failure to substantiate expenditure with documentary evidence-Assessment of income at 12 Per Cent-On total disclosed revenue based on material available on record brought to knowledge of Assessee in notice-Writ petition is dismissed-All contentions of assessee are left open to be raised before Appellate Authority. [S. 40(a)(ia), 144B, 194C, 270A, Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the Assessing Officer brought to the notice of the assessee with respect to his doubts relating to the correctness and completeness of the accounts of the assessee. The Assessing Officer had observed that since the expenditure claimed was not verifiable, income was proposed to be assessed at 12 per cent. of the total disclosed revenue after rejecting the books of account under section 145(3). Therefore, the submission that the assessee had not been apprised of the proposed rejection of books and variation in income was unsustainable. In the absence of documentary evidence, there was no other option but to complete the assessment on the basis of material available on record. That with regard to the disallowance under section 40(a)(ia), the Assessing Officer had stated in the assessment order under section 143(3) read with section 144B that the assessee had not furnished the method of payment either by way of cash or through banking channel and copy of ledger of confirmation or any bills or vouchers on sample basis, that had made huge payments to non-GST entities and had also not furnished copy of ledger of confirmation but had only furnished the name, permanent account number, lorry number, amount and date only, that the assessee had not furnished documentary evidences in support of expenses, that the assessee had shown direct expenses, i. e., carriage inward and other expenses which was 92 per cent. of the total revenue from operation, that in such circumstances, expenses incurred by the assessee was not verifiable and could not be accepted that the expenses shown by the assessee to entities was genuine or reliable, and that since the books of account was also not reliable, the income was assessed at 12 per cent. of total revenue from operation after rejecting the books of account under section 145(3). It was manifest from the assessment order that no specific disallowance under section 40(a)(ia) nor any additions on that account had been made. All that the Assessing Officer had observed was that the disallowance was not being made at that stage subject to the view that any appellate authority would take with respect to rejection of books of account under section 145(3). Therefore, there was no merit in the challenge. All contentions of assessee is left open to be raised before Appellate Authority (AY. 2022-23)

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that the Tribunal had, on the facts, rendered a finding that on the date when the assessee's case was selected for scrutiny assessment under section 143(3), the authority who issued the notice, namely, the ITO did not have jurisdiction and the jurisdiction was with the Deputy Commissioner. The Tribunal had rightly quashed the scrutiny proceedings as the defect in issuance of notice under section 143(2) was incurable since it went to the root of the matter Based on the Central Board of Direct Taxes Instruction No. 1 of 2011 which revised the monetary limit for issuing notice by ITOs, Deputy Commissioners and Assistant Commissioners stating that in cases of corporates in metro cities declaring income above Rs. 30 lakhs, the jurisdiction of such corporate assessees would lie with the Deputy Commissioners or Assistant Commissioners, held that the notice issued under section 143(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 by the ITO of the Ward for scrutiny assessment under section 143(3) for the assessment year 2012-13 was without jurisdiction. S. 143(3): Assessment-Transfer pricing-Arm's length price International Transactions-Limitation-Service of notice-Order of Transfer Pricing Officer is not signed digitally or manually before limitation Circular dated February 2018 (2018) 401 ITR (St) 176-Order is not valid. [S. 92C, 119, 144C, Art. 226] 1532

On writ the Court held that despite recognising, confirming and affirming that the Transfer Pricing Officer's order was not signed either physically or digitally on July 31, 2021, the Transfer Pricing Officer had signed the order physically only subsequently on August 12, 2021 and it was this manually or physically signed copy that was uploaded on the Income-tax Business Application portal on August 16, 2021, thereby leading to the sole inference that as on the last date of limitation, i. e., July 31, 2021, a legally valid Transfer Pricing Officer's order had not been passed by the Transfer Pricing Officer. Thus, the order is quashed. It is mandatory for the Transfer Pricing Officer's order to be digitally signed in terms of the Central Board of Direct Taxes circular dated February 12, 2018 ([2018] 401 ITR (St.) 176) read with section 282A of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (AY. 2018-19)(SJ)

Assessee-company (transferor company) stood merged with another company (transferee company) with effect from 1-4-2012 Assessing Officer issued on assessee-company a notice under section 148 on 31-3-2021 and passed assessment orders dated 31-3-2022 for assessment years 2013-14 and 2016-17. On writ the Court held that it was incumbent on part of transferee company to have included tax liability of assessee-company in view of merger with effect from 1-4-2012 and if this was not done, it was for Assessing Officer to proceed against transferee company and not against assessee-company. Accordingly the Assessment Orders passed against assessee is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2013-14, 2016-17)

[S. 56(2) (viib), 56(2) (x) (b)(B), 69A, Art. 226]
Assessee did not file return of income claiming that her income was below exemption limit. She had purchased an immovable property. Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148A(b) and made addition of purchase consideration under section 69A. On writ the Assessee contended that immovable property was purchased from funds provided by her husband directly to vendor. However, assessee did not submit return of income of her husband or ledger account, if any, relating to purchase of said property. Court held that if husband of assessee duly declared said income and paid applicable taxes thereon, grave injustice would be caused inasmuch as same income would be subjected to tax in hands of two persons accordingly the assessment order is set aside and matter was to be remanded to AO. For failure to comply with notices, the petitioner is directed to pay cost of Rs. 10000, to the Adyar Cancer Institute Chennai. As regards other addition on the basis of stamp valuation is affirmed. [S. 10(1), Art. 226] 1537
The Assessing Officer disallowed exemption in respect of the agricultural income of the assessee on the ground that he failed to prove that the exempted income was earned from agricultural activities and did not produce any documentary evidence to prove it and that the report from Verification Unit and the assessee's statement were contradictory. The assessee's claim was that the agricultural income was allowed in the assessment year 2018-19 and that the Assessing Officer did not accept the certificate issued by the Village Administrative Officer since it was in tamil. On a writ it was contended that the assessment order was passed without giving the assessee opportunity of hearing through video conferencing which he had requested. Court held that in the e-mail communications the assessee had clearly mentioned that since it was a high pitched assessment he had sought a hearing through video conference. The Assessing Officer was to grant a hearing to the assessee through video conference. Court also observed that it was the practice in the State of Tamil Nadu that the Village Administrative Officer should issue certificate in Tamil, the assessee was directed to submit a translation copy. The Assessing Officer was directed to consider such copy of the certificate and thereafter complete the assessment. (AY. 2020-21)(SJ)

[S. 119(2), 124(3), 143(3A) to 143(3C), 144B, General Clauses Act, 1897. S. 24, Art. 226]

Assessee's case was selected for scrutiny, and the Addl. CIT, NAFAC-1(1)(2), Delhi as the Prescribed IT authority) (NAFAC) has issued notice dt. 29th June, 2021 to the assessee under S. 143(2) of the Act. Subsequently, Dy. CIT, Central Circle 2(1), Bangalore, the first respondent has served notices dt. 23rd Nov., 2021, 9th Dec., 2021, 3rd Jan., 2022, 11th Jan., 2022, 19th Feb., 2022, 28th April, 2022, 27th May, 2022 and 12th Aug., 2022 under S. 142(1)-Assessment order was the passed by NAFAC. On writ the assessee contended that assessee's jurisdictional AO is the Dy. CIT, Central Circle 2(1), Bangalore and as such, the Addl. CIT, NaFAC-1(1)(2), Delhi could not have assumed jurisdiction to issue notice under S. 143(2) because the jurisdiction of the first respondent has not been decentralized is not sustainable. Court held that in exercise of power under S. 143(3A) to 143(3C), the Central Government has notified Faceless Assessment Scheme, 2019 and the CBDT, which is conferred with powers to ensure that assessment shall be under the Scheme in respect of certain persons or class of persons or class of incomes under the terms of the Scheme, has issued order dt. 13th Aug., 2020 under S. 119(2) stipulating that all assessment orders shall be by the National E-Assessment Centre through the Faceless Assessment Scheme, 2019 except insofar as the cases assigned to Central Charges and International Taxation Charges. Further, with the CBDT also issuing appropriate notification in exercise of powers under S. 143(2) authorizing certain officers as the Prescribed IT authority for the purposes of this section, notices have been served on all assessees, including the assessees in the case of Central Charges and International Taxation Charges, and because of the order dt. 13th Aug., 2020, the assessment proceedings insofar as the aforesaid two categories are carried forward by the jurisdictional AO. This arrangement with the necessary statutory orders is part of the Scheme notified in exercise of powers under S. 143(3A) to 143(3C)of the Act. There is a transition from a Scheme notified under the provisions of the IT Act to a Scheme under the IT Act incorporating all the essential without material changes insofar as assessments generally and assessments in the cases of Central Charges and International Taxation Charges and there is nothing in this transition, including the provisions of S. 144B or the CBDT's order, to infer exclusion of the operation of CBDT's order dt. 13th Aug., 2020-Therefore the operation of the CBDT's order dt. 13th Aug., 2020 is saved by the application of S. 24 of the General Clauses Act, 1897. Further, restriction under S. 124(3) on the right to raise the question of jurisdiction must extend to all grounds on which jurisdiction is called in question. If the right to call in question the jurisdiction is left open to be raised at any stage, the proceedings will remain inconclusive and that could not have been the intendment of the legislature. S. 143(3): Assessment-Alternative remedy - General explanation - Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 69A, 142(1), 250, 254(1), Art. 226] 1540

The Assessing Officer made addition under section 69 as regards cash deposited in the books of account. The assessee challenged the said order by filing writ petition. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the assesseee did not submit return of his income nor submitted any computation of income, P&L a/c, balance-sheet or bank statements. Considering the said response the assessment order was finalised assessing unexplained cash deposits under s. 69A and profit from business and profession. Assessee also filed appeal before the CIT(A) which came to be dismissed. There is absolutely no ground to entertain the writ petition when the assessee has remedy of filing further appeal before the Tribunal under the provisions of the Act. Accordingly the writ is dismissed. (AY. 2017-18)(SJ)

Tribunal, by an order dt. 15th May, 2023, accepted the plea of assessee that for assessment year in question assessee's total income should be computed as 'nil' as against Rs. 7,75,34,410 assessed by the AO in the assessment order dt. 23rd Feb., 2022 in pursuance to the order under S. 263. Tribunal has also recorded that S. 69A was not applicable to the facts and circumstances of this case. While giving effect to the order of Tribunal the Assessing Officer held that the assessee is not entitle to claim exemption under section 11 of the Act. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that the only task that was left for the AO, was to give the refund of the taxes paid. AO has gone ahead to hold that assessee was not entitled to claim exemption under S. 11 and thereby reviewed the order. Tribunal having accepted assessee's plea that for the assessment year in question, assessee's total income should be computed as 'nil', the only task before the AO was to issue refund to assessee of all taxes paid or recovered from assessee for AY. 2017-18. Before the Tribunal there was no controversy as regards the date of filing of return by assessee or Form 10B, the AO cannot, in the garb of giving effect to the order of Tribunal, initiate a new controversy. Accordingly the order giving effect dt. 30th Nov., 2023 was quashed and set aside. Court also held that the change of opinion is not permissible and the assesseee is entitle to refund with interest. As regards unexplained money the Court held that S. 115BBC(1) is not applicable to donations received as offerings from devotees. Court also observed that for determining the taxes due the Assessing Officer should avoid bringing far-fetched and ideas. Without understanding the basic philosophy of income-tax, provisions are referred to so that any assessee can be taxed at any cost which is not fair or judicious approach to deal with the subjects of the State. (AY. 2017-18)

The jurisdictional point was raised by the assessee before the CIT(A). By order dt. 15th March, 2013, the CIT(A) transferred the file to the jurisdiction of the AO in Chennai. It is thereafter the assessing authority had issued notice dt. 21st Feb., 2014 and proceeded to complete the assessment on 24th March, 2014. It is evidently clear that on and after the order passed by the CIT transferring the files to the jurisdiction at Chennai by order dt. 15th March, 2013, the AO in Kolkata has no jurisdiction to deal with the matter. Transfer of the files is a ministerial or an administrative act to be done by the Department for which the assessee cannot be held responsible. The transfer of the PAN was only a consequential proceeding to the transfer of jurisdiction. The Tribunal has examined the facts and has found that on the date when the AO completed the assessment, he had no jurisdiction over the matter. *PCIT v. Capstone Securities Analysis (P) Ltd. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 159, 221(1), 246A, Art. 226]
When the appeal was pending the Legal Representative filed the writ petition to quash the reassessment and consequential orders. Dismissing the petition the Court held that after the death of an assessee, the respective legal representatives must register themselves in the IT Portal by submitting the PAN of the deceased assessee along with their PAN as the legal representative of deceased assessee and produce a death certificate of the deceased assessee together with their legal heirship certificate. It is only after such compliance, appeal against an assessment order passed in the name of a deceased person can be numbered and heared. The petitioner as legal heir of the deceased assessee ought to have complied with the same along with other legal representatives of the deceased assessee Mrs Nirmala Subramanian. The petitioner has however filed a defective appeal on 14th June, 2023 before the CIT(A). Having, opted to correctly challenge the assessment order dt. 14th March, 2023 before the CIT(A) by filing an appeal though with defects, it is not open to the petitioner to challenge the assessment order and/or the notices that preceded the impugned assessment order and/or the subsequent notice issued under s. 221(1) in the name of the deceased assessee.

However, liberty is given to the petitioner to work out the remedy before the CIT(A) by curing the defect in the appeal filed on 14th June, 2023. Defects pointed out shall be cured by the petitioner within a period of 45 days of receipt of a copy of this order. (AY 2015-16)(SJ)

Dismissing the petition the Court, power of an appellate authority under Act is co-terminus with that of an Assessing Officer and hence any lacunae in procedure can well be corrected even at that stage. The assessee challenged impugned assessment order on ground that order of assessment had travelled beyond scope of show-cause notice as said order rejected assessees entitlement to carry-forward long-term capital loss even when such a proposal did not form part of pre-assessment show-cause notices, since assessee had already challenged assessment order by way of a statutory appeal and there being no extraordinary circumstances in instant case to intervene in impugned order, it was to be left to assessee to pursue. Court observed that it is left to the assessee to pursue the statutory appeal filled by it. (AY. 2021-22)(SJ)

[S. 132, 132(4), 153A, 271AAB(IA), 271AAD(1(i), Indian Evidence Act, 1872, 65B]
Allowing the petition the Court held that though it was not necessary for the assessee to provide any reason while seeking to be provided an opportunity for cross-examination of the witnesses whose statements were recorded during the search under section 132, the assessee had provided the reasons for which it required to cross-examine the seven witnesses of employees whose statements before the Assistant Commissioner were relied upon as documents and proof for passing the assessment orders in question. The reasons mentioned by the assessee were just and reasonable. To find out the veracity of the statements, the assessee was entitled to cross-examine the witnesses and to file its effective replies. Therefore, it was the bounden duty of the Assistant Commissioner to have provided a personal hearing and an opportunity to the assessee to cross-examine the witnesses. Nowhere in the correspondence, had the Assistant Commissioner mentioned about the personal hearing and providing opportunity for cross-examination depriving assessees of the legal right which amounted to violation of principles of natural justice. Not affording an opportunity to the assessee to cross-examine the witnesses, thereby violating the principles of natural justice, made the orders null and void. That with regard to the admissibility and reliance placed on the electronic evidence of the pen drive and other electronic equipment seized during the search, the contents contained therein, had to be certified in terms of section 65B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 but no such certification was done. Therefore, the orders having been passed in violation of the principles of natural justice and in non-compliance with section 65B of the 1872 Act, were set aside. Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 on basis of several incriminating documents connected with assessee found during course of search on a group. Assessee filed return of income Assessing Officer passed the assessment order determining by making addition of certain amount being peak credit balance of cash payment made by assessee to a person by treating same as unaccounted investment within meaning of section 69A read with section 115BBE. Assessee filed writ petition before High Court challenging reopening notice as well as assessment order as satisfaction note issued by Assessing Officer for reopening did not refer to incriminating material having direct correlation with income pertained to assessee for relevant assessment year. Dismissing the petition the Court held that it was not in dispute that this petition was filed after assessee participated in assessment proceedings before Assessing Officer after issuance of notice under section 148. In response to notice under section 142(1), assessee raised issue with regard to connection of incriminating material and addition proposed by Assessing Officer. Assessing Officer, after considering such reply on merits, passed assessment order. The Assessing Officer had considered in detail merits of seized material found during course of search, and thereafter, made addition. On facts, petition could not be entertained and assessee was to be relegated to avail alternative efficacious remedy of preferring appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) challenging the assessment order raising all contentions which were raised in this petition. Search was conducted on various dates and electronic data was seized without following the Digital Evidence Investigation Manual issued by CBDT in terms of s. 119 of the Act. The assessee challenged the assessment orders passed by relying on the digital evidence collected on the grounds that the said evidence was not collected in terms of Manual issued by CBDT, hash value was not mentioned in Panchanama, copies thereof were not provided inspite of making several requests and orders were passed in violation of principles of natural justice. The Revenue contended that the assessee had filed appeals, seizure was in accordance with law, evidence relied upon to make additions was duly corroborated and writs deserved to be dismissed as alternative remedy available has been availed by the assessee. However, the Court rejected the contentions of the Revenue and held that the seizure was made without following the mandatory requirement of an independent witness, The Manual issued has to be followed in letter and spirit since the same was issued under section 119 of the Act and it was not optional, data relied upon for passing assessment order was not corroborated by any other evidence, cross-examination was not granted to the assessee of persons whose sworn statements were relied upon by the Revenue and thus, the said search and seizure is against the law and ab initio bad. However, taking into consideration the violation of principles of natural justice and avoiding multiplicity of proceedings, assessment orders were set aside and remitted back the matters to authorities concerned for reconsideration, and the assessee was granted cross-examination. The Assessing Officer was also directed to follow the above procedures in the event of issuance of any further show cause notices in connection with the present search and seizure relating to other assessment years. S. 143(3): Assessment-Income-Tax Authorities-High Court-Binding precedent-Decision of High Court is binding on Income-Tax Authorities-Order of Assessment ignoring direction of High Court is not valid [S. 56(2)(viib), Art. 215, 226, 227] 1554

Allowing the petition the Court held that under article 215 of the Constitution, every High Court shall be a court of record and shall have all the powers of such a court including the power to punish for contempt of itself. Under article 226, it has a plenary power to issue orders or writs for the enforcement of the fundamental rights and for any other purpose to any person or authority, including in appropriate cases any Government, within its territorial jurisdiction. Under article 227 it has jurisdiction over all courts and Tribunals throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction. The law declared by the highest court in the State is binding on authorities or tribunals under its superintendence, and they cannot ignore it either in initiating a proceeding or deciding on the rights involved in such a proceeding. Any order contrary to or disregarding the direction of the High Court cannot be sustained as it renders the order bad for want of jurisdiction. Accordingly the Court directed the Assessing Officer to undertake the exercise of finding a fair market value of share as contemplated in the Explanation to section 56 of the Act. However, the exercise had not been completed.

Hence, the assessment order was not valid. Followed, East India Commercial Co Ltd v. Collector of Customs (1963) 3 SCR 338/ AIR 1962 SC 1893. " We, therefore, hold that the law declared by the highest court of State is binding on the authorities or Tribunals under its superintendence, and that they cannot ignore it either in initiating proceedings or deciding on the rights involved in such proceedings. If that be so, the notice issued by the authority signifying the launching of proceedings contrary to the law laid down by the High Court would be invalid and the proceedings themselves would be without jurisdiction." Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held it was not the case of the Department that the income received by the assessee for the services rendered to an Indian company was taxable, the benefit of article 12 of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement between India and the United States of America was available to the assessee, rectification had been ordered with respect to two other group companies, in similar circumstances, respectively, and Circular No. 14 of 1955 dated April 11, 1955, which, inter alia, casts a duty on the officers of the Department to draw the attention of the assessee towards any relief that may be available to them, which the assessee may have inadvertently omitted to claim, was applicable in the instant case. The Tribunal was right in granting relief to the assessee. Court held that according to the Central Board of Direct Taxes Circular No. 14 of 1955, officers of the Department must not take advantage of the ignorance of an assessee as to his rights. It is one of their duties to assist a taxpayer in every reasonable way, particularly in the matter of claiming and securing reliefs and in this regard the officers should take the initiative in guiding a taxpayer where proceedings or other particulars before them indicate that some refund or relief is due to him. During search and seizure, Assessing Officer seized books of account, loose papers and other documents. Assessing Officer examined and compared these loose papers with regular books of account and found that assessee had not consider certain pages of loose bunch in books of account. Assessee, in his statement, stated that those pages denoted trial balance for period of 1-4-1997 to 31-3-1998 and that it summarized his entire business operation for 1997-98 and subsequently he retracted from statement stating that it was a "test trial balance of imaginary figures". Assessing Officer, computed undisclosed income of assessee at 3.25 crores. Commissioner (Appeals) and Tribunal deleted addition made by Assessing Officer. On appeal the Court held that the assessee being a businessman, accounts were prepared by Accountant or Chartered Accountant (CA) and same were audited, hence it was CA who was in position to give statement regarding statement of accounts or Trial balance, thus Assessing Officer ought to have examined Accountant of establishment regarding documents seized. Assessee's case selected for scrutiny assessment. AO issued notice u/s 142(1) and passed order u/s 143(3) whereby he rejected et-off and carry forward of loss and made additions in income of assessee. On appeal to the Tribunal, it was held that the limited scrutiny for which the assessment was ordered to be scrutinized did not include the matter that the Assessing Officer decided. On appeal, the Calcutta High Court observed that the CBDT has noted instances where some of the Assessing Officer were travelling beyond the issues while making assessment in limited scrutiny cases by initiating inquiries on new issue without complying with mandatory requirements of the relevant CBDT Instruction dated 26-9-2014, 29-12-2015 and 14-7-2016. Further, it was reiterated that the Assessing Officer should abide by the Instructions of CBDT while completing limited scrutiny assessment and should be scrupulous about maintenance of note sheets in assessment folders. Held that once having denied the ownership of the accounts before the AO, the assessee cannot take a plea that no sufficient opportunity was allowed by the AO to explain the credit entries in the foreign bank account. Further, it is found that the CIT(A) also allowed sufficient opportunities to the assessee to explain the transactions in the foreign bank accounts by admitting the additional evidences filed before him. Assessee made submissions before the AO in the course of remand proceeding as well as before the CIT(A) after receipt of the remand report. " Whether in the facts, circumstances and evidences on record in both the above appeals the AO was justified in passing the assessment orders under section 143(3) instead of passing the assessment orders under section 153C of the IT Act, 1961 " and also other three questions. The third member held that in view of the fact that search was conducted at the premises of the common director of both the assessee-companies and various documents relating to both the companies were found and seized during the pendency of the regular assessment proceedings in the case of the assessee-companies, the pending assessment proceeding stood abated by virtue of the second proviso to S. 153A read with proviso to S. 153C and, therefore, the AO was required to make the assessments under S. 153C and not under S. 143(3); consequently, the assessment order passed under s. 143(3) is invalid and bad in law. [S. 5, 194J] 1572

Held that the right to receive the income accruing under the agreement arose only after inspection and acceptance of the materials by L as stipulated under clause 4. 2(b) of the agreement. And, until the conditions stipulated in clause 4. 2(b) were satisfied, the income embedded in the agreement is only a hypothetical income. The Assessing Officer had erred in concluding that the balance amount had accrued to the assessee based on terms of clause 4. 2(a) instead of clause 4. 2(b). Order of CIT(A) is affirmed. CIT v. Ashokbhai Chimanbhai (1965) 56 ITR 42 (SC) relied on wherein the Court held that It is well-settled that income can be said to accrue only when the assessee acquires a right to receive that income and such accrual may depend on the agreements which may give rise to such rights. 1575 S. 143(3):Assessment-Limited scrutiny-Additional legal ground is admitted-Cash deposits-Assessing Officer converted the limited scrutiny to regular assessment-Order is quashed and set aside-Instruction No. 5 Of 2016, Dated 14-7-2016 (2016) 385 ITR 56 (St) [S. 56(2)(vii)(b)(ii), 68, 69A, 133(6), 142(1), 143(2), 254(1)]

The assessee has raised additional grounds before the Tribunal urging that that the Assessing Officer had erred in issuing notice under section 143(2) without complying with the Central Board of Direct Taxes Instruction F. No. 225/157/2017/ITA-II, dated June 23, 2017 (2016) 385 ITR 56 (St) and that the assessment order under section 143(3) provided that the return was selected for limited scrutiny on the issue of "cash deposit during demonetisation" and that the additions made in the assessment order was without jurisdiction. The Department contended that no expression exhibiting the aspect of limited scrutiny was used by the Assessing Officer and that the notice would indicate that the case was selected for scrutiny assessment. Tribunal admitted the additional ground. The Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had not made any addition on account of cash deposits made during the demonetisation period. The assessee has deposited small amounts, which had been accepted by the Assessing Officer. Therefore, the assessment order itself was not sustainable because it had been passed by the Assessing Officer in excess of his limited powers. The Assessing Officer ought to have followed the procedure contemplated in the Central Board of Direct Taxes Instruction No. 5 of 2016 for converting a limited scrutiny assessment into a full scrutiny. Assessment order is quashed. Addition is deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Held that both the draft as well as final assessment orders had been passed in the name of a non-existent company. Passing of an order in the name of an entity which has merged with another entity will make the order void ab initio as it cannot be treated as a mere procedural irregularity but affects the jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer. The assessment order passed in the name of a non-existent entity is held to be void ab initio hence quashed. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Jurisdiction-Pecuniary Jurisdiction-Non-corporate returns declaring income above Rs. 20 Lakhs with Assistant Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner and not with ITO-Notice and consequential assessment order is invalid-Instruction No. 1/2011 (F. No. 187/12/2010-It(A-I), Dated 31-1-2011. [S. 143(2), 148, 149(1)(b)] 1577

Held that as the addition is over Rs. 20 lakhs, the Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to issue notice under section 148 in terms of section 149(1)(b) since he did not have any books of account, document or evidence to show that income escaping assessment would amount to, or likely to amount to, Rs. 50 lakhs or more. The notice had been passed by the ITO, who was a non-jurisdictional authority, when it should have been issued by the officer of the rank of Assistant Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner. Therefore, the assessment framed by the Assessing Officer is invalid for want of jurisdiction hence quashed. (AY. 2014-15, 2016-17)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Limited scrutiny-Assessing Officer cannot travel beyond issue raised under limited scrutiny-Failure to obtain prior permission of Principal Commissioner for such additions-Order is bad in law-Instruction Nos. 5 Of 2016 dt. 14-7-2016 and 20 of 2015, dated 29-12-2015. [S. 45, 48, 54B, 54C, 54D, 54GA, 55A] 1578

Tribunal held that the assessee's case was selected for limited scrutiny. In the course of the assessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer had verified both the issues and was satisfied about the investment in property and also about the deduction claimed under section 54B. No addition on account of both the issues were made. However, by disallowing the fair market value claimed under section 45, the Assessing Officer exceeded the jurisdiction assigned to him under the limited scrutiny assessment and had violated the Central Board of Direct Taxes Instruction Nos. 5 of 2016, dated July 14, 2016 and 20 of 2015, dated December 29, 2015. Section 54B could not be linked with section 48 for enhancement of capital gains under section 45 unless the Assessing Officer had taken the prior permission of the Principal Commissioner, which he had failed to do. The assessment orders passed under section 143(3) is bad in law and the addition made is deleted. (AY. 2014-15)

Held that if there is any discrepancy in the address due to which the demand notice along with the assessment order was not served on the assessee, that could only help the assessee claim that the period of limitation for filing the appeal would run from the date of actual receipt of the demand notice or assessment order by the assessee. The Act provides that discrepancy in notices will not affect the proceedings. Therefore, the assessee's contention that the assessment order shall be considered to be passed beyond the prescribed period of limitation is not accepted. Order is not barred by limitation. [S. 69, 132]

Held that the presumption of the Commissioner (Appeals) that no profit rate could be applied on the trading receipts in confirming the addition on a part of the total sale receipts was not justified. He ought to have brought corroborative documentary evidence to disprove the trading receipts shown by the assessee. He allowed the benefit of voluntary disclosure made by the assessee during the search proceedings but ignored the amount of sale found therein, the gross profit on which had already been added by the Commissioner (Appeals). The funds available were explained by the assessee as disclosure made at the time of search and sale receipts declared in the audited balance-sheet showing application of specific percentage profit, which had been accepted by the Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals). The findings of the Commissioner (Appeals) in confirming a separate addition was perverse to the facts on record as the entire sale receipts stood explained. Held hat the disputed transaction of cash deposit was duly disclosed in the audited books of account as per the balance-sheet, as being from the sale of land, which clearly established that it was a genuine transaction disclosed in the books of account much before the search under section 132 was conducted. The Revenue failed to controvert the fact that there was no physical movement of cash since both parties to the sale transaction had accounts in the same branch of the bank obviating the need to transfer funds from one bank account to another. Order of CIT(A) is affirmed. (AY. 2015-16)

Held that the Assessing Officer made the addition purely on presumption and guesswork without any evidence on record. As there was no perversity in the decision of the Commissioner (Appeals), his order was upheld. The funds available were explained by the assessee as disclosure made at the time of search and sale receipts declared in the audited balance-sheet showing application of specific percentage profit, which had been accepted by the Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals). The findings of the Commissioner (Appeals) in confirming a separate addition was perverse to the facts on record as the entire sale receipts stood explained. (AY. 2015-16)

Held, that the cash deposits in the assessee's bank account were out of the cash balance available in the books of account, which was generated from cash sales made by the assessee to its members. Admittedly, the Assessing Officer did not do so. Hence, the Assessing Officer fell into error in relying upon the statements given by the employees of the assessee and another concern, who were not aware of the entire business activities of the assessee as clearly expressed by them in their respective statements. Therefore, the Commissioner (Appeals) is justified in deleting the addition. (AY. 2021-22)

S. 143(3): Assessment-Validity-Addition on account of bogus LTCG-Addition based on some incriminating material found in a search at premises of third parties-Assessment order should have been framed as per provisions of section 153C-assessment order passed under section 143(3) is set aside being bad in law. [S. 132, 143(1), 153A, 153C] 1584

Assessee filed his return of income for relevant assessment year, which was processed under section 143(1). Assessee challenged the said assessment order on the ground that the same was bad in law in as much as it should have been framed under section 153A read with section 153C as entire assessment was based on outcome of search and seizure proceedings conducted at premises of several stock brokers, whereby it was found that he was also one of the beneficiaries of LTCG earned through manipulation of shares. There was no dispute that entire addition in instant case, was based upon incriminating material/information detected out of search proceedings under section 132 conducted at premises of stock brokers. Therefore, assessment order should have been framed as per provisions of section 153C. Hence, assessment order passed under section 143(3) was set aside being bad in law. [S. 69, 145]
Held that the assessee had submitted the stock statement to the bank whereas the book stock was lower resulting in a difference to the closing stock. However, an addition could not be made on the basis of the closing stock declared in the statement submitted by the banker being less than the book stock. That the Commissioner (Appeals) had held that by showing the valuation of closing stock at a higher amount, the assessee had offered a higher gross profit for taxation and not vice versa, that, therefore, the charge regarding suppression of profit by the Assessing Officer was made without pointing out any defect in the assessee's books of account and also that the manner of making the addition was incorrect. Held, that there was no logic or methodology in determining the average daily sales and making an addition of Rs. 7,56,000 on account of scrap sales for the last four days. Sale of scrap is a continuous process in a manufacturing industry, the sale of scrap is accounted as and when it is sold. Held that evidence substantially proved that these were companies with substantial holdings, financial capabilities and consequently, their creditworthiness, genuineness and identity stood proved and the addition was not called for. With regard to the loan creditors in respect of other appeals for the assessment years from 2014-15 to 2018-19, there was no evidence available with the Revenue in the form of any statement recorded from any of the directors to controvert the evidence in the form of Income-tax returns, confirmation letters, deduction of tax at source on the interest paid and the interest

Held that there was no discrepancy in the purchase of goods or payment. Only the opening balance was added to the total income of the assessee. The Tribunal in the assessee's own case had held in his favour. The purchases and sales of the assessee during the assessment year were accepted by the Assessing Officer. There was no contrary order of earlier years where the sundry creditors or purchase had been rejected by the Assessing Officer. Only the cross verification under section 133(6) being in dispute, could not be good reason for rejection of sundry creditors. The entire addition was unjustified considering the submission of the assessee, filed before both the lower authorities. The entire addition is deleted. (AY. 2013-14)

The assessment was completed under section 143(3) of the Act. Subsequent to search, reassessment notice u/s 148 was issued. The assessee filed the return. The assessment was completed by making addition under section 69C of the Act. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal the assessee contended that order was passed without mentioning of DIN on assessment order hence bad in law. Allowing the appeal the Tribunal held that any communication relating to assessment, appeals, orders, etc. albeit without DIN can have no standing in law having regard to Circular no. 19/2019, dated 14-8-2019. An assessment order and notice of demand are two separate communications qua assessee and carry separate physical existence and identity, even though issued on same date by same Assessing officer pertaining to same assessment year and therefore, necessarily have to carry separate DIN on body of said communications. S. 143(3): Assessment-Document Identification No (DIN)-No DIN number was mentioned in the assessment order-Assessment order is invalid-Subsequent separate communication of DIN would be a superfluous exercise. [S. 119] 1595

1598 S. 143(3): Assessment-Survey-Statements recorded lack evidentiary value and cannot be relied upon as substantive evidence. [S. 133A]

The assessee, a partnership firm engaged in the business of construction and development of residential flats and shops, filed its return of income declaring its total income for the assessment year. A survey action under section 133A of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (the Act) was conducted in the business premises of the assessee, during which statements of two partners were recorded, wherein they admitted a profit element in respect of different construction projects carried out by the assessee firm. Later, the partners retracted their statements by way of an affidavit, describing the loose papers found during the survey as dumb documents. The Assessing Officer (AO) rejected the retraction and made an addition, as the undisclosed income of the assessee. The assessee appealed before the Commissioner of Income Tax (Appeals) (CIT(A)), who estimated the gross profit of the assessee at 12. 5% and directed the AO to reopen the assessments for the assessment years 2009-10 to 2016-17 and give telescopic effect to the income of the assessee. The Revenue challenged the order of the CIT(A) before the Tribunal. The Tribunal dismissed the appeal of the Revenue and upheld the order of the CIT(A). The Tribunal held that the AO was not correct in making the addition to the extent desired as the undisclosed income of the assessee, based on the statements recorded under section 133A of the Act, had no evidentiary value and were retracted by the assessee. The Tribunal also held that the CIT(A) had made a thorough analysis of the income of the assessee project-wise and estimated the gross profit at 12. 5%, which was reasonable and did not require any interference. The Tribunal further held that the CIT(A) had rightly given direction to the AO to reopen the other assessment years and recompute the income of the assessee by giving telescopic effect, as per the provisions of section 147(1) of the Act. 1600 S. 143(3) : Assessment-Document Identification Number-Order passed manually without DIN, assessment order was to be treated as never been issued. [S. 271(1)(c)]

The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the assessment orders and the penalty orders were invalid and non-est in the eye of law, as they did not comply with the mandatory requirements of the CBDT Circular No. 19/2019. The bench relied on the decision of the Delhi High Court in CIT (International Taxation) v. Brandix Mauritius Holdings Ltd., which held that any communication issued by the revenue without DIN, except in the circumstances specified in the CBDT Circular, would be treated as non-est in law and would not confer any jurisdiction on the revenue to make any assessment or levy any penalty. The bench also observed that the revenue had not shown any exceptional circumstances or approval for issuing the orders manually without DIN, as required by the CBDT Circular. The bench quashed the assessment orders and the penalty orders and allowed the appeals of the assessee. (AY. 2007-08, 08-09, 09-10, 12-13, 2013-14.)

The Hon'ble Tribunal quashed the assessment order passed by the AO in the name of a non-existent entity, following the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in similar cases. The judgement held that the amalgamation of the assessee company with another company resulted in the cessation of the assessee company as a person under section 2(31) of the Act, and hence it could not be subjected to assessment proceedings or an order of assessment. The judgement rejected the argument of the revenue that the assessee company had participated in the proceedings and hence could not raise the issue of its non-existence, as it was a substantive illegality and not a procedural violation. Order is invalid. (AY. 2011-12)

The assessment order was served on assessee through designated e-mail ID of the AO. The draft assessment order was signed and the final order was not signed. Additions made in the draft assessment order and final assessment order is the same. The assessee challenged the assessment order on the ground that unsigned assessment order was served on assessee hence the order is in valid. On appeal the Tribunal held that signing of an assessment order by the AO is a mandatory requirement and not merely a procedural formality. Since the assessment order communicated to the assessee originated from the designated e-mail ID of the AO therefore, in terms of rule 127A the said document shall be deemed to be authenticated. S. 144 : Best judgment assessment-Undisclosed income-Machinery shown in the balance sheet-Failure to explain the source of investment-Addition as undisclosed income is held to be justified. [S. 69, 119, 143(2), 260A] 1603

The Assessing Officer had made an addition on account of unexplained income on the ground that plant and machinery shown in the balance sheet on 31-3-2004 was to the tune of Rs. 21.58 lakhs whereas the same was shown as Rs. 34.87 lakhs as on 1-4-2004. Additionally, he made an addition of Rs. 6.99 lakhs on account of plant and machinery added as income from undisclosed source. CIT(A) and Tribunal affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the assessee contended that the assessment order was framed in violation of the CBDT guidelines. Court held that BDT promulgated procedure for selection of returns/cases of non-corporate assessees for scrutiny during the financial year 2006-07. From a bare reading of paragraph No. 2 of the procedure laid down by the CBDT for selection of returns/cases for the financial year 2006-07, it is evident that paragraph 2 only casts an obligation on the Assessing Officer to compulsorily scrutinize the cases covered by Clauses (a) to (s) of paragraph No. 2. The CBDT circular laying down procedure aforesaid does not and cannot take away the power and jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer conferred upon it under section 143(2). The first appellate authority and the second appellate forum have rightly concurred with the view of the Assessing Officer and upheld the additions made on account of fixed assets. No question of law arises. (AY. 2005-06)

The assessee has not responded various notices issued by the Revenue. The AO passed an order under section 144 of the Act. Assessee filed writ petition against said order. On writ the dismissing the petition the Court held that there is no violation of principle of natural justice. This is a case where an arrogant assessee refused to comply with every request of department and only suggested that since she was a member of scheduled tribe, she was willy-nilly above law. It was also not a case of authority having been exercised without jurisdiction. Court held that neither conduct nor alleged prejudice suffered by assessee prompt Court to exercise any discretion to receive matter and adjudicate same without leaving assessee free to approach regular statutory remedy in accordance with law. [S. 143(3), 147, 148, IPC, 406, 498A, Art. 226] 1606

The Assessing Officer passed the assessment order on the basis of the FIR lodged by the daughter of the assessee under S.. 406, 498A, etc. of IPC against her in-laws. In the FIR, it was recorded that the assessee has spent a sum of Rs. 8 lacs apart from giving other articles at the time of marriage. Respondent-IT Department on the basis of aforesaid FIR initiated proceedings against the assessee alleging that he has concealed his income. At the time of passing of the orders, the assessee was in a vegetative state and he could not participate in the assessment proceedings. Respondent-Department was duly intimated about the health of the assessee still ex parte assessment order was passed. FIR stands quashed by this Court on the basis of compromise arrived at between the parties and there is no finding by Criminal Court to the effect that assessee had given/spent a sum of Rs. 30 lakhs on the occasion of marriage of his daughter. On writ the Court held that Respondent-Department concededly has neither conducted independent investigation nor brought on record evidence to the effect that the assessed actually earned the assessed amount during the relevant assessment year. In the absence of any concrete evidence, demand cannot be created on assumptions and presumptions. Order and all subsequent demand notices are set aside.

Held that the addition is made on the estimated value, without substantial evidence to contradict the actual cost recorded by the assessee, which was not justifiable. That the District Valuation Officer had submitted a letter clarifying that he had not withdrawn the certificate and its correctness should not be doubted. The Assessing Officer had not doubted the corresponding sales made by the assessee. If such purchases were treated as not genuine, the corresponding sales should also have been considered as not genuine. Only the profit margin embedded in such transactions could have been taxed. Since the sales were not doubted, it was proved that the assessee was actually in possession of goods. The assessee had been benefitted by receiving a margin from the grey market. The addition to the extent of the profit element embedded in the amount of purchases made from the party was to be added. [142(1), 143(3), 144B(6)(vii), 156, 272A(1)(d), 274, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that despite the Department affording an opportunity to the assessee to make a request for personal hearing by clicking the "Seek Video Conferencing" button available against the notice in the view notices section of the e-proceeding tab, on e-filing portal, no such button was clicked by the assessee within the time specified in the notice. On this context, the time provided to the assessee was adequate enough. The request made by the assessee for personal hearing in the earlier response could not have mandated the Department to give personal hearing to the assessee without the assessee applying for personal hearing in the manner prescribed on the portal. If the assessee had failed to take such opportunity, the Department could not be made responsible therefor. But similar conclusion could not be drawn while considering whether appropriate opportunity of hearing was given to the assessee to respond to the notice, which proposed the variations and wherein the digital signature showed that it was signed in the evening on March 15, 2024, which was a Friday and the assessee was required to respond to it before 11 a.m. of March 19, 2024 giving an inadequate time of one working day to respond. The limitation period would end on March 31, 2025 and there being no urgency, the Assessing Officer had acted in derogation of the Standard Operating Procedure issued by the Commissioner. Therefore, there was violation of principles of natural justice, inasmuch as, the assessee was prevented from appropriately responding to the notice. That though the Assessing Officer had passed the order under section 143(3) read with section 144B beyond the period of seven days from the date of issuance of notice, there was nothing on record to show that any notice was given to the assessee intimating that the order should not be passed prior to the expiry of the period of seven days. The order passed by the Assessing Officer for the assessment year 2022-23, being in violation of principles of natural justice was vitiated and therefore, set aside. The consequent notice of demand under section 156 and the notices of penalty under sections 272A(1)(d) and 274B were also set aside. The matter was remanded back to the Assessing Officer. The Department was directed to activate the portal for the assessee to submit her response since she had already received the notice and to express her option of personal hearing. In the event of the assessee's failure to respond within the stipulated time, the Department was given liberty to proceed in accordance with law. (AY. 2022-23)(SJ)

S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Principle of natural justice-Alternative remedy-Assessment order is set aside. [143(3), 144B(6)(viii), Art. 226] 1624
Allowing the petition, that since the assessee did not get opportunity to respond to the additional show-cause notice, there was violation of the principles of natural justice and the assessee could not be relegated to pursue the statutory remedy as the defect could not be cured by affording opportunity to the assessee to prefer appeals. The assessee claimed that despite logging in to join the meeting virtually, the Faceless Assessment Unit did not join. Although it had been recorded by the Faceless Assessment Unit in its order dated March 21, 2024 that the assessee despite being afforded an opportunity to join the virtual meeting it did not join, it was not necessary to consider such issue since the assessment order passed under section 143(3) read with section 144B by the Assessing Officer or Faceless Assessment Unit was vitiated for violation of principles of natural justice. Whether or not the second or additional show-cause could be issued would fall for consideration only when a response was offered by the assessee but there was no contemporaneous response on record. Though the standard operating procedure circulated by the Commissioner, National Faceless Assessment Centre, Delhi, dated August 3, 2022 did not have a statutory force, the National Faceless Assessment Unit could neither feign ignorance nor disregard it. The assessment order passed under section 143(3) read with section 144B by the Faceless Assessment Unit was unsustainable and accordingly set aside. The matter was remanded to the Faceless Assessment Unit with a direction to permit and enable the assessee to file its response to the additional show-cause notice. Consequently, the notice issued under section 274 read with section 271AAD(1)(i) and the notice for penalty under section 274 read with section 271B were quashed. Matter remanded. (AY. 2022-23)

S. 144B : Faceless Assessment-Approval of Resolution Plan under Corporate Insolvency Resolution process-Subsequent notice Under Section 144B is not valid. [Insolvency And Bankruptcy Code, 2016, S. 31(1), Art. 226] 1625 Allowing the petition the Court held, that the resolution professional appointed pursuant to the commencement of the corporate insolvency resolution process, on November 23, 2020, informed the Income-tax authorities of the pendency of proceedings before the National Company Law Tribunal. This was followed by a communication dated January 28, 2021 in terms of which the resolution professional had conveyed a request to the Income-tax authorities to lodge their claims in accordance with the provisions of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code. The assessee, the corporate debtor, in terms of the provisions of the Act, had furnished its return of income for the assessment year 2021-22 on March 10, 2022. The corporate insolvency resolution process proceedings culminated in the approval of the resolution plan being approved by the National Company Law Tribunal on March 15, 2022 and accepting a plan submitted by S which had been accepted by the committee of creditors. It was only thereafter on June 27, 2022 that the Department chose to commence proceedings referable to section 144B of the Act. The notices dated June 27, 2022, June 28, 2022 and September 5, 2022 is quashed. (AY. 2021-22)

1627 S. 144B : Faceless Assessment –Principle of natural justice-Opportunity of personal hearing must be given even if not requested in writing-No discretion with Assessing Officer-Assessment order is set aside. [143(3), 144B(6)(vii), 144B(6)(viii), 251, Art. 226]
Allowing the petition the Court held that in the first notice issued proposing a variation in income of the assessee only three days' time was granted to the assessee to reply. No assessment order was passed on the date fixed, i. e., March 15, 2024. The Assessing Officer had considered the adjournment application filed by the assessee on March 16, 2024 and had fixed another date for the very next day, i. e., March 17, 2024 which was a Sunday. Therefore, it was obligatory for the Assessing Officer to have fixed another date before passing the final order under section 143(3) read with section 144B for the assessment year 2022-23. Where the principles of natural justice had been violated, such an order was unsustainable and therefore, set aside. The assessee could treat the order as final show-cause notice and submit his reply. If the Assessing Officer did not accept the written explanation he would afford an opportunity of personal hearing to the assessee and then proceed in accordance with law. (AY. 2022-23)

Assessee filed writ petition contending that impugned assessment order was passed ex parte-Assessment order passed by Assessing Officer was wholly ex parte to extent a draft order was prepared and finalised and even in those proceedings no opportunity of hearing was given to assessee to furnish any response. S. 144B :Faceless Assessment-Draft assessment order-Principle of natural justice-Order is passed without considering the reply-Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer. [S. 144C, Art. 226] 1630
Assessing Officer issued on 17-3-2022 a show-cause notice upon assessee asking for an explanation on draft assessment order forwarded to assessee under section 144C. Assessee gave his reply on 19-3-2022. Thereafter, again Assessing Officer made a correspondence vide notice under section 142(1) calling upon assessee to furnish accounts on or before 23-3-2022 and documents specified in annexure to notice. Assessee gave his reply on same day and another response on 30-3-2022. However, before same could be appreciated by Assessing Officer, assessment order was passed on 30-3-2022. On writ the Court held that since for assessment year 2014-15, show-cause notice was issued on 17-3-2022 and time limit for response was up till 20-3-2022, this duration was too short a period, particularly, when explanation and details had been sought of an assessment year about seven to eight years old, and therefore, proceedings drawn by Assessing Officer seemed to be in a hasty manner without a reasonable opportunity being given to assessee. Therefore, assessment order is set aside and matter is remanded back for fresh consideration. (AY. 2014-15)

The assessee filed a writ petition against an order of reassessment passed under section 147 read with section 144B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 contending that the provisions of section 69C read with section 115BBE of the Act could not be invoked and the show-cause notice did not refer to these provisions. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the contentions raised by the assessee against the assessment order could be ably considered by examining the record. Considering that factual aspects were involved, the court would refrain from entering into a fishing enquiry under the writ jurisdiction.

Though the limitation period for filing of the statutory appeal had expired, considering the circumstances, the appellate authority was directed to hear the appeal on the merits if it was filed within a period of 15 days subject to making pre deposit if required in law.

Assessee filed objections under section 144C(2) with DRP and a copy thereof was filed with Jurisdictional Assessing Officer. It did not upload objections on portal. Assessee explained that this non-upload was due to a technical impediment in portal. Faceless Assessing Officer was unaware that assessee had filed objections. He passed the assessment order without waiting for DRP's directions under sub-section 5 of section 144C and issued demand notice. On writ the Court held that the Assessing Officer would pass an assessment order once DRP passes its directions and consequently, notice of demand in Form No. 7 was also quashed and set aside.

Court observed that under the standard operating procedure dated November 19, 2010, in case of a notice under section 142(1) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, a period of 15 days is normally to be given as a response time, which could be reduced to seven days in cases of subsequent notices. Allowing the petition the Court held that notice under section 142(1) had been issued on March 10, 2022, with March 14, 2022 as the date for response, which was even below seven days as mandated. The limitation for conclusion of the proceedings admittedly did not arise. Accordingly, on the sole ground of violation of principles of natural justice, the notice had to be set aside. All other proceedings resulting in orders passed had to be treated as consequential orders and the same had also to be set aside. Matter is remanded to the stage of notice and the petitioner is permitted to file his response. (AY. 2017-18)

[S. 143(3), 156, Art. 226]
Allowing the petition, the Court held that the conversation in the chat box due to failure of audio during the video conference revealed that owing to technical glitches, the assessee did not get an effective opportunity of explaining the case orally and requests for rescheduling the video conference were turned down violating principles of natural justice. Therefore, the order passed under section 143(3) read with section 144B was without affording an opportunity of personal hearing as prescribed under the provisions of section 144B, for faceless assessment and in violation of principles of natural justice. Hence, the assessment order and the consequent notice of demand under section 156 were quashed and set aside. Held, that no draft assessment with show-cause notice as required under section 144B(1) and section 144B(7) had been given to the assessee so as to enable the assessee to give an explanation for the proposed addition during the hearing before the National Faceless Assessment Centre. Therefore, the order was passed by the respondent in violation of principles of natural justice without affording an opportunity of personal hearing and not following the prescribed procedure laid down in the provisions of section 144B of the Act, for faceless assessment. In the result, this petition succeeded and was accordingly allowed. The order of assessment passed by the respondent under section 147 read with section 144B of the Income-tax Act, 1961, dated February 22, 2022 and demand notice under section 156 of the Act were quashed and set aside. [Art. 226]

Through income-tax portal, the AO issued show cause to the assessee to file its objections within 5 days without referring to granting of personal hearing. As the assessee failed to file its response, the AO passed assessment order which was challenged in writ. Taking note of Legislative Intent that section 144B of the Act was to provide an opportunity of being heard to the assessee before passing any orders, which are prejudicial to their rights/interests. The High Court held that 5 days period granted to file response without providing for personal hearing was insufficient and period of at least 21 days should have been given for filing reply. The Court also held that it is bounden duty of the Assessing Officer to pass a detailed order, providing reasons for rejection of the contention of the assessee. The assessment order passed was set aside and matter was remanded to the AO for fresh consideration. (AY. 2017-18)(SJ)

[S. 130, 144B(5) 144B(6)((v), 144C(13), Information Technology Act, 2000, S. 13]

Tribunal held that on a cohesive reading of the provisions of sections 130 and 144B of the Act read together with section 13 of the Information Technology Act, 2000, the moment the document was uploaded by the originator, the Dispute Resolution Panel, on April 7, 2022 on the Income-tax Business Application portal that dispatch from the side of the Dispute Resolution Panel was complete and since the entire documents were uploaded through electronic mode, the receipt of the document was instantaneous. Hence, the date of receipt of the directions of the Dispute Resolution Panel also happened on April 7, 2022 itself and the due date in terms of section 144C(13) would be reckoned from that date. Merely, because the National e-Assessment Centre had retained the document for a few months and transferred it to the assessment unit on May 2, 2022, the due date in terms of section 144C(13) of the Act for framing the final assessment order by the Assessing Officer did not get automatically extended. Hence, the final assessment order ought to have been passed by the Assessing Officer on or before May 31, 2022. Since, the same was done on June 30, 2022 it was barred by limitation. (AY. 2018-19)

Held, dismissing the petitions that the arrangement was being scrutinized as it was considered devoid of commercial substance in terms of section 97. It was perceived as a deliberate misuse of the provisions of the Act, going beyond the intended use of the law, and manipulating it to one's advantage. It created extraordinary rights and obligations that seemed to be conducted not in good faith. These unusual rights and obligations were not in line with the general principles of fair dealing, leading to the conclusion that it was an impermissible tax avoidance agreement under section 96. Consequently, the arrangement fell under the purview of Chapter X-A. Given these circumstances, procedures were set in motion to apply the rules and regulations of Chapter X-A to this arrangement. There was clear and convincing evidence to suggest that the entire arrangement was intricately designed with the sole intent of evading tax. The assessee had not been able to provide substantial and persuasive proof to counter this claim. The Revenue had shown that the share transactions were not permissible tax avoidance arrangements. The evidence pointed towards the fact that these transactions did not qualify as permissible under the tax laws. Therefore, the provisions of Chapter X-A were applicable. The petitioner challenged the assessment order by filing the writ petition on the ground that the order is barred by limitation. Allowing the petition the Court held that the period of limitation for passing an assessment order upon receipt of directions from DRP is one month from end of month in which directions are received. Directions of DRP were forwarded to Assessing Officer by uploading same on 17-6-2022, period of limitation for computing time for passing assessment order would start from 30-6-2022 and, thus, final assessment order passed on 25-3-2023, beyond time limit specified in section 144C(13), is barred by limitation. On an appeal preferred by the Revenue, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court was called upon to decide whether the order passed by the AO was beyond the time limit prescribed under the provision of section 144 of the Act. The Hon'ble Court on basis of the record observed that the final assessment order was passed beyond the stipulated period and therefore, barred by limitation. The Hon'ble Court thus, confirmed the order of the Tribunal and dismissed the appeal preferred by the Revenue. (AY. 2013-14)

If an order is passed without taking note of the materials on record and subsequently, if it is brought to the notice of the Income-tax Authority under section 154, it would be open for the Income-tax Authority to rectify such mistake apparent from the record. Thus, DRP on consideration of material which were not considered earlier has come to the conclusion that it is a case to exclude trade discounts as well as discount warranty expenses and packing expenses from the ambit of advertisement and marketing and promotion expenses for the purpose of transfer pricing comparison, DRP is justified in assuming jurisdiction under section 154 to rectify the earlier direction. [S. 143(3), 144B, 144C(3), Art. 226]

A final assessment order was passed under section 143(3) read with section 144C(3) and 144B of the Act. A further notice of demand under section 156 and notice for penalty under section 274 were also issued. On writ the Assessee contended that assessment order as also demand/penalty notices were illegal and void ab initio as much as same were beyond prescribed limitation for completion of assessment as prescribed by section 153 read with section 144C. Court held that issue as involved in is similar to one involved in assessee's own case for another year which was pending for final hearing. In said case of assessee following two other decisions of High Court it was observed that provisions of section 153 which provide for period of limitation is necessarily applicable to proceedings under section 144C. Following same, assessment order passed under section 143(3) read with section 144C(3) and section 144B as also consequent demand notice and penalty proceedings were to remain stayed. S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Transfer pricing-Draft assessment order-Eligible assessee-No estoppel against the law-AO have to assess the original return in terms of S. 143(1) or other relevant provisions of the IT Act and make an appropriate assessment order-Order is set aside. [S. 143(1), 144C(15)(b), Art. 226] 1653

There can be no estoppel against the law. Though the assessee in his revised return had claimed that he was a non-resident, the draft order made by the first respondent upon considering the material on record h categorically held that this claim was incorrect and the assessee was a "resident in India" and not a "non-resident". This is the Department's finding, and the Department cannot distance itself from it merely because the assessee may have claimed otherwise in his revised returns. The assessee has now accepted the position that he is a "resident in India" and, based upon such acceptance, submitted that the authorities need not consider his revised return because the same proceeded on an erroneous premise that the assessee was a "non-resident". Accordingly, the assessee cannot now be held as an "eligible assessee" as defined under S. 144C(15). If the assessee is not an eligible assessee, then there is no question of applying the procedure under S. 144C to the assessee. Order is set aside. (AY. 2021-22)

S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Assessment-Limitation-Order passed beyond one month of directions of DRP under S. 144C(13)-The assessment order was barred by limitation. [S. 143(3), 144C(13), Art. 226] 1654

Allowing the petition the Court held that from the provision of S. 144C(13), it is evident that the specified time-limit is one month from the end of the month in which directions are received. It is also clear that the time-limit should be computed from the date of receipt of directions issued under sub-S. (5) thereof. Directions of the DRP were forwarded to the AO, i. e., National Faceless Assessment Centre, Delhi by uploading the same on 17th June, 2022. Contention that the jurisdictional AO received the directions only on 17th March, 2023 hence limitation should be counted from that date is not sustainable. Internal arrangement by which the assessment proceedings relating to the assessee were purportedly transferred so as to ensure that the proceedings are not barred by limitation is not material for this purpose. Period of one month expired on 31st July, 2022, whereas the assessment order came to be issued on 25th March, 2023,hence, the assessment order was barred by limitation. 1655 S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Transfer pricing-Computation of arm's length price-Failure to pass draft assessment order-Assessment order is null and void. [S. 92CA(2), 92CA(3)]

Assessee filed its return of income for relevant assessment years. As there were international transactions, a reference was made by Assessing Officer to TPO under sub-section (2) of section 92CA. TPO passed an order under section 92CA(3) making upward adjustment. Assessing Officer issued a final assessment order with TPO's proposed additions, but it skipped requirement of issuing a draft assessment order under section 144C(1) of the Act. Assessing Officer shall, in first instance, forward a draft of proposed order of assessment to eligible assessee if he proposes to make any variation which is prejudicial to interest of such assessee. Since in instant case there was a variation in assessment order different from what was filed in return of income and since it was by way of an addition made, variation was prejudicial to interest of assessee. Therefore, failure to pass a draft assessment order under section 144C(1) would result in rendering final assessment as one without jurisdiction. (AY. 2009-10, 2010-11)

[S. 92CA(4), 143(3), 144C(5), 144C(13), 156, 270A, 274, Art. 226] 1659

Allowing the petition the Court held that the Transfer Pricing Officer could not have resumed proceedings post the passing of the directions under section 144C(5) by the Dispute Resolution Panel on June 20, 2022. The role of the Transfer Pricing Officer ended once an order as contemplated under section 92CA(4) had been passed and remitted to the Assessing Officer. Therefore, there was no occasion for the directive of the Dispute Resolution Panel to be uploaded on the Income-tax Business Application portal on June 24, 2022. It was additionally stated to have been dispatched through speed post to the Transfer Pricing Officer and the Additional/Joint/Deputy/Assistant Commissioner, National Faceless Assessment Centre on June 27, 2022. It was thereafter that the Transfer Pricing Officer had passed the order dated July 25, 2022. According to the provisions of E-Assessment Scheme, 2019, all orders, notices and decisions have to be necessarily uploaded on the portal and as part of the larger faceless assessment regime which now holds the field. The uploading of the directive of the Dispute Resolution Panel on the portal would thus constitute valid and sufficient service and the period of limitation as prescribed in section 144C(13) would be liable to be computed. Accordingly, the order of assessment could have been framed lastly by July 31, 2022. The order of assessment, dated August 24, 2022, passed under section 143(3) read with section 144C(13) and the notice of penalty, dated August 24, 2022, under section 270A read with section 274 were quashed and set aside. The Deputy Commissioner had failed to comply with the mandatory timelines stipulated in the provisions under section 144C(13) to implement the directives of the Dispute Resolution Panel under section 144C(5). Therefore, the return as submitted by the assessee would be deemed to have been accepted and the tax liability worked out accordingly. Original return of income is directed to be accepted. Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that there was no variation in the income as returned by the assessee for the assessment years 2014-15 and 2015-16 on being referred to the Transfer Pricing Officer in respect of the international transaction. Only the assessee's claim for benefits under article 11 of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement between India and Cyprus ([1996] 218 ITR (St.) 70) was negated by the Assessing Officer. Accordingly, while the income offered became subject to tax at the rate of 20 per cent., the total income as declared remained unvaried. Section 144C as it stood at the relevant time would have empowered the Assessing Officer to pass a draft assessment order dated December 22, 2017 only if a variation in the income returned was suggested. There was no error in the finding of the Tribunal that the assessee was an eligible assessee under section 144C(15)(b)(ii) to claim benefit of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement and holding that the final assessment order was barred by limitation as there was no variation in the income of the assessee. (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16)

S. 144C: Reference to dispute resolution panel - Eligible assessee -Final assessment order as accompanied with demand and penalty notices-Order invalid. [S. 144C(8), 144C(15), 260A] 1662

The assessee's case was referred to the Transfer Pricing Officer (TPO) for the determination of the arm's-length price. The TPO passed an order, and accordingly, the assessee was classified as an 'eligible assessee' under Section 144C (15). However, when the Assessing Officer issued the assessment order, they also issued a notice of demand and penalty notices.
The court held that considering the draft assessment order was issued along with the notice of demand and penalty notice, it is, in fact, a final assessment order. Even upon reading the so-called draft assessment order, it was evident that the order was a final assessment, as the operative part of the order mentioned the demand and penalty notices. Given the requirement to issue a draft assessment order under Section 144C, and considering this order was a final assessment, the order is invalid. (AY 2015-16)

S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel – Assessment -Faceless assessment - Amendment with effect from 1-4-2020 - Not a substantive provision - Machinery provision which has been incorporated for the benefit of the assessees including eligible assessee-Assessment proceedings after 1-4-2020, amendment is applicable - Assessment is held to be valid. [S. 143(3), 144C(15)(b) (ii), Art. 226] 1663

Section 144C of the Income-tax Act, 1961 is not a substantive provision. It is a machinery provision which has been incorporated for the benefit of the assesses, including eligible assessees. A non-resident has been included in the definition of "eligible assessee" under section 144C(15)(b)(ii) with effect from April 1, 2020 and, therefore, assessment proceedings in respect of a non-resident undertaken after that date are to be governed under the provisions of section 144C. The Hon'ble High Court held that the assessment proceedings had been finalised under section 144C which is a machinery provision and in fact beneficial to the assessee. The final order of assessment had been passed strictly in accordance with the provisions of section 144C and the general provisions of section 153 or 153B would not be applicable. Further, the assessee had never raised objection in respect of the assessee not being covered within the provisions of section 144C before the assessing authority, which was evident from the assessment order itself. The order of assessment was valid. (AY. 2018-19)(SJ)

The Assessing Officer passed final assessment order under section 144C(3)(a). As a result, the Assessing Officer was not informed about the objections to proposed variance and the impugned assessment order was concluded. Allowing the petition, the Court held that since the objections were filed with DRP, the same would result in directions to the Assessing Officer, and the Assessing Officer must complete the assessment in light of the directions as envisaged under section 144C(13). Accordingly the assessment order is quashed and proceedings were to be restored to stage under section 144C(5) directing DRP to consider the assessee's objections as against proposed variance. [Art. 226]
On reference, the TPO passed an order in case of the assessee assessing its income at a higher side than that returned. On such basis, a draft order was issued and the assessee filed objections before the DRP. However, a final assessment order was passed recording that the assesseee had no objection to draft assessment order. On writ, the Court held that the assessee had filed objections in Form 35A before the DRP on 27-10-2023 and an e-mail dated 30-10-2023 was on record which showed that objections were filed before the DRP. A copy of said objections could not be placed before the Assessing Officer through e-filing facility because such a facility was not available and objections were also attached to e-mail. Whether the assessment order, having been passed by the Assessing Officer without knowledge of the objections filed before the Dispute Resolution Panel (DRP), has caused prejudice to the assessee by denying it the opportunity of having its objections duly considered. [S. 92CA(3), Art. 226] 1668
The TPO passed an order under section 92CA(3) proposing an adjustment to the reported international and domestic related parties transactions after working out arm's length price (ALP). The Dy. CIT passed the draft assessment order dated 3-12-2018 under section 143(3), read with section 92CA(3), read with section 144C(1). The assessee, by a letter dated 14-12-2018, informed Dy. CIT that the assessee was in the process of filing an objection before the Dispute Resolution Panel and requested not to pass an assessment order under section 143(3) till the disposal of the objections by the DRP. However on 24-12-2018 the Dy. CIT passed the final assessment order. Unaware of said order, the assessee filed its objections before the DRP. The DRP proceeded to issue directions dated 16-9-2019 based on which another assessment order came to be passed. On writ, the assessee contended that the directions dated 16-9-2019 passed by the DRP were in gross violation of the provisions of the Act inasmuch as the DRP can hear and pass directions only in pending assessment proceedings. The DRP could give directions only in pending assessment proceedings and once assessment order is passed, rightly or wrongly, the assessment proceedings come to an end and, therefore, the DRP would have no power to pass any directions contemplated under sub-section (5) of section 144C. While concluding, the authorities submitted that in view of what is stated in the affidavit in reply where authorities have admitted that the assessment order dated 24-12-2018 could not have been passed, the appeal pending before the Commissioner (Appeals) will naturally get allowed/the assessment order would get set aside. That would result in the revenue not being able to pass assessment order under section 143(3) or even under section 147. Notwithstanding this, the DRP has proceeded to issue the directions which it should not have done. In the circumstances, the directions issued by the DRP on 16-9-2019 and the consequent assessment order dated 31-10-2019 is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2015-16)

1671 S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel - Verification of objections-Verification can only by an assessee - Verification by Advocate or Authorised representative is not valid - Failure to give an opportunity to take remedial action - Matter remanded for filing a fresh objections. [S. 2(7), 2(31), 144C(1), 144C(2), 144C(5), Income-Tax (Dispute Resolution Panel) Rules, 2009, Rr. 2, 4(1), Form 35A]
Held that the form under the Rules prescribed verification which permitted only the assessee to sign form 35A. Rule 4(1) of the Rules provides that the objections may be filed in person or through an agent. Rule 4(1) does not deal with the verification of form 35A but merely with who shall file the form. There is a distinction between the person who files the form and the person who verifies it. The form is required to be verified by the assessee. In terms of Rule 2(vi) of the Rules, since the term 'assessee' is not defined therein, its meaning must be derived from Section 2(7) of the Act. Section 2(7) defines the term assessee to mean a person from whom any tax or any other sum of money is payable under the Act and to include certain specified categories of persons. Person, in turn, is defined in section 2(31) of the Act. Looking to the various categories of the definition of the term person, it emerged that the authorised representative is not entitled to sign and verify form 35A. A chartered accountant or an advocate cannot declare what is stated in form 35A to be true to the best of his information and belief as he cannot be privy to information about the truthfulness of facts stated in that form. The authority based on which the advocate verified form 35A is not produced. The assessee had failed to show that the advocate was in any way connected and authorised to verify the form. Thus, the advocate who signed the form was neither an assessee nor an agent. The verification of the form by the advocate being an authorised representative of the assessee is not proper. However failure to give an opportunity to take remedial action. Matter remanded for filing a fresh objections. (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16)

S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Arm's Length Price-Draft order-Order of Transfer Pricing Officer's order giving effect to directions of Dispute Resolution Panel direction is not rectified-Final assessment order is contrary to law-Order is set aside. [S. 92CA, 144C(13)] 1672

Held the final assessment order was passed by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer without considering the order giving effect passed by the Transfer Pricing Officer and the directions of the Dispute Resolution Panel as per section 144C(13). The Assessing Officer had also not taken any step to pass a rectification order. It is a clear violation of the law, which deserved to be acted upon. What was relevant was the final assessment order for all purposes, including the collection of tax. The assessment order is quashed. The Tribunal also held that when an authority acts contrary to law, the act of the authority is required to be quashed and set aside as invalid and bad in law and no action is required to establish the prejudice caused to the assessee. S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-International Transactions-Transfer Pricing-Limitation-Assessment not completed within 21 months from end of Assessment Year plus extension of 12 months for transfer pricing reference-Assessment is barred by limitation-Order is invalid-Draft Assessment order-Eligible assessee-Order is quashed. [S. 92CA, 114(15)(b)(ii), 153] 1674

Held that the date for passing of the Transfer Pricing Officer's order was on or before October 31, 2019, but because of completion of the assessment under section 153(1), 21 months from the end of the assessment year plus 12 months extension considering the reference for transfer pricing had to be made, making the final date December 31, 2019. Nevertheless, the final order passed on November 1, 2019, was not within 60 days prior to the time-limit for the assessment order. Thus, the final assessment order was clearly barred by limitation. Accordingly, the Transfer Pricing Officer's order was invalid. Hence, the entire transfer pricing adjustment proposed by the Transfer Pricing Officer became non est and liable to be quashed. In the instant case, there was no transfer pricing variation as a consequence of the order since the transfer pricing order was held to be time-barred, non est and void ab initio from the very date of its inception, that is, it entailed all the consequences of not having been passed at all. There remained no transfer pricing variation arising or remaining as a consequence thereof. As a result, the assessee could not be said to be an "eligible assessee" under section 144C(15)(b)(ii). Accordingly, once the assessee became an ineligible assessee, the very foundation for proceeding to pass the draft assessment order did not survive, that is, the draft assessment order became legally invalid, and all consequential proceedings failed. Hence, the whole addition made in the final assessment order got quashed being barred by limitation. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Non-Resident-Permanent Establishment-Matter remanded to DRP-DTAA-India-USA [S. 143(3), Art. 5(4)] 1679

Held, that the Dispute Resolution Panel had fallen in factual error in mentioning the plea of the assessee that the issue of dependent agent permanent establishment of the assessee in India had been considered by the Tribunal in the assessment years 2018-19 and 2019-20. With regard to the fixed place permanent establishment of the assessee the issue was settled in favour of the assessee. The Dispute Resolution Panel had erred in not dealing with the issue of the assessee-company having a dependent agent permanent establishment in India on the merits and erroneously directed the Assessing Officer to verify if the issue of dependent agent permanent establishment was decided in favour of the assessee by the Tribunal in the assessment years 2018-19 and 2019-20, which admittedly was not covered in the earlier years. The order of the Dispute Resolution Panel with regard to examination of the question of existence of dependent agent permanent establishment in the relevant assessment year and resultantly the final assessment order were to be set aside. Held that the Assessing Officer did not complete the assessment in conformity with the directions of Dispute Resolution Panel which did not contain any variations on account of addition of contributions to the provident fund and employees' State insurance, fees paid for increase of authorised capital and profits on sale of fixed assets. These three items were not part of the draft assessment order. Hence, in view of the provisions of section 144C(13), the Assessing Officer was not empowered to make any other addition which was not proposed in the draft assessment order and hence the order of the Assessing Officer was not sustainable. The Tribunal admitted additional ground on question of law. Allowing the appeal the Tribunal held that TPO had passed the order under section 92CA on the 60th day of the limitation period prescribed in sub-sections 153(1), 153(4) on November 1, 2019. Time limit for passing the order expired on October 31, 2019. The Assessee did not qualify as an eligible assessee under section 144C(15)(b)(i) of the Act. The Assessing Officer could not have assumed jurisdiction to invoke section. 144C for passing the draft assessment order. The time limit expired on December 31, 2019, even if the benefit of the extended period of 12 months was granted on account of making a valid reference under section 92CA. The final assessment order was passed on October 31, 2021 therefore the order is barred by limitation. The transfer pricing order of November 1, 2019 and the final assessment order of March 31, 2021, were to be quashed as being bad in law. (AY. 2016-17)

[S. 144B, 144C(13)] 1685

Assessing Officer passed a draft assessment order proposing transfer pricing adjustment towards alleged international transactions alleging excessive advertisement/marketing promotion (AMP) expenditure. DRP endorsed AMP spends to be bracketed in league of international transaction and issued certain directions to Assessing Officer. Order is passed on 30-6-2022. On appeal the Tribunal held that since FAO being designated as assessment unit (even if considered distinct from NFAC) was privy to DRP order in April 2022, limitation in extreme case scenario would run from April 2022 and will end on 31-5-2022 and, thus, assessment order having been passed on 30-6-2022, was c time barred and outside limitation period assigned under section 144C(13). The Assessing Officer passed an assessment order under section 144C(13) read with section 143(3) pursuant to the order passed by the DRP. The assessee challenged the validity of order passed by the DRP/Assessing Officer, without a valid DIN generated and quoted in the body of the order in view of Circular No. 19/2019 of CBDT dated 14-8-2019. Allowing the appeal the Court held that, as per section 144C(13), Assessing Officer had to pass final assessment order in conformity with directions issued by DRP and since DRP directions were held as invalid and deemed to have never been issued, being in violation of Circular No. 19/2019, assessment orders passed by Assessing Officer under section 144C(13) read with section 143(3) in pursuant to invalid, non-est DRP directions is bad in law, void ab-initio and accordingly quashed. Assessee had raised its objection before the DRP which had confirmed the action of TPO and challenged the assessment order dated 28.05.2021 before the High court on the ground that the assessment order was passed before the expiry of the time period granted for filing objection before DRP and High Court quashed the assessment order. Subsequently the DRP passed its direction dated 28-1-2022 but the final assessment order was passed by the Assessing Officer on 30-12-20022. On appeal the assessee challenged the final assessment order is barred by limitation. As per section 144C (13), the order ought to have been passed on or before 28-2-2022. i. e with in on month from the end of the month in which DRP's direction was received. Lubrizol Advanced Materials India Pvt. Ltd. v. Assessment Unit (2024) 204 ITD 130 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 144C : Reference to dispute resolution panel-Not an eligible assessee –Assessment-Limitation-Assessment order is bad in law-Additional ground is allowed. [S. 92CA(3A), 144C(15)(b), 153(4), 254(1)] 1693

In this case, the assessee was selected for scrutiny, and a reference was made to the TPO under Section 92CA(1). The TPO proposed a transfer pricing adjustment of ₹ 153.24 crores on 1.12.2019, which the AO adopted in the draft order dated 30.12.2019. The assessee filed objections before the DRP, and the final assessment was completed on 6.4.2021 under Sections 143(3) r. w. s. 143(3A) and (3B). The assessee challenged the assessment before the Tribunal, arguing that the TPO's order was time-barred since the deadline under Section 92CA(3) expired on 31.10.2019. As a result, the assessee did not qualify as an "eligible assessee" under Section 144C(15)(b), and reference to the DRP was invalid. Consequently, the AO lacked jurisdiction to issue the draft order under Section 144C(1), and the final order passed on 6.4.2021 was beyond the limitation period prescribed under Section 153, even after considering the extensions under Sections 153(4) and 92CD(5)(b). The final assessment was therefore held to be time-barred and void ab initio. (AY. 2015–16, 2016–17)

On reference the Court held that the assessee's books of account, trading account and the stock had been found to be within the satisfaction of the authorities and the Assessing Officer had accepted them. The wastage of 13. 04 per cent. shown by the assessee had been held to be higher than the wastage shown for the previous year, i. e., 8. 66 per cent. That the stock production and consumption records were maintained under the supervision of the Excise authorities and there was no objection raised with regard to the stock. The Assessing Officer had not objected to the total stock maintained and could not have proceeded on a presumption alleging higher wastage shown by the assessee. Addition affirmed by the Tribunal is deleted. As regards the addition of profit under section 41(2) on the sale of copper wire, the assessment order and the explanation given by the assessee showed that the assessee had explained each and every question of the Assessing Officer. The reasoning given by the Assessing Officer for such an addition was found to be contrary to the facts. The Tribunal had erred in assessing the additions made by the Assessing Officer. (AY. 1983-84)

1695 S. 145 : Method of accounting-Rejection of accounts-Rule of consistency-Offering income to tax in year in which services rendered-Tax rate same and no loss to revenue-Rejection of books of account is not justified. [S. 260A]
Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that from a reading of the order two findings of fact emerged. First, the money received by the assessee was offered to tax only when services were rendered. Second, this was an accounting practice followed consistently for several years. Lastly, since the tax rate remained the same, no loss was caused to the Revenue by the assessee offering the amount for the tax in the subsequent period. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. 1696 S. 145: Method of accounting-Survey-Excess-stock-Surrender-Reflected in sales and closing stock-Accounting treatment is held to be proper-Investment in excess stocks to be taxed as part of business income and not as income from other sources. Proper-Accrual-Notional interest-Lower interest charged from wife of one of partners-Commercial expediency-Notional addition is not justified-Partners were paid interest at 12 Per Cent. and balance in partners' account much more than amount advanced to wife of partner-Disallowance is to be restricted at 2 Per Cent. [S. 4, 5, 28(i), 69, 133A]
Held that on the question whether the excess stocks surrendered by the assessee during the survey should be taxed as a part of business income, the Tribunal held that there was no infirmity in the assessee's bringing such transaction in its books of account and the accounting treatment thereof so as to regularise its books of account, and that this provided a credible base for the Department to bring to tax subsequent profit or loss on sale of such stock of rice in future. On the question whether the excess stock surrendered should be taxed as a part of business income, the Tribunal held that the assessee dealt in sale of foodgrains, rice and oil seeds, and the excess stocks been found during the course of survey were stocks of rice, that therefore, the investment in procurement of such stocks of rice was clearly identifiable and related to the regular business stocks of the assessee. The Tribunal therefore, held that the investment in the excess stock had to be brought to tax under the head Business income and not under the head Income from other sources On the question of lower interest charged by the firm from the wife of one of the partners, the Tribunal held that once commercial expediency for giving the advance was established, no part of the interest expenditure could be disallowed, and that therefore, neither the addition of notional interest made by the Assessing Officer nor disallowance of interest by the Commissioner (Appeals) was justified. The Tribunal found that the partners were paid interest at 12 per cent., the balance in the partners account was much more than the amount advanced to R who was the wife of one of the partners and that therefore, even the disallowance made at 4 per cent. was not justified and it should be restricted at 2 per cent. only.

S. 145 : Method of accounting-Books of account not rejected-Income cannot estimated without rejecting the books of account. [S. 132, 144,145(3), 153A] 1697
Assessee is engaged in providing corporate gifting solutions to various companies. A search and seizure operation under section 132 was conducted upon AMQ group of companies including assessee. Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 153A to assessee. Assessing Officer made additions to income of assessee on account of estimation of unaccounted profit, disallowance of expenses and inflated purchases. CIT(A) partly allowed the disallowance. On appeal the Tribunal deleted the disallowance. On appeal the Tribunal held that since Assessing Officer made additions to income of assessee on estimate basis without rejecting books of account, said additions were to be deleted. S. 145 : Method of accounting-Books of account-Sale of rice outside books-No qualitative details-Addition on account of sale of rice is affirmed. [S. 260A] 1698
Dismissing the appeal the Court held that the quantity of different quality of rice produced from milling of paddy could not be ascertained since the assessee did not maintain a stock register quality-wise. No evidence had been produced by the assessee to substantiate its submissions. In the absence of qualitative details it would be difficult to examine the sales of the assessee. The higher quality of a rice could be shown as sold at a lower rate in the bills. There was flaw in the maintenance of the details. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2008-09)

1700 S: 145: Method of accounting-Project completion method-Advance from customers-Sale of 54 units-Neither sales were effected nor the possession of the flats were handed over to the purchasers during the relevant year-CIT(A) was not justified in sustaining the ad hoc addition of 10 per cent of the agreed value of the flats and also ad-hoc disallowance of common expenses. [S. 4, 37(1)]

Held the assessee who is following project completion method for recognizing the revenue, having merely entered into agreements to sell some flats in the relevant year, and received substantial amounts against the sale consideration and handed over the possession of the flats to the purchasers only in the subsequent year, it cannot be held that the sales were effected during the relevant year and, therefore, CIT(A) was not justified in sustaining the ad hoc addition of 10 per cent of the agreed value of the flats. The Tribunal also held that the CIT(A) was not justified in sustaining the ad-hoc disallowance made by the AO. (AY. 2018-19)

1701 S. 145 : Method of accounting-Rejection of books of account is justified-Bulk journal entries in the books of account-Provisions of S. 40(a)(ia),40A(3) cannot be applied-Companies engaged in the same line of business, have reported profitability in the range of 3 per cent to 9 per cent across these years-The profit of the assessee is to be estimated at 10 per cent of the contractual receipts. [S. 40(a)(ia), 40A(3), 153A]

Held that the assessee explained before the lower authorities that such journal entries are passed at the end of the year for the purpose of transferring the amounts incurred during the year, which may have been erroneously debited to wrong ledger accounts, to the correct/appropriate ledger account, which is relevant to the concerned expenditure or for the purpose of consolidating the entries under primary ledger accounts. This explanation was tenable inasmuch as these journal entries passed to simply transfer the amounts debited under a wrong ledger to the correct ledger, and thus cannot be construed to be booking of bogus expense. Accordingly, the disallowance of the bulk journal entries deleted. Companies engaged in the same line of business, have reported profitability in the range of 3 per cent to 9 per cent across these years-The profit of the assessee is to be estimated at 10 per cent of the contractual receipts. [S. 4, 5, 37(1)] 1706

Held that the assessee followed the cash method of accounting and only the fees which it received during the year were considered income whereas for the purpose of service tax and goods and services tax, the gross receipts/turnover was based on invoices issued and not on the basis of fees collected. Considering all these facts on record supported by documentary evidence, the reconciliation furnished by the assessee is justified. Accordingly, the difference between the gross receipts/turnover as per the Income-tax return and service tax added by the Assessing Officer is directed to be deleted. That the undisputed facts were that the assessee-firm made payment to retired partners in terms of its partnership deed on the basis that the partner would have rendered professional services during his tenure as a partner but could not enjoy the fruits thereof on account of work having remained incomplete and the concerned client could not be billed for the work already done. Considering the facts on record and the documentary evidence and the terms of the partnership deed, the addition made in this respect by the Assessing Officer was to be deleted. The alternate claim of the assessee under section 37(1) of the Act was rendered infructuous. (AY. 2018-19)

1707 S. 145 : Method of accounting-Change of method-Advance tax-Interest-Matter remanded. [S. 234A]

Held that the assessee had disclosed the change of method in revenue recognition during the year, the disclosure of the financial impact of such change of method had not been properly brought on record. This made the Assessing Officer to doubt the change of method adopted by the assessee in order to understate the income. The assessee had to disclose financial information for two years in its balance-sheet as on March 31, 2018 and as at March 31, 2017 with the corresponding impact of such change relating to computation of income declared in the earlier years, March 31, 2018 and March 31, 2017. The Assessing Officer was to verify the impact in the financial statements and verify the declared financial impact in both financial years as well as Income-tax computation. The profit declared by the assessee in the earlier years as per old method of accounting and because of change of method of accounting, there may be understatement or overstatement of declared profit. This under or overstatement of profit in the earlier years had to be acknowledged as an impact on such change of profit and ultimately the correct profit alone has to be charged to tax. The matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer to give proper opportunity of being heard to the assessee. That the levy of interest under section 234A was consequential in nature. If there was increase in the taxable income more than the income declared by the assessee, there would be impact of interest on such additional taxable income. Matter remanded to the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2018-19)

[S. 44AB, 145(3)]

Held, allowing the appeal, that the assessee had filed its stock book of polished diamonds date-wise and carat-wise and details of sales and purchases and the reconciliation with trading account and sample invoices for agency commission with the invoices in respect of import of the purchases. The audit report did not disclose any defect in the maintenance of books of account by the assessee. The gross profit could easily be ascertained on the basis of the documents filed by the assessee. This apart, the Assessing Officer had accepted a similar explanation of the assessee for the assessment year 2018-19 and the Department had been accepting the assessee's method of accounting in earlier years as well. The Assessing Officer had not brought on record any other comparable case. The assessee had maintained quantitative details of diamonds. The qualitative details of stock of diamonds piece-wise, colour-wise, data-wise and carat-wise were not required to be maintained under the Act and Rules. The Commissioner (Appeals) had failed to appreciate the facts in the light of the relevant law. Addition made by the Assessing Officer merely on the basis of estimation for want of details of assessee's diamond stock piece-wise, colour-wise, data-wise and carat-wise, and grade-wise is not legally tenable and the maintenance of the assessee's books of account was in accordance with the provision of the Act. S. 145 : Method of accounting-Whole sale food items-Estimation of net profit-Matter is remanded back to Assessing Officer to adjudicate afresh. 1710

Assessee is engaged in business of trading of food grains. Assessing Officer held that assessee had disclosed net profit at rate of 1. 94 per cent for year under consideration in comparison to preceding year at 11. 94 per cent. He computed average net profit percentage of three years which worked out to 9. 39 per cent and finally he computed business income at rate of 9. 39 per cent on turnover and assessed total income accordingly. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that in relevant year is engaged in business of wholesale food items and therefore profit margin based on turnover/volume would be lower and Assessing Officer compared same with net profit rate of earlier years, where assessee was engaged in retail trade and profit margin differed. Matter is remanded back to the file of the AO to adjudicate afresh. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 145 : Method of accounting-Books of account-Rejection of estimation of profits-Rejection of books of account is held to be not justified. [S. 44AB, 145(3)] 1711
Held, that the assessee-company had fully maintained its books of account with day-to-day quantitative details in respect of job work carried out. The books of account were audited under the Companies Act as well as under section 44AB of the Act. In the course of assessment proceedings, the assessee submitted various details including sales register, purchase register, month-wise summary of quantitative details of production in quantity as well as value, stock details of colour and chemicals duly disclosed in tax audit report and date-wise production register showing dyed pieces, dyed meters, dyed amount, dried pieces, dried meters and dried amount separately and complete books of account before the Assessing Officer. The auditors had not passed out any adverse remarks related to closing stock valuation of raw materials, colours and the Assessing Officer had not pointed out a single transaction of sale or purchase which was not accounted for or outside the books of account. Based on these facts, the books of account of the assessee should not be rejected and the turnover could not be enhanced on illogical basis by the Commissioner (Appeals). Addition is deleted. [S. 4]

The assessee is in the business of real estate. It followed the project completion method as the project is not completed the income was not shown in the return of income filed by the Assessee.. In the course of assessment proceedings the Assessing Officer noticed huge difference of sales as shown in the GST return and in the income tax return. The assessee has explained the difference due to project completion method followed by the assesee as well as the different concept of sale for the GST and income tax. The Assessing Officer not satisfied with the explanation made difference as per GST return and sales as per regular book as income of the assessee. On appeal the CIT(A) deleted the addition accepting the project completion method followed by the assessee. On appeal by the Revenue, it was contended that the assesee should have offered the income on percentage completion method. The Honourable Tribunal analysing the

S. 145 : Method of accounting-Percentage completion method –No defects in the books of account-No addition can be made on the basis of projected revenue during the proceedings under section 197. [S. 197] 1714

Assessee entered into a sub-contract agreement and filed return claiming contract loss. Assessing Officer observed that during proceedings under section 197 seeking lower deduction of tax at source certificate, assessee had projected revenue of entire project and amount stated to be received for relevant year was at huge variation from amount reflected in financial statements. He, thus, passed draft assessment order proposing adoption of estimated revenue and to disallow estimated loss. It was noted that assessee was following percentage completion of method (PCM) consistently to recognize revenue in books of account. Also deviation in estimation and actual revenue stood explained by fact that duration of project got extended to financial year 2020-21 which was much beyond agreed original contract period-Whether as per AS-7 any expected excess of total contract costs over total contract revenue for contract is recognized as an expense immediately irrespective of stage of completion of contract activity and following same assessee had recognised contract losses. Since in application made under section 197, assessee had merely projected contract revenue, these estimations could not be taken to be turnover of assessee disregarding actual revenue earned by assessee. Since no defect was pointed in books of account by Assessing Officer, additions were to be deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

[S. 2(47)(v), 45, 148, Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S. 53A, Art. 136]
The assessee's case was selected for scrutiny and it received notice under section 143(2). During relevant year, the assessee, along with other co-owners, entered into a Development Agreement with SA for developing land in Chikhloli, Ambernath. In the assessment proceedings under section 143(3), the assessee submitted a copy of the Development Agreement to the Assessing Officer. The Assessing Officer questioned whether the Development Agreement should be treated as the 'transfer of the land,' potentially resulting in capital gains. The assessee responded, explaining that the Development Agreement did not constitute a transfer of the land, citing relevant legal provisions. The Assessing Officer accepted this explanation, and the assessment order under section 143(3) was issued, without making any capital gains addition. However, other additions were made to the petitioner's total income. After four years, the assessee received a notice under section 148, indicating that the assessing authority believed the assessee's income for the assessment year 2013-14 had escaped assessment under section 147. The assessee also received a notice under section 142(1) and was provided with the recorded reasons for reopening the assessment. The assessee raised detailed objections in response to these notices, which came to be disposed of by order dated 14-2-2022. On writ petition, the assessee challenged this order and the notice issued under section 148. Allowing the petition the Court held that once a query is raised during the assessment proceedings and the assessee has replied to it, it follows that the query raised was the subject of consideration of the Assessing Officer while computing the assessment. It is not necessary that an assessment order should contain reference and/or discussion to disclose its satisfaction in respect of the query raised. This would also indicate that there was no failure to disclose any material fact. Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside. SLP of Revenue is dismissed by supreme Court. Assessee an individual derived income from different sources including share in partnership firm. Assessee along with five co-owners bought land into partnership firm. Return was selected for scrutiny and regular assessment was completed under section 143(3) of the Act. Thereafter assessment was sought to be reopened on ground that share of assessee did not match with transaction shown by assessee. Notice under section 142(1) had been issued and various details had been called for furnishing purchase/sale deed of property sold during relevant year. Assessment order passed under section 143(3) also stated that source of income of assessee was partnership share income and assessee had also shown income from short term capital gain. On writ High Court held that in absence of any other material, reasons for belief that income had escaped assessment for reopening of case under section 147 clearly indicated that this belief was based on no material and there was no valid ground existing for resorting to reopening of assessment by invoking proviso to section 147 and thus, notice proposing to reopen completed assessment was quashed and set aside. Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the High Court held that the fundamental principle of law was that the reason should disclose failure on the part of the assessee to truly and validly disclose material facts necessary for the assessment. From the reasons recorded for reopening the assessment under section 147 for the assessment year 2008-09, it was clear that the material already available in the books of account had been reappraised by the Assessing Officer and notice under section 148 had been issued. In the absence of any such allegations against the assessee the Tribunal was justified in reappreciating the fact to conclude that the reopening of the assessment was bad in law and in setting aside the assessment order under section 147 read with section 154 and section 143(3). SLP of Revenue is dismissed. (AY. 2008-09)

Assessing Officer reopened assessment in case of assessee beyond four years on the ground that the assessee's bank account was credited by by three transactions on various dates from account of Sarathak Enterprises and same amount was debited on same dates to account of Munjal B. Shah and he opined that said amount remained unexplained in hands of assessee. However, communication whereby reasons recorded were supplied, no satisfaction was recorded by Assessing Officer that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. From facts it was evident that amount was received by assessee as partners' capital and had a valid source. Assessee had utilised amount for repayment of loan obtained from Munjal B. Shah. s High Court held that question of escapement of income chargeable to tax did not arise and thus, Assessing Officer having misdirected himself in invoking powers to reopen assessment, reassessment proceeding initiated beyond four years was set aside. SLP of revenue is dismissed (AY. 2013-14)

Assessing Officer completed assessment under section 143(3) accepting declaration made by assessee. After expiry of four years, Assessing Officer sought to reopen assessment. Reason recorded for initiating reassessment proceedings was that companies giving unsecured loan lacked creditworthiness and, moreover, said amount was subsequently converted into share capital with premium. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that advances were squared up on same date and nothing remained outstanding at end of day, much less at end of financial year. Thus, there was no question of such amounts being unsecured loans of company which stood converted into share capital with premium. Moreover, Assessing Officer failed to bring any other evidence on record showing that provisions of section 68 applied to assessee's case. High Court quashed the reassessment notice and order disposing the objection. SLP of Revenue is dismissed due too low tax effect against impugned order was to be dismissed owing to low tax effect. Allowing the petition the court held that the notice for reopening the Assessing Officer did not mention what was the new tangible material to justify the reopening and what was the material fact which was not truly and fully disclosed. The entire reference in the reasons recorded was only to the material on record. In the absence of any new tangible material available with the Assessing Officer, and in view of the fact that there is a general presumption that an order of assessment under section 143(3) had been passed after proper application of mind and considering the fact that the Assessing Officer had sought clarification with regard to the details of sale of property and transfer of shares, details whereof were submitted during the course of the proceedings, the issue with regard to transactions with all parties had been gone into by the Assessing Officer. There was no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose any material facts and consequently the reopening was invalid in view of the proviso to section 147 of the Income-tax Act. Court also held that when a regular order of assessment is passed in terms of sub-section (3) of section 143 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, a presumption can be raised that such an order has been passed on application of mind. [S. 139(9)(f), 145(1), 147, 149(1)(b)(iii)]

Assessee-company is engaged in business of publishing newspapers, weeklies and other periodicals in several languages. It filed its return of income, however, did not file any balance sheet along with return of income on ground that books of account were seized by Income-tax Department in course of search and seizure operations and that those books of account were not yet returned. Assessing Officer initiated reassessment proceeding on basis that increase in capital during relevant year remained unexplained. He made additions to income of assessee in reassessment order. Tribunal quashed the reassessments. On appeal High Court reversed the order of the Tribunal. On appeal the Court held that since returns filed by assessee were accompanied by tentative profit and loss account and other details of income like cash flow statements, statements showing source and application of funds reflecting increase in capital and current accounts of partners of assessee which were duly enquired into by Assessing Officer and Assessing Officer had accepted returns submitted by assessee, it could not be said that assessee had not made full and true disclosure of all material facts necessary for its assessment. On appeal the Court held that Tribunal was justified in coming to conclusion that reassessments for assessment years under consideration were not justified and High Court had erred in reversing such findings of Tribunal. Court also held that if the Assessing Officer does not exercise discretion, return of income cannot be construed as a defective return. (AY. 1988-89 to 1993-94)

[S. 68, 143(1), 148, 260A, 292B, Art. 136] 1734

Assessment is reopened on the basis of information from the Investigation wing. Reasons placed on record by Assessing Officer referred to information received by Assessing Officer that assessee had raised a loan from K. J. S. Ahluwalia Group (KG Group) through Tanish Tradecom Pvt. Ltd and Puneet Oils and Chemicals Ltd (TTPL) and POCPL,) which were dubious entities. Court held that there was no reference to how Assessing Officer had, at that juncture, formed a view that they were dubious entities. Reasons did not advert to material that was available to Assessing Officer and which persuaded him to form a belief that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. Therefore, reasons recorded lacked necessary jurisdictional prerequisite of reason being recorded, before entering realm of reassessment proceedings. Tribunal rightly held that Assessing Officer had proceeded in a mechanical manner as he had based his decision to reopen his assessment on information received from investigation wing and there was absence of independent application of mind by Assessing Officer. Court also held that a mistake, which can be corrected under section 292B, should be such that if excised (removed) it does not change tenor and scope of documents/proceedings referred to therein i. e., return of income, assessment, notice, summons or other proceedings, taken, furnished or made or issued or taken or purported to have been furnished or made or issued or taken against assessee under provisions of Act. Order of Tribunal is affirmed of High Court on the ground that no substantial question of law. SLP of Revenue is dismissed as the delay of 213 days is not satisfactorily explained. (AY. 2010-11)

Revenue could not explain the delay satisfactorily. [S. 80IC, 148, 149, 151(1), Art. 136] 1735

Allowing the petition, the Court held that since the assessment was completed under Sections 143(2) and 143(3), the Assessing Officer could not claim that income had escaped assessment. The AO had already considered and accepted the assessee's claim for deduction, and thus reopening the case under Section 148 amounted to a mere change of opinion, which is impermissible. On limitation, the notice dated 1-1-2019 was within the six-year period prescribed under Section 149(1)(b) (as amended by the Finance Act, 2012), and the assessee's challenge on that ground was rejected. However, the AO had obtained sanction from the Additional Commissioner, who is not an authority authorised under Section 151(1) as it stood on 1-1-2019. Therefore, the notice under Section 148 was held invalid for lack of proper sanction. The Revenue's SLP was also dismissed due to an unexplained delay of 294 days. (AY 2014–15)

In a writ challenging the notice issued under Section 148 for AY 2015–16 and the order rejecting the assessee's objections, the High Court held the reassessment invalid. It found that Section 47(iv) did not apply to the redemption of preference shares, as such redemption results in extinguishment of rights, amounting to a transfer under capital gains provisions. The Court noted that no new tangible material had emerged after the original assessment under Section 143(3); the reopening was based solely on material already considered. Additionally, there were inconsistencies between the reasons provided to the assessee and the unsigned, undated reasons cited in the objection order. Since the assessee had claimed capital loss arising from the extinguishment of rights on redemption—not from a sale—the reassessment notice was issued without a proper understanding of facts. Accordingly, both the notice and the rejection of objections were quashed. The Revenue's SLP was dismissed. (AY 2015–16)

[S. 10(23C), 11(2), 11(3(d), 12AA, 148, Art. 136] 1738

The assessee, a charitable institute, received certain donations that were either placed in fixed deposits or bank accounts, accruing interest. The Assessing Officer contended that this income was not utilized for the purposes specified in the Act and that contributions made to CIMS Hospital were in contradiction with provisions, as CIMS Hospital was neither registered under Section 12AA nor covered under Section 10(23C). The High Court held that there was no material or evidence for the Assessing Officer to conclude that the assessee had violated Section 11(3)(d). Consequently, the issuance of notice under Section 148 was quashed and set aside. The Supreme Court, after reviewing the facts and circumstances, dismissed the Special Leave Petition (SLP). [S. 90(2), 133(6), 148, Art. 13(4) Art. 136] 1741

Allowing the writ petition against the reassessment notice, the Court held that the assessee had a valid tax residency certificate dated February 3, 2015 from the Inland

Revenue Authority of Singapore evidencing that it was a tax resident of Singapore and thereby was eligible to claim tax treaty benefits between India and Singapore. The tax residency certificate is statutorily the only evidence required to be eligible for the benefit under the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement and the respondent's attempt to question and go behind the tax residency certificate was wholly contrary to the Government of India's consistent policy and repeated assurances to foreign investors. In fact, the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore had granted the assessee the tax residency certificate after a detailed analysis of the documents, and the Indian Revenue authorities could not disregard it as that would be contrary to international law. Accordingly the tax residency certificate issued by the other tax jurisdiction was sufficient evidence to claim treaty eligibility, residence status, legal ownership and accordingly the capital gains earned by the assessee was not liable to tax in India. No income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment and the notice of reassessment was not valid. Notice issued in SLP filed by the Revenue. SLP is granted to the Revenue. (AY. 2016-17)

1743 S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-No failure to disclose material facts-Purchase of land-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside. [S. 69C, 147, 153A, Art. 226]

Assessee created special purpose vehicle (SPV) company namely, Allcargo Logistics Limited in joint venture with two companies which purchased a land for project of ship building yard undertaken by assessee. A search was conducted upon Allcargo

Logistics Limited group of companies which also included assessee being MD of a company. During search it was found that said SPV of assessee had issued cheques to various entry providers as capital expenditure for purchase of land but same was received in form of cash by assessee Assessee had engaged Vasudev Ramdas Thacker, a land broker for acquiring land and obtained bogus bills for generating cash by way of accommodation entries. Accordingly, assessment was completed under section 143(3) read with section 153A Thereafter, a reopening notice was issued upon assessee on ground that Allcargo Logistics Limited had issued cheques to Vasudev Ramdas Thacker and cash was received by assessee but assessee did not disclose said transaction. On writ the Court held that there was no any failure on part of assessee to disclose fully and truly material facts during regular assessment. Non furnishing of details of bank account maintained by a different legal entity, namely, Allcargo Logistics Limited that had been made basis for reopening of assessment by assessee could not be said failure on part of assessee to make full disclosure. There was no tangible material with Assessing Officer, which would form a basis for his 'reason to believe' that payments made to Vasudev Ramdas Thacker a resulted in generation of cash, which ultimately found its way to assessee. On facts reopening of notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2019-20)

S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years –Capital gains-Authority for Advance ruling-Ruling would apply and be binding only on applicant-Subsequent ruling on other assessee cannot be the basis for reopening of the assessment-DTAA-India-UAE [S. 9(1)(i), 148, 245R, 245S, Art. 4, 10, 11. 13(3)] 1744

Assessee is a resident of UAE, had invested in shares and debentures issued by Indian companies as well as units issued by mutual funds registered in India. She made an application to AAR seeking a ruling on taxability as well as rate at which tax was payable on income earned by him by way of dividends, interest and capital gains from sources in India. AAR came to conclusion that assessee was resident of UAE in terms of article 4 and was not liable to any tax in UAE and taxability of capital gains on transfer of movable assets in India would be governed by article 13(3) and, hence, same would not be taxable in India. The assessee filed her return claiming benefit of DTAA and assessment was completed accordingly The Assessing Officer issued notice u/s 148 on the ground that AAR in assessee's case had pronounced its ruling on basis of its earlier ruling in case of Mohsinally Alimohammed Rafik v. CIT (1995) 79 taxman 75 / 213 317 (AAR). Subsequently AAR in its subsequent ruling in case of Cyril Eugene Pereira v. CIT (1999) 105 Taxman 273/ 239 ITR 650(AAR) came to conclusion that benefit of DTAA would not be applicable as applicant was not chargeable to tax in UAE. On writ the Court held that as per section 245S a ruling would apply and be binding only on applicant and revenue in relation to transaction for which it is so sought, subsequent ruling could not as a matter of plain intendment and meaning of section 245S displace binding character of ruling rendered between applicant. The Assessing Officer had exceeded his jurisdiction in initiating reassessment notice is quashed. (AY. 1997-98 to 2000-01)

Allowing the petition the Court held that the notice of reassessment had been issued after four years. There was nothing in the notice of reassessment to spell out failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts. The assessee had disclosed all primary facts. It was clear from the notice that on account of an internal audit objection a remedial action of reopening the assessment by action under section 148 of the Act was taken. The notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

Moreover, a query was raised with regard to the sale of the shop and the details were called for and the queries were answered by the assessee. 1747 S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-No failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for the assessment-Reopening of the completed assessment on the basis of same set of facts and on mere change of opinion based on an internal audit of the Revenue's functioning held illegal and quashed-Sanction is given without application of mind-Reassessment is quashed. [S. 148, 151, Art. 226]

During the course of original assessment, the assessee's case entailed active examination and scrutinization lead to the addition of Rs. 10 Crores against the total income offered in the return of income. The AO during the course of original assessment proceedings verified and scrutinized the four aspects set out in the reasons recorded for reassessment. The four issues contained in the reasons for reassessment i. e. the claim of expenditure towards improvements to the leasehold properties, amortization of investments, claim of donation and interest expenses were dealt with by the AO in depth during the original assessment proceedings. However, the reopening initiated based on an internal audit of the Revenue's functioning which is a mere change of opinion. The Hon'ble Court observed that an essential ingredient of the first proviso to section 147(1) provides that no action for reassessment can be taken after the expiry of four years from the end of the relevant assessment year, unless, there is a failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for the assessment, it is a jurisdictional imperative, the Court further observed that the assessee had disclosed all the material facts fully and truly during the original assessment through the audited books of accounts and auditor's report, duly considered by the AO during the original assessment and thus, the jurisdiction to reopen the concluded assessment has been assumed on mere change of opinion, having the same set of facts and there is no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose truly and fully all the material facts necessary for the assessment. Court held that since the original assessment had been concluded pursuant to scrutiny proceedings and all the four aspects set out in the reasons for reassessment, fully disclosed by the assessee in the original assessment, the reopening of assessment is on mere change of opinion, on same set of facts, arbitrary and illegal and therefore, reassessment proceedings were liable to be quashed. S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Development agreement-Capital gain tax-Granted a licence to developer-Issue was consideration before the Assessing Officer-No failure to disclose material facts-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 2(47)(v), 45, 148, Transfer of Property Act, 1882, S. 53A, Art. 226] 1748

The assessee's case was selected for scrutiny and it received notice under section 143(2). During relevant year, the assessee, along with other co-owners, entered into a Development Agreement with SA for developing land in Chikhloli, Ambernath. In the assessment proceedings under section 143(3), the assessee submitted a copy of the Development Agreement to the Assessing Officer. The Assessing Officer questioned whether the Development Agreement should be treated as the 'transfer of the land,' potentially resulting in capital gains. The assessee responded, explaining that the Development Agreement did not constitute a transfer of the land, citing relevant legal provisions. The Assessing Officer accepted this explanation, and the assessment order under section 143(3) was issued, without making any capital gains addition. However, other additions were made to the petitioner's total income. After four years, the assessee received a notice under section 148, indicating that the assessing authority believed the assessee's income for the assessment year 2013-14 had escaped assessment under section 147. The assessee also received a notice under section 142(1) and was provided with the recorded reasons for reopening the assessment. The assessee raised detailed objections in response to these notices, which came to be disposed of by order dated 14-2-2022. On writ petition, the assessee challenged this order and the notice issued under section 148. Allowing the petition the Court held that once a query is raised during the assessment proceedings and the assessee has replied to it, it follows that the query raised was the subject of consideration of the Assessing Officer while computing the assessment. It is not necessary that an assessment order should contain reference and/or discussion to disclose its satisfaction in respect of the query raised. This would also indicate that there was no failure to disclose any material fact. Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2013-14)

Allowing the petition the Court held that since the grant of benefit of S. 11 was the subject-matter of appeal and has been held in favour of assessee, the matter cannot be reopened. As regards the issue of disallowance of depreciation claim, the apex Court in CIT v. Rajasthan & Gujarat Charitable Foundation (2018) 300 CTR 1 / 161 DTR 33 (SC) has held that a charitable trust is eligible for claiming depreciation. This was also a subject-matter of the appeal that was preferred by assessee against the assessment order. Reopening was not therefore sustainable. [S. 5A, 50C, 133A, 148, Art. 226]

The Court held that the assessee's husband, who passed away in 1986, could not be covered under Section 5A, which applies only to income division between living spouses governed by the Portuguese Civil Code, not to asset division. The Department was already aware that his rights were governed by the Portuguese Civil Code, and mere omission of this in the assessee's return did not justify taxing her for more than her rightful share. His share in the property had devolved equally to the children upon his death—an undisputed fact on record. The Department's claim that a copy of the sale deed was unavailable at the time of reopening was found to be legally untenable, as such deeds are automatically transmitted from the Sub-Registrar to the tax authorities. The sale deed was on record and should have been considered when rejecting the assessee's objections. The Department's reasoning—that Section 5A did not apply due to the husband's non-disclosure—was clearly incorrect. Therefore, the reassessment notice under Section 148 and the rejection of objections were quashed due to jurisdictional errors. (AY 2015–16)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that once a query is raised by the Assessing Officer during assessment proceedings and a reply is submitted by the assessee, it must be presumed that the issue was duly considered, even if not explicitly discussed in the final assessment order. It is not necessary for the order to record a detailed finding on every issue raised. The Court further observed that there was no "live link" between the material available with the Assessing Officer and the belief that income had escaped assessment, which is a mandatory requirement under Section 147 of the Income-tax Act. The recorded reasons merely made a vague and general reference to the assessee's alleged share transactions on the stock exchange, without furnishing any details, supporting evidence, or the source of such information. Although the issue was not discussed in the original assessment order for AY 2013–14, the fact that queries were raised and adequately addressed by the assessee showed that the matter was already under consideration during the original proceedings. Therefore, the reopening of the assessment was based purely on a change of opinion, which is not a valid ground for invoking reassessment. Additionally, the reasons recorded did not indicate any failure on the part of the assessee to fully and truly disclose all material facts. In the absence of these jurisdictional requirements, the reassessment proceedings and the notice issued under Section 148 after four years were held to be invalid and unsustainable. (AY 2013–14)

S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Neither reasons recorded nor order rejecting objections showing receipt chargeable to tax-Reassessment is held to be not valid-Capital gains-Transfer-Partner in firm-Bequeathed by father-Consent terms-Arbitration Award-Relinquishment of interest in partnership-Not transfer not liable to capital gains tax-Family arrangement-Not taxable-Onus on Department to establish certain receipt as income-Income from other sources-Firm continuing as going business with other partners-Receipts is not chargeable as income from other sources or as damages on dissolution of firm. [S. 2(24), 2(47), 45, 45(4), 56(2), 148] 1752

The assessee, holding a 25% share in a firm established by her late father, discovered in 2005 that she had been shown as retired from the firm following its reconstitution in 1997, without her knowledge. She initiated arbitration, and in 2009 was awarded ₹ 28 crores in full settlement of all claims, including those under her father's will. This amount was taxed in reassessment proceedings for AY 2010–11, which were upheld by appellate authorities. The High Court quashed the reassessment, holding that the reasons recorded failed to show how the ₹ 28 crore constituted taxable income. The Deputy Commissioner's claim that ₹ 7 crore was unrelated to the assessee's retirement was unsupported and contradicted the treatment of similar non-taxable receipts in AY 2008–09, amounting to an impermissible change of opinion. The Assessing Officer's reliance on missing documents like the arbitration award and will—absent from the original reasons—indicated a mere intent to investigate, not a belief based on new material. Under Section 147, reopening after four years requires fresh, tangible evidence of income escaping assessment, which was lacking. The ₹ 28 crore, received under a family arbitration award settling partnership and inheritance claims, was a capital receipt and not taxable unless it clearly falls within the scope of "income" under Section 2(24), which includes no concept of "special income." Although the consent terms and award did not explicitly state the assessee's retirement, the settlement—where she relinquished her rights in the firm—clearly reflected her exit from the partnership. The absence of a capital balance was irrelevant, given the firm's substantial assets and profitability. The Tribunal erred in holding the award unrelated to her retirement. Even if part of the amount related to inheritance, it is not taxable, as bequests are excluded under Section 56(2)(vii) and estate duty is not applicable. Likewise, if viewed as part of a family arrangement to resolve disputes, the receipt remains a non-taxable capital sum. Even if treated as damages, the ₹ 28 crore arose from partnership and inheritance disputes, making it a capital receipt. Section 45(4) was inapplicable since no capital assets were distributed, and any tax liability would rest with the firm, not the assessee. The Department failed to prove the amount was income under Section 2(24) or taxable under Section 56(1). Simply rejecting the assessee's explanation without establishing the nature of the receipt is inadequate. As the partnership continued after the father's death, with no dissolution, and the award stemmed from a family settlement and retirement, the amount remained a non-taxable capital receipt. This view is supported by rulings in *CIT v. D. P. Sandu Bros. Chembur (2005)142 Taxman 713/273 ITR 1 (SC), CIT v. Mohanbhai Pamabhai (1987) 165 ITR 166 (SC), Tribhuvandas G. Patel v. 1753 S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-No failure to disclose material facts-Notice based on report from Department of Revenue Intelligence-Shah Commission report-No independent application of mind By Assessing Officer-Based on subsequent decision of Supreme Court-Notice is not valid. [S. 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the Assessing Officer failed to establish a valid reason to believe that income had escaped assessment. Merely quoting excerpts from the Third Shah Commission Report and the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (Mumbai) without applying his independent mind or linking the material to the assessee's case amounted to a jurisdictional error. The notice under section 148 was issued on October 20, 2014, for AY 2008–09—beyond four years—triggering the requirement to show failure by the assessee to fully and truly disclose material facts. However, this condition was not met. The illegality of the mining leases beyond November 22, 2007, was only established by the Supreme Court in 2014; hence, neither the assessee nor the Department could have known of this at the time of filing returns for AYs 2008–09 and 2011–12. Thus, the reassessment was unjustified. (AY. 2008–09, 2011–12)

1754 S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-No failure to record reasons-Reasons offered at later stage cannot be considered-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that the jurisdictional parameters prescribed in the proviso to section 147 that the assessee failed to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment, were not fulfilled. There was no allegation in the notices or the reasons furnished that the assessee had failed to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for assessment for the assessment year 2015-16 or that there was suppression of income resulting in escapement from assessment. Such failure was a jurisdictional parameter which must have been fulfilled to sustain the notice issued for reassessment under section 148 after the expiry of four years from the end of the relevant assessment year. The justification belatedly offered in the order rejecting the assessee's objections could not be regarded as a valid defence of the notice under section 148. The notice and order rejecting the assessee's objections were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2015-16)

Pursuant to a scheme of amalgamation, Sterlite Energy Limited (SEL) stood amalgamated with assessee with effect from appointed date being 1-1-2011. Scheme and order approving amalgamation also provided for dissolution without winding up of SEL. Consequently, from 1-1-2011, SEL ceased to exist. Assessee during course of assessment proceedings for assessment year 2011-12, brought to notice of Assessing Officer scheme of amalgamation and arrangement. Further, fact that amalgamation had taken place was known to department because same was referred to in assessment order for assessment year 2013-14. Allowing the petition the Court held that reopening notices issued under section 148 and reassessment orders passed under section 144 read with section 147 in name of non-existing entity, i.e., SEL, would not be sustainable and same were to be quashed and set aside. Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 on the ground that there was no disclosure of long-term capital gains (LTCG) on sale of shares and that assessee would have paid brokerage/commission, therefore, income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment within meaning of section 147. On writ the Court held that the assessee had declared LTCG on shares of SAL and cash income in declaration under Income Declaration Scheme, 2016 and a certificate under section 183 of the Finance Act, 2016 was also issued to assessee. It was also found that assessee had disclosed LTCG on sale of shares, purchase of equity shares of SAL, sale of those shares and gain in computation of income filed by assessee. In response to notice issued under section 142(1), assessee gave entire details relating to transactions in shares of SAL and even in assessment order, long-term capital loss, short-term capital loss, etc. were discussed. It was also recorded in assessment order that capital gain was nil. Court held that reopening was merely on basis of change of opinion of Assessing Officer and this change of opinion did not constitute justification and/or reason to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment accordingly the notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. Reassessment notice was issued on basis of information that assessee had made cash deposits of 3. 74 crores in its bank account which had escaped assessment. Assessee pointed out that there was duplicity as there was only one bank account where only Rs. 1. 87 crores had been deposited in cash which represented cash sales and had been offered to tax. Bank also issued a certificate that deposit was made of Rs. 1. 87 crores. Assessing Officer instead of dealing with this duplicity had simply stated that those details would be considered during reassessment proceedings and he had also not dealt with assessee's assertion in objections that those amounts deposited in cash had been offered to tax. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that there could be no reason for Assessing Officer to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. Assessee filed its return of income and assessment was completed accordingly. Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice after expiry of period of four years from relevant assessment year on ground that assessee had imported certain raw materials being off patents APIs from its AE by paying prices far exceeding ALP and, therefore, income had escaped assessment. AO had relied upon third party prices to hold that assessee made excess payment. On writ the Court held that there was nothing to indicate that assessee was aware of prices at which third party companies had imported said raw material. Further, transfer pricing study as submitted by assessee was accepted by TPO and based on said order, Assessing Officer had completed assessment and, thus, there was nothing to indicate that there was any failure on part of assessee to truly and fully disclose any material facts. Assessee-company was engaged in business of port facility In previous assessment years, assessee received compensation in respect of damages to wharf and same was partly shown in capital account and balance in revenue account. In relevant assessment year, assessee claimed its entire income as deduction under section 80-IA. During scrutiny, Assessing Officer asked for information related to income qualifying for deduction and after considering relevant information disclosed by assessee allowed claim. Subsequently, a reopening notice was issued by Assessing Officer on ground that assessee had credited its profit and loss account with respect to compensation received for loss of profit and damages to wharf. On writ the Court held that the financial statements mentioned amount received as compensation towards damages to wharf the reasons to believe escapement of income revealed that reopening of assessment was based on examination of financial statements furnished by assessee. Since Assessing Officer had all primary facts to make necessary inquiry and had relied on financial statements and other documents furnished by assessee itself for reason to believe that income had escaped assessment, reopening was on basis of change of opinion hence reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. 1763 S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-No failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside [S. 10AA, 148, Form No 56F, Art. 226] AO issued notice under section 148 so as to reopen assessment after expiry of four years from the end of the relevant assessment year for the reason that perusal of the case records revealed that the assessee had claimed deduction under section 10AA in respect of its SEZ unit operating from Airoli and submitted Form No. 56F, without the signature, seal, membership number of the Chartered Accountant. Thus, said form could not be treated as valid. Thus, assessee was not eligible to claim deduction under section 10AA since its unit was formed by splitting up of or reconstruction of its business, which was already in existence. Assessee challenged the notice taking plea of proviso to section 147. The notice conveying 'reasons to believe' for reopening itself cited profit and loss statement and notes to the financial statements in relation to SEZ point which was already before AO during the original assessment proceedings. The notice also recorded that assessee had furnished Form No. 56F, copy of return of income along with the computation of income in which deduction under section 10AA was claimed. The facts that assessee was conducting its operations from STP unit and SEZ unit was also evident in the Notes to Accounts forming part of the financial statements furnished by assessee during assessment proceedings. There was thus, no failure on part of assessee to make a full and true disclosure during original assessment proceedings and, therefore, reopening beyond four years was hit by proviso to section 147 and, therefore, reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is set aside. AO issued a notice under section 148 so as to reopen the assessment after expiry of four years from the end of relevant assessment year so as to disallow exemption claimed by assessee under sections 54 and 54F. Assessee challenged the notice by way of writ petition taking plea of proviso to section 147. Assessee, during original assessment proceedings, had furnished substantive information and answered specific queries raised by AO who had clearly applied his mind while computing capital gains and exemption under sections 54 and 54F after forming a view. Hence, it was held that this was a clear case of change of opinion which was impermissible in law and thus there was no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for the assessment. Therefore, a reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is set aside. (AY. 2015-16)

Allowing the petition the court held that there was no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose truly and fully all the material facts in the scrutiny assessment under section 143(3). The assessee had explained the transactions done through the note submitted along with the profit and loss account and other supporting documents. There was no live link or nexus with the orders passed by the Securities and Exchange Board of India as alleged by the Department which had failed to aver the particulars of the information available that had led to the belief that income had escaped assessment under section 147. There was no new tangible material available on record. Therefore, the notice issued under section 148 and the order rejecting the assessee's objections were quashed and set aside. Raymond Woollen Mills Ltd v. ITO (1999) 236 ITR 34 (SC), considered. S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Change of opinion-Amalgamation-Set-Off of loss and unabsorbed depreciation in amalgamation-Audit objection not accepted-Notice and order rejecting objections is set aside. [72A(4), 143(3), 148, Art. 226] 1766

Allowing the petition the Court held that the same Assessing Officer had not accepted the audit objections in the original assessment under section 143(3). Therefore, it was clear that the Assessing Officer had issued the notice under section 148 on the ground of direction issued by the audit party and not on his personal satisfaction which was not permissible under law. The very same Assessing Officer had submitted a proforma report on the draft audit proposed to be included in the audit report by the Comptroller and Auditor General to the Principal Commissioner during the original assessment when he was of the opinion that the claim of the assessee had claimed correctly and that the set-off of business loss and unabsorbed depreciation pertaining to the amalgamating company was correctly allowed as per the provisions of section 72A(4) and not as per the provisions of section 72A(1) as mentioned in the audit observation sheet. In less than 45 days, the very same Assessing Officer had relied on the same audit objection, stating that he had reasons to believe that the assessee's income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment under section 147 on that account. The assessee had given the full particulars and the stand taken by the assessee was also accepted by the Department on the merits. The Assessing Officer who had disagreed with the audit objections in the original assessment on second thoughts had accepted the audit objections and had sought to reopen the assessment without any basis but merely on a change of opinion which was not permissible while exercising the powers under section 147 read with section 148. Accordingly, the notice issued under section 148 and the order rejecting the objections of the assessee were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2015-16)

Held that there was no hint in the reasons to reopen that there had been a failure by the assessee to truly and fully disclose material facts. The reason itself indicated that everything had been disclosed because it stated that on perusal of the records that the assessee was allowed the deduction under section 32AC of the Act. Moreover, during the course of assessment proceedings, the assessee was told to provide a detailed break-up of various plants and machinery installed and commissioned pursuant to section 32AC of the Act. The assessee provided the details and also forwarded the details which were called for during the hearing held on September 22, 2016, of installation date item-wise in respect of the plant. In the order disposing of the objections, there was no denial of the fact that these materials were made available or these details were called for during the assessment proceedings. The only explanation was that these had not been discussed in the assessment order. The Assessing Officer himself had replied to the audit objection raised denying that there was any escapement of income. In the letter dated March 4, 2021, it was stated audit objection/observation was not acceptable to the Department. When the primary facts necessary for the assessment were fully and truly disclosed, the Assessing Officer was not entitled on change of opinion to commence proceedings for reassessment. Allowing the petition the Court held that when the assessee had made full and true disclosures of all the details as required by the AO during the original assessment proceedings, such as details of loans taken and shareholding by the assessee in the companies from which the loan was taken–It was the duty of the AO to draw the relevant inferences based on the disclosures–the assessment could not be reopened beyond the period of four years because AO had the reasons to believe that undisclosed income under S 2(22)(e) has escaped assessment because the assessee had not disclosed the percentage of shareholding–Held, once all the primary facts are before the assessing

Allowing the petition the Court held that the market value determined by the collector for the payment of stamp duty was more than the sale consideration. The Assessee challenged the market value determined. The Government of Andhra Pradesh, by notification, reduced the valuation. AO finalised the Order based on the value as per the said notification. Since AO had all the information required to finalise the order. The Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 of the Act. On writ the Court held that there was never a failure from assessee to truly and fully disclose material facts. Hence, assessment could not be reopened under S. 147. to account of Munjal B. Shah and he opined that said amount remained unexplained in hands of assessee. However, communication whereby reasons recorded were supplied, no satisfaction was recorded by Assessing Officer that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. From facts it was evident that amount was received by assessee as partners' capital and had a valid source. Assessee had utilised amount for repayment of loan obtained from Munjal B. Shah. High Court held that question of escapement of income chargeable to tax did not arise and thus, Assessing Officer having misdirected himself in invoking powers to reopen assessment, reassessment proceeding initiated beyond four years was set aside. Allowing the petition the Court held that the law postulates a duty on every assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts for its assessment. The disclosure must be full and true. Material facts for initiating action under S. 147 would essentially mean those facts, if taken into account, would have an adverse effect on the assessee by the higher assessment of income than the one actually made. They ought to be proximate and not have any remote bearing on the assessment. Omission to disclose could be deliberate or even inadvertent. However, this is not at all relevant provided there is omission or failure on the part of the assessee. The latter confers jurisdiction to reopen the assessment. (AY. 2013-14)

Over six years later, the AO issued a notice under Section 148, alleging violation of Section 11(3A) for diverting funds from the declared purpose. The High Court, in a writ petition, held that the assessee had fully and truly disclosed all material facts and the reassessment was merely based on a change of opinion, which is not permissible. The Petitioner had challenged a notice under section 148 of the Act and the consequential assessment order by way of a Writ Petition. The Hon'ble Delhi High Court on basis of the records observed that, there was no allegation or any material to indicate or even remotely suggest that assessee had earned income chargeable to tax which was camouflaged as an unsecured loan and reflected in the books of accounts. The Hon'ble Court further noted that there is no reason to even suspect that the balance sheet of the assessee did not correctly reflect its state of affairs. In such circumstances, there was a failure to meet the necessary conditions for initiating re-assessment under section 147 of the Act. Therefore, the impugned notice as well as the consequential assessment order were set aside. (AY. 2012-13)

The assessee had sold the agriculture land during the relevant year and claimed the deduction u/s 54B and 54F against the capital gain earned on transfer of such agriculture land. The case of the assessee was selected for scrutiny, the assessee submitted the series of evidences in support of the deductions claimed under both the sections and considering the submissions/explanations from the assessee in response to the specific SCN issued on the very issue of the deductions claimed as well the material available on records, the AO passed the order u/s 143(3) fully allowing the deductions claimed u/s 54B and 54F, without disturbing the original return of income filed. Then after, the AO assumed the jurisdiction u/s 148 on the ground that the assessee has not fulfilled the conditions prescribed for claiming deduction u/s 54B and 54F of the Act. In appreciation of the materials available on the records, the Hon'ble Court held that this is not the case that the assessee failed to disclose fully and truly all the material facts necessary for the assessment, that the reopening based on the material already on records, it is nothing but a mere change of opinion and not permissible in the eyes of law. The Hon'ble Court further observed that issuance of notice u/s 148 should be based on the reasons to believe which should have direct nexus with any new information and/or tangible material which has come to the knowledge of the Revenue authorities based on assessment proceedings. Assessee had purchased agricultural land from three brothers and later on sold same to company DSS Mega City Projects. As land being agricultural land and not a capital asset, it was not eligible to tax and no income was taxable which was verified by ITO Intelligence in its verification report. Assessing Officer had passed an assessment order under section 143(3) without making any additions. for undisclosed. Later on reassessment notice was issued upon assessee on ground that source and genuineness of investment made as well as short term capital gain (STCG) received by assessee remained unexplained and, therefore, income to extent of Rs. 19. 34 crores had escaped assessment. Accordingly, he had passed an order under section 144 read with section 147 making addition of Rs. 19. 34 crores. On writ the Court held that since no document was produced by respondents to show that they had any new information or documentary evidence for reopening of case, ITO could not be allowed to merely reopen assessments already finalized based on his opinion that earlier assessment was wrongful or that he had a reason to suspect that assessment was done wrongfully. Even otherwise, since land was agricultural and situated beyond municipal limits, same did not come within ambit of section 2(14)(iii)(a), no capital gain was liable to be taxed. (AY. 2013-14)

[S. 10(23C)(iv), 11, 12, 12A, 12AA, 132, 148, 245D(6), 260A]
The Court, while allowing the Revenue's appeal, held that the Assessing Officer had valid and cogent reasons to initiate reassessment proceedings under Section 147 of the Income-tax Act. It found that the Tribunal erred in deeming the reassessment proceedings invalid. The assessee did not dispute charging capitation fees, as evidenced by seized documents. The Tribunal's decision to invalidate the reassessment based on discrepancies in the quantum of capitation fees was incorrect, as such differences do not justify setting aside proceedings at the notice stage under Section 148. The Court noted that the material seized during the search under Section 132, along with admissions by the assessee's managing trustee, provided sufficient fresh evidence to warrant reassessment for the AY 2007-08, and the Tribunal should not have interfered with the reopening of the assessment. S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Depreciation –Foreign exchange fluctuations on imported machinery- Project development- Change of opinion-Reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection is quashed. [S. 32, 115JB, 148, Art. 226] 1785

The assessee is engaged in developing, operating, and maintaining power projects, which had filed its income tax return for the assessment year 2014-2015, declaring significant losses under both normal provisions and under section 115JB. The case was selected for scrutiny, and during the assessment, the Assessing Officer disallowed an excess depreciation claim.

On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) partly allowed the appeal.

Later, the AO issued a notice under section 148 to reopen the assessment for the same assessment year, citing reasons related to the depreciation claim, particularly concerning the foreign exchange fluctuation on imported machinery. On writ, the Court held that there is no failure on part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts relevant for assessment in absence of any allegation or even remote reference to that effect made in the reasons recorded. On perusal of the assessment order under section 143(3), the Assessing Officer in the regular course of assessment has considered the issue of depreciation and has chosen to make addition only on the point of depreciation claimed on depreciation on the project development phase which clearly shows that the Assessing Officer after considering the claim of entire depreciation has made addition only on excess depreciation claimed by the assessee on the above issue. Accordingly, the reassessment notice and order disposing of the objection is quashed. (AY. 2014-15)

Assessing Officer issued reassessment notice on ground that assessee did not claim TDS credit corresponding to interest income and, hence, assessee had not offered income corresponding to unclaimed TDS and assessee's income for the year under consideration had escaped assessment. On writ, the Court held that during original assessment, Assessing Officer raised a query calling upon assessee to explain as to why TDS credit corresponding to interest income was not claimed by assessee. Assessee explained that TDS was deducted on interest given on electricity security deposit in respect of a unit of assessee which was sold by assessee to one SAPL and had also transferred electricity connection, however, due to procedural time consumed in transferring name of electricity connection in name of said company, bills of electricity charges were issued in name of assessee and even interest advice was also issued in name of assessee after deducting TDS. There was no failure on part of assessee to fully and truly disclose all material facts during assessment for year under consideration. Since the Assessing Officer on same material arrived at a reason to believe that income had escaped assessment impugned reopening notice was a mere change of opinion on part of the Assessing Officer. Accordingly, the notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

1787 S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Capital gains-No failure to disclose material facts-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 48, 148, Art. 226]

Assessee along with five co-owners bought land into partnership firm. Return was selected for scrutiny and regular assessment was completed under section 143(3) of the Act. Thereafter assessment was sought to be reopened on ground that share of assessee did not match with the transaction shown by assessee. Notice under section 142(1) had been issued and various details had been called for furnishing purchase/sale deed of property sold during relevant year. Assessment order passed under section 143(3) also stated that source of income of assessee was partnership share income and assessee had also shown income from short term capital gain. The objections filed by assessee against the reopening of assessment were rejected. Assessee challenged the reopening notice before the High Court and contended that there was a full and true disclosure of all materials before the Assessing Officer, and hence, the action of reopening would stand barred. The court held that although for the name sake, it has been mentioned that there is failure on the part of the petitioner to disclose truly and fully all material facts. It is quite apparent from the record that not only in response to the notice issued under section 142(1), but all particulars have been furnished by the petitioner at the time of finalizing the assessment. Resultantly, this petition warrants interference at the end of the Court. This petition is allowed, reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2012-13)

[S. 80IA(4)(iv) 143(3), 148, Form No. 10CCB, Art. 226]

Assessee-company is engaged in the business of manufacturing and cutting of polished diamond on job work basis and trading of diamonds and power generation through windmill. The Assessee claimed deduction under section 80IA. Return was processed and assessment was completed under section 143(3). Re assessment notice was issued on ground that during assessment year 2017-18, one windmill, i. e., power generating unit of assessee which was claimed as eligible unit for deduction under section 80IA(4)(iv) was not originally owned by assessee-company but same was an undertaking of amalgamating company which was transferred under scheme of amalgamation with assessee. On writ the Court held that since the assessee had duly disclosed all material facts during original assessment proceedings and Assessing Officer had examined claim under section 80IA(4)(iv) in detail by raising various queries which were duly answered by assessee and observation of Assessing Officer was based on assessment records, reopening notice issued beyond a period of four years is unjustified and the reassessment order was set aside. (AY. 2014-15)

Assessing Officer passed reassessment order on account of prior period items, receivables and advertisement expenses. On appeal, Commissioner(Appeals) upheld reopening of assessment on ground that factum of giving away 75 vehicles to its dealers as commission for achieving sales targets and incentives was not disclosed by assessee and same impedes the requirement of true and full disclosure at time of original assessment. On appeal the Tribunal quashed the Reassessment proceedings. On appeal the High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal on the ground that there is no failure to disclose material facts. The order of Tribunal is affirmed. No substantial question of law. (AY. 2002-03)

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the fundamental principle of law was that the reason should disclose failure on the part of the assessee to truly and validly disclose material facts necessary for the assessment. From the reasons recorded for reopening the assessment under section 147 for the assessment year 2008-09, it was clear that the material already available in the books of account had been reappraised by the Assessing Officer and notice under section 148 had been issued. In the absence of any such allegations against the assessee the Tribunal was justified in reappreciating the fact to conclude that the reopening of the assessment was bad in law and in setting aside the assessment order under section 147 read with section 154 and section 143(3). Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the Assessing Officer had proceeded solely on the basis of what had come to be recorded in the course of the sales tax survey. The Assessing Officer had not only failed to independently examine those allegations, but had abjectly failed to enquire and ascertain the status of the proceedings under the sales tax statute. If that had been done, he would have found that there existed no outstanding demands or orders of assessment against the assessee on the basis of the survey which had been originally conducted on the date when the notice under section 148 was issued. The Tribunal had recorded that on December 30, 2010 the original order of assessment itself had been set aside by the appellate authority and the matter was remitted to the Assessing Officer under the sales tax enactment for making a fresh assessment and that till date no fresh assessment under the Sales-tax Act had been made. The Commissioner of Income-tax (Appeals) had taken a view on a "prima facie" formation of opinion to uphold the reassessment proceedings under section 147. On the facts, the Tribunal was justified in holding that the reopening of the assessment under section 147 by the Assessing Officer was without application of mind and hence invalid. (AY. 2005-06)

Allowing the petition the Court held that it is well-settled position of law that reason to belief that the income has escaped assessment has to be on the sole reasonable belief of the AO himself and cannot be an opinion and/or belief of some other authority. It is expected of the AO that though the information/material is received from other sources, the AO is required to consider the material on record in case of assessee by applying his independent mind and upon appreciation of such information/material on record, the AO is further expected to form his independent opinion to arrive at satisfaction which constitutes "reason to believe" that income of the assessee, which otherwise was chargeable to tax has escaped the assessment for any assessment year. Entire base for reopening assessment is on the premise that there was 'Information' supplied by the Investigation Wing and the AO has made cursorily reference to high value transaction of Rs. 26,42,027 as well as also referred to accommodation entry entered upon by the assessee-company by way of bogus sales/purchases/fictitious loans etc. Thus, the reason for reopening of the assessment in the case of assessee-company by the AO is based on the borrowed satisfaction and the AO has not applied his independent mind to arrive at the conclusion that there was a failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts. Reopening was not therefore sustainable. Accordingly, the notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16)

Allowing the petition the Court held that on the basis of very same material which was made available during the course of the assessment proceeding, the authority has come out with a case that this figure of Rs. 24.63 crores deserves to be added and for that purpose reopening tried to be justified. So essentially there is no tangible material or fresh material on the basis of which an attempt is made to reopen the assessment and undisputedly this figure of controversy was very much placed by the assessee before AO and while passing assessment order, the AO has not made any addition and as such on the basis of very same material, now a view is taken by an authority that this figure deserves to be added and as such this amounts to a change of opinion which is not permissible. [S. 132(4), 144, 144B, 147, 148, Art. 226] 1794

The Assessing Officer reopened the assessment based solely on the statement of a third party, who claimed to provide accommodation entries, alleging the assessee as a beneficiary. Additions were made to the assessee's income and penalty was levied under Section 271(1)(c) of the Income-tax Act, relying on this statement. Upon writ, the Court held that there was no tangible material or live nexus between the information relied upon and the belief formed for reopening the assessment. The statement did not mention the assessee by name, nor was there any evidence that the assessee paid cash to obtain accommodation entries. The use of terms such as "accommodation entry" and "bogus financial transactions" in the recorded reasons were deemed conclusions rather than substantive reasons. The Court further observed that the assessment order did not specify the provision under which the additions were made, and the reasons recorded were inappropriately supplemented by the assessment order. There was no clarity regarding the relevant assessment year or the section under which the statement was recorded. The Court reiterated that reasons for reopening cannot be supplemented by subsequent orders or affidavits. Therefore, the Court observed that the assessment order was based on conjecture and lacked relevant material, rendering it contrary to the requirements of Section 144 governing Best Judgment Assessment. S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Reason recorded cryptic and vague-Notice and order disposing the objection is set aside. [S. 148, Art. 226] 1795

Allowing the petition the Court held that the reasons for reopening the assessment under section 147 were cryptic and that they did not furnish details, on the basis of which the assessee could defend his case. The statement of the Assessing Officer that from the data made available, it was seen that the assessee had created a profit/ loss of Rs. 74,62,860 and that both buying and selling of trades had been executed at the Bombay Stock Exchange did not give any fact regarding the transactions or other attendant facts except saying that the assessee had engaged in the trading at the stock exchange to create profit or loss. The ground for reopening was unreasoned. Therefore, the notice issued under section 148 for the assessment year 2015-16 is set aside. The Assessing Officer is not precluded from proceeding again against the assessee by issuing a fresh reasoned notice under section 148 if the limitation period permitted. (AY. 2015-16)

Allowing the petition the Court held that appeals were pending from the assessment orders for the assessment years 2005-06, 2006-07 and 2007-08. Hence, under the third proviso to section 147 the reassessment proceedings were not valid. The court also held that the reasons for reopening rested on the satisfaction of the Assessing Officer who had passed an assessment order for the assessment year 2008-09 which would amount to substitution of the assessment orders by borrowed satisfaction of the Assessing Officer who had passed an order for the year 2008-09 which was impermissible in law. Held that the Assessing Officer, in the original assessment, after considering the reply and relevant details provided by the assessee, had accepted the claim of depreciation by the assessee. For temporary structures, the prescribed rate of depreciation was hundred per cent. Once a structure was categorised as temporary, the depreciation rate provided under Appendix I appended to the Income-tax Rules, 1962, is one hundred per cent. Once it was accepted that the structures were temporary, no case could be made out that the depreciation allowance claimed was excessive. Explanation 1 and Explanation 2(c)(iv) appended to section 147 of the Act would not be applicable. The Assessing Officer had not stated in the reasons to believe that the assessee had failed to disclose truly and fully all material facts. It was a clear case of change of opinion. Thus, the notice and the order disposing of the objections of the assessee were quashed. (AY. 2012-13)

The Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 to the assessee, seeking to reopen the assessment on the grounds of an alleged bogus financial transaction with an accommodation entry provider, and subsequently made additions to the assessee's income, by issuing a demand notice u/s 147 read with 144 and 144B and penalty notice u/s 271 read with section 271(1)(c). The assessee challenged these actions through a writ petition.

Allowing the petition, the Court noted that in a similar matter involving the assessee for a subsequent assessment year, it had already set aside a notice issued under section 148. The Court observed that the reopening of assessment was based solely on the statement of an accommodation entry provider, and found that the Assessing Officer's belief lacked bona fides, was vague, speculative, arbitrary, and irrational. Thus, the Court set aside the notice under section 148, the assessment order, the demand notice, and the penalty notice in the present case as well. (AY. 2014-15)

The Assessing Officer issued on the assessee a notice under section 148 seeking to reopen his assessment. The Assessing Officer thereafter passed assessment order without disposing of the objections given by the assessee for initiation of reassessment and made addition in his income.

The Tribunal quashed the reopening of the assessment and deleted the addition made by the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Court held that on considering the factual position rightly noted that the objections given by the assessee for initiation of reassessment were not disposed of by the Assessing Officer. The law on the subject has been rightly taken note by the Tribunal. The matter being entirely factual, no question of law much less substantial question of law arises for consideration. Allowing the petition the Court held that once the property in question had been purchased by making full and final payment and it was shown in the balance sheet in the assessment year 2015-16 no case was made out to reopen the assessment for the assessment year 2014-15. The assessment proceedings for the year 2015-16 had been completed and no adverse order with respect to the investment in question made by the assessee according to the sale deed had been passed. Since the assessment order for the assessment year 2015-16 had also undergone the process of revision and the claim of the assessee with respect to the investment made on the cost of investment in the property

During pendency of appeal, the Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 for reopening the assessment in the cases of the assessee, CEPL and NH who was holding 45 per cent share in CEPL and 70 per cent share in the petitioner company for the assessment year 2013-14 on ground that the accumulated amount of reserves and surplus in the balance sheet of the assessee-company was less than loan amount given to CEPL and, thus, the loan amount advanced by the assessee to CEPL was required to be taxed as deemed dividend under section 2(22)(e). On writ allowing the petition the Court held that there was no failure on the part of the assessee to disclose truly and fully all material facts necessary for assessment with regard to deemed dividend under section 2(22)(e) and hence initiation of the reassessment proceedings beyond a period of four years are not permissible and the same cannot be sustained on that ground alone. Allowing the petition, the Court held that in the light of various judgments, it is crystal clear that Form 10 under Rule 17 is required to be filed before the Assessing Officer before he completes the assessment. In a case, where Form 10 is filed late but is filed before the Assessing Officer completes the assessment, the benefit of section 11(2) shall be available to the assessee. From a reading of impugned notice, the order dated 3-3-2022 and assessment order dated 19-3-2022, it appears that the Assessing Officer has paid no heed to the ratio laid down in the judgment of the Supreme Court and various High Courts including the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court. Allowing the petition the Court held that the reassessment notice is issued after the expiry of four years, the only reason for initiating reassessment proceedings by notice dated March 30, 2019, was that depreciation was allowable only at 30 percent and not at 60 percent. This change of opinion could not be made a ground for reassessment. The AO, during the course of original assessment, had accepted the return and treated certain expenses as revenue as these were incurred only to facilitate the business of the assessee who was engaged in the business of advertising and marketing communications. Assessing Officer issued reopening notice for reason that assessee made foreign remittance on account of legal and professional fees without deducting TDS from this payment, thus, same was to be disallowed under section 40(a)(i). On writ, the Court held that the assessee was asked to submit details of all 'outward remittances' during scrutiny assessment. Assessee, in response submitted various details as asked for. A chart was also provided containing a breakup of all foreign remittances made during the year, along with details of TDS deducted or if not deducted reasons for not doing so. The reasons for reopening case was based on very same records which were placed at time of original assessment. Notice and order disposing the objection. is quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Money transferred to assessee's bank account from cash deposits in other persons bank account-Borrowed Satisfaction-Mere increase in funds from previous year-No Tangible material on record-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 148, Art. 226] 1810

Allowing the Writ of the assessee, the Delhi High Court held that the reopening of the assessment was based merely on suspicion and lacked tangible material or evidence against the assessee. The Assessing Officer's "reasons to believe" relied on a letter from the ITO (Nahan), an FIR, and a charge sheet mentioning the names of directors, but failed to establish any concrete link to income escaping assessment. The AO's observations regarding the nature of deposits were speculative, referencing possibilities such as share capital, share premium, bogus sales, or loans, without any corroborative evidence. The Court emphasized that the statutory requirement is a "reason to believe," not a "reason to suspect," and that a mere increase in funds, absent supporting evidence, cannot justify reopening. Consequently, the notice under section 148 was quashed. The Court also noted that the petitioner's claim regarding non-supply of the FIR and charge sheet was not material, as the information was already available to the petitioner.. (AY. 2011-12)

S. 147: Reassessmet-After the expiry of four years-Change of opinion cannot be a reason to reopen the assessment. [S. 35D, 148, Art. 226] 1811

The court held when all the facts were correctly disclosed and were on record during the assessment proceedings under section 143(3) for the relevant assessment year, and the assessing office did not consciously tax the income which was now sought to be looked into by reopening the assessment under section 147, it was the clear case of change of opinion, and hence reassessment order was to be quashed and set aside. Palco Recycle Industries Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2024) 296 Taxman 44 (Guj.)(HC)

S. 147: Reassessment-After the expiry of four years-Reopening of assessment on the basis of decision of court that approval not obtained from competent authority-not a case of income escaping assessment due to failure on the part of the assessee to disclose material facts during the course of assessment-reopening unjustified. [S. 10B, 148, Art. 226] 1812

The assessee in its return filed for the relevant assessment year claimed deduction under section 10B of the Act. The AO while finalising the assessment accepted the claim of the assessee. Subsequently after the expiry of 4 years the AO issued notice under section 148 of the Act relying on the decisions of Delhi High Court where in the court had held that the approval for the purpose of section 10 B can only be an approval granted by the board constituted by the Central Government under the provisions of Industrial (Development and Regulation) Act 1951 and therefore, the assessee is not entitled to claim the exemption under section 10B of the Act. The Hon'ble Court had quashed the notice issued under section 148 of the Act as the same was issued beyond the period of 4 years from the end of relevant assessment year and there is no failure on the part of the assessee to furnish all the relevant material facts. The court has further observed that the responsibility of the assessee is only to place the materials before the AO and the assessee would not be responsible for the inferences made by the assessing authority based on the materials that he has placed before the concerned authority. A change in the opinion or later decision on the legal aspects cannot be a reason for reopening an assessment which has been included on the basis of the material which is made available in cases where the reopening is attempted after 4 years unless the assessee failed to disclose the relevant information.. [S. 37(1), 148, Art. 226]

Allowing the petition, the Court quashed the notice under section 148, holding it was without jurisdiction since no new tangible material was available and reassessment was based on information already on record. The original assessment had specifically addressed the lump sum compensation, with the assessee providing all relevant documents, and the AO was satisfied, making no additions. As the reassessment was initiated beyond four years without any failure by the assessee to fully disclose material facts, the conditions for reopening were not met, and section 148 could not be invoked. Thus, the Court held that jurisdiction under section 148 cannot be exercised. (AY. 2012-13)

1814 S. 147 : Reassessment –With in four years-Change of opinion-Specific query was raised in the original assessment proceedings-Shares at premium-Borrowed satisfaction-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside. [S. 68, 148, Art. 226]
Allowing the petition the Court held that once a query is raised during the assessment proceedings and the assessee has replied to it, it follows that the query raised was a subject of consideration of the AO while completing the assessment. It is not necessary that an assessment order should contain reference and/or discussion to disclose its satisfaction in respect of the query raised. The only requirement is that the AO ought to have considered, the objection now raised in the grounds for issuing notice under S. 148, during the original assessment proceedings. In the case at hand, the AO having raised a query and the assessee having replied to it, it follows that the query raised was subject of consideration of the AO while passing the assessment order dt. 21st Dec., 2011. The reopening of assessment by the notice is merely on the basis of change of opinion of the AO from that held earlier during the course of assessment proceedings and this change of opinion does not constitute justification and/or reasons to believe that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment. Assessee-company engaged in business of manufacturing lubricating oils, filed its return of income for AY 2017-18. It disallowed a portion of CSR amount as per Explanation 2 to section 37(1) and additionally, it claimed a deduction under section 80G for donations to approved trusts/institutions-Return was selected for scrutiny, and after providing necessary details, an assessment order was passed, allowing claimed deductions. Subsequently, AO issued a notice for reopening assessment, alleging income escapement. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that from records that before finalizing original assessment order, AO raised queries to which assessee responded adequately, clarifying that deductions were only claimed under section 80G, supported by donation receipts and AO had examined all these aspects while passing original assessment order. Further, documents on record also indicated that Audit Wing of Department raised certain objections to original assessment order including issue of deduction under Section 80G and AO justified original assessment order to audit party without accepting any adjustment to same. In view of above, it could be said that assessment was reopened on basis of a change of opinion and it lacked tangible information on basis of which AO allegedly formed requisite belief. Accordingly the reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 147 : Reassessment –With in four years-Capital gains-Transfer-Redemption of preference shares-Loss-No new material-Reassessment-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 2(47), 47(iv), 148, Art. 226] 1816

On a writ petition against a notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act 1961 proposing to reopen the assessment in the case of the assessee for the assessment year 2015-16, on the ground that the provisions of section 47(iv) were not applicable to the transaction of redemption of preference shares, and the order rejecting the assessee's objections to the notice, the High Court held that on the redemption of preference shares, the shares are cancelled and the capital asset is extinguished and ceases to exist and, therefore, the provisions of section 47(iv) are not applicable to the transaction of redemption of preference shares, that no tangible material had come into existence after conclusion of the regular assessment proceedings and before recording of the reasons on the issues stated in the reasons recorded for reopening the case, that the reassessment was on the basis of material already on record and considered at the time of passing the original assessment order under section 143(3) of the Act, that the reasons as furnished to the assessee and the undated and unsigned reasons which were never furnished to the assessee as reproduced in the order rejecting the assessee's objections, were different, that capital loss could never arise on the acquisition of shares but only on the transfer or sale of shares, that the assessee had not sold the preference shares but the shares were redeemed by G Ltd. and since on redemption there was a transfer of shares due to "extinguishment of rights therein" the capital loss was claimed in the return of income, that the notice had been issued without appreciating or understanding the correct facts, and that therefore, the notice and the order rejecting the assessee's objections were invalid (AY. 2015-16)

Assessee is engaged in business of power generation. It filed its return of income which was accepted. Thereafter, Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice against assessee on ground that it had made investments from a common pool of funds and incurred common administrative and other expenditure, debiting it to Profit & Loss account thereby attracting provisions of section 14A and, thus, taxable income by virtue of incorrect claim of expenses had escaped assessment. Queries raised by Assessing Officer in course of original assessment proceedings followed by replies given by assessee clearly showed that entire material was before Assessing Officer and applying his mind to said material, Assessing Officer had passed assessment order and statement of accounts regarding details of expenses and investment relating to earning of exempt income was accepted by Assessing Officer. On writ the Court held that there was no tangible material available with Assessing Officer to justify reopening of assessment. Accordingly thee reopening of assessment was on basis of mere change of opinion, which is was impermissible in law. (AY. 2016-17)

Assessee had received share application money at premium. The assessment was completed under section 143(3) of the act and specific issue of share premium was raised in the Course of assessment proceedings. Reopening notice was issued on ground that share premium was charged on basis of projections which were not achieved and there was no connection between actual figures and figures considered for valuation of shares. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that during original assessment proceedings, subject matter of large share premium received during year was under active consideration of Assessing Officer. Since very issue of share premium was subject matter of consideration by Assessing Officer during original assessment proceedings, reopening of assessment was merely on basis of change of opinion and thus not sustainable. Assessee incurred expenses towards corporate social responsibility (CSR) A disallowance was made for amount of CSR in return of income. It had claimed deduction of Rs. 1. 79 crores (being 50 per cent of aggregate donation) under section 80G as permissible in law. Assessing Officer allowed the claim. A notice under section 148 was issued upon assessee on ground that CSR expenses claimed by assessee was not allowable as business expenditure and, hence, same was required to be disallowed. Notice providing reasons to believe itself was based on verification of profit and loss account and computation of income showing amount of CSR expenses debited under head other expenses and said amount being added back and claimed as deduction under Chapter

VA as donation. Further, in notice it was stated that during course of original assessment proceedings, neither Assessing Officer had asked for any details and information on this issue from assessee nor had assessee volunteered any details. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that Since all material/documents necessary for computing income were disclosed and submitted by assessee during course of assessment proceedings and there being absence of any fresh tangible material coming to knowledge of Assessing Officer, reopening of assessment was purely on a re-examination of very same material on basis of which original assessment order was passed. Therefore, notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. Circular No. 4/2007, dated 15-6-2007 (AY. 2016-17)

The assessment is reopened on ground that assessee was not eligible for deduction under section 80IB(10) as it had failed to complete requirement stated in section 80IB(10) towards time limit for completion of housing project. During original assessment proceedings, deduction under section 80IB(10) was subject matter of consideration by Assessing Officer Assessing Officer raised a query regarding same and assessee had replied to it. There was also a note on deduction under section 80IB(10) where in residential buildings in question had been discussed. On writ the court held that reopening of assessment merely on basis of change of opinion of Assessing Officer from that held earlier during course of assessment proceedings would not constitute justification and/or reason to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. Reassessment notice was issued on ground that there were reasons to believe that assessee's income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment as regards claim of provision against unascertained liabilities, claim of excessive deduction under section 35(2AB), deduction claimed on account CSR expenses and donations and excess allowance of deduction. On writ the Court held that questionnaire along with notices under section 142(1) were issued and further details were called for from time to time during course of assessment proceedings and assessee had furnished details called for from time to time. In assessment order, Assessing Officer had also dealt with assessee's claim for deduction under section 80IC and provision for expenses under section 37(1) which were disallowed. Since four issued raised in reasons to believe were subject matter of consideration during assessment proceedings, reopening was on basis of change of opinion. The Assessing Officer issued a reassessment notice based on information received from the investigation wing, indicating that cash had been deposited in the assessee's bank account and immediately thereafter transferred via cheque into a company's account where the assessee was a director. The primary reason given by the Assessing Officer was the need to examine the details of these deposits.

The court held that the notice did not state that any income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment, nor did it show that the Assessing Officer had applied his mind to the information received. The notice appeared to be issued merely for verification or examination purposes. The court ruled that reopening notices cannot be issued solely for verification purposes and must be based on a belief that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment. Therefore, the impugned reassessment notice was unjustified and set aside. (AY. 2007-08)

The assessee had given a breakup of entrance fees and subscription fees for 1 year and Schedule 9 itself disclosed that said payment was recurring in nature. Hon'ble High Court has held that the assessee had advanced loan to its sister concern as a measure of commercial expediency by using borrowed funds, interest on such borrowed funds was to be allowed as deduction under section 36(1)(iii). The return of income filed by the assessee on 29. 09. 2008 for A. Y. 2008-09 was subjected to scrutiny assessment and order was passed on 20. 12. 2010 u/s. 143(3) of the Act after seeking details related to prior period income and expenses. Subsequently, notice u/s. 148 of the Act dated 28. 03. 2013 was issued to the assessee on the ground that prior period expenses claimed in return were not allowable in view of mercantile method of accounting followed by the assessee. The assessee filed objection stating that assessment order was passed after taking into account details filed in respect of prior period income and expenses and hence, it amounted to 'change of opinion'. The objection was rejected by the AO stating that for A. Y. 2010-11, the assessment was completed u/s. 143(3) of the Act after making disallowance in respect of prior period expenses and it constituted fresh material for reopening of the assessment. The assessee challenged the notice before the High Court under writ contending that the disallowance made in A. Y. 2010-11 was deleted by the CIT(A) and on this issue, Revenue had not filed an appeal before the Tribunal. Hence, there was no tangible material before the AO, and reassessment proceedings were nothing but a change of opinion. High Court accepted the contentions of the assessee and quashed the notice issued u/s. 148 of the Act. (AY. 2008-09)

During the relevant assessment year, the assessee-company raised capital by issuing optionally Convertible Preference Shares with a face value of Rs. 1 at a premium of Rs. 999 to company which was its sister concern. The assessment was made under section 143(1). Assessing Officer reopened assessment on ground that based upon analysis of details and information of balance sheet, share premium charged was not justified on basis of 'intrinsic valuation' of shares and Net Asset Value Method and to that extent income had escaped assessment, Since, the Assessing Officer had not doubt regarding transaction having taken place between said two companies with regard to allotment of preference shares and receipt of share premium amount and assessment in case of company had become final, there was neither any basis for Assessing Officer for his reason to believe that income had escaped assessment nor was there any tangible material which would have otherwise given jurisdiction to reopen assessment even when reopening was sought to be made within a period of four years. The reassessment notice is quashed. (AY. 2010-11, 2011-12)

The petitioner challenged the validity of the reassessment notice on the ground that since the shares were transferred by way of gift no consideration was received by the petitioner. Allowing the petition the court held that S. 45, 47 and S. 48 makes it clear that the AO could not have any tangible material to form a belief that income has escaped assessment. On scrutiny of the statutory provisions as the transaction in question does not invite any tax liability, one cannot accept the submission that there is some tangible material to form a belief that there is an escapement of income. Even if there is a transfer of a capital asset under a gift, which admittedly in the case herein, it shall not amount to a transfer under S. 45. The submission that assessee being a trust it can be reasonably presumed that the transfer was for a consideration because anything a trust does is for the benefit of its beneficiaries was not sustainable because it is not the case of the Revenue in the reasons to believe or in the order disposing objections or even in the affidavit-in-reply. Allowing the petition, the Court held that once a query is raised during the assessment proceedings and the assessee has replied to it, it follows that the query raised was a subject of consideration of the Assessing Officer while completing the assessment. It is not necessary that an assessment order should contain a reference to or discussion about it to disclose its satisfaction in respect of the query raised. The only requirement is that the Assessing Officer ought to have considered the objection raised in the grounds for issuing notice under section 148 of the Act during the original assessment proceedings. The court also observed that it was true that in the assessment order there was no elaborate discussion regarding the items but there had been disallowance on interest on tax deducted at source amounting to Rs. 1,22,956 debited to the profit and loss account. This was an indication that the subject matter of financial cost and other expenses had been discussed during the assessment proceedings. (AY. 2017-18)

The court held that the escapement of income due to claim of deduction under section 80-IB(10) of the Act of Rs. 4,47,30,649 was admittedly the subject matter of appeal and therefore, on this income reassessment was not permissible. The Revenue could initiate reassessment proceedings subject to the fulfilment of the conditions mentioned in sections 147/148 of the Act, i. e., so long as it is not hit by the third proviso to section 147 of the Act. The notice for reassessment was not valid. Section 147 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, deals with situations where income has escaped assessment. The section provides for a clear bar that where an income, which is subject matter of any appeal reassessment of such income is not permissible. (AY. 2008-09)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that even if the assessee had incurred any expenditure towards advertisement, sales promotion, product display posters, etc. on the direction of the DIPL and these expenditures might have benefited Diageo as well, did not entail right to deny deduction under section 37(1) of the Act. It was unacceptable to even suggest that the expenses were not incurred for the purpose of business of the assessee. This was because in the affidavit-in-reply itself it was admitted that the assessee was engaged in the business of importing and trading in foreign made foreign liquors. Even the reasons recorded states that the assessee was engaged in import of alcoholic beverages from Diageo Brands BV and the assessee was in the business of importing and trading in foreign made foreign liquors. The reasons which had been recorded, could never have led a prudent person to form an opinion that income had escaped assessment within the meaning of section 147. Later, assessee was served with reassessment notice on basis of Report of Justice Shah Commission on ground that invoices issued by assessee were below international price. On writ, the Court held that report relied by revenue was wholly subjective and no other fact was gone into or brought out in Report to suggest that the invoice price was deliberately suppressed or that actual consideration received was more. Since there was no material in that regard, reassessment proceedings being initiated without any tangible/ relevant material to form any reason to believe as to escapement, reassessment proceeding is quashed. The assessee during limited scrutiny which focused on the computation of capital gains and deductions under section 54F, provided all required details and evidence regarding the sale and purchase of immovable property both at the time of filing the return and during the assessment proceedings. The assessment was completed under section 143(3), accepting the declared income. The assessee's objection to reassessment was rejected. S. 147 : Reassessment –With in four years-Purchase and sale of land- Audit objection-Business income or capital gains-No fresh, tangible information-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 28(i), 45, 148, Art. 226] 1838

The assessee filed his return of income for the relevant assessment year in form ITR-5 and the said ITR was subject to scrutiny in regular assessment. The income offered under the head "Capital Gain" on transfer of land has been duly scrutinized and accepted u/s 143(3) of the Act. Subsequently, the AO received certain information that the assessee had purchased agriculture land which was converted into non-agricultural land for the residential and commercial purposes and opined that this is the trading activity liable to be taxed under the head "Business Income" and accordingly, on such reasons, issued the notice u/s 148 of the Act.

On Writ, the Hon'ble Court noted that the reasons recorded by the AO were incorrect as the assessee had filed the return of income in Form ITR-5 and not in Form ITR-3 or, ITR-4, that the income offered in the ITR-5 including the income under the head "Capital Gain" was scrutinized in depth for passing the order u/s 143(3). The Court further observed that the impugned notice was issued solely on the basis of audit objection, which is not permissible in law and thus, the AO has not arrived at an independent reasoning for reopening and more so, in the absence of any fresh, tangible material for reopening of the concluded assessment after four years in the absence of any failure on the part of the assessee to disclose truly and all the materials relevant to the assessment. The notice u/s 148 was to be quashed. Referred CIT v. P. V. S. Beedies (P.) Ltd. (1999) 103 Taxman 294/237 ITR 13 (SC)(AY. 2016-17)

Dismissing the appeal the Court held that the power of Hon'ble High Court under section 260A of the Act is limited to the substantial question of law. Thus, the finding rendered by the Appellate Tribunal cannot be disturbed in appeal under section 260A of the Act. The court held that the records reveal that the assessee had furnished all the materials for completing the assessment on 17-12-2019 under section 143(3). In response to the notice dated 30-11-2019 issued under section 142(1), the assessee was called upon to furnish the details of other expenses, bad debts, advance written off, etc. This information were furnished by the assessee in a detailed note on 9-12-2019. Therefore, it is clear that the reasons given for reopening the assessment are inspired from a change of opinion by the Assessing Officer. [S. 68, 143(1), 148, 260A, 292B]

The assessment was reopened on the basis of information from the Investigation wing. The reasons placed on record by Assessing Officer referred to information received by Assessing Officer that assessee had raised a loan from K. J. S. Ahluwalia Group (KG Group) through Tanish Tradecom Pvt. Ltd and Puneet Oils and Chemicals Ltd (TTPL and POCPL) which were dubious entities. The court held that there was no reference to how Assessing Officer had, at that juncture, formed a view that they were dubious entities. The reasons did not advert to material that was available to Assessing Officer and which persuaded him to form a belief that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. Therefore, reasons recorded lacked necessary jurisdictional prerequisite of reason being recorded, before entering realm of reassessment proceedings. The Tribunal rightly held that Assessing Officer had proceeded in a mechanical manner as he had based his decision to reopen his assessment on information received from investigation wing and there was absence of independent application of mind by Assessing Officer. The court also held that a mistake, which can be corrected under section 292B, should be such that if excised (removed) it does not change tenor and scope of documents/ proceedings referred to therein i. e., return of income, assessment, notice, summons or other proceedings, taken, furnished or made or issued or taken or purported to have been furnished or made or issued or taken against assessee under provisions of Act. S. 147: Reassessment-Directions of higher authorities-Evident from record that Assessing Officer had passed order for reassessment under influence of his superiors-Reassessment is rightly quashed by the Tribunal. [S. 68, 132(9A),132A, 148 260A] 1842

The assessee was a director of a company. Search and seizure operations were carried out by CBI at the residential premises of one JKJ, who was an employee of said company. During such search operation, certain documents were found apart from Indian currency of certain amount and foreign currency. Photocopies of seized documents were handed over by CBI to Income Tax Department for enquiries and investigation. Subsequently, remaining seized documents were handed over by CBI to DIT (Inv.) which was in response to warrant of authorisation issued by DIT (Inv.) under section 132A. On basis of such documents, the Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 to assessee. Accordingly, the reassessment order was passed making addition under section 68 of the Act. On appeal the CIT(A) upheld the order of the AO. On further appeal, the Tribunal held that reassessments were completed on the directions/ dictates of the higher authorities, which is not permissible in law. On appeal by the Revenue the High Court held that, the Assessing Officer was taking instructions on each and every hearing and dictates was clearly given to him. Even questionnaire was prepared on instruction of his superiors and same was even sent to Delhi for confirmation. In a letter addressed by Assessing Officer to DDIT(Inv.), Assessing Officer had clearly written that though he had drafted skeleton of order, but he wanted guidance of higher authorities. Therefore, it was quite evident that Assessing Officer had passed order for reassessment under the influence of his superiors. Therefore, reassessment order was not sustainable, particularly when reassessment started at dictation of higher authorities and thereafter, during reassessment process continuous instructions were imparted. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 1988-89 to 1992-93)

On a writ petition challenging the notice issued under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, for reopening the assessment under section 147, for the assessment year 2017-18 by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer contending that in terms of section 151A, consequent upon publication of the Notification dated March 29, 2022 ([2022] 442 ITR (St.) 198) a notice under section 148 could only be issued through automated allocation, in accordance with the risk management strategy formulated by the Central Board of Direct Taxes, in a faceless manner, to the extent provided in section 144B with reference to making assessment or reassessment. The court allowed the petition and held that the demand notice issued under section 156 was contrary to the assessment order under section 144B read with section 147 and hence not sustainable. The Faceless Assessment Unit, after taking into consideration all aspects, including the explanation given by the assessee had concluded that no adverse inference could be drawn and had accordingly accepted the income declared in the return at rupees zero. No demand on the basis thereof could have been raised. Therefore, the notice under section 156 had been issued mechanically without considering the assessment order. [S. 92CA, 133A, 148, Art. 5(1), 5(2), 5(3), 5(4)] 1849

The Court allowed the petitions and held that the reassessment proceedings under section 147 were invalid, as the Deputy Commissioner (IT) had categorized the assessee under all three types of permanent establishments i. e., service PE, fixed place PE, and dependent agent PE, without substantiating any of the necessary conditions. The Court found no evidence that the foreign enterprise rendered services in India through employees of its subsidiary or other personnel, nor was there material to show that the Indian subsidiary was authorized to, or actually did, conclude contracts for the assessee, ruling out a dependent agent PE. The mere discovery of the assessee's seal during a survey was deemed irrelevant. The onus was on the Revenue to establish the existence of a PE, and statements recorded during the survey did not demonstrate this. The Indian subsidiary's activities were limited to communication and consultancy support, which were preparatory or auxiliary in nature, and thus did not create a PE under the India-US DTAA. The Court concluded that the Revenue failed to establish any fixed place, service, or dependent agent PE, and that the finding of a PE was unsustainable in law. (AY. 2012-13 to 2018-19)

The Court allowed the petition and held that the assessee had approached the High Court upon notice being issued under section 148 of the Act. Such notice was challenged on multiple grounds and the court had granted an interim stay at the time of admission. In spite of the order of stay, the respondents proceeded to issue the assessment order on the following day. In the overall facts and circumstances, this was an appropriate case to exercise jurisdiction under article 226. The court also held that the reason cited for reopening the assessment for the assessment year 2013-14 was the deletion of Rs. 86,93,77,010 under the head "land" without offering capital gains for assessment. The assessment order clearly disclosed that no additions were being made on this account since there were no capital gains. The assessee had approached the court soon and thereafter the court had granted interim stay on further proceedings on March 30, 2022. The assessment order dated March 31, 2022 came to be issued in these facts and circumstances with additions in an aggregate sum of Rs. 1,49,93,830 under various heads. Significantly, no addition was made regarding the transaction that triggered the reopening of assessment. Hence, the notice under section 148 and the assessment order issued on March 31, 2022 were not valid. (AY. 2013-14)

Dismissing the petition, the Court held that the assessee was provided a reasonable opportunity to place on record evidence of execution of civil work (mass excavation and sand-filling), such as contracts for hiring excavation and other equipment, running accounts and final bills, proof of payment by the employer, contracts with sub-contractors, running accounts and final bills of sub-contractors, proof of payment to sub-contractors. Apart from producing work orders, photographs and the offer letter of employment of M, the assessee did not place any other evidence on record leading to the inference in the order that no proof of carrying out work was submitted by the assessee. In these facts and circumstances, there was no justification for exercising discretionary jurisdiction. The assessment order could not be quashed. The court also held that a denial of the request for cross-examination does not automatically warrant interference under article 226 of the Constitution. Undoubtedly, in cases where the assessee is able to provide some indication of real prejudice, by not being provided opportunity to cross-examine, interference would be justified while exercising discretionary jurisdiction, but not otherwise. S. 147 : Reassessment - Cash credits – Addition was deleted by CIT(A)- No incriminating material was found- Reassessment Notice is quashed. [S. 68, 132,148, 153A] 1852

The Assessing Officer passed an assessment order under section 153A, read with section 143(3), and additions were made to income of assessee. Commissioner (Appeals) deleted additions so made on ground that since no incriminating material was found and assessments for assessment years in issue stood completed, Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to frame an assessment order. While the appeal against Commissioner (Appeals) order were pending before Tribunal, Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 proposing to reassess said additions. Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed additions made in assessment years in issue under section 68. On appeal, the Tribunal quashed reassessment proceedings. On appeal by the Revenue the Court held that while appeals were pending adjudication with Tribunal, Assessing Officer could not have triggered reassessment proceedings against additions which were subject matter of appeal. The order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2010-11, 2011-12)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Interest paid and received –Capital receipt-Change of opinion-Reassessment is bad in law. [S. 4, 36(1)(iii), 148, 260A] 1854

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that since there was full disclosure of interest by the assessee and the Assessing Officer while passing the original assessment order, after discussion, had formed opinion that the interest paid and interest received are not revenue items but capital item, therefore, the subsequent attempt of the Assessing Officer to tax the interest receipt as revenue receipt is clearly based on change of opinion. Therefore the Tribunal has not committed any manifest error of law to set aside the re-assessment proceedings. Thus, once the Assessing Officer has consciously applied his mind for not treating the interest paid and the interest received as revenue item and instead he treated it as capital item, subsequent proceedings under section 147 was based on change of opinion. 1855 S. 147: Reassessment- With in four years – Reasons recorded are cryptic and vague-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside. [S. 148, Art. 226]

The High Court held that when the concluded assessment is to be revisited with by the Assessing Officer, recording of reasons for exercise of such powers has to be viewed as vested rights for the assessee. While exercising powers under the Act to reopen the assessment, the Assessing Officer would harbour reasons to believe that on a particular set of facts, the income had escaped assessment and tax was not paid in relation to the year under consideration. All the reasons which hold good in the eye of and with the Assessing Officer must be made known to the assessee. The assessee has the right to refute the reasons for reassessment by filing objections. Unless the Assessing Officer appropriately delineates and communicates the reasons for reassessment, right of the assessee to file objections would remain an eyewash.

The Court after analysing various Supreme Court decisions, enlisted following legal principles

i) "Reasons" are of paramount importance. "Reasons" are heartbeat of every conclusion. It introduces clarity in any order. Without the reasons, the order is lifeless.

ii) The concept of reasoned judgment has become an indispensable part of basic rule of law and, in fact, is a mandatory requirement of procedural law.

iii) It is only clarity of thoughts that leads to proper reasoning, which becomes a foundation of a just and fair decision.

iv) Insistence for recording of reasons is intended to subserve the wider principle that justice must not only be done but it must also be seen to have been done. The reasons are requirement for ensuring judicial accountability.

v) Reasons reflect candidness on the part of the decision maker. The decision-making process becomes transparent by virtue of reasons. In absence, it is impossible to know whether the person deciding the issue is faithful to the doctrine of precedent or to the principles of incrementalism.

vi) Reasons in support of decisions must be cogent, clear and succinct. A pretence of reasons or "rubber-stamp reasons" cannot be equated with a valid decision-making process.

vii) Reasons also facilitate the process of judicial review by superior courts.

In the facts of the case, the Court held that the cryptic way of recording the reasons, as found in the instant case, would render the exercise of powers vitiated. With such vague reasons the Assessing Officer could be said to have failed to demonstrate that there was any escapement of income chargeable to tax. Thus, notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2015-16) without making any addition in respect transaction of sale of shares. After four years, Assessing Officer issued reopening notice against assessee on ground that assessee was beneficiary of accommodation entries to tune of Rs. 40 lakhs, which was sum received from SCPL. On writ, the Court held that Assessing Officer already had information with respect to certain shares which were sold for consideration to SCPL. If Assessing Officer was not satisfied with the explanation furnished by assessee, at that stage, he could have exercised powers to make addition but did not choose to do anything on such count. Accordingly, the action of reopening was merely change of opinion on same set of facts, which was disclosed and considered by Assessing Officer during assessment. Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2012-13)

Editorial : SLP of revenue dismissed for failure to explain the delay of 489 days in filing of SLP, ACIT v. AIM Fincon (P.) Ltd. (2024) 301 Taxman 169 (SC)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Client Code Modification (CCM) as a tool for tax evasion-Information from Investigation Directorate-Minor discrepancies in language employed by revenue and as it stood reflected in reasons provided to assessee and that which existed on record would clearly not justify for interference with impugned reopening notice-Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 148, Art. 226] 1857
The assessee had used Client Code Modification (CCM) as a tool for tax evasion and only the settled trades have been considered to arrive at beneficiaries. As per said information, Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice upon assessee on ground that assessee had shifted out profit of certain amount and losses of certain amount resulting in a net reduction in income of certain amount through CCM. On writ, the assessee contended that there was distinction in the recording of reasons for initiating proceedings under section 148 as appearing upon a reading of a copy which was supplied to assessee and pro forma for recording reasons to initiate proceedings under section 148 which existed on record of revenue. The court held that recording of facts and reasons in pro forma would clearly indicate that information was identically transcribed on record of revenue as well. An annexure which was a copy of reasons supplied to assessee clearly tallied with an annexure which appeared on record except for pro forma additionally referring to information being basis for Assessing Officer having reason to believe that income of assessee had escaped assessment. Minor discrepancies in language employed by revenue and as it stood reflected in reasons provided to assessee and that which existed on record would clearly not justify for interference reopening notice. The writ petition is dismissed. (AY. 2009-10 to 2012-13)

S. 147 : Reassessment –With in four years- Vivad se Vishwas Scheme, 2020- Reasons for reopening of assessment-Failure to provide recorded reasons-Reassessment is not valid-Assessment order is quashed by leaving it open to revenue to initiate de novo proceedings in accordance with law. [S. 148, Art. 226] 1858
Assessee filed her original income tax return for Assessment year. Subsequently, assessee opted for Vivad se Vishwas Scheme, 2020, resulting in a full and final settlement. Despite said settlement under Vivad se Vishwas Scheme, 2020, assessee received a notice under section 148 for reopening assessment. The assessee requested for reasons for reopening assessment by e-mail. AO reopened assessment without providing reasons. On writ the Court held that since on examining impugned assessment order, it was evident that e-mail address from which assessee requested for reasons for reopening the assessment was same as registered e-mail ID of assessee, in those circumstances, failure to provide reasons for reopening assessment was fatal. Therefore, the assessment order was quashed by leaving it open to revenue to initiate de novo proceedings in accordance with law. (AY. 2017-18)(SJ)

1859 S. 147 : Reassessment-Notice is sent to old address-Intimation is sent to new address-Objection was raised before the Assessing officer-Notice is improperly served-Section 292BB is not applicable-Failure to issue notice under section 143(2)-Reassessment is bad in law. [S. 142(1), 143(2), 148, 292BB]
Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the reason, perhaps, was that the Assessing Officer was already aware of the address change. The Tribunal had also recorded a finding of fact that the new address was available in the record of the Assessing Officer. The Assessing Officer had in his record the screenshot of the material available with the Ministry of Corporate Affairs, indicating a change of address. A perusal of the reply dated March 16, 2016, disclosed that the assessee had objected to the notice under section 148 of the Act being directed to the old address before the completion of the reassessment proceedings, and hence, the provision of section 292BB was not applicable. Therefore, the notice under section 148 of the Act was improperly served. The Court also held that the Assessing Officer ought to have issued a notice under section 143(2) of the Act. The submission advanced on behalf of the Department that, while it could consider the invalid return while framing the assessment order, it was not obliged to issue a notice under section 143(2) of the Act because it was not filed within the time frame given in section 148 notice was untenable in law, since the return of income, which was belated, was considered by the Assessing Officer while carrying out the assessment. The absence of notice, under section 143(2), gave the proceedings a jurisdictional defect and, hence, rendered it invalid in the eyes of the law. The notice under section 143(2) of the Act should have been issued before framing of the assessment order under section 147 / 144 of the Act. (AY. 2010-11)

1860 S. 147: Reassessment-Investment-No evidence that investment is bogus-Order of Tribunal quashing the reassessment is affirmed. [S. 68, 148]
Dismissing the appeal, the Court held that the Tribunal had found that the proper course for the Assessing Officer was to investigate the creditworthiness of the creditor and to ascertain whether the transaction was genuine. However, the Assessing Officer had chosen a reverse mode by calling upon the assessee to show that the investor was creditworthy. The investor was none other than the son of the director. Therefore, the Assessing Officer had all the material before him and the power to cause proper investigation. Moreover, the factual matrix recorded by the Tribunal that the remittances were through the bank and as against a net income of USD 3 million, the remittances were only to the extent of USD

1 million. There was no reason to believe that the income of the assessee had escaped assessment. The notice of reassessment and the addition to income under section 68 were not valid. The order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2008-09)

When the detailed reasons, such as the nature of the transaction, date of transactions, and name of the party with whom the transaction was entered into, were not provided, the reopening of an assessment was not justified. Unless the AO records his independent satisfaction in the reasons recorded based on information received and communicates the same to the assessee, the right of the assessee to file objections would remain an empty formality. Allowing the petition the Court held that the AO after satisfying himself with the correctness of the claim made in the return has passed the assessment order without any addition or disallowance and on the basis of the same records, issuance of notice under section 148 of the Act tantamount to be on the basis of the change of opinion which is impermissible in the eyes of law. There is no infirmity in the detailed findings of the CIT(A) in quashing the reassessment proceedings on the ground of change of opinion as well as on the ground of limitation as per the first proviso to s. 147 in absence of any failure at the end of assessee and accordingly the reopening in the case was not in accordance with law (AY. 2008-09, 2009-10)

The Assessing Officer received AIR information that assessee had deposited substantial amount of cash in its bank accounts. Assessing Officer issued reopening notice to assessee and made addition under section 68 of the Act. CIT(A) affirmed the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had submitted copies of bank statements during course of assessment proceedings. It was also noted that AIR information relied upon for reopening case of assessee was incorrect in view of fact that assessee had deposited cash amounting to Rs. 14 lakhs instead of Rs. 17 lakhs in one of bank account as alleged by Assessing Officer. Since Assessing Officer failed to verify amount of cash deposited in bank from copies of bank statements duly furnished by assessee during course of assessment proceedings and had merely relied upon AIR information, there was no application of mind by Assessing Officer. Since reasons recorded by Assessing Officer for reopening assessment were based on factual errors, reopening notice was void ab initio. (AY. 2011-12

The A. O. received information from ADGIT Investigation Unitthat the assessee is beneficiary of accommodation entries provided by Brahma Trade Links Pvt. Ltd. of Rs. 35 lakhs. The assessee filed objections challenging the reopening but without disposing the objections, assessment order was passed by adding Rs. 35 lakhs as undisclosed income. The CIT(A) confirmed the addition. Before the Tribunal, it was argued that the A. O. did not carry out any investigation and addition is based on surmises. It was also pointed out that in reality the assessee had received Rs. 20 lakhs only from Brahma Tradelinks P. Ltd. and that this issue also formed basis of reopening assessment for A. Y. 2012-13 but on being satisfied about genuineness of transaction, no income was added to the income of the assessee. Thus, there was no credible information available with the A. O. and notice issued deserved to be quashed. Accepting the contentions of the assessee, the Tribunal held that The AO failed to provide any details of the alleged receipt of Rs. 35 Lakh from the said party at any point of time and there was no credible information before the A. O. keeping in view that for A. Y. 2012-13 such receipt was considered as genuine. Therefore, the Tribunal quashed notice issued u/s. 148 and entire proceedings. (AY. 2013-14)

In original assessment, assessee's tax liability under section 115JB (Book profits) was higher than tax liability under normal provisions. Assessee's case was reopened to adjust book profits and assess escaped income under normal provisions. The order of reassessment was upheld by the CIT(A). On cross appeal before the Tribunal the appellant contended that escapement alleged qua book profits did not meet conditions embodied in first proviso to section 147 having regard to full and true disclosure of relevant / material facts attributable to provisions for repairs in return of income by making disallowances under normal provisions and suitable declarations in audited financial statement. It was held that when adjustment on account of such provision for repairs had been made by assessee, it could not be said that while determining income as per normal provisions of Act, there was a failure on part of assessee to disclose facts in not making such corresponding adjustments while determining book profit. Accordingly, the condition of 1st proviso to section 147 was thus clearly not satisfied in instant case and hence, escapement qua book profits were not sustainable in law. (AY. 2010-11)

The assessee filed his return of income which was accepted and an assessment order was passed under section 143(3). On the basis of information received from AIR, the Assessing Officer issued a reopening notice under section 148 after four years from end of relevant assessment year in respect of cash deposits made and the addition was made. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had disclosed said cash deposits in his bank account in balance sheet and profit and loss account filed with return of income for relevant assessment year and same was duly considered by Assessing Officer while passing the assessment order under section 143(3). Since, there was no failure on part of assessee to disclose material facts truly and fully, impugned reopening notice issued beyond period of four years was illegal and set aside. (AY. 2008-09)

Once the initiation of reassessment proceedings had been challenged, all the grounds incidental thereto were available to assessee to challenge the validity of reassessment proceedings, hence, reassessment proceedings initiated by the Assessing Officer were not in conformity with the provisions of the first proviso to Section 147 of the Act. It was for Assessing Officer to record reasons clearly and unambiguously and no inference can be drawn therefrom. The court held that the requirement of the provisions of first proviso to Section 147 as well as Section 149(1)(b) of the Act were not fulfilled. On merit the asessee has produced evidence of the sales recorded in its books of account and offered the profit thereon for taxation, and the AO having not made any specific enquiry in this regard, it has to be accepted that the nature of credit in the books of account is sales of goods and, therefore, impugned addition made by the AO under s. 68 is not sustainable. 1888 S. 147 : Reassessment-Survey-Information from Investigation Wing-Re assessment is valid-Expenses through international credit cards-Addition is sustained. [S. 69C, 133A, 148]

The court held that survey conducted in the case of the assessee having revealed that he was in possession of various credit cards and the Investigation Wing having forwarded the said information to the assessee's AO, reopening of the assessment after further investigation by AO is valid. It also held that the assessee having utilised the funds through several international credit cards which ostensibly belong to his relatives and friends and none of the said owners of the credit cards having filed any proof/ document or affidavit to claim that the same belong to them, addition under s. 69C in the assessee's hand is sustainable. 1890 S. 147: Reassessment- Objection not disposed by the Assessing Officer- Reassessment is bad in law- Power of enhancement with the CIT(A) cannot cure the defects of non-disposal of objection by the Assessing Officer. [S. 148, 251]

The Tribunal held that the AO has not disposed the objection raised by the Assessee hence, reassessment is bad in law. The Tribunal also held that the powers of the CIT(A) were co-terminus with that of the AO, and he himself rejected the assessee's objections to reopening of assessment is not justified. The power of reopening of assessment is specifically vested with the AO only. It is the AO who has to form the belief that income of the assessee has escaped assessment. Followed *PCIT v. S. 147: Reassessment-Change of jurisdiction-Notice is issued by the Assessing Officer who had jurisdiction-Later case was decentralized-No objection was raised before the Assessing Officer-Ground of jurisdiction is rejected [S. 120, 124, 127 148, 149, 151, 282, 282A, General Clauses Act, 1897, S. 27] 1891

The Court held that the Assessing Officer possessed valid jurisdiction at the time the notice was issued. The Tribunal further observed that the assessee did not raise any objection regarding jurisdiction during the assessment proceedings. The notice was properly issued to the assessee's registered address and was also sent via email through the ITBA portal on 31st March 2017, being received at 1:02 AM on 1st April, which was deemed a valid service of notice. Additionally, proper sanction was obtained prior to issuance. Accordingly, the reassessment was held to be valid. (AY. 2010-11)

S. 147: Reassessment-Within four years-Change of opinion-No new tangible material-Performance guarantee-Deposit-Addition was deleted on merits by CIT(A)-Additional legal ground on reassessment is admitted-Reassessment is quashed on the ground of change of opinion. [S. 37, 69, 148, 254(1), ITAT R 1963. R. 27] 1892

The assessment was reopened and the Assessing Officer has made addition in respect of the performance guarantee and deposits received from parties. On appeal the CIT(A) deleted the addition on merits. On appeal by the Revenue the respondent raised the legal ground of reassessment on the basis of a change of opinion. The Tribunal admitted the legal ground orally and held that in the absence of any fresh material coming to the notice of the AO, the same could not have been reopened merely on the basis of a change of opinion on the basis of the same set of facts as were available on record in the course of the original assessment proceedings. A substitution of a view of a successor AO by re-appreciating the material that was available on record in the course of the original assessment proceedings cannot form a basis for reopening the concluded assessment. Even where a concluded assessment is sought to be reopened by the AO within a period of four years from, it is a must that the AO has fresh material or information with him, that has led to the formation of belief that the income of the assessee chargeable to tax has escaped assessment. The reassessment is quashed. (AY. 2010-11)

ITO v. Bishambhar Dayal Agrawal (2024) 227 TTJ 38 (UO)/ 161 taxmann.com 1063 (Raipur) (Trib)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Long-term capital gains-Sale of shares-Information from Investigation Wing-accommodation entries-Demat-Sales through registered broker-Shares were sold before splitting up of shares-No link between reasons recorded and formation of belief-Reassessment is invalid. [S. 10(38) 45, 148] 1893

The Tribunal allowed the appeal and held that the assessee had bought the shares in the initial public offer by making payments through cheque. The assessee held the shares for more than a year and sold it in the open market through a registered share broker for which securities transaction tax was paid. Corresponding reduction of shares had also been made from the assessee's dematerialised statement. Hence, the very basis of the formation of belief that income had escaped assessment is fallacious. The Assessing Officer had referred to the split-up of S's shares, which had happened in the year 2015 to allege a malafide motive on the part of the assessee. However, the assessee had actually sold the shares in June, 2014 itself much before the act of splitting up of the shares. Hence, the assessee's case did not fall under the modus operandi mentioned in the Assessing Officer's recorded reasons, which did not have a live link to the formation of the belief of the Assessing Officer. The reopening made under section 147 was based on incorrect assumptions of facts and hence was quashed. (AY. 2015-16, 2017-18)

1896 S. 147 : Reassessment-Residential status-Fictitious loss-Reassessment notice on the assumption as resident-Reopening Based on receipt of information of escapement of income-Assuming as non-resident-Proceedings in status of Non-resident is bad in law-In Income-tax matters, the law to be applied is the law in force for the relevant assessment year unless otherwise stated or implied. [S. 133A, 143(3) 144C(15(b)(ii) 148]
The court held, that it was well-settled that the law applicable for the relevant assessment year should be seen. During the remand proceedings, the Assessing Officer, after examining the passport, had observed that for the impugned assessment year, the assessee was a resident. However, the Revenue authorities had considered the assessee's residential status on the date of issuance of notice under section 148 to be non-resident, which was not correct, and that the entire proceedings in the status of a non-resident is not sustainable in the eyes of law hence quashed. The court held, that it was on record that the assessee had filed the original return and that the assessee had filed a copy of the original return in response to notice under section 148. In the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer under section 148, there was no mention of the assessee having filed the original return. There could not be a valid reason to believe that income had escaped assessment due to any failure on the part of the assessee to fully and truly disclose all material facts necessary for assuming jurisdiction under section 148. The omission to record that the assessee had filed the original return, as was evident from the record, clearly demonstrates that the reasons cited were incorrect. Consequently, the Assessing Officer's assumption of jurisdiction based on these erroneous reasons was invalid.. (AY. 2007-08)

S. 147 : Reassessment-Moratorium in force-Liquidation-Insolvency and Bankruptcy laws-Code has overriding effect over provisions of Act-CIT(A) is wrong in not adjudicating matter on merits-Matter restored to Commissioner (Appeals) for disposal on merits after affording assessee opportunity of hearing through Liquidator. [S. 147, 148, 178(6), (Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016,S. 14, 33(5),53, 238) 1899

The court held that the Commissioner (Appeals), without going into the merits, deleted the addition as not sustainable in terms of section 33(5) of the Code, on the ground that the assessee was undergoing liquidation. On appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals) had knowledge of the fact that the assessee, the corporate debtor had gone into liquidation by order dated December 4, 2018 passed under section 33 of the Code by the National Company Law Tribunal and had appointed the official liquidator of the corporate debtor. The Commissioner (Appeals) had erred in not adjudicating the matter on the merits, since it was with respect to the determination of tax dues only, especially when the liquidator himself was pursuing the matter before the first appellate authority. The matter is restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) for disposal on the merits in accordance with law after affording the assessee (corporate debtor) an opportunity of hearing through the liquidator. The non obstante clause in section 238 of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016 clarifies that the Code shall have the effect of overriding the provisions of other laws. Section 178(6) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, as amended with effect from November 1, 2016, makes it clear that the Code will override the provisions of the Act. The Income-tax authorities have limited jurisdiction to assess or determine the quantum of Income-tax dues but have no authority to initiate recovery of such dues on its own during the period of moratorium in violation of section 14 or section 33(5) of the Code. The Income-tax authorities are like any other creditor, may stake their claim before liquidator or adjudicatory authority as the case may be, within the statutory limitation period provided under the Code for substantiating its claim under the waterfall mechanism related to the order of priority as provided under section 53 of the Code. The court held that the Assessing Officer mentioned that the assessee is a beneficiary of accommodation entries by way of share premium and share capital which had escaped assessment. It was clear that the reasons were recorded not on the basis of objective satisfaction of the Assessing Officer based upon information received but merely because the share application money and share premium received by the assessee is not verified and remained unexplained. The reasons recorded had to be read as recorded and there could be no modification, elaboration or substitution thereof. The Order of CIT(A) affirming the reassessment is set aside. (AY. 2012-13)

In the absence of such documentary evidence, there was no reason to interfere with the order of the authorities. The Tribunal ruled in favor of the assessee, quashing the reassessment orders for both assessment years in question. S. 147 : Reassessment –With in four years-No specific query was raised in the course of original assessment on which the reassessment is initiated-Reassessment is valid-Electrical installations- Entitle to depreciation at 15%- Non compete fee-Eligible depreciation as intangible asset- Time share membership fee- Entire membership fee receivable up front at time of enrolment of member is not chargeable in the initial year- On merits additions are set aside to the file of Assessing Officer. [S. 2(47), 4, 14A, 32, 40(a)(i), 148] 1903

The assessee, engaged in selling vacation ownership and providing holiday facilities, was initially assessed under section 143(3) on 28.12.2011. The assessment was reopened under section 147 on the grounds that the assessee claimed depreciation at 15% on electrical installations instead of 10%, and at 25% on non-compete fees by treating them as intangible assets. The CIT(A) dismissed the appeal, however, the ITAT upheld the validity of the reassessment, noting that it was initiated within four years and that no specific queries or findings were made during the original assessment. The Tribunal allowed the assessee's claim of 15% depreciation on items such as air conditioners, refrigerators, and generators, treating them as plant and machinery. The ITAT reversed the disallowance by the AO and CIT(A), holding that non-compete fees qualify as intangible assets eligible for depreciation under section 32. Even for the disallowance under section 14A read with Rule 8D, the AO had included all investments, including strategic investments in subsidiaries from which no exempt income was earned, the Tribunal held that such strategic investments should be excluded when determining average investments under Rule 8D.

The matter was remanded to the AO for verification of the fund flow statement and other relevant details, as the assessee claimed that investments in mutual funds yielding exempt income were made from own funds. Lastly, the Tribunal held that the entire membership fee receivable upfront at the time of enrolment is not chargeable as income in the initial year. Relied on *Geetha Hotels P. Ltd v. S. 147 : Reassessment-Substantial difference in consideration shown on registered sale deed and sale agreement-Reassessment is valid-Cash credit –Unexplained investment-Source is established-Addition is deleted. [S. 68,69, 148] 1904

The court held that there was a substantial difference in consideration shown on registered sale deed and sale agreement, prima facie belief of AO that income had escaped assessment is enough at stage of reopening and merits of matter are not relevant at said stage. Thus, the Reassessment was held to be valid. As regards merits the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer failed to establish the understatement of sale consideration, the onus of which was upon him. The assessee also showed receipt of loans/financial assistance from various parties totalling to Rs. 9.50 lakhs in support affidavits. It was not disputed that the cheque numbers provided therein found a place in the registered sale deed, hence, the fact of making payment by these persons directly to the seller was established. The Assessee was also able to prove the source of the balance Rs. 2.50 lakhs and Rs. 65,100 towards the stamp duty and registration charges. Accordingly, addition u/s 69 is deleted. (AY 2012-13)

[S. 68, 148, Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, S. 5, 31, 238]

The assessee-company underwent a Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC), 2016. Subsequently, the Assessing Officer reopened the assessment and made additions under section 68 for unexplained cash credits relating to alleged bogus purchases, which the CIT(A) further enhanced by invoking section 69C. The Tribunal held that any tax claim or demand by the Income Tax Department constitutes an operational debt, making the Revenue an operational creditor of the assessee-company. Pursuant to section 238 of the IBC, once a resolution plan is approved by the Adjudicating Authority (NCLT), it is binding on the corporate debtor and all creditors, including the Central Government and statutory authorities. The IBC overrides any inconsistent provisions of other laws, including the Income-tax Act. Accordingly, the Income Tax Department is bound by the terms of the approved resolution plan and cannot initiate or continue any proceedings regarding issues or transactions prior to the commencement of the insolvency process. Therefore, the Assessing Officer was not entitled to make additions for periods before the approval of the resolution plan, and the reassessment order was set aside. (AY. 2011-12)

[S. 148, Form 15CA, Art. 13(4)]

During relevant AY, the Assessee earned capital gain from sale of its shares in an Indian company and did not file return on ground that same were exempt in terms of article 13(4) of the DTAA. The ITAT observed that the Assessee had made remittances in respect of the aforementioned transaction and filed Form 15CA in respect thereof. Form 15CA formed the basis on which the assessment was reopened by the AO without recording any independent satisfaction of his own. The ITAT held that even though the AO, at the stage of reopening is required to form only a prima facie satisfaction that income chargeable to tax has escapement assessment. In this case, no such prima facie satisfaction was found from the reasons recorded. Hence, there was no escapement of income and the notice issued u/s 148 was held as void ab initio and consequently the assessment was treated as nullity. (AY. 2017-18)

N. K. Vora sales head of Sunshine group, gave a statement that assessee had paid certain sum in cash for purchase of a property from Trincas Agencies & Commerce Pvt

Ltd. Based on that assessment was reopened and Assessing Officer proceeded to hold that assessee paid on money (difference between agreement value and market value) to builders which was added to income of assessee being unexplained expenditure under section 69C. CIT(A)) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that sale consideration paid by assessee was more than market value of said property. Since assessee's transaction vide sale agreement dated 13-8-2012 did not fall during year under consideration nor assessee had entered into any agreement with Sunshine group, rather purchased property by virtue of agreement entered into with Trincas Agencies & Commerce Pvt Ltd, reopening was not sustainable in eyes of law being based upon incorrect facts. [S. 9(1)(vi), 9(1)(vii), 148, 194E, 195, Art. 12(3)] 1908

Assessee is a foreign company incorporated in Australia. Based on AIR information available in AIMS module of ITBA, Assessing Officer held that assessee had entered into certain financial transactions and was of view that activities undertaken by assessee were income generating activities, whereas, assessee had not filed any return of income in India under section 139(1). Accordingly, the Assessing Officer reopened assessment under section 147. The Assessee objected to reopening of assessment and submitted that it had entered into an Asian Broadcast Agreement with ESPN granting certain rights for telecasting certain matches played in Australia and that ESPN was a partnership incorporated in USA and had principal place of business at Singapore. It was submitted by assessee that fee received by assessee from another non-resident company was not subject to tax in India and, even otherwise also, fee received could not be treated as royalty under article 12(3) of India-Australia DTAA. However, Assessing Officer rejected submission of assessee and taxed license fee received from ESPN as royalty taxable at hands of assessee in India. DRP affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that in year under consideration, neither assessee had made remittances to anyone outside India or in India nor deducted any tax at source, therefore, there was no question of assessee filing any TDS return. This fact was accepted subsequently by Assessing Officer while disposing of objections of assessee, thus, reopening of assessment under section 147 was wholly without jurisdiction. (AY. 2013-14)

1910 S. 147: Reassessment-Borrowed satisfaction-The reopening of an assessment solely on borrowed satisfaction, devoid of independent scrutiny, lacks validity. [S. 148]
The Revenue, alleging that the assessee earned bogus long-term capital gains (LTCG) from penny stocks and received commission for accommodation entries, reopened the assessment based on information from the Investigation Wing. The Assessing Officer, after obtaining approval from the competent authority, made additions under section 68 for unexplained cash credits and also added commission income for arranging the alleged accommodation entry of LTCG, as the assessee had claimed exemption under section 10(38) of the Income Tax Act for these gains. The assessee challenged the reopening and the additions before the Commissioner of Income Tax (Appeals) (CIT(A)), National Faceless Appeal Centre (NFAC), Delhi, who dismissed his appeal. The assessee then filed an appeal before the Tribunal where it was contended that the reopening was invalid as the reasons recorded by the AO were vague, contradictory, and based on borrowed satisfaction without any independent application of mind. He also submitted that he had purchased and sold the shares through genuine transactions and had disclosed all the material facts in his return of income. He relied on various judicial precedents to support his case. The Tribunal, after hearing both the parties, found merit in the assessee's contentions and held that the reasons recorded by the AO were not clear and unambiguous and did not establish any link between the information received and the escapement of income by the assessee. The Tribunal also observed that the AO had stated different amounts of LTCG and commission in the reasons and the assessment order and had used the terms "his/her" and "she" interchangeably, which showed non-application of mind. The Tribunal further noted that the AO had not examined the details of the purchase and sale of the shares, the mode of payment and receipt, and the source of funds of the assessee, and had merely relied on the information from the Investigation Wing without any independent verification. The Tribunal, therefore, quashed the reopening and the additions made by the AO and allowed the appeal of the assessee. (AY. 2013-14)

S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Limitation-Factual finding-Dispatch date-High Court dismissed on the ground that no substantial question of law-SLP dismissed. [S. 147, Art. 136] 1912

Dismissing the appeal of the assessee the Court held that the record did not show that the issue of limitation had been raised before the Tribunal on a factual foundation that though notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 bore the date March 31, 2017, it was not issued on that date but it was put in the course of dispatch after that date. Since there is no substantial question of law, the SLP of the assessee dismissed.

S. 148 : Reassessment-Notice-Not served on last known address-Participating in reassessment proceedings would not constitute waiver of jurisdictional issue-Order of High Court is affirmed-SLP of revenue dismissed due to low tax effect. [S. 147, 268A Art. 136] 1913

The Tribunal held that notice under section 148 was not issued at correct address because address given in notice was not last known address of assessee. The Tribunal also held that mere fact that assessee had participated in reassessment proceedings despite not having been issued or served with notice under section 148 in accordance with law would not constitute a waiver of said jurisdictional requirement. The Tribunal set aside reassessment order. The High Court upheld Tribunal's order. On SLP, revenue stated that this petition be dismissed on ground of low tax effect as being covered by Circular No. 17 of 2019 dated 8-8-2019 issued by Department of Revenue, Ministry of Finance. S. 148 : Reassessment –Amalgamation-Notice issued to non existing company-Non-est and void-SLP against the order of High Court dismissed. [S. 147, Art. 226] 1914

The Assessee-company by a communication dated 28-4-2021 informed Assessing Officer about factum of non-existence of company Elitecore Technologies Private Limited ("ETPL") on account of its amalgamation with assessee-company with effect from 29-9-2015 and emphasized that since notice had been issued in name of a non-existing entity, same was non est and void ab initio. Despite objections of assessee, Assessing Officer issued a fresh notice requiring non-existent entity to show cause as to why proposed variation be not made and passed assessment order against it followed by penalty notice and demand notice. The High Court held that since notice under section 148, assessment order as also penalty notice and demand notice had been issued in name of a non-existing entity despite having been informed about factum of amalgamation, assessment order and notices were untenable and set aside. S. 148 : Reassessment –Notice –Protective assessment-Issuance of notice after initiation of corporate Insolvency resolution process and after initiation of corporate insolvency resolution process and giving effect to resolution plan-Notices and subsequent proceedings of reassessment and penalty and consequential orders are reversed and set aside-Assessing Officer should modify demand giving effect to order of adjudicating Authority in Corporate Insolvency process under Code-Revenue may take whatever steps available to take action, if any, against ex-promoter and other third parties in accordance with law-Notices, subsequent proceedings of reassessment and penalty and consequent orders are reversed and set aside. The Assessee-company is undergoing Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) and resolution plan was approved by NCLT. As per resolution plan, value of all dues including income tax dues was treated as nil and was deemed to have been fully discharged and settled for any period prior to closing date. After resolution plan had been given effect, department initiated reassessment proceedings against assessee by issuing a notice under section 148. On facts, issue of notice under section 148 to assessee company after approval of resolution plan for a period prior to closing date was invalid and bad in law, having been issued contrary to provisions of Code and Resolution Plan. The Court also held that the Assessing Officer should modify demand giving effect to order of adjudicating Authority in Corporate Insolvency process under Code. The Court also observed that Revenue may take whatever steps available to take action, if any, against ex-promoter and other third parties in accordance with law. S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Claim for deduction of interest-Intimation is not an order of assessment-Assessment for the first time under section 147-Entitle for permissible deductions under the law. [S. 43B, 143(1), 147] 1919

The assessee filed original return and revised return of income prior to the issuance of any notice under section 148. The assessee had claimed deduction of interest paid to financial institutions and banks during the previous years relevant to the assessment years 1999-2000 and 2000-01. No intimation under section 143(1)(a) was sent by the Assessing Officer. Even if the acknowledgment of return was treated to be an intimation under section 143(1)(a), yet it was not an assessment order. Since there was no original assessment proceeding and assessment order, the question of reassessment did not arise. The order passed by the Assessing Officer was not a reassessment order but an assessment order pursuant to the original and revised returns filed by the assessee. The assessee claimed interest as deductible expenditure under section 43B and its admissibility was not disputed by the Assessing Officer. The proceedings before the Assessing Officer not being reassessment proceedings, the assessee had lawfully claimed interest as a deductible expenditure which the Assessing Officer was bound to have allowed. The charge of tax was on the income and not on gross receipts. It was the profits and gains of business or profession which had to be computed after deducting the losses and expenditures incurred for business. Interest is an allowable expenditure. The reassessment proceedings were initiated against assessee and the Assessee filed writ petition contending that Crime Branch had seized certain documents, computers, hard disks, etc. from assessee and until all those were released, assessee would not be in a position to effectively respond to notices of reassessment. Assessee sought for a direction to revenue to release all seized documents, data, articles and further to stay all further de novo assessment proceedings. The Court held that there was a vague and omnibus statement in petition that assessee pursued matter for release in terms of order passed by Judicial Magistrate, however, this vague and omnibus statement was not backed by any material, documents, etc. There was nothing on record to indicate that assessee took any serious steps for obtaining documents/material/hard disks from crime branch. S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Notice issued in the name of deceased-Not enforceable in law-legal heirs submitted proof of death of assessee-Notice is null and void. [S. 147, 292BB, Art. 226] 1929

The notice under section 148 was issued to the deceased assessee after his death and could not have been lawfully served upon him. Since the deceased's son, not the assessee, participated in the proceedings, the primary condition for invoking section 292BB i. e., participation by the assessee was not satisfied. Initiating and continuing proceedings against a deceased person, even after being informed of the death, was held to be unsustainable. Section 292BB is intended to prevent an assessee from taking advantage of procedural defects only when the proceedings are known to and understood by the assessee; it cannot cure the defect of initiating proceedings against a deceased individual. The notice issued in the name of the deceased was thus unenforceable in law. The legal heirs, who were not statutorily obligated to inform the Department of the assessee's death, submitted sufficient documentation to establish the fact. Accordingly, the notice and all consequential proceedings against the deceased were declared null and void, and the notice under section 148 was quashed. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-After the expiry of four years-Order passed by Designated Authority under Kar Vivad Samadhan Scheme, 1998 determining tax arrears-Assessing Officer has no jurisdiction to issue notice for reopening assessment thereafter-No material furnished in declaration shown to be false-Reassessment is without jurisdiction. The Court allowed the petition and held that there was no order withdrawing the certificate issued by the Commissioner determining the tax arrears in form 3 dated January 8, 1999 under the 1998 Scheme. It was not the case of the Department that there was any misdeclaration made by the assessee under the 1998 Scheme. On this ground alone the notice was unsustainable. Since the issue of reopening the assessment under section 147 had been raised on the issue of assessee's portfolio management scheme all the details including with the particular entity had been furnished by the assessee as required by the Assessing Officer during the assessment proceedings and had been dealt with in detail in the assessment order. Therefore, the reopening of assessment after the period of four years was merely on the basis of change of opinion of the Assessing Officer and did not constitute justification or reason to believe that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. The reasons to believe did not state that there was any failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for its assessment. The notice dated January 15, 2000 under section 148 was without jurisdiction and unsustainable. (AY. 1992-93)

The assessee was served with a notice under section 142(1) directing it to comply with the notice issued under section 148. The assessee communicated that he did not receive any notice under section 148 and the reasons for reopening the assessment under section 147. Despite the letters and objections of the assessee the reassessment proceedings were continued. On writ, the Court allowed the petition and held that the Revenue itself had conceded that the notice under section 148 was not served on the assessee at any point of time. The notice was served on the wrong address by stating the incorrect name of the village which was not disputed by the Revenue and had also been recorded by the authorities while rejecting the objections of the assessee. Therefore, in the absence of actual service, the notice issued under section 148 and the initiation of reassessment proceedings under section 147 were not valid and hence quashed and set aside. The assessee sought quashing of assessment order and the consequential notice of demand on the ground that reasons for re-opening the assessment were not provided. Dismissing the petition the Court held that upon receipt of notice under section 148, the assessee has two options, first is to file a revised return of income and request for reasons for re-opening assessment and second is to inform Assessing Officer that original return of income should be treated as return in response to notice under section 148. On the facts, the assessee had not resorted to either option and thus, assessee was not entitled to challenge reassessment proceedings on ground that reasons for re-assessment were not provided. S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Limitation-Amendment in law-Effect of amendment with effect from 1-4-2021-Notices dated 31-3-2021, but dispatched on 1-4-2021 or thereafter from Income-Tax Business application portal-Notices barred by limitation. [S. 147, 148, 149, 151, Art. 226] 1937

The last date for service of notice and initiating proceedings under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 in the case of the assessees was coming to an end on March 31, 2021 and in the majority of the cases, the notice was dated March 31, 2021 but had been issued from the office of the Department either on April 1, 2021 or on subsequent dates. The Assessee filed writ petitions contending that the notices were barred by limitation, allowing the petitions, that all the notices under section 148 had been issued (not served) on April 1, 2021 or on a later date. The question of service of these notices and the date of service of notices upon the assessees was of no relevance or consequence since the notices had been dispatched from the Department on or after April 1, 2021 which itself was beyond the period of limitation. All the notices issued under section 148, dated March 31, 2021, were barred by limitation under sections 148 and 149, since these notices had left the Income-tax Business Application portal on or after April 1, 2021 and therefore, were unsustainable.

1938 S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Service of notice-Mandatory-Assessing Officer though aware of new address of assessee issuing notice at old address-No statutory obligation on assessee to update address in Permanent Account Number database-Participation in reassessment proceedings without service of notice does not validate notice and proceedings-Order of Tribunal quashing the assessment is affirmed. [S. 143(1), 147, 149(1)(b), 260A, 282(1), 292BB, Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order V, rule 12]
Dismissing the appeal the Court held that as found by the Tribunal the notice dated March 27, 2008 under section 148 for reopening the assessment under section 147 for the assessment year 2001-02 was not issued at the correct address of the assessee. Such notice, sent by speed post, but having not been returned unserved, would be of no avail since the address given in the notice was not the last known address of the assessee. No provision in the Act obliged the assessee to ensure that his changed address was entered in the permanent account number database failing which he was precluded from insisting on the notice under section 148 being issued to him at the known address and being served upon him. For the assessment year 2005-06 and the subsequent assessment years, the assessee had disclosed his new address. The Assessing Officer had sent letters and the intimation under section 143(1) dated January 25, 2008 for the assessment year 2006-07 at the new address of the assessee. Hence, though the Assessing Officer was aware of the change of address of the assessee, he had issued the notice under section 148 at the old address. No legal error was committed by the Tribunal in holding that there was no proper service of notice on the assessee under section 148. The requirement of both the issuance and the service of notice upon the assessee for the purposes of sections 147 and 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 are mandatory "jurisdictional requirements". The mere fact that an assessee participated in the reassessment proceedings despite not having been issued or served with the notice under section 148 in accordance with law will not constitute a waiver of such jurisdictional requirement. S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Non-resident-Non jurisdictional AO-Revenue could not demonstrate that when the notice was issued on 30th March, 2022, ITO, Ajmer, had valid jurisdiction over the assessee-Reassessment is quashed. [S. 147] 1939

The Tribunal held that the assessee was a non-resident on the date of issue of notice under s. 148 and his jurisdiction remained with International Charge Jaipur, hence the ITO, Ajmer had no jurisdiction over the assessee and, therefore, the reassessment made pursuant to the notice issued by the said AO is not valid. The Tribunal admitted the additional ground on jurisdiction. The Tribunal held that the assessee is a non-resident Indian according to his permanent account number profile. The Assessing Officer, without knowing the status of the assessee, had assumed jurisdiction. The faceless assessing unit had made a request to transfer the case from them because it was the case of a non-resident individual, who could be assessed only at the international charge. As a result, the ITO at Ajmer had no jurisdiction to issue the notice under section 148. Accordingly the notice and the consequential assessment order is quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 148: Reassessment-Notice-Initiation of reassessment proceedings based on wrong recorded facts-Mistake cannot be treated as inadvertent-Reopening is void ab initio. [S. 147] 1941

The court held that the reasons recorded were factually incorrect which could not have led the Assessing Officer to arrive at a valid satisfaction that income for the year under consideration had escaped assessment. The plea of the Department that the recording of wrong facts by the Assessing Officer was an inadvertent mistake, is of no avail and did not validate the recorded reasons. Thus, the reassessment order was quashed as void ab initio. (AY. 2011-12)

S. 148: Reassessment-Charitable trust-Non-Registration-Reassessment is quashed-Circular No. 1 of 2015, Dated 21-1-2015 (2015) 371 ITR 22(St) [S. 2(15), 10(23C)(iv), 11, 12A(2), Maharashtra Nurses Act, 1966] 1942

The reassessment notice issued under section 148 of the Act dated September 28, 2018, and the registration date was September 29, 2018. This implied that the assessment proceedings for earlier years were pending before the Assessing Officer as of the date of such registration. Hence, the provisions of sections 11 and 12 of the Act would apply to income held by the assessee-trust of any assessment year preceding the assessment year in which the registration was granted. According to the Central Board of Direct Taxes Circular No. 1 of 2015 (2015) 371 ITR 22(St) that the reassessment proceeding is bad in law as it was contrary to the proviso to section 12A(2) of the Act and hence was quashed. (AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18)

The court held that the notice under section 148 had been issued in the name of a dead person and the legal heir of the deceased assessee had not been impleaded and no notice under section 148 had been issued in the name of any legal heir of the deceased assessee. The reassessment had not been framed in the name of any specific person against whom it could be enforced. Thus the reassessment order is quashed. (AY. 2012-13)

1944 S. 148 : Reassessment –Notice-Additional ground-Legal issue-Time for issue notice under Section 143(2) against original return had not lapsed-Reassessment notice is bad in law-Limitation-Time-limit to be reckoned from date of return whether filed under Section 139(1) or 139(5) or in response to notice under section 142(1). [S. 139(1), 139(2), 139(5), 142(1), 143(2), 147]
The court held that the issue raised by the assessee in the additional grounds was a legal issue challenging the validity of notice under section 148 of the Act even when the Assessing Officer had the time to issue notice under section 143(2) for conducting regular assessment. The additional grounds were directly connected with the validity of reassessment proceedings and no new facts needed to be investigated for adjudicating them. The additional grounds raised by the assessee in both the years under consideration was admitted. The assessee had not filed its original return under section 139 of the Act. However on receipt of the notice under section 142(1), the assessee filed the return of income on December 2, 2016 for both years. Under such circumstances, according to the law during the relevant years, the Assessing Officer had six months from the end of the financial year in which such return was filed to issue notice under section 143(2) of the Act. In this case he had time to issue notice under section 143(2) till September 30, 2017 to conduct regular assessment under section 143(3) of the Act. However, notice under section 148 of the Act was issued to the assessee for both assessment years on June 22, 2017. As on the date of the issuance of notice under section 148 of the Act the original assessment proceedings were pending as the time period for issuance of notice under section 143(2) had not expired. The court held that Section 142(1) and section 148 of the Act cannot operate simultaneously. There was no need for the Assessing Officer to issue notice under section 148 as there was time to issue notice under section 143(2) of the Act for conducting the assessment under section 143(3) of the Act. Accordingly, the notice under section 148 by the Assessing Officer for both the assessment years is quashed. (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16)

S. 148 : Reassessment –Notice-Beyond human probabilities-Factual mistakes and errors in dates mentioned on notice-Assessment order is void ab-initio-Notice issued affixture through inspector without presence of two independent witnesses of neighborhood as per procedure laid down in section 282 read with rules 12, 17 and rule 19 of Order V of Civil Procedure Code, 1908, such service of notice is invalid. [S. 147, 282, rules 12, 17 and rule 19 of Order V of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908] 1945

The Court held that the notice under section 148, dated 27-03-2017, was purportedly issued on 15-03-2017 and served on the assessee on 20-03-2017, a sequence that defies human probabilities. Such factual inconsistencies and errors in the dates mentioned in the notice and the assessment order undermined the very foundation of the assessment, rendering it erroneous and void ab initio. Furthermore, the Assessing Officer served the reopening notice by affixture through an inspector, but failed to comply with the prescribed procedure under section 282, read with Rules 12 and 17 and Rule 19 of Order V of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, as no independent witnesses from the neighbourhood were present, nor was there evidence of any local person being involved in identifying the assessee's place of business prior to affixture. Consequently, the service of notice under section 148 by way of affixture was held to be invalid and not in accordance with law.. Relied on *CIT v. S. 148 : Reassessment –Notice-Notice issued by non-jurisdictional Assessing Officer-Notice and Assessment order is quashed. [S. 147] 1946

The Assessee is the resident of Gurgaon and the Assessing Officer issued reopening notice in name of the assessee. Subsequently, case of assessee was transferred to Assessing Officer, Ward 4(1), Gurgaon who completed reassessment. The Assessee contended that since Assessing Officer, Ward 69(1), Delhi who issued reopening notice did not have jurisdiction to issue reopening notice, reassessment completed by Assessing Officer, Ward 4(1), Gurgaon was bad in law. On appeal the Tribunal held that since Assessing Officer, Ward 69(1), Delhi who issued reopening notice had no jurisdiction over assessee, assumption of jurisdiction by him for reopening assessment by issue of notice under section 148 was bad in law. S. 148 : Reassessment –Notice-Non-service of notice-E mail is sent to wrong address-Notice was not served within period of limitation-Notice in e-filing portal had to be considered as date of issuance of notice - Reassessment is bad in law. [S. 115BBA, 144, 147] 1947

The Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 via email through the ITBA portal just one day prior to the expiry of the limitation period; however, the email was sent to an account not belonging to the assessee and was consequently bounced. As it was established that the notice under section 148 was never served on the assessee within the statutory limitation period, the assessment order passed without proper service of notice was declared invalid and was quashed. Furthermore, since the assessee was granted access to the ITBA portal only in March 2022, he could not have viewed the notice issued on 30-03-2021 prior to that date. In such circumstances, the date on which the assessee actually viewed the notice on the e-filing portal must be regarded as the date of issuance of the notice. (AY. 2013-14)

1948 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Grant of approval without application of mind-Benefits of giving opportunity of hearing after issue of initial notice under Section 148A(b)-Order passed under Section 148A(d) without giving requested opportunity of hearing-Approval by Principal Commissioner without application of mind-Order and consequent notice is set aside by High Court-SLP of Revenue is dismissed as the reasons assigned for seeking condonation of delay of 201 days in filing the SLP are neither satisfactory nor sufficient in law to condone the same. [S. 147, 148, 148(A)(b), 148A(d), 149(1((b), 151, Art. 136]
The AO issued a notice under Section 148A(b), passed an order under Section 148A(d), and issued a notice under Section 148. The assessee filed a writ petition contending that there was a total non-application of mind in granting approval under Section 151. Further, the AO refused to grant a personal hearing to the assessee, citing that it was premature and would be provided during the subsequent proceedings. The Court observed that the notice under Section 148A(b) was issued for AY 2019-20, which falls within the 3-year time limit. However, the application submitted for approval and sanction under Section 151 incorrectly stated that the 'Time limit for current proceedings covered under section 149(1)(b)-for more than 3 years but not more than 10 years'. Consequently, the Court held that the application for approval, the recommendation, and the subsequent grant of approval were all mechanically made by the officers without proper application of mind. The Hon'ble Supreme Court noted a delay of 201 days in filing the Special Leave Petition, which did not contain any satisfactory reasons for the condonation of the delay. Hence, the Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the SLP on the ground that the reasons assigned for seeking condonation of delay of 201 days in filing the SLP are neither satisfactory nor sufficient in law to condone the same. S. 148A: Reassessment-Limitation-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-TOLA overrides Income-tax Act to extent of relaxing time limit for issue of reassessment notice which fell for completion from 20-3-2020 to 31-3-2021, till 30-6-2021-Section 3(1) of TOLA relaxes time limit for compliance with actions that fall for completion from 20 March 2020 to 31 March 2021 and TOLA will accordingly extend time limit for grant of sanction by authority specified under section 151-Entire time allowed to assessee to respond to show cause notice has to be excluded for computing period of limitation and thus, period from date of issuance of deemed notices till supply of relevant information and material by Assessing Officers to assessees in terms of directions issued by this Court in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 286 Taxman 183/ 444 ITR 1 (SC) has to be excluded from computation of period of limitation-In case of section 151 of new regime if time limit of three years from end of an assessment year falls between 20 March 2020 and 31 March 2021, then specified authority under section 151(i) has an extended time till 30 June 2021 to grant approval-In case of section 151 of old regime, if time limit of four years from end of an assessment year falls between 20 March 2020 and 31 March 2021, then specified authority under section 151(2) has time till 31 March 2021 to grant approval. [S. 148, 149(1)(b), 151, Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, S. 3(1)] 1950

The notifications dated 31-3-2021 and 27-4-2021 issued by the Central Government under section 3(1) of TOLA contained an explanation declaring that the provisions under the old regime shall apply to the reassessment proceedings initiated under them. Thus, the notifications directed the assessing officers to apply the provisions of the old regime for reassessment notices issued after 1-4-2021. The assessing officers accordingly issued reassessment notices between 1-4-2021 and 30-6-2021 by relying on the provisions under section 148 of the old regime. These reassessment notices were challenged by the assessees before various High Courts. The High Courts allowed the writ petitions and quashed all the reassessment notices issued between 1-4-2021 and 30-6-2021 under the old regime on the ground that: (i) Sections 147 to 151 stood substituted by Finance Act, 2021 from 1 April 2021; (ii) In the absence of any saving clause, the Revenue could initiate reassessment proceedings after 1-4-2021 only in accordance with the provisions of the new regime since they were remedial, beneficial, and meant to protect the rights and interests of the assessees; and (iii) the Central Government could not exercise its delegated authority to re-activate the pre-existing law. UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 286 Taxman 183/ 444 ITR 1 (SC) held that it was in complete agreement with the view taken by various High Courts in holding' that 'the benefit of the new provisions shall be made available even in respect of the proceedings relating to past assessment years, provided Section 148 notice has been issued on or after 1-4-2021. However, the Court observed that the Revenue issued the reassessment notices under a bona fide belief that the amendments may not yet have been enforced. The Supreme Court exercised its discretionary jurisdiction under article 142 in order to balance the interests of the Revenue and the assessees and directed that the reassessment notices issued under the old regime shall be deemed to have been issued under Section 148A(b) of the new regime. On 11-5-2022, the Central Board of Direct Taxes issued an Instruction for the implementation of the decision Ashish Agarwal (supra). The Instruction "clarified" that Ashish Agarwal (supra) will apply to all cases where extended reassessment notices have been issued [...] irrespective of the fact whether such notices have been challenged or not. Paragraph 6. 1 of the Instruction stated that the reassessment notices will "travel back in time to their original date when such notices were to be issued and then new section 149 of the Act is to be applied at that point. Thus, the Instruction is based on the presumption that the notices issued under Section 148 of the new regime will travel back in time to their original dates, that is, the date when the Section 148 notice under the old regime was issued. Paragraph 6. 2 of the Instruction elaborated on the mechanism for issuing notices under section 148 of the new regime. The assessing officers accordingly considered the replies furnished by the assessees and passed orders under section 148A(d). Subsequently, notices under section 148 of the new regime were issued to the assessees by the assessing officers between July and September 2022 for the assessment years 2013-2014, 2014-2015, 2015-2016, 2016-2017, and 2017-2018. These notices were challenged before several High Courts. The High Courts declared the notices to be invalid on the ground that they were: (i) time-barred; and (ii) issued without the appropriate sanction of the specified authority. On the revenue's appeal to the Supreme Court, on analysing the various provisions the Court held ; as under ;

(a) After 1-4-2021, the Income-tax Act has to be read along with the substituted provisions;

(b) TOLA will continue to apply to the Income-tax Act after 1-4-2021 if any action or proceeding specified under the substituted provisions of the Income-tax Act falls for completion between 20-3-2020 and 31-3-2021;

(c) Section 3(1) of TOLA overrides section 149 only to the extent of relaxing the time-limit for issuance of a reassessment notice under section 148;

(d) TOLA will extend the time-limit for the grant of sanction by the authority specified under section 151. The test to determine whether TOLA will apply to section 151 of the new regime is this: if the time-limit of three years from the end of an assessment year falls between 20-3-2020 and 31-3-2021, then the specified authority under section 151(i) has extended time till 30-6-2021 to grant approval;

(e) In the case of section 151 of the old regime, the test is: if the time-limit of four years from the end of an assessment year falls between 20-3-2020 and 31-3-2021, then the specified authority under section 151(2) has extended time till 31-3-2021 to grant approval;

(f) The directions in Ashish Agarwal (supra) will extend to all the ninety thousand reassessment notices issued under the old regime during the period 1-4-2021 and 30-6-2021;

(g) The time during which the show cause notices were deemed to be stayed is from the date of issuance of the deemed notice between 1-4-2021 and 30-6-2021 till the supply of relevant information and material by the Assessing Officers to the assessees in terms of the directions issued by this Court in Ashish Agarwal (supra), and the period of two weeks allowed to the assessees to respond to the show cause notices; and

(h) The Assessing Officers were required to issue the reassessment notice under section 148 of the new regime within the time-limit surviving under the Income-tax Act read with TOLA. All notices issued beyond the surviving period are time barred and liable to be set aside.

Brief summary is S. 149(1) of the new regime is not prospective. It also applies to past assessment years, the time-limit of four years is now reduced to three years for all situations. The Revenue can issue notices under S. 148 of the new regime only if three years or less have elapsed from the end of the relevant assessment year; the proviso to s. 149(1)(b) of the new regime stipulates that the Revenue can issue reassessment notices for past assessment years only if the time-limit survives according to s. 149(1)(b) of the old regime, that is, six years from the end of the relevant assessment year; and, all notices issued invoking the time-limit under s. 149(1)(b) of the old regime will have to be dropped if the income chargeable to tax which has escaped assessment is less than Rupees fifty lakhs.

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notice after three years-Failure to file the return of income-Gross receipt of sale consideration not income chargeable to tax-Notice and consequential orders are quashed-SLP of Revenue dismissed. [S. 2(24), 147, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136] 1951

Order passed under section 148A(d) of the Act on the ground that the assessee having not filed a return of income for the assessment year 2016-17, the amount of Rs. 72,05,084 received by the assessee as a result of an export transaction was an asset which had escaped assessment. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that the Department had failed to understand the fundamental difference between sale consideration and income chargeable to tax. It had relied upon sections 2(24), 14, 28 and 44AD to emphasize the expression "income". Neither the notice under section 148A(b) nor the order under section 148A(d), nor the consequential notice under section 148 stated that the income alleged to have escaped assessment included land or buildings or shares or equities or loans or advances. The assessee had filed a reply to the notice under section 148A(b) wherein it had submitted that the amount of Rs. 72,05,084 was the gross receipt of sale consideration of 16 scooters which meant that the amount of Rs. 72,05,084 was the total sale consideration receipt of the transaction in question, and not income chargeable to tax which would obviously be less than such amount. With the reply the assessee had also furnished the details of items sold and payment receipts, computation of total income and the computation of tax on total income and had submitted these to the Assessing Officer before the passing of the order under section 148A(b). There was nothing stated in the provisions of section 148, 148A or 149 which could prevent the assessee from taking advantage of these provisions merely because of his failure to file return of income. SLP of the Revenue dismissed. (AY. 2016-17)

The Assessing Officer, issued an initial notice under section 148A(b), passed an order under section 148A(d) and issued the consequential notice under section 148 for reassessment under section 147, based on the information received from the Investigation Wing. On a writ petition challenging the notice for reopening, on the grounds that it was illegal and without jurisdiction. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the assessee had the efficacious remedy of statutory appeal under section 246A of the Act and that the court refrained from making any observations on the merits of the matter. [S. 68, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 136]

An information was received from DDIT (Investigation) that certain material/document was recovered which showed that assessee had entered into certain financial transactions and made some potential cash borrowings from several parties. The Assessing Officer issued notice for reopening of the assessment. On writ High Court held that report was as vague as possible as it stated that possible financial transactions could be deduced and decoded from hard copies obtained from DDIT and there was "potential" cash borrowed from various lenders and "probable" names of group were mentioned and set out without any particulars and that said material was not made available to assessee so as to enable it to give an effective reply and that Assessing Officer did not independently apply its mind to information furnished by DDIT which he was required to do while exercising power to reopen assessment. High Court, on facts, held that notice for reopening of assessment was bad in law and set aside. SLP of the Revenue is dismissed as the explanation given for condonation of delay of 399 days in filing SLP against order of High Court was not sufficient in law to condone delay.

Dismissing the petition the Court held that in the absence of any explanation for the transactions entered into with the entity in the relevant financial year having been offered by the assessee in her reply to the notice dated June 23, 2022, there was no error in the order passed by the Assessing Officer. When the assessee in her detailed reply on June 28, 2022 had elected not to explain or substantiate the transaction with the entity can not contend that she was denied an opportunity of hearing. The assessee's contention that the transaction was a loan transaction and it was repaid could be examined by the Assessing Officer in the assessment proceedings after examining the material furnished by the assessee. However, the Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d) holding that there was difference between the amount of guideline value and sale consideration of properties purchased by assessee which was assessable under section 56(2)(vii)(b). On writ the Court held that the notice under section 148 had raised an issue which was not previously raised in show cause notice, it was necessary for Assessing Officer to issue a fresh show cause notice calling for an explanation with regard to all issues that warranted issuance of a notice under section 148. Editorial : Apex Court decision in the case of UOI v. Rajeev Bansal [2024] 469 ITR 46 (SC) altered position.

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation-Notice issued after six years-Limitation period expired on 31-3 2020-Limitation for reopening assessment for assessment year 2013-14 expired on 31-3-2020, notice issued in June 2021 in case of assessee was barred by limitation, hence, section 148 notice dated 28-7-2022 issued pursuant to UOI v. Ashish Agarwal(2022) 286 Taxman 183/ 444 ITR 1 (SC) is quashed and set aside as it was invalid, without jurisdiction and barred by limitation [S. 148, 148A(b),148A(d), 149, Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, S. 3, Art. 226] 1960

The petitioner challenged the notice dated July 28, 2022 under section 148 of the Act for reopening of the assessment for the Assessment year 2013-14. The petitioner contended that the order dated July 27, 2002 passed under section 148A(d) of the Act and CBDT Instruction No 1 of 2002 dated May 11, 2002 (2022) 444 ITR 43 (St), the said order and notice is bad in law and without jurisdiction. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that validity of a notice issued under section 148 must be judged on basis of law existing on date on which such notice is issued. Accordingly the notice under section 148 cannot be issued in order to reopen assessment of an assessee in a case where right to reopen assessment was already barred under pre-amended Act on date when new legislation came into force. Applicability of section 149 is to be seen qua notice under section 148 and not with respect to notice issued under section 148A(b) or order passed under section 148A(b), and thus a notice, which had become time barred prior to 1-4-2021 as per the then prevailing provisions, would not be revived by virtue of application of section 149(1)(b) effective from 1-4-2021. Therefore, where limitation under Act (erstwhile section 149) for reopening assessment for assessment year 2013-14 expired on 31-3-2020, notice issued in June 2021 in case of assessee was barred by limitation, hence, reassessment proceedings initiated pursuant to judgment in judgment in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal(2022) 286 Taxman 183/ 444 ITR 1(SC) is also be regarded as beyond time limit. On facts since limitation under erstwhile section 149 for reopening assessment for assessment year 2013-14 expired on 31-3-2020, therefore, CBDT Notification No. 20/2021 which covers only those cases where 31-3-2021 was end date would not apply to facts of present case and even relate back theory of revenue could not safeguard reassessment proceedings initiated after 1-4-2021. Therefore, section 148 notice dated 28-7-2022 issued pursuant to Judgment in Ashish Agarwal is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2013-14)

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the assessee had made out a baseless and frivolous case that the initial notice under section 148A(b), the order under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice under section 148 related to three assessment years 2016-17, 2017-18 and 2018-19 which was contrary to record. The initial notice under section 148A(b) it had been clearly described that the notice had been issued relating to the financial year 2015-16 relevant to the assessment year 2016-17. In the annexure to the notice under section 148A(b) incidentally the Assessing Officer might have recorded some transactions relating to some other financial years, but, considering the annexure as a whole, the initial notice under section 148A(b) had been issued for the assessment year 2016-17 only. Accordingly the initial notice under section 148A(b), the order under section 148A(d) and the notice under section 148 were valid. (AY. 2016-17) (SJ)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Principle of natural justice –Cryptic notice--Information-Order was passed without considering the objections filed by the assessee-The order violative of the mandatory requirements of section 148A-The assumption of jurisdiction under section 147 was perverse and unsustainable-On the facts the matter did not warrant remand-The orders under section 148A(d) and the notices issued under section 148 were quashed and set aside. The reassessment notice and order passed under section 148A(d) of the Act is challenged before the Court on various grounds ; Allowing the petition the Court held that the validity of the orders passed by statutory authorities has to be adjudged on the basis of the reasons contained in the contents of these orders Such reasons cannot be supplemented by way of affidavit or otherwise. The order passed under section 148A(d) cannot transcend the scope of the proposal notice under section 148A(b) inasmuch as such a notice is the foundation on the basis of which such an order can be passed, and not otherwise That is how the statutory scheme is devised. Definitive conclusions as to grounds that are not indicated in the proposal notice cannot be said to be in line with the scheme and purpose of section 148A. The requirement to act reasonably being in-built into the amended provision, an act in variance with it was unsustainable. There fore, the Assessing Officer should have information as defined in Explanation 1 to section 148 that suggested escapement of income and only thereafter, could he have invoked the provisions of section. On facts non-consideration of the reply relating to section 56 and section 47 would also make the order violative of the mandatory requirements of section 148A. The assumption of jurisdiction under section 147 was perverse and unsustainable. The matter did not warrant remand. The orders under section 148A(d) and the notices issued under section 148 were quashed. (SJ) (AY. 2018-19)

Notice under section 148 dt 30-6-2021 was issued to assessee based on information received pursuant to a survey carried out at premises. The assessee filed its return of income. No reassessment was processed. Pursuant to judgment of Supreme Court in *UOI v. On writ the Court held that the assessee had not instituted any legal proceedings before any Court to assail notice dated 30-6-2021 and, thus, said notice remained unscathed and unimpacted and there arose no need for its revival and, thus, notice under section 148A(b) dated 27-5-2022 was not in continuation or substitution of original notice dated 30-6-2021. On the basis of information was received that a property was gifted to the assessee by his uncle, namely, Harish Kumar who was brother of father of the assessee. According to the Assessing Officer, a nephew was not a relative within a meaning of explanation (e) to proviso to section 56(2)(vii), the said gift would be taxable in the hands of the assessee done. On the basis of same, a reopening notice was issued upon the assessee. On writ the Court held that from the plain language of Explanation (e) to proviso to section 56(2)(vii) that a relative would also include a brother or sister of either of the parents of the individual. In this case, the donor is the brother of the petitioner''s father and therefore, is covered under the said clause. The Petitioner challenged the order and the preceding re-opening notice on the ground that the same was transmitted to an Email ID which was no longer in existence. Thus, the Hon'ble Madras High Court remanded the matter back to the file of the AO to pass a fresh order in terms of section 148A (d) of the Act within 12 months from the date of receipt of the instant order. A notice under section 148A(b) was issued upon assessee on ground that there were unexplained credit to account of assessee to an extent of Rs. 40.25 lakhs and that assessee had not filed return of income tax. In response to above notice, assessee submitted that said amount was received from a family friend who was working abroad. Assessing Officer, passed an order under section 148A(d) on ground that there were unexplained credit to account of assessee to an extent of Rs. 40.25 lakhs. On writ the Court held that since assessee requested for an opportunity to submit his objection in person which was not considered by Assessing Officer, impugned order and notices issued under sections 148A(b) and 148 were to be set aside directing Assessing Officer to pass orders in accordance with law, after affording reasonable opportunity of personal hearing to assessee. 1973 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notice issued by jurisdictional AO and not as per S. 151A-Section 144B cannot be viewed as exclusive basis for all assessment and reassessment procedures and Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) cannot be completely deprived of power to assess or reassess merely because section 144B and Faceless Reassessment Scheme 2022 have been introduced-Interpretation Of Statutes-Legislative intent-Principles of beneficial construction. [S. 144B, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151A, Art. 226]

Notice for reassessment is issued by Jurisdictional Assessing Officer. On writ the Court dismissing the petition the Court held that Section 144B is primarily procedural and is principally concerned with prescribing manner in which a faceless assessment may be conducted as opposed to constituting a source of power to assess or reassess in itself. Section 144B cannot be viewed as exclusive basis for all assessment and reassessment procedures. Faceless assessment scheme centralizes processes under Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO) to reduce direct interaction, however, this structure does not diminish JAO's authority, therefore, JAO's powers should be understood as integral and not in conflict with faceless assessment. Accordingly Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) cannot be completely deprived of power to assess or reassess merely because section 144B and Faceless Reassessment Scheme 2022 have been introduced. Reassessment notice is held to be valid. *Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. Asstt. CIT (2024) 162 taxxmann.com 225 / 464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC) distinguished., Talati and Talati LLP v. Asstt. [S. 133(6), 148, 148(ab) 148A(d). 151A Art. 226] 1974

The assessee is served with a notice under s. 133(6) and reply is filed, the reply was ignored stating that the same has not been filed. On writ the Court held that where the information may not have been received in the electronic mechanism system which is also prone to errors, once it has come on record that reply had actually been filed, it would be wholly unjustified to allow the Revenue to make the assessee face the cumbersome proceedings under s. 148. Having proceeded on a presumption that reply not having been filed and the amount having escaped from income-tax assessed, the Court is satisfied that the said amount was already recorded and included in the ITR for the asst. yr. 2020-21 and the same was duly processed by the AO and it was offered for tax as part of business turnover. The impugned notice under s. 148 in the present case has been thus issued without application of mind and stands vitiated on that count. The proceedings initiated, therefore, are not sustainable in law. (AY-2020-21)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Non application of mind-Net income from the buy and sell transactions amounts to only Rs. 77,280-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 1976 Held that even if there was no reply filed by assessee the onus is on Department to justify the reopening. If one considers the material relied upon by respondents to reopen, there are two buy and two sell. What has been brought has been sold or what has been sold only has been brought. It is well-settled that only the net income from the buy and sell transactions can be brought to tax in assessee's hand and not the entire sum as done in this case. There is no attempt to even apply their mind as to how, when there are contra entries of buy and sell, both amounts could be added to say escapement of income. Therefore, in this case, considering the figures as given in the reasons for reopening, net income from the buy and sell transactions amounts to only Rs. 77,280 which can be brought to tax in assessee's hand and not the entire amount of Rs. 98,04,340. Assessee has stated that this net income also is less than the maximum amount which is not chargeable to income-tax for the assessment year in question and accordingly no income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment in assessee's hand. Reopening is not therefore sustainable. (AY. 2014-15)

[S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 226] 1982
The first notice u/s 148 issued upon the assessee by the AO on 08–04–2021. The assessee expired on 10–05–2021. The son of the deceased assessee (petitioner) filed the ITR in response to the notice and also filed replies in compliance to the notice u/s 143(2) informing the AO about the death of the assessee. On the income tax portal, the particulars of the legal heirs were recorded. Even then, the AO issued subsequent notice u/s 142(1) in the name of the deceased assessee. On Writ by the petitioner, the Hon'ble Court held that the requirement of issuing notice in the name of a right person and not to a dead person is not merely a procedural requirement but is a condition precedent to the impugned notice being validly law. The Court further observed that the reassessment action effectively commenced on the strength of notice u/s 148A(b) and subsequent notice u/s 148 dtd. 30–07–2022, that the petitioner had already informed the AO about the death of the assessee has also furnished the particulars of the legal heirs on the income tax portal, that it is impugnment upon the AO to have taken remedial measures by revising the notice in the name of the legal heirs and the participation of the petitioner cannot be regarded as waiver or submitting to the jurisdiction of the AO without objection. Assessment orders were framed accepting income derived from aforesaid NCDs in terms of section 194LD-Thereafter, Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148A(b) on ground that interest income had not been appropriately offered to tax on account of mischaracterization of income. Thereafter, order under section 148A(d) was passed wherein principal allegation was that although funds were taken out in form of interest payments, they were in fact liable to be declared as dividend and subjected to DDT in terms of section 115-O. On writ the Court held that since assessee was merely recipient of interest income and it was thus, clearly not entity which had either declared or paid dividend, even if payment were to be assumed to be dividend, liability to pay tax thereon could have only been foisted upon company which had declared, distributed or paid same and in facts of present case it would have been GIPL. Held that notices issued by Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) under section 148 and re-assessment proceedings initiated thereafter without conducting faceless assessment as envisaged under section 144B were contrary to provisions of law and is quashed. Court held that exercising powers contained under sections 119 and 120, authorities could not be allowed to usurp legal provisions to their own satisfaction and convenience causing hardship to assessee.

The assessee filed an writ petition against reopening notice under section 148 issued upon the assessee by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO). The Court held that prima-facie, it is viewed that the impugned notice issued under section 148 by the Assessing Officer, who is the Jurisdictional Officer, is wholly without jurisdiction having regard to section 151A, introduced in the Income Tax Act, 1961 with effect from 1-11-2020 and the Notification issued on 28-3-2022 thereunder, which specifically contemplates that there would be automated allocation system in accordance with risk management strategy formulated by the CBDT and it is not the case of the revenue that the Assessing Officer is an officer who has been so randomly allocated as per the Scheme. Interim stay is granted till next date of hearing. Notification No. 15/2022, dated 28-3-2022.

[S. 11(2), 11(5), 148A(b), 148A(d), Form No 10, 10B. Art. 226]

On writ against the issue of reassessment notice under S. 148, the Court held that the circular No 7 of 2018 dt 20th December, 2018 acknowledged and took note of the grievances which were raised with respect to the non-functionality of the facility for digital submission of forms leading to a delayed e-filing Form 10. The CBDT also appears to have taken a sympathetic view bearing in mind the fact that the requirement of digital filing had come to introduced and become applicable for the first time in asst. yr. 2016-17. was in that backdrop that the CBDT had hoped that assessing authorities would approach the issue bearing in mind reasonable cause being established by individual assessees in case of a delayed digital submission of Form 10. The respondents allude to 3687 digital submissions of Form 10 in the month of October, 2016. The Court has not been provided any further details with respect to how that number would be representative or proof of a broad or universal functionality of the filing portal when compared with the body of assesse seeking to accumulate income under S. 11(2) the said year saw an exponential increase in the number of tax filings and with the tot number being pegged at 28. 2 million. The number of 3687 thus clearly fails to inspire any confidence. Accordingly the Court held that the action for reassess is not founded on income liable to tax having escaped assessment-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 148A : Reassessment – Faceless mechanism – Central/International Taxation – Notices and order passed by jurisdictional AO outside faceless system – Invalid. [S. 119, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151A, Art. 226] 1996

The assessee challenged notices under sections 148A(b), 148A(d) and 148 issued by the jurisdictional AO for AY 2017-18, contending they were without jurisdiction since proceedings were required to be conducted under the faceless scheme notified under section 151A by Notification dated 29-3-2022. The Revenue argued that earlier exclusionary orders dated 31-3-2021 and 6-9-2021 (under sections 144B/119) applied to Central and International Taxation cases. Court held that those exclusionary orders applied only to assessment orders and not to reassessment proceedings under section 148A. The faceless scheme under section 151A is an independent mandate and not subject to earlier notifications. Accepting the Revenue's contention would amount to rewriting the scheme. Following Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. ACIT (Bom HC), Capitalg LP v. ACIT (Bom HC) and T. Venkataramana Reddy Patloola v. Dy. CIT (Telangana HC), it was held that reassessment for Central/International charges must also be faceless. Accordingly, the notices and order passed by the jurisdictional AO were illegal and quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

[S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151A, Art. 226] 1997

On writ against the reassessment notice and order disposing the objection the Court held, that the notice under section 148 had been issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer, contrary to the faceless mechanism under the provisions of section 144B read with section 151A and the scheme notified by the Central Government dated March 29, 2022 ([2022] 442 ITR (St.) 198) under section 151A. [S. 119,120, 144B(7), 144B(8), 148, 1488A(b), 148A(d)), 151A, Art. 226]
The Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) issued notice under section 148A(b), thereafter passed order under section 148A(d) and the consequent reopening notice under section 148.

On Writ, the assessee had challenged the reopening notice and the underlying prior notice and the order under section 148A(d). Court held that notice issued under section 148A(b), the order passed thereon under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice issued under section 148 of are all issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer ("JAO") and not by a Faceless Assessing Officer ("FAO"), as is required by the provisions of section 151A. To give effect to the provisions of Section 151A, the Central Government has issued a Notification dated 29-3-2022 whereby a faceless mechanism has been introduced. Thus, necessarily in resorting to a procedure under Section 148A and the consequent notice to be issued under Section 148 of the Act, the Assessing Officer is required to adhere to the provisions of Section 151A read with the Notification. Thus, for a notice to be validly issued for reassessment under Section 148 of the Act, the revenue would need to be compliant with section 151A, which has been interpreted and analysed in detail by a Division Bench of High Court in the case of Hexaware Technologies Limited v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC). On the facts of the case the revenue has not complied with the Scheme notified by the Central Government pursuant to Section 151A(2) of the Act. The Scheme has also been tabled in Parliament and is in the character of subordinate legislation, which governs the conduct of proceedings under Section 148A as well as Section 148 of the Act. In view of the explicit declaration of the law in Hexaware, the grievance of the Petitioner-Assessee insofar as it relates to an invalid issuance of a notice is sustainable and consequently, the very manner in which the proceedings have been initiated, vitiates the proceedings. As there is no dispute that the JAO had no jurisdiction to issue the notice, the writ petition is allowed notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. The assessee filed a writ petition on the ground that notice as issued to the assessee under section 148A(b) as also the consequent order under section 148A(d) and the notice issued to the assessee under section 148, had been issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer. It was submitted that in view of the faceless scheme notified under section 151A by the Central Government vide notification dated 29-3-2022, the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer did not have an authority to issue the impugned notices, as necessarily, such exercise if at all was required to be undertaken under the faceless assessment scheme. The Notification dated 29-3-2022 came to the conclusion that the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer would cease to have jurisdiction to issue any notice under section 148A(b) and to take further actions under section 148A(d) and section 148, outside the faceless assessment. The respondents would not dispute this position. The petition is allowed. The notice and order is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2022-23)

The jurisdictional Assessing Officer issued on the assessee a notice under section 148A(b) in respect of the assessment year 2018-19 and passed the order under section 148A(d) dated 7-4-2022 and simultaneously issued a notice under section 148 dated 7-4-2022 and passed the reassessment order. On writ the Court held that from a plain reading of the record, it is apparent that the notice under section 148 is issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer and not by a Faceless Assessment Officer as is required by the provisions of section 151A. It is now well settled that for a notice to be validly issued for reassessment under section 148, the revenue would need to be compliant with section 151A. In the instant case, the revenue is not in compliance with the Scheme [Notification No. 18/2022/F. No. 370142/16/2022-TPL, dated 29-3-2022] notified by the Central Government pursuant to section 151A(2). The Scheme has also been tabled in Parliament and is in the character of subordinate legislation, which governs the conduct of proceedings under section 148A as well as section 148. Since in view of provisions of section 151A jurisdictional Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to issue notice under section 148, impugned notice and all consequential proceedings deserve to be quashed and set aside. The assessee filed writ petition praying that the notice to reopen assessment under section 148A(b) as issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) was in the teeth of the provisions of section 151A in as much as the scheme for faceless assessment as notified by the Central Government by Notification No. 18/2022 dated 29 March 2022 as made applicable for taking an action under such provisions, had not been followed. Court held that the provisions of section 151A had clearly brought a regime of faceless assessment. The Court in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. Asstt. CIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/464 ITR 430 (Bom.) has held that it was not permissible for the JAO to issue a notice under section 148A(b), as the same would amount to breach of the provisions of Section 151A. The Court observed that there is no question of concurrent jurisdiction of both FAO or the JAO with respect to the issuance of notice under section 148. The revenue would also not dispute the factual as also the legal position. In the instant case, admittedly the impugned notice under section 148A(b), the orders thereon and the impugned notice under section 148 have been issued by the JAO. The writ petition is allowed. Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2019-20)

Assessing Officer made addition under section 69A with respect to said cash deposits. Commissioner (Appeals) deleted the addition. Meanwhile, Jurisdiction Assessing Officer (JAO) also issued reopening notice on very same ground. Assessee filed the writ petition and challenged the reopening notice on basis of principles as laid down by Division Bench of High Court in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. Asstt. CIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC). Court held that JAO was aware of outcome of order passed by Commissioner (Appeals) wherein issue raised in reopening notice was already dealt with but ignored same while issuing reopening notice. Furthermore, Chief Commissioner also accorded sanction under section 151 for reopening assessment in mechanical manner without application of mind. Accordingly there would be no justification for Assessing Officer not to consider, discard and overlook legal effect of orders passed by Appellate Authority. Although there was a pronouncement of a co-ordinate Bench of High Court on provisions of law, in Hexaware Technologies Limited (supra), an affidavit could not be filed before Court, to challenge such pronouncement. Since except for stand taken by JAO that decision of High Court in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. (supra) was not accepted by department, so as to justify impugned notices, there was no acceptable justification as to why proceedings qua impugned notice under section 148 would not stand covered by decision in Hexaware Technologies Limited (supra). Accordingly the notice and order disposing the objection is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2017-18)

The assessee, a co-developer in a housing project, followed the project completion method and filed return of income declaring nil income, which was processed under section 143(1). On the basis of information from the Insight Portal regarding sale of flats and TDS under section 194IA, the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148A(b) alleging undisclosed income. The Bombay High Court held that such notice was without jurisdiction as, after insertion of section 151A and the notification dated 29-3-2022, all reassessment proceedings had to be carried out through the Faceless Assessment Scheme under section 144B. Further, the AO failed to pass a speaking order by not considering the assessee's contention that she followed the project completion method. An intimation was issued to the assessee under section 143(1) without any addition, accepting the total income disclosed by the assessee in her return of income. Thereafter, information was received from the Insight Portal, intimating that there were discrepancies with regard to the interest income set out in the return filed for the relevant assessment year. The assessee claimed that the information received from the portal was incorrect. The Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 and dispensed with applicability of section 148A on ground that he was in receipt of information with respect to discrepancies in interest income as per scheme notified under section 135A, which provided for faceless collection of information. On writ the Court held that it cannot be conceived that at all material times, the information available in the electronic mechanism/system, would be free from errors and defects.

Once a defect was pointed out on information as available on portal, it would be duty of Assessing Officer to examine version of assessee in pointing out that information was not correct and same would require due consideration for any further action to be taken to issue notice under section 148. When electronic information was available under faceless mechanism and there was other material available, as may be gathered by Assessing Officer or furnished by assessee, it would be incumbent on Assessing Officer to apply his mind to all such materials and only thereafter take a well considered view of matter to issue a notice under section 148 by dispensing provisions of section 148A. Court held that reopening notice was arbitrary and vitiated by non-application of mind and is set aside. (AY. 2020-21)

Jurisdictional Assessing Officer issued a notice dated 30-3-2024 under section 148A(b) and order passed thereon under section 148A(d) dated 25-4-2024 and consequent notice under section 148 dated 25-4-2024 was issued to the assessee in respect of returns filed by the assessee for the assessment year 2017-18. The assessee had filed a writ petition to challenge the notice on the ground that the notice and order under sections 148A(d)/148A(b) were issued by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer (JAO) and not by a Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO), as required by the provisions of section 151A. it is apparent that the Revenue has not complied with the Scheme notified by the Central Government pursuant to section 151A(2). The Scheme has also been tabled before the Parliament and is in the character of subordinate legislation, which governs the conduct of proceedings under section 148A as well as section 148. In view of the explicit declaration of the law in Hexaware Technologies Ltd. v. Asstt. CIT (2024) 162 taxmann.com 225 / 464 ITR 430 (Bom)(HC) the grievance of the petitioner-assessee insofar as it relates to an invalid issuance of a notice is sustainable. The proceedings initiated under the impugned notice issued to the petitioner under section 148, would not be sustainable in view of the judgment rendered in Hexaware Technologies Ltd the JAO had no jurisdiction to issue the impugned notice. The writ petition is accordingly allowed. (AY. 2017-18)

2012 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notice in the name of deceased-Non application of mind by the Assessing Officer and sanctioning authority-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151, Art. 226]

On writ the Court held that no enquiry as per S. 148A has been made because if the AO had only made such an enquiry or even bothered to verify the IT Portal relating to the deceased assessee, he would have certainly come to know that the assessee is deceased and had died on 23rd July, 2020. The notice under S. 148A(b) has been issued without making the enquiry as mandated under S. 148A. Therefore, the notice issued under S. 148A(b) itself would be bad in law and has to be quashed and set aside. Approval applied for and granted under S. 151 exposes the total non application of mind by the AO who applied for the approval, the Addl. /Jt. CIT who recommended granting of approval and the Principal CIT who granted the approval. Row 9 of the approval form states "time-limit for current proceedings covered under S. 149(1)(b) for more than 3 years but not more than 10 years. The assessment pertains to asst. yr. 2019-20, whereas the notice issued under S. 148A(b) is dt. 29th March, 2023 and, therefore, within the three years period. Taking Row 9 to be correct, then Row 7 indicates the quantum of income which has escaped assessment Rs. 3 lakhs. Therefore, the notice issued under S. 148A(b) itself could not have been issued. If the time-limit for current proceedings is covered under s. 149(1)(b), i. e., for more than 3 years but not more than 10 years, Principal CIT has no power to grant approval and the approval should have been granted by the Principal Chief CIT. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2013

Allowing the petition the Court held that since the assessee did not submit its reply along with documents in response to the initial notice under section 148A(b) and in view of the specific contention of the assessee that if one more opportunity was granted, it would submit reply along with documents, the order passed under section 148A(d), the notice issued under section 148, the subsequent order under section 147 read with section 144 and the notices of penalty issued under sections 271AAC(1) and 272A(1)(d) were set aside. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2014 Dismissing the petition the Court held that the jurisdictional authority along with notice dated March 13, 2023 under section 148A(b) of the Act had supplied information available with it with the documents such as Insight Portal, wherein information and description had been given. In the notice dated March 13, 2023 under section 148A(b) and the order dated March 28, 2023 under section 148A(d) of the Act issued by the Assessing Officer, it was clearly mentioned that in the Insight Portal, the case of the assessee was flagged as a high risk case for the relevant assessment year. The order under section 148A is valid. It is settled that the words used in the provisions of a taxing statute are required to be given their plain meaning and nothing can be implied from or read into it. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, Art. 226]

Dismissing the petition the Court held that since the Information available with the Assessing Officer of the total escaped income was Rs. 1,84,45,194, which was more than Rs. 50 Lakhs. That the notice dated April 5, 2023 issued under Section 148 was not in violation of the Notification of the Ministry Of Finance Dated March 29, 2023. Since the initial notice issued under Section 148A(b) had already been issued to the assessee on February 28, 2023. Therefore, the process of issuing notice under Section 148 had begun prior to the issuance of the Notification. Hence, the notice under Section 148 had not been issued in non-compliance of the Notification. The Assessee would have the opportunity to represent before the Assessing Officer in response to the notice issued under Section 148. Therefore, the order under Section 148A(d) and the consequent notice under Section 148 is valid. (AY. 2016-17)

Allowing the appeal against the single Judge order, the Court held that it is the duty of the Assessing Officer to consider the explanation of the assessee substantiating the alleged transaction and give reasons as to why it was not acceptable. The Assessing Officer had only stated that the assessee had failed to substantiate the alleged amount of escaped income of Rs. 25 lakhs was a genuine transaction. The order passed under section 148A(d) is a non-speaking order without application of mind. It also revealed that the Assessing Officer had no material to controvert the explanation offered by the assessee that the lending entity was non-banking financial company and that the loan was taken in the assessment year 2019-20 and repaid along with interest in the same year and this had been substantiated by the assessee by producing the ledger copy of the loan account. S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Pendency of appeal-Scrutiny assessment order pending in appeal rendered infructuous-Order passed under section 148A(d) is held to be valid-Assessee is given liberty to seek appropriate remedy if adverse reassessment order is passed. [S. 143(3), 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 250, Art. 226] 2017

On writ the Court held that in view of the Supreme Court judgement in UOI v. Ashis Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1(SC) the notice under section 148 was required to be treated as notice under section 148A(b) and further proceedings were required to be drawn complying with the mandate of section 148A which was introduced after the amendment, effective from April 1, 2021. The order under section 148A(d), dated July 26, 2022, had clearly recorded that in view of the judgment of the Supreme Court, no scrutiny assessment could be made on the basis of show-cause notice and hence scrutiny assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer had become infructuous. Therefore, it was vividly clear that the assessment order under section 147 did not survive in the eye of law. Consequently, the subsequent demand notice which had been issued was also rendered ineffective and inoperative in law. What survived was an order passed under section 148A(d) on July 26, 2022 under the new regime of law after amendment in the Act with effect from April 1, 2021. Therefore, the appeal which had been filed by the assessee assailing the legality and validity of the scrutiny assessment order dated March 24, 2022 was rendered infructuous. The pre deposit amount, if any, made by the assessee while filing appeal against the order dated March 24, 2022 was required to be refunded forthwith to the assessee. The assessment order and the consequent demand notice, both dated March 24, 2022 were rendered ineffective and inoperative in law. The order dated July 26, 2022 passed under section 148A(d) for issue of notice under section 148 had not been interfered with. The assessee is given liberty to seek such remedy as may be available under the law.

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Faceless assessment-International tax charges-Notices issued by Jurisdictional Assessing Officers and consequent proceedings and orders set aside-Revenue is given liberty to proceed in accordance with new procedure. [S. 144B, 147, 148, 148A, 151A, Art. 226] 2018

Allowing the petitions the Court held that to the limited extent, that according to the plain and unambiguous language used in the Gazette notification dated March 29, 2022 ([2022] 442 ITR (St.) 198) (Scheme) and Central Board of Direct Taxes order dated September 6, 2021 the notice under section 148 did not fall within the "exception" stated in the order of the Central Board of Direct Taxes wherein direction was issued about passing of "assessment orders" by the National Faceless Assessment Centre under section 144B except in two situations, one of which was passing of assessment orders in cases assigned to international tax charges. The taxpayer was nowhere distinguished between non-residents and residents. The notice issued under section 148 must comply with the requirement of the scheme whether or not the taxpayer was a non-resident or a resident. The expression used in clause 3(b) of the scheme dated March 29, 2022 ([2022] 442 ITR (St.) 198) did not preclude the mandatory faceless assessment procedure for issuance of notice under section 148. The Revenue had erred in not following such procedure and since the notices under section 148 were not issued as prescribed, the subsequent proceedings on these notices and consequent assessment orders were vitiated and accordingly, set aside. Liberty was given to the Revenue to proceed in accordance with law.

Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148A(b) upon petitioner alleging certain business expenses claimed by assessee was not allowable. Petitioner challenged notice on ground that no enquiry was conducted regarding information received and approval of specified authority was also not obtained for conducting enquiry, as required by clause (a) of section 148A. Petitioner further submitted that only 7 days time was given to petitioner to submit reply to notice; while, clause (b) contemplates 30 days notice. Dismissing the petition the Court held that not only information, but investigation report was also shared with petitioner-Further, first notice was issued to petitioner on 21-3-2024 and, by last notice dated 3-4-2024, petitioner was allowed time to file reply till 13-4-2024, therefore, petitioner had more than three weeks to submit complete reply. Since petitioner had not demanded personal hearing, submission that personal hearing was not given to petitioner by Assessing Officer before issuing notice did not appear to be correct. Further, since Principal Chief Commissioner of Income Tax had granted approval on 19-4-2024 and order under clause (d) of section 148A was passed by Assessing Officer, same day, statutory requirement of prior approval was also met and order passed by Assessing Officer could not be faulted on this count. An order under section 127(2) dated 11-1-2023 was passed by the Principal Commissioner, Vadodara-I transferring the case of the petitioner from Vadodara to Central Circle-1(1) Ahmedabad. However, in spite of the above facts, the Assessing Officer at Vadodara issued the notice under section 148A(b) on 14-2-2023 calling upon the petitioner to show cause as to why the notice under section 148 should not be issued for re-opening of the assessment for assessment year 2019-20. After the order of transfer of the case of the petitioner passed on 11-1-2023 under section 127(2), the Assessing Officer at Vadodara has no jurisdiction to issue the notice for reopening for the assessment year 2019-20. Even otherwise, when the NCLT has approved the application filed under section 13(6) of IBC, 2016 and resolution plan submitted by the applicant was approved, the Assessing Officer would not have any jurisdiction to reopen the assessment with regard to the assessment year 2019-20. Assessee-company is engaged in business of real estate development and running of hotels. During original assessment proceedings, assessment was framed at a total income as against declared income of assessee. Subsequently, Assessing Officer received a valuation cell report from District Valuation Officer (DVO) with respect to cost of property. After perusal of valuation report, it was found that DVO had estimated investment which were made by assessee in renovation/ reconstruction of property, furthermore report also mentioned, that assessee had declared total investment as nil. Assessing Officer issued reopening notice on ground that income had escaped assessment. On writ the Court held that sole ground for reopening was valuation report, even though, assessee had declared cost of said property under head Fixed Assets and Capital WIP. Also there was no statement or discussion by Assessing Officer as to what was basis and why he should rely on valuation report. Since reasons for reopening of assessment did not reflect that Assessing Officer had applied his mind to ascertain as to whether in fact assessee had already declared value of aforesaid property under Fixed Assets and Capital WIP or whether such valuation is correct or not. Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2010-11, 2011-12)

Assessing Officer issued on assessee-company a notice under section 148A(b) intimating that on investigation of documents in his possession it was seen that assessee during year had sold 13 plots in cash and sales consideration received by it remained unexplained and supplied documents to assessee. He thereafter passed an order under section 148A(d) stating that amount of sales consideration received in cash required to be reassessed. On writ the Court held that stand taken by assessee that it had no knowledge about sale transaction by power of attorney holder is not a ground for revenue not to proceed against it. Since a detailed adjudication on merits of information available with Assessing Officer and defence set up by assessee is not contemplated at stage of passing an order under section 148A(d). Writ petition is dismissed. (AY. 2020-21)

2029 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Natural justice-Order passed next day-Rules of natural justice are found completely broken-Order is quashed and set aside-AO is directed to pass the order after giving a reasonable opportunity of hearing. [S. 142(1), O 148, 148A(b)I, 148A((d), Art. 226]
On writ the Court held that in the present facts, first notice under s. 148A(b) was not served in t manner provided. Second, the order under s. 148A(d) was initially not served. Later, it was served with delay of nine months. Even if it is assumed that the objections to jurisdiction (raised by the assessee), had been rejected on 20th March, 2024, there existed no justifiable situation circumstance as may have allowed the assessing authority (whether faceless or otherwise) to pass the reassessment order on the next day, without issuing any further notice in terms of s. 142(1). By taking that course, the assessing authority has consciously allowed a wholly ex parte order to arise. Under the new regime, though the assessing authority may remain faceless, at the same time, it cannot act mindless of the procedural law. In view of the above, no useful purpose may be served in keeping the present petition pending or calling for a counter-affidavit at this stage. rules of natural justice are found completely broken in the present case. Hence, the impugned reassessment must be set aside for this reason alone, at this stage itself. Since the assessee is now aware of the contents of the notice dt. 22nd March, 2023, he may furnish reply thereto within a period of three weeks from today. Considering that reply and keeping in mind the observations made above, the reassessment proceedings, if any may arise, be continued and concluded accordingly, without (the assessee) raising any objection as to limitation. *Satish Kumar Bansal (HUF) v. S 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Merger-Amalgamation-Notice in the name of non-existing amalgamating company-Transferor-company got merged with assessee/transferee-company under scheme of amalgamation and thereby lost its existence, assessment order passed subsequently in name of said non-existing entity, would be without jurisdiction and set aside. [S. 147, 148, Art. 226] 2030

The company Siri Drugs India Pvt Ltd got merged with the assessee-company under the scheme of amalgamation with effect from 1-4-2015. As a consequence of the dissolution of the said company, the transferor-company i. e. Siri Drugs India Pvt Ltd became non-existing and only the transferee-company remained in existence along with the assets and liabilities of the amalgamated company. Though Siri Drugs India Pvt Ltd stood dissolved with effect from 1-4-2015, notice under section 148A(b) was issued in the name of the said non-existing company i. e. Siri Drugs India Pvt Ltd alleging escapement of income for the assessment year 2016-17. The assessee raised objection as to the veracity of the notice as it stood issued against the company which ceased to exist and which became non-existing since 1-4-2015. However, the Assessing Officer ignoring the said fact held that it was a fit case for issuance of notice under section 148. On writ the Court held that Pursuant to the approval of the scheme of merger given by the High Court, the transferor company i. e., DG (P) Ltd. has become extinct w. e. f. 1st April, 2015; notice under ss. 148A and 148 in the name of Siri Drugs India Pvt Ltd, being bad in law, are quashed and set aside. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-After the expiry of four years-Audit objections-Non-existence of tangible material-Order passed dropping the proceedings-Subsequent corrigendum to order under Section 148A(d) for issue of notice-Change of opinion-Review same material impermissible-Notice via corrigendum to order and consequent reassessment proceedings unsustainable. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(c), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2031

The Assessing Officer issued a notice, dated May 24, 2022, under section 148A(b) and the assessee filed a reply as required under section 148A(c) submitting that it did not sell any immovable property during the assessment year 2017-18 and therefore, no long-term capital gains arose also clarified that it had purchased an immovable property. On examination of the transactions and considering the assessee's submissions an order dated July 30, 2022 was passed under section 148A(d) concluding that the reassessment proceedings under section 147 could be dropped. On the same date, the Revenue issued a corrigendum against the original order passed under section 148A(d) allowing the continuation of reassessment proceedings by issuing a notice under section 148 which had originally been dropped. On a writ petition allowing the petition, that the Court held that the proceedings were firstly closed by the Revenue by an order, dated July 30, 2022, under section 148A(d) upon being satisfied after examining the audited final accounts filed by the assessee indicating that there was no immovable property held by the petitioner as on April 1, 2016 relevant to the assessment year 2017-18 and therefore, there was no sale undertaken by it. On the same day itself, hours after terminating the proceedings, the Revenue had issued a corrigendum to initiate the reassessment proceedings under section 147, without any new material which warranted reopening the assessment. From the two notices it would crystallize that the corrigendum had been issued merely on the basis of a change of opinion as two different conclusions had been drawn on the basis of same material, i. e., audited final accounts of the assessee. The Assessing Officer had apparently reviewed his own decision, which was not permissible. Therefore, the notice issued under section 148 via corrigendum to the order, dated July 30, 2022, under section 148A(d) and the consequential reassessment proceedings under section 147 were unsustainable and hence quashed. [S. 148, 148(A)(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that that the judgment of the Supreme Court in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC) neither spoke of completed assessments nor did it embody any direction that could be legitimately or justifiably construed as mandating completed assessments being reopened especially where the assessee had raised no objection to the initiation of proceedings. The Assessing Officer had accepted the assessee's explanation with respect to the issues in respect of the source of investment made in shares and the sale of the immovable property and did not make any additions. It was only thereafter that the notices were issued for the assessment year 2013-14 for which the final assessment order was passed prior to the judgment of the Supreme Court. The Department had proceeded on a perceived understanding of the decision rendered by the Supreme Court and its purport being the recommencement of all proceedings for reassessment under section 147 which stood initiated in terms of notices issued under section 148 after April 1, 2021 and the judgment mandating them to rewind pending proceedings to the stage of section 148A(b). The show-cause notice dated May 30, 2022 issued under section 148A(b), the order dated July 19, 2022 issued under section 148A(d) and the notice dated July 20, 2022 under section 148 were quashed. Held, that what was sought to be contended was that the service of the notice was not effected through e-mail. That was not the mandate of section 148A(b) of the Act. The Revenue had countered the version of the assessee by placing on record the delivery report at the address of the assessee. There was no quarrel regarding the address on record or the delivery report. The requirement of natural justice stood fulfilled once the notice was served at the admitted address of the assessee. The service of notice is valid. Writ petition is dismissed. (AY. 2016-17)

Allowing the petition the Court held that the Assessing Officer ought to have considered the objections raised by the assessee in response to the notice under section 148A(b) and should have disposed of it as mandated under section 148A(c). Court also held that since the income escaping assessment was less than Rs. 50 lakhs, section 149(1)(b) could not have been invoked. The assessee and his brother were joint owners of the inherited property with respective share of 50 per cent. each and both being joint vendors were entitled to equal share of the consideration amount of Rs. 32,68,000 each and this had been accepted by the Revenue. The reassessment proceeding initiated by the Department was barred by limitation and was beyond jurisdiction. Hence, the entire enquiry proceeding under section 148A, the order under section 148A(d) and the notice under section 148 were quashed. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Faceless Assessment-Violating principles of natural Justice-Failure to grant minimum of seven clear working days to respond to show-cause notice-Non-compliance with standard operating procedure-Matter remanded to faceless assessment unit to pass orders after considering reply of assessee. [S. 144, 144B(6)(vii), 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2035

On writ the Court held that the assessee had given up her right to challenge the notice issued under section 148A(b), the order passed under section 148A(d) and the issuance of notice under section 148 by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer. The challenge was confined only to the show-cause notice proposing variation to the income and the order of assessment under section 147 read with sections 144 and 144B for the assessment year 2019-20. The show-cause notice had been issued on February 13, 2024 and the assessee was afforded an opportunity to respond by 17. 34 hours of February 20, 2024. Although, seven days had been provided, such notice had been digitally signed on February 13, 2024 at around 18. 37 hours and therefore, the assessee had not been afforded seven clear working days to respond to the notice. The notice was not in consonance with the Standard Operating Procedure, dated August 3, 2022 circulated under the faceless assessment provision of section 144B by the Commissioner, National Faceless Assessment Centre. That the object of show cause was to offer an opportunity to respond. Under clause N. 1. 3 of the Standard Operating Procedure it had been provided that the principles of natural justice must be followed and in clause N. 1. 3. 1 thereof the response time for the show-cause notice had been prescribed as seven days. Though it had been stated that keeping in view the limitation date for completion of assessment, the response time could be curtailed, in the assessee's case limitation for completion of assessment proceeding had not intervened for not providing of seven clear days response time. A festival holiday coupled with the short response time had made it unviable for the assessee to offer response, within the specified time which constituted violation of principles of natural justice. Hence the assessment order, passed without considering the assessee's response, was set aside. The matter was remanded back to the Faceless Assessment Unit for considering the response of the assessee to be submitted within the stipulated time. (paras 9, 10)(AY. 2019-20)(SJ)

Allowing the petition the Court held that clause D of the agreement between the assessee and the Indian entity, for the grant of telecast of matches, bifurcated the licence fee between live feed and recorded content. The view of the Assessing Officer that there was no basis for the bifurcation of the receipt in the ratio of 95 per cent. and five per cent. was perverse in view of the stipulations contained in the agreement. No contestation existed on the issue of taxability of live feed. There was no justification to recognize a right inhering in the Revenue to continue the reassessment proceedings under section 147. The initial notice issued under section 148A(b), the order passed under section 148A(d) and the notice issued under section 148 were quashed. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18, 2018-19)

The late assessee filed his return of income for the assessment year 2017-18 on October 30, 2017. He died on September 30, 2020. By various letters and e-mails between December 16, 2020 and March 20, 2022, the Department was informed of the death of the assessee. The Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 on July 30, 2022 addressed to the deceased assessee and an order under section 148A(d) of the Act for issue of notice of reassessment was passed on July 30, 2022. On a writ allowing the petition the Court held that the order under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice issued under section 148 for reopening assessment under section 147 for the assessment year 2017-18 were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2017-18)

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the Explanation to S. 149 clarifies that 'deposits in bank accounts' form a part of the 'assets' of the assessee, and accordingly, in the considered opinion of this Court, the arguments advanced by the assessee qua the expiry of limitation under S. 149 in relation to the issuance of the impugned notice cannot be sustained as the income escaped assessment extends is higher than the minimum threshold of Rs. 50,00,000 enshrined under S. 149. Accordingly, the limitation vis-a-vis the initiation of reassessment proceedings in the case herein would resultantly extend to 10 years in light of the fact that the AO had in its possession inter alia books of accounts evidencing voluntary deposits in bank accounts extending to more than Rs. 50,00,000. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Limitation –Six days time was granted for giving reply as against the statutory minimum seven days-Natural justice-Limitation of three years-Opportunity of being heard-Information has been found recorded in the electronic books of accounts of a third party OMX Ltd-Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(b), Art. 226] 2039
The assessee challenged the notice under section 148 and order disposing the objection under section. 148A(d) of the Act. Dismissing the petition the Court held that there is no dispute that the information has been found recorded in the electronic books of accounts of a third party OMX Ltd. There is also no doubt that the said entries have been found recorded against the name of the assessee as the depositor. Assessee has not denied (either before the assessing authority or this Court) his ownership or rights or interest in the two properties. On an analysis done by the Revenue authorities, they have formed an opinion that the entries found recorded in the electronic books of accounts of OMX Ltd. are coded. Both with respect to date and quantum, there are deliberate alterations made to hide the true identity of the transactions. Prima facie, the quantum of escapement noted by Revenue authorities exceeds Rs. 8 crores. Therefore, the period of limitation would be governed by S. 149(1)(b). Further, the Writ Court may not remain over sensitive to the technical concern being voiced. Once opportunity has been actually and substantially availed on a realistic time scale, the Court is not inclined to set aside the order under s. 148A(d) dt. 6th March, 2024 passed by the assessing authority. The legislature has consciously widened the scope of assumption of jurisdiction to reassess any assessee. In the minimum, the objective test that was required to be satisfied under the pre-existing law by recording appropriate "reason to believe" has been done away. (AY. 2017-18)

[S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

Court held that procedure laid out in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal 2022) 326 CTR 473 / 213 DTR 217 (SC) clearly stood confined to matters where although notices may have been issued, proceedings were yet to have attained finality. This clearly flows from the impugned notices being ordained to be treated as show-cause notices under S. 148A(b) and the concomitant liberty being accorded to AOs to proceed further in accordance with S. 148A(d). Supreme Court was faced with a peculiar and an unprecedented situation where the Revenue was rendered remediless to assess escaped income even though material may have merited such an action being pursued solely on account of a misinterpretation of the correct legal position. It was these factors which clearly appear to have weighed upon the Supreme Court to mould and sculpt a procedure which would strike a just balance between competing interests. Ashish Agarwal cannot possibly be read as mandating the hands of the clock being rewound and reversing final decisions which may have come to be rendered in the interregnum. Regard must also be had to the undisputed fact that the assessee never questioned the validity of the original notices on grounds which were urged before the various High Courts and where assessees had questioned the invocation of the unamended provisions. Accordingly there was no justification for the respondent to have issued notices afresh seeking to reopen proceedings which had been rendered a closure prior to the judgment rendered in Ashish Agarwal. Accordingly the notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

[S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

The first petitioner had filed reply to the show-cause notice under S. 148A issued in the name of his late father and was also heard. The notice under S. 148, which also was of the same date, i. e., 10th April, 2023, is in the names of late Naringaparambil Bhaskaran and the first petitioner, who is the son/legal heir of late Naringaparambil Bhaskaran. The petitioner filed the petition on the ground that the notice was in the name of deceased hence the order is bad in law. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the petitioners cannot take a stand that since the show-cause notice under S. 148A(b) was not in their names, subsequent orders and notice under ss. 148A(b) and 148, respectively, cannot be passed and issued to them. Since the first petitioner had already participated in the proceedings by not only filing reply to the show-cause notice but also having been heard, this submission does not lie in the mouth of the petitioners and therefore, the same is liable to be rejected. The petitioners were not only aware of the proceedings, but also had participated in the proceedings. Therefore, the contention is rejected. The order dt. 10th April, 2023, passed s. 148A(d) would disclose that after considering the reply and submissions of the first petitioner, the AO is of the opinion that the assessment for the year 2019-20 is required to be reopened under S. 147 by issuing notice under S. 148 and that the proceedings under S 148 would continue in the hands of the legal heirs of the assessee. The petitioners are granted 30 days further time from today to file return in pursuance to the notice under S. 148. (AY. 2019-20)(SJ)

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice –After four years-Limitation-Applicability of fifth proviso-Fifth proviso can only apply where one has to determine whether the time-limit of three years and ten years in S 149(1) are breached-Sixth proviso to S. 149 has no impact as it only provides a situation where after exclusion of the time period referred to in the fifth proviso, the time available with the AO for passing an order under S. 148A(d) is less than 7 days, then the remaining time frame shall be extended to 7 days and limitation also stands extended by 7 days-Revenue is seeking to exclude a period from 21st May, 2021 to 4th May, 2022-Which cannot apply-Hence, the notice dt. 31st July, 2022 is barred by limitation hence bad in law. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1), Art. 226] 2044
Court held that the first limb of the proviso only excludes the time frame between the date when the notice under S. 148A(b) is issued and the date granted to the assessee to file its response. Based on assessee's facts, the show-cause notice under S. 148A(b) was issued on 24th May, 2022 asking assessee to furnish a reply by 8th June, 2022. Assessee filed a detailed reply in response to the show-cause notice on 8th June, 2022 and, therefore, only the period from 24th May, 2022 to 8th June, 2022 could be excluded by virtue of the first limb of the fifth proviso to S. 149. Subsequently, assessee received another letter dt. 28th June, 2022 which annexed certain details and provided further time for making detailed submissions upto 8th July, 2022. Even assuming a period of 27 days (i. e., 16 days from 24th May to 8th June and 11 days from 28th June to 8th July) are excluded from the date of the notice under S. 148 issued on 31st July, 2022, the notice would yet be barred by limitation and could not have been issued by virtue of the first proviso to S. 149. Court also held that the validity of a notice must be judged on the basis of the law existing as on the date on which the notice is issued under S 148, which in the present case is 31st July, 2022, by which time the Finance Act, 2021 is already on the statute and in terms thereof, no notice under s. 148 for asst. yr. 2014-15 could be issued on or after 1st April, 2021 based on the first proviso to s. 149. Therefore, the fifth proviso cannot apply in a case where the first proviso applies because, if a notice under S. 148 could not be issued beyond the time period provided in the first proviso, then the fifth proviso could not save such notices. Fifth proviso can only apply where one has to determine whether the time-limit of three years and ten years in S. 149(1) are breached. Sixth proviso to S. 149 has no impact as it only provides a situation where after exclusion of the time period referred to in the fifth proviso, the time available with the AO for passing an order under S. 148A(d) is less than 7 days, then the remaining time frame shall be extended to 7 days and limitation also stands extended by 7 days. Revenue is seeking to exclude a period from 21st May, 2021 to 4th May, 2022 relying on UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 326 CTR 473 / 213 DTR (217 (SC) which cannot apply. Accordingly the impugned notice dt. 31st July, 2022 is bad in law. Followed New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. ACIT (2024) 337 CTR 257 / 235 DTR 113 (Bom)(HC) (AY. 2014-15)

The petitioner challenged the notice issued under section 148 of the Act on the ground that the provisions of Section 148A has not been complied with on the ground that Department has made an application under Section 451 of Cr. P. C. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the Department had requisitioned under S. 132A the amount from the Police Station, and it was only after being informed that the amount had been produced in Court that an application under S. 451 Cr. P. C was filed. Therefore, the procedure contemplated by the provisions of S. 148A need not be complied with before issuing notices under S. 148 of the Act. Followed, *R. Ravirajan & Ors. v. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notices issued on or after 1-4-2021 relating to assessment years 2013-14 and 2014-15, under section 148 (old)-Treating the same as under newly inserted section 148A by Finance Act, 2021 which came into effect from 1-4-2021-Notice and all subsequent proceedings on the basis of said notices are not sustainable in law being barred by limitation as provisions of TOLA applied to pre-amended law as applicable till 31-3-2021. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, Art. 226, Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of certain Provisions) Act, 2020] 2046

Allowing the petition the Court held that since provisions of Taxation and Other Laws (Relaxation and Amendment of certain Provisions) Act, 2020 applied to pre-amended law as applicable till 31-3-2021 and erstwhile regime of section 148 (applicable up to 31-3-2021) had been repealed by Parliament without any savings and exception clause and was substituted with an altogether new regime vide Finance Act, 2021 with effect from 1-4-2021, notices issued on or after 1-4-2021, relating to assessment years 2013-14 and 2014-15, under section 148 (old) by converting/treating same as under newly inserted section 148A by Finance Act, 2021 which came into effect from 1-4-2021 and all subsequent proceedings on basis of aforesaid notices would not be sustainable in law and are quashed and all legal consequences will follow automatically. Accordingly all the notices issued under S. 148A(b) by the Finance Act, 2021, relating to assessment years 2013-14 and 2014-15, which have been issued on or after Ist April 2021 by extending the time of limitation y the CBDT for issuance of notice under section 148 in exercise of power under S. 3 of TOLA is unauthorised in law and all such notices are barred by limitation and all subsequent proceedings on the basis of the said notices are not sustainable in law. [S. 148,148A(b), 148A(d) Art. 226]

Assesse was issued abstand that credible information has been received through insight portal regarding cash deposits, interest receipts, purchase of debentures, etc Annexure to the notice is an extract of the relevant particulars which find place in the return of income filed by the assessee for the relevant assessment year In the impugned order passed under s. 148A(d) there are glaring omissions and more particularly the condition precedent for exercise of the power of reopening the assessment are conspicuously absent-Though the order appears to be an elaborate order, the conclusion is only in one paragraph-For the purpose of reopening an assessment there should be a tangible material placed by the AO to show that there was escapement of income from the payment of income-tax-This being conspicuously absent as could be seen from the annexure to the show-cause notice the reopening proceedings have to be held to be bad in law-Therefore, order passed under s. 148A(d) and the consequential notice under 148 are quashed. [S. 148, 148A(b),148A(d), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that Co-ordinate Bench had set aside and quashed both notices respectively dt. 31st March, 2021 and 8th April, 2021, issued under s. 148.

Revenue was left to proceed in accordance with law. Revenue did proceed. However, in issuing show-cause notice for effecting the variation, Revenue did not comply with the amended provision of S. 148A inserted by the Finance Act, 2021. Keeping in mind that the earlier notices under s. 148 were quashed, in the facts and circumstances Revenue had to proceed from the stage of S. 148A(b), on dispensation of inquiry as directed by the Supreme Court in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 326 CTR 473 / 213 DTR 217(SC), the assessee had right to reply to the show-cause, consideration of which may have led to an order passed under S. 148A(d), for issuance of notice under S. 148 subsequent thereto. The assessee would then have had to comply on filing return for the reassessment. This procedure was not followed. Impugned show-cause notice dt. 3rd May, 2023, assessment order dt. 12th May, 2023 and demand also dt. 12th May, 2023 are set aside and quashed. The reservation by said judgment dt. 18th Nov., 2022, in para 12 thereof is reiterated for Revenue to move in accordance with law. For purposes of moving forward with the reassessment, Revenue has to issue fresh notice under S. 148A(b). This is because the earlier notices issued stood quashed by Co ordinate Bench and, therefore cannot be said to be notices deemed to have been issued under S. 148A. Accordingly the notices and orders are quashed. (AY. 2015-16, 2016-17)

Allowing the petition the Court held that despite the assessee's making a request, opportunity of personal hearing had not been afforded to the assessee and a period of five days time which was lesser than the prescribed seven days was given to the assessee to respond to the show-cause notice issued under section 148A(b). The matter remanded back to the jurisdictional Assessing Officer for a decision afresh. Accordingly, the order under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice issued under section 148 for reopening of the assessment under section 147 for the assessment year 2017-18 were set aside(AY. 2017-18)

Held, that as per section 151 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, and considering the fact that the reopening of the case was occurring after a lapse of more than three years, the appropriate authority for issuance of the notice under sections 148 and 148A(b) of the Act should have been either the Principal Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General, or in their absence, the Chief Commissioner or Director General, instead of the Principal Commissioner of Income-tax, who did not fall within the specified authorities outlined in section 151 of the Act. Hence the notice of reassessment dated May 26, 2022 and July 30, 2022 and the order dated July 30, 2022, for the assessment year 2017-18 is quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

Ashish Agarwal ((2022)444 ITR 1 (SC),* allowing the petition, that the notice issued under section 148 in order to be sustained when tested on the anvil of the pre-amendment to section 149(1)(b), would have to meet the prescription of six years period of limitation and that period in respect of the assessment year 2016-17 had ended on March 31, 2023. Therefore, the reassessment proceedings which was commenced pursuant to the notice under section 147, dated April 29, 2024, was unsustainable. The Assessing Officer did not attempt to sustain the initiation of action on any other statutory provision which could be read as extending the time limit that applied. [S. 147, 148, 149(1), 151, Art. 226]

Held, that since the disputes pertained to the assessment years 2016-17 and 2017-18, the proviso to section 149(1) applied to the cases. As a consequence, the time limit specified in the preamended section 149(1)(b) was applicable and the time limit prescribed therein was four years and not more than six years. Clause (ii) of section 151 was applicable and, in terms thereof, the specified authorities were the Principal Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General or Chief Commissioner or Director General. The orders under section 148A(d) were issued with the prior approval of the Commissioner (International Taxation). The validity of sanction for issuing the orders under section 148A(d) and the notices under section 148 should be tested with reference to amended section 151. If so tested, it was evident that sanction was not granted by an authority specified under clause (ii) of section 151. Hence, the orders under section 148A(d) and the notices under section 148 were liable to be quashed. As a corollary, the draft assessment orders under section 144B / 144C could not survive and had also to be quashed. Finance Act, 2021 ([2021] 432 ITR (St.) 52) (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Show cause notice-Principle of natural justice-Service of show cause notice by itself did not tantamount to a discharge of obligation to provide assessee with an opportunity of being heard-Opportunity to be effective must include a right to a personal hearing as well-Order of Single Judge is affirmed. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), 148, Art. 226] 2057

Assessing Officer issued on assessee a notice under section 148A(b) calling upon it to show cause as to why a notice under section 148 should not be issued. Assessee filed reply to show cause notice Assessing Officer without affording assessee an opportunity of heard passed order in terms of section 148A(d) and consequently issued notice under section 148. On writ the Revenue contended before High Court that so long as show cause notice envisaged under section 148A was issued to assessee, opportunity of being heard was to be seen as provided. Allowing the petition the Court held that service of show cause notice under section 148A(b) is only first step in process of extending an opportunity of being heard to assessee and thus, service of show cause notice by itself did not tantamount to a discharge of obligation to provide assessee with an opportunity of being heard. Notice is set a side and directed to pass speaking order after giving a reasonable opportunity of being heard. On appeal by Revenue dismissing the appeal the Court held that opportunity to be effective must include a right to a personal hearing as well. (AY. 2019-20)

Allowing the petition the Court held that S. 148A(b) begins with provide an opportunity of being heard to the assessee. Hearing does not mean filing reply to the show-cause notice. If the provision of this section contemplates opportunity of being heard that has to be construed as personal hearing. Therefore, there is no substance in the submission of Revenue's counsel that an opportunity of being heard to the assessee contemplated under s. 148A(b) does not necessarily mean personal hearing. Court held that opportunity of being heard under s. 148A(b) means an opportunity of personal hearing to the assessee. On facts no such opportunity of being heard was given to the assessee before passing order and issuing notice. Order and notice are unsustainable. The notice and order is set aside. The assessee is directed to appear before the respondent on or before 27th Oct., 2023 with all the relevant document in his possession of being heard. After considering the submission of the assessee, the AO is required to pass a fresh order, and thereafter, proceed with the matter. (AY. 2019-20)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Information from insight portal that assessee had transacted with Mutual Fund found to be involved in scam-No nexus between belief and material-Reassessment notice and order disposing the objection is quashed-Court can examine relevancy of recorded reasons in writ jurisdiction. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2060

Allowing the petition the Court held that the assessee was himself a victim of the alleged fraud of the mutual fund and was again being victimised by the Assessing Officer. Even in the order under section 148A(d) wherein it was mentioned that statement of the key management personnel of the mutual fund was recorded, there was nothing to indicate that the assessee was part of the alleged sham mutual fund. The assessee was not a distributor and was only a client. The allegation in the initial notice issued under section 148A(b) that the assessee was one of the persons who had claimed fictitious short-term capital loss was without any basis. The assessee had, based on public announcement, invested in the mutual fund. The receipt of tax free dividend fund and the fact that the assessee had suffered a loss could not be held against the assessee. Even assuming that the transaction was preplanned, there was nothing to impeach the genuineness of the transaction. The assessee was free to carry on his business which he did within the four corners of the law. Mere tax planning without any motive to evade taxes through colourable devices was not frowned upon even in Mcdowell and Co. Ltd. v. Commercial Tax Officer (1985) 154 ITR 148(SC), CIT v. Walfort Share and Stock Brokers (P) Ltd(2010) 326 ITR 1 (SC). Court also observed that the Assessing Officer's allegations in the notice issued under section 148A(b), that the mutual fund had manipulated accounting methodology so as to artificially inflate the distributable surplus and the investors, in order to reduce their tax liability, had entered into sham transactions and received dividend and short-term capital loss, did not implicate the assessee in any manner. There was nothing to indicate that the assessee had participated knowingly in a sham transaction to reduce his tax liability or to earn dividend or book short-term capital loss. The Assessing Officer was also not clear whether the assessee had booked loss or claimed dividend in the mutual fund which indicated non-application of mind by the Assessing Officer. The initial notice under section 148A(b), the order passed under section 148A(d) and the notices under section 148 were therefore, quashed and set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

Karan Maheshwari v. ACIT (2024)465 ITR 232 (Bom)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Notice issued on the ground of non filer of return of income-Return was filed and refund was granted-Notice and order is quashed. [S. 139, 143(1), 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, 151, Art. 226] 2061

Allowing the petition the Court held that the order passed under section 148A(d) was unsustainable because the initial notice issued under section 148A(b) did not call upon the assessee to provide any justification on any transaction in question. The entire basis for issuing the notice under section 148A(b) was that the assessee was a non-filer for the assessment year 2019-20 and that since he had failed to file the return of income, the income from salary and purchase of securities had not been declared or offered for taxation. But the fact was that the assessee had filed his return of income, had paid tax and had also claimed refund. Therefore, the order under section 148A(d) and the consequential notice issued under section 148 for reopening the assessment under section 147 were quashed and set aside. Court also held that even the notice under section 148A(b) was unjustified because, in terms of the guidelines dated August 1, 2022 before issuing the notice under section 148, the Assessing Officer was bound at least to verify or enquire following the information that was received in accordance with the Risk Management Strategy. If the Assessing Officer had verified in the portal of the assessee before initiating proceedings, when he had the permanent account number with him, he would have realised that not only had the assessee filed the return of income, but also that it had been processed and an order under section 143(1) had been passed. Therefore, the initial notice issued under section 148A(b) was also quashed and set aside. (AY. 2019-20)

Allowing the petition the Court held that the issues pertaining to the valuation of work-in-progress as well as disallowance of interest were considered at the stage of proceedings before the Settlement Commission, which had recorded the findings in its final order dated September 16, 2016. Therefore, the contention raised by the Principal Commissioner that the escapement of income was not brought to the notice of the Settlement Commission, was not justified. Additionally, it could be seen that both the issues did not form the subject matter of the challenge against the final order of the Settlement Commission as they were concerned with (i) granting immunity from penalty and prosecution under section 245H of the Act and (ii) granting waiver of interest under section 234A of the Act. Hence the notice under section 148A was not valid. Referred, Brij Lal v. CIT (2010) 328 ITR 477 (SC) wherein the Court held that the finality of the order of the Settlement Commission emanates from section 245-I of the Income-tax Act, 1961 which envisages that every order of settlement passed under sub-section (4) of section 245D shall be conclusive as to the matters stated therein and no matter covered by such order shall, save as otherwise provided in Chapter XIX-A of the Act, be reopened in any proceeding under this Act or under any other law for the time being in force. Orchid Infrastructure Developers Pvt. Ltd. v. PCIT (2024)465 ITR 591/161 taxmann.com 673 /338 CTR 1 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Death of assessee-Intimated to Department-Proceedings for earlier assessment years dropped for reason that notices issued against dead person invalid-Notice and proceedings void ab initio-Notices and orders set aside. [143, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2063

Allowing the petition the Court held that the reassessment proceedings could not be initiated under section 147 since the notices under section 148 were issued against a deceased person. The petitioner, legal heir, had already intimated the Department about the death of the assessee and yet the Assessing Officer had proceeded to reopen the assessment of the assessment year 2013-14 under section 147. The course as adopted was clearly reflective of complete non-application of mind. That for the earlier assessment years, 2010-11 and 2012-13 the Department had already dropped the proceedings on the premise that the notices under section 148 were issued against a deceased person. Therefore, on the yardstick of the principle of consistency, the Department ought not to have proceeded to initiate action under section 147 for the assessment year 2013-14, especially when there was no alteration in the facts as compared to the earlier two assessment years. Accordingly, the notices issued under section 148A(b), the order passed under section 148A(d), the notice issued under section 148 and the assessment order passed under section 147 read with section 143, for the assessment year 2013-14, were set aside and quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

Pradeep Jain v. ITO (2024) 465 ITR 399 /164 taxmann.com 284 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 148A : Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Search-Assessment of third person-Reassessment based on incriminating material and information collected prior to and post search-Permissible only under Section 153C-Reassessment cannot be made under Section 147-Notices and orders set aside. [S. 132, 147, 148, 153A, 153C, Art. 226] 2064

Allowing the petition the Court held that the information as contained in the annexure to the notice and the order passed in exercise of powers under section 148A(d) of the Act made it clear that the entire basis for reopening the assessment was nothing but the material and information collected during search conducted in the premises of another assessee. Collection of details relating to search would not mean collection of new incriminating material and information, independent of the incriminating material and information collected during search proceedings. The earlier notice, dated March 31, 2021, issued under section 148 merely stated that the Assessing Officer had reasons to believe that the income chargeable to tax for the assessment year 2016-17 had escaped assessment under section 147. The later notice, dated June 2, 2022, issued under section 148A(b) pursuant to the decision in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC), it was stated that there was information pertaining to the assessee which suggested that income chargeable to tax for the assessment year 2016-17 had escaped assessment under section 147. The notice clearly showed that incriminating material and information was found during the search proceedings and not beyond that and to assume jurisdiction under section 148A such information was made a basis to draw inferences which were described as pre search and post search investigations. It had been assumed that the incriminating material and information collected during search followed by collection of details which were intrinsically related to such material and information would confer jurisdiction under section 147. That the Department had the authority to reopen the assessment by invoking the powers under section 153C and draw reassessment proceedings under section 153A. That was not done within the period of limitation prescribed under section 153B. The Department was fully aware of the fact that proceedings under section 153C would be barred by limitation, and therefore, recourse was taken to the provisions under section 148 and section 148A which had no application in the assessee's case. The orders passed for the assessment years 2016-17 and 2017-18 were unsustainable and accordingly, quashed and set aside. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

Allowing the petition, the Court held that Department had proceeded ex parte because the assessee had not replied to the notice under section 148A(b) or participated in the reassessment proceedings under section 147. The aggregate deposits had been taken into consideration. The assessee had contended that the debits from bank account were not taken into consideration and that if such debits were considered, the alleged escapement of income would be less than the prescribed minimum threshold of Rs. 50 lakhs. Since the assessee could not contest the matter on the merits earlier, the assessee should be provided an opportunity of hearing. Thereafter a fresh order could be passed. The assessment order and the notice of penalty were set aside and the matter was remanded to the Assessing Officer. Matter remanded. (AY. 2015-16))

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the Department had received information that the value of land, which was subject matter of transaction of sale, was far more than what had been disclosed. Therefore, on the face of it, it was a case where the Department had collected certain information regarding certain income having escaped assessment. Whether or not the information was reliable, would be required to be examined at subsequent stages and at this stage, the court would not go into the disputed questions of fact. The assessee had not alleged procedural impropriety, irregularity or violation of statutory provisions in the matter of initiation of proceedings or passing of the order under section 148A(d). The order and consequential notice of reassessment were valid.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Sanction-Non application of mind-Discrepancy in quantum of escapement of income-Order and consequent notice is set aside. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151, Art. 226] 2067

Allowing the petition, the Court held that the contention that the record had been carefully considered before granting approval under section 151 was an incorrect statement made by the Principal Chief Commissioner. The information annexed to the notice issued under section 148A(b) had stated the quantum of income that had escaped assessment more than the amount mentioned in the order passed under section 148A(d) without any explanation as to how the amount had changed or had been reduced. In the affidavit, it was stated that in the notice the value of the transaction in question was taken gross and subsequently it was seen that there were duplicate entries which were corrected while passing the order under section 148A(d). The notice did not contain any duplicate entries. If there were duplicate entries, the Assessing Officer was duty bound to clarify in the order and also give details of what were those duplicate entries and should have come clean on the error made. If the Principal Chief Commissioner or the other officers had seen the records and had applied their mind, those errors would not have crept in. This displayed non-application of mind by all those persons who had endorsed their approval for issuance of notice under section 148. Had the authorities read the record carefully, they would never have come to the conclusion that this was a fit case for issuance of notice under section 148 and would have either told the Assessing Officer to correct the amounts or would have sent the papers back for reconsideration. They had substituted the form for substance, important safeguards provided in sections 147 and 151 were treated lightly by the concerned officers. The order of approvals under section 151, having been granted mechanically and without application of mind in a most casual manner, were quashed and set aside. The order passed under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice issued under section 148 were also quashed and set aside. (AY.)

[S 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2068

On a writ petition challenging the order under section 148A(d) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 for the assessment year 2019-20, on the ground of violation of principles of natural justice since the assessee was denied the requested opportunity of personal hearing requested in response to the show-cause notice under section 148A(b), Court held that the Assessing Officer had neither rejected nor had recorded any reasons for not considering the assessee's request for personal hearing in its response to the show-cause notice under section 148A(b). Without going into the merits, the order under section 148A(d) and all subsequent proceedings were to be set aside on the ground of violation of principles of natural justice. The matter was remanded back to the Assessing Officer to pass a fresh order under section 148A(d) after giving opportunity of personal hearing and considering the objections filed by the assessee. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1(SC)-Notice is without jurisdiction hence quashed. [S. 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

The assessee was originally assessed to tax under section 143(3) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 for assessment year 2017-18 by an assessment order dated May 29, 2019. Thereafter, assessee received a reassessment notice dated March 31, 2021 issued under section 148 of the Act. The assessee participated in the reassessment proceeding and a reassessment order dated March 28, 2022 was passed by the Assessing Officer. The assessee did not challenge it and it attained finality. A second reassessment notice for the assessment year 2017-18 dated July 30, 2022 was issued invoking section 148A of the Act. On a writ petition, allowing the petition, that there could exist only one assessment order for an assessee for one assessment year. Since the reassessment order had already been passed on March 28, 2022 for the assessment year 2017-18, there was no proceeding pending to have been influenced or affected or governed by the order of the Supreme Court dated May 4, 2022 in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC). In the absence of any declaration of law to annul or set aside the pre-existing reassessment under section 147 and assessment order dated March 28, 2022, after issuing notice under section 148, the assessing authority had no jurisdiction to reissue the notice dated July 30, 2022 under section 148A. The proceedings were without jurisdiction and a nullity, and therefore, quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

The Assessing Officer passed an order dated March 31, 2022, to the effect that the reassessment was completed under section 147 read with sections 144 and 144B accepting the income declared by the assessee in the return of income, that credit was given for prepaid taxes and that the demand notice and copy of order were being issued. Thereafter, pursuant to the amendment by the Finance Act, 2021 and the Supreme Court decision in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1(SC) the Assessing Officer, under the amended provisions, issued an initial notice dated June 2, 2022 under section 148A(b), passed an order dated July 29, 2022 under section 148A(d) to issue the notice under section 148 which also referred to the earlier notice under the old provisions. On a writ allowing the petition, that the notice issued under section 148 to reopen the assessment under section 147 following the new procedure was on a change of opinion. The order under section 147 read with sections 144 and 144B and the notice issued under section 142(1) showed that the same set of allegations were made against the assessee, which were the subject matter of the assessment order dated March 31, 2022. The assessment proceedings already stood concluded on March 31, 2022, with regard to various aspects which emanated from the assessee's return, including the aspects which were the subject matter of notice dated June 2, 2022, issued under section 148A(b) and order under section 148A(d). The Assessing Officer could not, under the new regime, reopen the assessment proceedings by traversing the same path and enquire into the same issues which were subject matter of the earlier assessment proceeding. Therefore, the notice, dated June 2, 2022 issued under section 148A(b), the order passed under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice, dated July 29, 2022, issued under section 148 were set aside. Allowing the petition the Court held, that the respondents after issuance of the notice under section 148A(b) of the Act, had started gathering information and supporting documents ; however, even after obtaining the information and supporting documents, they did not disclose such information and supporting documents to the assessee. [S. 9(1)(vi), 9(1)(vii), 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 5 Art. 226] 2073

On basis of information that various payments were made to assessee in respect of which tax had been deducted at source by various entities, notice under section 148A(b) was issued holding that as assessee had not filed return, said income remained unexplained and appeared to have escaped assessment. Assessee submitted that it was an overseas entity engaged in supply of software and that monies received from sale/ resale of shrink-wrapped software would not amount to royalty so as to be taxable and even if income so generated were to be viewed as business income, same would not be taxable in absence of a Permanent Establishment (PE) of assessee existing in India and, hence, question of unexplained income did not arise. Assessing Officer passed order under section 148A(d) observing that though assessee had claimed that income was exempt but since assessee had not filed ITR and end user licence agreement between parties, income could not be claimed as exempt. On writ, the Court held that lower authorities had clearly failed to deal with objections which struck at very root of assumption of jurisdiction as findings on aspect of royalty and PE could not have been deferred or made subject matter of further verification Since this aspect of criticality had clearly been ignored by revenue while passing impugned order, writ petition is allowed and order passed under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148 were quashed. [S. 69A, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2077

Section 148A of the Income-tax Act, 1961, was enacted by the Finance Act, 2021 ([2021] 432 ITR (St.) 52), with effect form April 1, 2021. A reopening notice under section 148A(b) was issued for reason that as per information flagged under Risk Management Strategy (RMS) formulated by CBDT, revenue had noticed that assessee had supplied goods/services of certain amount to a company which was not doing any actual business activities and was providing accommodation entries. This company was involved in receiving and giving bogus contracts/sub-contracts and raising invoices without delivery of any actual goods/services and was merely working as entry/exit provider. On writ dismissing the petition the Court held that decision of assessing authority to initiate reassessment proceedings in case of assessee had arisen on basis of 'information' received that 'purchaser' did not exist. That information was contained in reports of Income Tax Officer with respect to four addresses of purchaser. No direct evidence was disclosed by assessee (in his reply) to doubt existence of that 'information'. 'Suggestion' as to escapement of income qua sales made to (non-existing) purchaser inhered in said information. The said 'information' was relevant to 'suggestion' as to 'escapement of income' at hands of assessee. The decision of the assessing authority to initiate reassessment proceedings in the case of the assessee for the assessment year 2020-21 arose on the "information" received that the "purchaser" did not exist. That was contained in the report of the ITO with respect to the four addresses of the "purchaser". No direct evidence was furnished by the assessee, (in his reply), to doubt the existence of that "information". Hence the order under section 148A was valid. (AY. 2020-21)

Assessee, received a notice under section 148 on 09.03.2021 for reopening assessment for relevant assessment years. Assessee responded by filing a return and requested reasons for reopening. Revenue admitted that a technical glitch caused assessee's return and request for reopening reasons to go unnoticed by Assessment Officer, leading to issuance of assessment orders under Section 144 r/w Section 147 for relevant assessment years on 03.03.2022. Assessee filed writ petitions to quash assessment orders and to stay demand. High Court set aside assessment orders dated 03.03.2022 but remanded matters back to jurisdictional Assessing Officer for passing fresh assessment orders. Assessee filed a review petition, contending that remand was contrary to law laid down in UOI v. Ashish Agarwal [2022] 138 taxmann.com 64/286 Taxman 183/444 ITR 1 (SC) and GKN Driveshafts (India) Ltd. v. ITO [2002] 125 Taxman 963/[2003] 259 ITR 19 (SC). It was noted that where notice under section 148 of unamended Act was sent to assessee prior to 1-04-2021, and return filed and application seeking reasons for reopening was requested after 1-04-2021, law laid down in Ashish Agarwal (supra) would not apply and come to laid of assessee in seeking review of order. Further in GKN Driveshafts (India) Ltd. case (supra) Supreme Court noted that procedural lapse due to a system glitch did not invalidate entire proceeding. Therefore, there was no ground made out for review of common order and submissions made were more in nature of seeking reappreciation of entire matter on its merits, which was impermissible in review jurisdiction. Dismissing the petition, Court held that it was not in dispute that on April 27/28, 2019 marriage of the assessee's daughter was solemnized in a resort. The assessee had incurred the entire expenditure of the marriage. According to the assessee, he disclosed his entire income for the year 2018-19 and all sources of income to tax and filed his return within the prescribed period. However, the Department contended that as per investigation, the assessee was evading the Income-tax under the "High Risk Transaction Case Related Information Upload/Verification Report Upload" category during search and seizure undertaken under section 132 of the Act, 1961 at the N group. Therefore, on March 28, 2023, the assessee was served with the notice under section 148A of the Act claiming escapement of income chargeable to tax for the assessment year 2019-20. Along with the notice the assessee was also supplied with information forming the basis of the notice under section 148A(b). S. 148A : Reassessment – Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice – Initial notice – Personal hearing – Not a statutory mandate but discretion of Assessing Officer – Writ petition dismissed – Assessee can raise contentions in reassessment proceedings – Interpretation of taxing statutes – Legislative intent – Plain language of provision must be given its ordinary meaning. [S. 132, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2081

The assessee challenged the reassessment proceedings contending that a personal hearing was mandatory under section 148A. Dismissing the writ, the Court held that section 148A requires the Assessing Officer to conduct an enquiry if required before issuing notice under section 148 and to provide an opportunity of being heard under clause (b), but the statute does not mandate a personal hearing. The words "if required" in clause (a) confer discretion on the Assessing Officer, and the legislative intent as clarified in the Finance Bill, 2021 shows that personal hearing was deliberately excluded. An assessee is granted sufficient opportunity by way of notice and reply, which the Assessing Officer must consider before passing an order under clause (d). Therefore, refusal of personal hearing does not vitiate proceedings. The principle of plain interpretation requires giving effect to the words used, and courts cannot read into the statute what the legislature has consciously excluded. All contentions of the assessee remain open to be raised in the reassessment proceedings.

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Investments by Foreign Companies in Shares of their own Indian subsidiaries-Transactions are capital account transactions-No proof of transactions being consequence of round-tripping-Investment in shares capital account transaction not income-Notices and orders set aside. [S. 9(1)(i), 115A, 147, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2082

Assessee, a foreign company, subscribed shares by making forward inward remittance in its wholly owned Indian subsidiary. Assessee did not file a return in the relevant year on grounds that it had not earned any income in India. Assessing Officer held that investment in shares of another entity were income which were chargeable to tax and had escaped assessment hence issued notices under section 148A(b) in terms of Explanation 1 to section 148 and thereafter passed order under section 148A(d). On writ, the Court held that investment in shares in an Indian subsidiary could not be treated as income as same was in nature of capital account transaction and would not give rise to any income. Therefore, orders passed under section 148A (d) and notices issued under section 148 were to be set aside. Court also clarified that if any material became subsequently available with the Revenue, it shall be open to it to take proceedings in accordance with law. (AY. 2019-20)

Held, allowing the petition the Court held that the assessee was not given the requested effective opportunity of hearing and therefore the order passed under section 147 read with sections 144 and 144B of the Income-tax Act, 1961, was in violation of the principles of natural justice and therefore, set aside. In response to the notice under section 148, the assessee had filed return of income for the assessment year 2016-17. In response to the initial notice under section 148A(b) the assessee had requested for personal hearing through video conferencing. Though the link was provided, the assessee could not join the link for technical failure on the part of the Department. Despite the e-mail addressed to the Department regarding this, no further opportunity was given to the assessee and the assessment order in question had been passed. The matter was remitted to the National Faceless Assessment Centre to provide fresh link to the assessee and after hearing the assessee, the assessment order should be passed in accordance with law. Matter remanded. (AY. 2016-17(SJ)

Held, allowing the petition, that the show-cause notices issued under section 148A(b) to the amalgamating entities SIPL and SRPL were non est in law. The solitary ground for reassessment under section 147 was based on the premise that the assessee had not filed its return of income for the assessment year 2016-17. The assessee had duly intimated the Department about the amalgamation and that the corporate entities SIPL and SRPL did not exist. It had also stated that it had never entered into any sale transaction with SH and the sale transaction undertaken by the amalgamating entity, which was the solitary rationale for issuance of the show-cause notice under section 148A(b) had also been rightly shown in its return of income. No return of income could have been filed on behalf of the amalgamated entity as such entity was non est in law. The assessee in its return had also declared the income earned by the amalgamating entity SRPL. The Assessing Officer neither before issuing the show-cause notice under section 148A(b) nor before passing the order under section 148A(d) had considered the assessee's return of income filed which had duly captured the income earned by the amalgamated entity. Therefore, the initial notice was issued without due application of mind and in a mechanical manner, without adhering to the statutory responsibilities envisaged under section 148. The matter need not be remitted to the Assessing Officer since the reason for the issuance of the notice under section 148A(b) was itself de hors the available record. The show-cause notice under section 148A(b) and the order passed under section 148A(d) were set aside. The Department was given liberty to take appropriate fresh action, if permissible in law on any other count. (AY. 2016-17)

[S. 143(3), 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 263,art. 5, Art. 226] 2085

Assessee, Malaysian resident company, entered into a marketing service agreement and a technical service agreement with Indian entity. Since Indian entity constituted a dependent agent permanent establishment (DAPE) of assessee in India, assessee determined profits that were attributable to its DAPE in India and, accordingly, offers same to tax in India. Assessing Officer passed an assessment order accepting income returned by assessee. Thereafter, assessee was issued a show cause notice under sections 148 and 148A(b) accompanied by reasons to believe escapement of income. On writ, the Court held that reasons for reopening indicated in notice was an order passed under section 263 for assessment year 2017–18 which was set aside by Tribunal. Further, pursuant to order passed by Tribunal, Assessing Officer also passed order giving effect to Tribunal order under section 143(3) read with section 254 thereby nullifying demand raised. Since show cause notices and notice issued under section 148 was based on contents and findings of Commissioner in his revision order, which order was already set aside by Tribunal, notice being a 'change of opinion' by Assessing Officer were liable to be quashed. Assessee sold a flat during assessment year. Assessing Officer selected case of assessee for limited scrutiny assessment with regard to investment in flat, capital gain/income on sale of flat and issued various notices under section 142(1) to her. Assessee responded to notices and provided details of flat sold. Assessing Officer passed assessment order stating that in view of material on record, no addition on issues was made. Subsequently Assessing Officer issued on assessee notice under section 148A(b) and passed order under section 148A(d) and issued notice under section 148 holding that flat sold was short-term capital asset and gain arising on transfer of such asset was short-term capital gain. On writ, the Court held that reopening of assessment is purely on basis of change of opinion of Assessing Officer from that held earlier during course of assessment proceedings and thus not valid. Followed Siemens Financial Services (P.) Ltd. v. Dy. CIT [2023] 154 taxmann.com 159/457 ITR 647 (Bom)(HC) (AY. 2018-19)

Revenue issued notice under section 148A(b) for alleged not declaring full value of consideration as per the stamp valuation. The Assessee filed the writ petition. and contended that during assessment year 2016-17, he paid only a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/-, pursuant to Judgment and decree dated 16-10-2014 and therefore, question of invoking section 50C did not arise at all. He relied on first proviso to section 50C. Court held that although, submission was made by assessee on merits on strength of proviso to section 50C, fact remained that assessee had not filed regular return under section 139 for assessment year 2016-17. Even, if assessee might have a case for dropping of proposed proceedings, it would be better for him to file a proper reply to notice issued under section 148 as there was no previous history of any proceeding under Income-tax Act. Accordingly, writ petition is dismissed and the Assessing Officer was directed to take into consideration all relevant facts before proceeding to conclude whether any income had escaped assessment for assessment year 2016-17. Assessment of assessee-trust was completed under section 143(3) at 'Nil' income. Revenue audit party however objected to finalization of return of assessee-trust at 'Nil' for reason that during year assessee received corpus donations which were not included in income for application under section 11. On basis of revenue audit objection, Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 by issuing notice. On writ dismissing the petition the Court held that with effect from 1-4-2022, audit objection is one of reasons for reopening assessment as per clause (ii) of Explanation 1 to section 148. Therefore, where revenue audit raised an objection that assessment was not completed in accordance with provisions of Act, it could not be treated as a change of opinion because this was statutory prescription and statutory ground/reason for reopening assessment as Assessing Authority had proceeded strictly in accordance with provisions of clause (ii) of Explanation 1 to section 148. Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A(b) alleging that information suggested that income chargeable to tax for relevant year had escaped assessment in hands of assessee. Notice contained brief details of information collected/received by Assessing Officer that assessee was a beneficiary of accommodation entries amounting to Rs. 27.50 lakhs from one Kusum Multitrade Pvt Ltd and assessee was called upon to show cause as to why income arising out of above transactions should not be treated as income which had escaped assessment in hands of assessee and, consequentially, why a notice under section 148 should not be issued. Reply by assessee was rejected by Assessing Officer by an order passed under section 148A(d) on ground that assessee failed to submit E-way bills, weigh bridge slips, delivery challans, lorry receipts, toll booth slips, etc.. On writ, allowing the petition, the Court held that since assessee had submitted copy of financial statement, ledger details, ledger account details of GST sales in respect of tax invoices of all parties and copy of bank statement of HDFC Bank through which 'KMPL' had made payment, order passed under section 148A(d) is quashed and set aside and matter was to be remanded for de novo consideration. Assessee is a housewife who had no income and therefore, was not filing any income tax return. She received a notice under section 148A(b) from Assessing Officer stating that he had information which suggested that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment and thus requiring assessee to show cause as to why proceedings under section 148 should not be initiated. Assessee submitted that property was purchased by her husband and all payments were made by him. Assessee also explained that her name was included as a joint holder in agreement for sale, but no payment was made by her. She also submitted copy of registered agreement for property and husband's bank details. The Assessing Officer passed order under section 148A(d) by holding that explanation and documents submitted by assessee did not conclusively preclude suggestion based on information available that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that since Assessing Officer had accepted that assessee had not made any payment for purchase of property, it was not a fit case for reopening assessment in case of assessee. Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. (AY. 2016-17)

The Assessing Officer issued on assessee a notice under section 148A(b) alleging that information uploaded on INSITE portal had surfaced that assessee had carried out transactions in penny script and booked fictitious losses Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d) On writ, the Court held that the assessee in reply to notice had given evidence that information uploaded on INSITE portal was incorrect and infact assessee had made a profit. Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148A(b) on ground that during search operation carried out in case of builder, there was some material found regarding unaccounted income which included on-money receipts on sale of flat by a land development company, Lucina, to different customers which included assessee. Assessee replied that payment for flat was made out of redemption of fixed deposits and loans from daughter and son-in-law and denied payment of any amount in cash to builder in addition to basic price of flat. Assessing Officer passed an order holding that source of income for purchase of immovable property remained unexplained and therefore, it would fall within meaning of assets as per Explanation 1 of section 149. On writ, allowing the petition, the Court held that only basis on which an allegation was made that assessee had paid cash was a statement of somebody from Lucina, moreover, there was nothing on record to indicate that assessee had paid said amount. Further this amount of Rs. 20. 91 lakhs had been offered by Lucina to tax before Settlement Commission. Assessee had entered into transactions with Fives France under Assistance Service Agreement (ASA) and filed AAR application seeking ruling on whether payments received by Fives France would be subject to withholding tax under section 195, which was declined. Meanwhile, assessee had filed its return of income which was accepted by Assessing Officer. Subsequently, a notice under section 148 was issued on basis of payment to Fives Solios SA and about three transactions with Fives France on ground that assessee had failed to deduct withholding tax. It was noted that on receipt of reasons for reopening, assessee submitted that application before AAR was only in respect of services provided under ASA between assessee and Fives France, which was operated until 31-12-2024 and transactions between assessee and Fives Solios SA and three transactions with Fives France were not covered within scope of AAR application. On writ the Court held that since reasons for reopening were based on grossly erroneous factual foundation and assessee having actually withheld and remitted taxes in respect of transactions with Fives France that formed subject of application before AAR, impugned order under section 148A(d) and notice under section 148 were liable to be quashed. As regards issue of notice under sectiion 148, which was issued after lapse of more than three years from end of relevant assessment year after obtaining approval from Chief Commissioner, since Chief Commissioner was not a specified authority under clause (ii) of section 151, reassessment proceedings were liable to be quashed. Order passed under section 148A(d) and a consequent notice under section 148, both approved by Principal Commissioner under section 151, were issued against assessee. On writ, the Assessee contended that sanction/approval under section 151 had been obtained and granted without application of mind as quantum of income which had escaped assessment as mentioned in approval and in draft order varied from each other. In reply, department mentioned it as a typographical error. Allowing the petition the Court held that explanation could not be accepted because a typographical error could have been committed by AO, who was seeking approval, but if only Additional/Joint Commissioner or Principal Commissioner had read approval application and draft of order to be issued under section 148A(d), they would have certainly noticed discrepancy and they should have either refused approval or sent application back to AO for filing correct form for approval. In such circumstances, order under Clause (d) of Section 148A as well as consequent notice issued under section 148 was to be quashed and set aside. (AY. 2019-20)

On writ the Court held that since assessee was under a bona fide impression that his income was below exemption limit and was mistakenly advised that there was no requirement to file return and his failure to respond to notice under section 148A(b) was due to unavoidable circumstances, it could be said that impugned notice, order etc., were violative of principle of natural justice and deserved to be quashed. In absence of reply from side of assessee, Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d) and, consequently, a notice under section 148 was also issued. Notice u/s 148 was issued stating that income had escaped assessment. After the rejection of objections, a letter for issuance of a DIN No. to the notice u/s 148 was issued. On writ, the Hon'ble High Court held that the provisions of Section 148A of the Act and the guidelines issued by the CBDT provide for passing a speaking order after considering the reply and the material on record. The impugned order was not in consonance with the procedure prescribed and the issue goes to the root of the jurisdiction for initiating the proceedings under section 148 of the Act. The case falls within the exception of the self-imposed

It was also held that the impugned order under section 148A (d) of the Act is neither a final assessment order nor any demand arises out of it and Petitioner has ample opportunity to make a case if it has in its favour, in course of proceeding subsequent to the order under section 148A (d) of the Act for dropping the proceedings. City and Industrial Development Corporation of Maharashtra Ltd. v. ACIT (2024) 297 Taxman 42 (Bom.)(HC)

2101 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Unexplained investments –Purchases reflected in GSTR-1-Failure to reconcile-Reassessment proceeding is valid. [S. 69, 148,148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

On the basis of information reflected in GSTR-1 forms, reassessment notice was issued. The asseee filed writ petition challenging the reassessment notice. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the assessee failed to provide purchase details, invoices, and bank statements, prompted Assessing Officer to conclude that certain sum had escaped taxation. Since assessee had failed to provide any plausible explanation for transaction which stood reflected in GSTR-1 forms and moreover, there was material to suggest that income had escaped assessment, Assessing Officer rightly initiated reassessment proceedings. 2102 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Unexplained money –Limitation-After three years-Deposit was only Rs 33. 62 lacs-Notice is barred by limitation. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149(1)(a), Art. 226]

Assessing Officer issued on assessee a notice under section 148A(b) after three years from relevant assessment year indicating that he had deposited Rs. 59. 75 lacs in cash in his bank account during said year. Assessee filed reply indicating that he had deposited Rs. 33. 62 lacs only, i. e., less than Rs. 50 lacs and as notice was issued after three years from assessment year, same was barred by limitation. Assessing Officer refused to drop proceedings and passed assessment order. On writ, allowing the petition, the Court held that since cash deposit was Rs. 33.62 lacs only and once said aspect was clear to Assessing Officer, he lost his jurisdiction to further continue with proceedings as limitation under section 149(1)(a) of three years would trigger and he would loose jurisdiction on account of limitation, as amount was less than Rs. 50 lacs. Court held that since notice issued under section 148(A)(b) was barred by limitation, notice and all other orders are quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

Bijendra Singh v. ITO (2024) 297 Taxman 455 (Raj.)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Unexplained money-Beneficiary of accommodation entries-Denial of allegation-Identical issue raised in the original notice issued under section. 148-Deletion of addition. in appeal-Identical notice once again under section. 148A(b)-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2103

Assessing Officer issued on assessee a notice under section 148 seeking to reopen assessment on ground that he was a beneficiary of accommodation entries provided by a party and a certain amount stood credited in bank accounts of assessee maintained with HDFC Bank and DCB Bank through entry provider. Assessee denied allegations levelled against him. Assessing Officer thereafter passed reassessment order. Assessee against said order filed appeal. The Assessing Officer thereafter issued on assessee a notice under section 148A(b) and allegations levelled against him were identical to what were contained in notice issued under section 148 Assessing Officer then passed an order under section 148A(d) of the Act. On writ, the court held that since allegations levelled against assessee in both notices were identical and Assessing Officer without any actionable material embarked on a journey to reopen a closed assessment and Commissioner (Appeals) decided appeal in favour of assessee, impugned order passed under section 148A(d) is quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

Arun Khanna v. ITO (2024) 297 Taxman 109 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Unexplained expenditure-Accommodation entries-Violation of principle of natural justice-Search and seizure-Opportunity of hearing was not granted-Notice and order is set aside with liberty to Assessing Officer to pass a fresh order after hearing. [S. 132, 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2104

On the basis of search and seizure action against an entity, reassessment proceeding was initiated against assessee by issuing of notice under section 148A(b) on ground that assessee had received accommodation entries regarding bogus purchases from said entity. Thereafter, an order under section 148A(d) was passed and further notice under section 148 was issued. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that since no oral hearing was granted to assessee before passing impugned order under section 148A(d), order is set aside with liberty to Assessing Officer to pass a fresh order after hearing assessee. (AY. 2019-20)

Deepak Modi v. ACIT (2024) 297 Taxman 82 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Proceedings yet to be completed-Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2105

The Assessing Officer had passed an order under section 148A(d) and issued a notice under section 148 seeking to reopen the assessment for relevant assessment year. The assessee filed writ petition challenging the order and notice on the ground that the impugned order under section 148A(d) and resulting reopening notice under section 148 was passed without taking into account assessee's reply. Court dismissed the petition on the ground that the notice is premature stage when the proceedings initiated against the assessee are yet to be concluded by the statutory authorities. (AY. 2016-17)

Assessee submitted reply to said notice physically contending that e-filing portal did not include a tab for submission of an online reply. Order under section 148A(d) and consequent notice under section 148 was passed on ground that assessee did not submit a reply to notice. On writ, the Court held that since reply submitted by assessee bore acknowledgement of Assessing Officer, order passed to effect that assessee did not file reply was to be quashed and matter is remanded back for consideration of objections of assessee. Matter remanded. (AY. 2013-14)

2107 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-If required-Cash deposits during demonetization-Notice issued to clarify cash deposited in a particular bank-Order passed after considering the reply of assesee-Writ is dismissed. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]
On writ the assessee contended that notice was not permissible under law as it clubbed various assessment years. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the Assessing Officer in no uncertain terms had clarified by e-mail addressed to assessee that they were required to submit details of cash deposits made in a particular bank account in name of assessee during financial year 2015-16 relevant to assessment year 2016-17. Since information called for in notice pertained to relevant assessment year, such e-mail sent by Assessing Officer could not be construed to be an amendment of notice issued under section 148A(b). Conduct of enquiry under section 148A(a) has not been made mandatory but it is discretionary and has been vested with Assessing Officer as provision uses its expression 'if required'. Since, order under section 148A(d) was passed by Assessing Officer after considering reply furnished by assessee in response to notice issued under clause (b), stipulation under clause (d) had been complied with by Assessing Officer who had taken a decision, on basis of material available on record including reply given by assessee and found that case of assessee for relevant assessment year was a fit case to issue notice under section 148 and, thus, provision of section 148A had been followed by AO. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, 151, Art. 226]
Assessing Officer after considering submissions of assessee passed order under section 148A(d) dropping re-assessment proceedings for relevant assessment year. The Assessing Officer once again issued reassessment notice within a span of five days. On writ, allowing the petition, Court held that he could not have changed that opinion without any basis and thus subsequent notice issued under section 148A(b) and order passed under section 148A(d) read with section 148 taking a complete contrary stand is quashed. Court also directed Principal Chief Commissioner to conduct an inquiry against concerned officer who had passed said two orders, which contradicted each other in a span of five days and to take necessary action. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Principle of natural justice-Order passed without granting an opportunity of hearing-Notice and order is set aside-Matter remanded back to the Assessing Officer. [Art. 226] 2109

Assessing Officer issued show-cause notice under section 148A on 17-3-2021 along with details of information on basis of which Assessing Officer believed that income chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. Notice mandated to file reply on or before 24-3-2022. Time was sought on behalf of assessee till 8-4-2022 through online portal. The Assessing Officer passed order under section 148A(d) on 30-3-2022 without granting time to assessee to file reply to notice under section 148A(b). Assessing Officer thereafter issued notice under section 148 on 31-3-2022 seeking reopening of assessment for assessment year 2018-19. On writ, notice issued under section 148 and order passed under section 148A(d) were quashed and set aside and matter is remanded back to Assessing Officer to grant an opportunity of hearing to assessee to file a reply as provided under section 148A(b) of the Act. S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Time limit for notice-Less than 50 lakhs-Sale of property-Capital gains-Tax deducted at source-Notice and order disposing the objection is quashed. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149, Art. 226] 2110

Notices under section 148A(b) were issued against assessee for reopening of her case on ground that as per information available with department, she had sold an immovable property for certain consideration during year, but no return had been filed by her and income from capital gains on sale of immovable property stood unexplained/untaxed. Assessee filed reply to such notices contending that she and her husband had transferred property for a total consideration of certain amount and TDS was deducted by purchaser under sale deed and because her husband did not have his PAN, her PAN was furnished and TDS corresponding to total sale price was uploaded to her PAN. Assessing Officer passed an order under section 148A(d) on ground that explanation offered could not be accepted in law. On writ the Court held that as per terms of section 149, notice under section 148 could not be issued after three years have elapsed from end of relevant assessment year, unless income chargeable to tax which had escaped assessment was likely to amount to Rs. 50 lakhs or more. On the facts it was not disputed that entire consideration was received by assessee's husband and assessee could only have received 50 per cent of sale consideration which would be less than Rs. 50 lakhs, notice under section 148A(b) could not have been issued against assessee. Accordingly, the notices issued under section 148A(b) and order passed under section 148A(d) were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

Allowing the petition the Court held that the notice was based only on certain reasons, whereas the order added new reasons for the order. The assessee had not been given an opportunity to answer and explain them. Therefore, the demand was erroneous and the order proceeded to give new reasons, which the assessee had not been given an opportunity to defend, the order had to be set aside. (AY. 2016-17) (SJ)

2112 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-No violation of principles of natural justice. -Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]
Dismissing the petition the Court held that the Assessing Officer had passed a speaking order under section 148A(d) in compliance with the statutory provisions and after a detailed discussion based on the facts and evidence which could not be substituted by the court in exercise of writ jurisdiction under article 226 of the Constitution of India. The reasoning and finding of the Assessing Officer being not satisfactory to the assessee could not be a ground to interfere with the order. There is a difference between non-consideration of the objections of the assessee and consideration of the objections according to the assessee not being satisfactory. The order under section 148A(d) was also not in violation of principles of natural justice. (AY. 2017-18)

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the assessee could not point out any procedural irregularity or illegality in the proceeding subsequent to the order under section 148A(d) of the Act and in passing the final assessment order under section 147 of the Act nor show that the final assessment order was passed without granting any opportunity of hearing to the assessee. The reassessment order under section 147 of the Act contained detailed reasoning based on facts and evidence and the court in exercise of its constitutional writ jurisdiction under article 226 of the Constitution of India cannot act as an Assessing Officer or an appellate authority to reappreciate the evidence and findings and substitute them with its own. In addition, statutory alternative remedy by way of appeal was available to the assessee. (AY. 2018-19)?

Yes-Writ petition is allowed and notice and consequential orders are quashed. [S. 80JJAA, 147, 148, 149, 149(1(b) 151A, Art. 226]

Petitioner is engaged in information technology consulting, software development and business process services. The petitioner has claimed deduction under section 10AA, and 80JJA of the Act. The assessment was completed under section 143(3) of the Act. The reassessment notice was issued under section 148 of the Act on 8th April, 2021. the petitioner, filed a writ petition challenging the notice issued under Section 148 of the Act on the ground that the said notice has been issued on the basis of the provisions which have ceased to exist and are no longer in the statute. The petition was allowed on 29th March 2022 and the Court held that the notice dated 8th April 2021 was invalid. On a Special Leave Petition that the Revenue had filed in the case of UOI. v. Ashish Agarwal (2022) 444 ITR 1 (SC), the Hon'ble Apex Court, in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution of India, passed orders with respect to the notices and inter alia held that the notices issued under Section 148 of the Act after 1st April 2021 be treated as notice issued under Section 148A(b) of the Act and provided for time lines to be followed by the Assessing Officers for providing assessees the information and material relied upon by the Revenue for initiating reassessment proceedings. The Hon'ble Apex Court also clarified that all the defences available to assessees under the provisions of the Act would be available to assessee. The Assessing Officer passed the order under section 148A(d) after considering the objections, order under section 148A(d) was passed. The petitioner challenged the said order by filing writ petition before High Court. The Honourable High Court has framed the following issues for consideration :

(1) Whether TOLA is applicable for Assessment Year 2015-2016 and whether any notice issued under Section 148 of the Act after 31st March 2021 will travel back to the original date?
(2) Whether the notice dated 27th August 2022 issued under Section 148 of the Act is barred by limitation as per the first proviso to Section 149 of the Act?
(3) Whether the impugned notice dated 27th August 2022 is invalid and bad in law as the same has been issued without a DIN?
(4) Whether the impugned notice dated 27th August 2022 is invalid and bad in law being issued by the JAO as the same was not in accordance with Section 151A of the Act?
(5) Whether the issues raised in the impugned order show an alleged escapement of income represented in the form of an asset or expenditure in respect of transaction in relation to an event or an entry in the books of account as required in Section 149(1)(b) of the Act?
(6) Whether respondent no. 1 has proposed to reopen on the basis of change of opinion and if it is permissible?
(7) When the claim of deduction under Section 80JJAA of the Act has been consistently allowed in favour of petitioner by the Assessing Officers/ Appellate Authorities in the earlier years, can the Assessing Officer have a belief that there is escapement of income?
(8) Whether the approval granted by the Sanctioning Authority was valid?

After a detailed discussion and considering the submissions of the Assessee and Revenue, the Honourable Court answered the questions as under ;

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Non-resident of Indian –Jurisdiction to be checked at the time of issue of notice-The Honourable Curt also observed that the Assessing Officer has taken dishonest stand-Notice and consequential order passed by the Assessing Officer for the relevant year is quashed-. [S. 120, 148,148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226]

The petitioner is a Non-resident Indian from the Assessment year 2017-18 to 2023-24. During the year under consideration i. e., AY 2016-17 the Petitioner was a resident.

In March 2023 a Notice under section 148A(b) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (Act) was issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer and not from the International ward on the ground that there was no time to migrate the PAN to International ward. On Writ, it was held that the jurisdiction should be checked at the time of issuance of the Notice and according to CBDT notification no. No. 57 of 2014 dated November 03, 2014, issued under Section 120 of the Act, the Officer from the International Tax Ward is the officer having jurisdiction over the Petitioner and should have issued the Notice. Further, there was an admission by the Jurisdictional Assessing Officer that he had no jurisdiction, but because there was no time to migrate the PAN at that stage he issued the reassessment notice and the High Court was not satisfied with the said explanation. The Notice under section 148A(b) of the Act, Order passed under section 148A(d) of the Act and Notice issued under section 148 of the Act were quashed. The Honourable Curt also observed that the Assessing Officer has taken dishonest stand. Referred *CIT v. M. I. Builders (P.) Limited [2014]44 taxmann.com 360 (/349 ITR 271 All)(HC), Pavan Morarka v. 2124 S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Assessment year 2013-14-Six years expired on 31st March, 2020-Notice issued on 28th July, 2022-Notice issued beyond six years-Barred by limitation-Taxation and other laws (Relaxation and Amendment of certain provisions, Act, 2020 (TOLA) was not applicable for the Assessment year 2013-14-Instructions are not binding on the assessee-Validity of notice must be judged on the basis of the law existing on the date on which such notice is issued-Notice and order was quashed as barred by limitation. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 149 (1), 151,151A, Limitation Act, 1963, TOLA, S. 3(1), Art. 142, 226]

The petitioner challenged the notice dated 28th July 2022 issued under Section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 seeking to reopen petitioner's assessment for AY 2013-14 on various grounds. One of the ground of challenge was the notice was barred by limitation and the Taxation and other laws (Relaxation and Amendment of certain provisions) Act, 2020 (TOLA) has no application to AY. 2013-14. For AY 2013-14, the time limit to issue a notice under Section 148 of the Act had already expired on 1st April 2021. On the said date, the assessee had a vested right, which de hors the 1st proviso to the amended Section 149 of the Act, could not be taken away and thus, based on the well settled principles of law, the reopening of the AY 2013-14 after 31st March 2021 is invalid, without jurisdiction and barred by limitation. In a detailed order the Honourable High Court considering various case laws on the subject and provisions, the Court upheld the contention of the petitioner and held that for AY 2013-14, the time limit to issue a notice under Section 148 of the Act had already expired on 1st April 2021. The limitation period, as extended by TOLA, expired on 31st March 2021. However, in the present case, the reopening notice has been issued in July 2022 and, therefore, beyond the statutory time limit. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, while invoking powers under Article 142, consciously and categorically granted liberty to assessees to raise all defences available to the assessee, including the defences under Section 149 of the Act. This specific and express directions cannot be set at naught. Accepting this contention of the Revenue would be a travesty of justice. Accordingly the notice issued under Section 148 of the Act, for AY 2013-14 is issued beyond the period of limitation hence the notice and consequential orders also quashed. (AY. 2013-14)

S. 148A: Reassessment-Conducting inquiry, providing opportunity before issue of notice-Alternative remedy-The High Court dismissed the writ filed by the assessee against the assessment order with direction to avail alternative available under the Act as the assessee had failed to point out any procedural irregularity or illegality in the proceedings. [S. 148A(b), 148A(d), Art. 226] 2125

The assessee filed writ challenging the order passed by the AO u/s. 148A (d) of the Act and consequential assessment order. However, the assessee failed to point out any irregularity or illegality in the proceedings. The High Court noted that the AO had passed well-reasoned assessment order based on facts and evidences. Hence, in view of alternative remedy available to the assessee, the High Court dismissed the writ petition filed. (AY. 2016-17)

Assessee is a partnership firm and filed its return of income for AY 2019-20 declaring total income of Rs. NIL. DIT(Inv.), Ghaziabad issued summons u/s. 131(1A) requiring petitioner to furnish details and purpose of loan advanced to two ladies of Rs. 1.75 Crores. Subsequently, Notice u/s. 148A(b) issued upon the assessee firm that income not commensurate with transaction of Rs. 1.75 Crores, to which the petitioner filed reply on 27.03.2023. AO passed Order u/s. 148A(d) rejecting the objections and issued Notice u/s. 148. High Court observed that detailed adjudication on the merits of information available with the AO at the stage of passing order under section 148A(d) of the Act. Merits of the information referable to Section 148A thus remains subject to the reassessment proceedings initiated vide notice u/s. 148 of the Act. The scope of decision under section 148A(d) is limited to the existence or otherwise of information which suggests that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment. High Court relied on the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Anshul Jain v. PCIT [2022] 499 ITR 256 (SC) whereby it was observed that if the petitioner had any grievance on merits, the same has to be agitated before the AO during the reassessment proceedings and interference of Court is not called for. Writ petition was dismissed accordingly. (AY. 2019-20)

On appeal against the judgement of single judge, the Hon'ble High Court observed that the assessee was not provided opportunity of personal hearing. Therefore, the assessing officer while passing the order under section 148A(d) violated the principles of natural justice. Accordingly, the Hon'ble HC held that the order passed under section 148A(d) is to be treated as a notice under section 148A(b). Further, the Hon'ble High Court directed the assessee to file further objections along with supportive documents and the assessing officer to pass fresh order after granting opportunity for personal hearing. The assessee sought to challenge the order passed u/s. 148A(d) of the Act on the ground that reopening was sought based on report of Directorate General of Income-tax (Investigation) wherein some remark was made as 'potential borrower/lender'. However, the Court noted that the said order referred to cash loans being availed by the assessee from finance broker named Kaseras attracting provisions of section 69C, 269SS, 269T and other related penal provisions of the Act. Court also noticed that order was well reasoned and there was no violation of principles of natural justice nor order lacked inherent jurisdiction. Hence, considering case involved scrutiny of facts, evidence, Court declined to interfere. Court also directed to cause enquiry of person who affirmed the petition on behalf of the assessee. The assessee, a senior citizen, was issued notice u/s. 148A(b) for A. Y. 2015-16 but the same was not responded. Hence, the AO passed order u/s. 148A(d) and issued notice u/s. 148. During reassessment proceedings, the assessee called for details related to investment in property, deposits, etc as the assessee had denied of having carried any such transactions. Without providing details requested, the AO completed the assessment. Hence, the assessee challenged proceedings u/s. 148A, issue of notice u/s. 148 and consequential assessment order and notices issued. The High Court allowed the petition and set aside the impugned orders with direction to pass fresh orders after providing required details and complete the assessment. The High Court held that orders should always be speaking orders safeguarding the interests of both the assessee and the Revenue. (AY. 2015-16)(SJ)

The assessee did not file its reply to notice issued u/s. 148A (b) of the Act for A. Y. 2018-19 even though 3 adjournments were granted. Therefore, the AO passed order u/s. 148A (d) on account of default of the assessee in not submitting the reply to the show cause notice considering it was a fit case to issue notice under section 148 of the Act. The AO also passed consequential assessment order. The assessee challenged under writ the order passed u/s. 148A (d) as it was non-speaking and also the assessment order passed u/s 147. The High Court held that even in an ex parte proceedings, the authority has to record reasons for coming to a conclusion as to why the case has been taken out for re-opening of the assessment. The matter was restored to the AO at the stage of notice u/s. 148A(b) of the Act but the assessee was precluded from raising issue related to limitation. (AY. 2018-19)

Allowing the petition the Court held that AO wanted to verify the cash deposited in the bank account of the assessee by disregarding the explanation of the assessee on the ground that no prudent businessman will simply withdraw crores of cash from his bank account and again will deposit it at various stage. This is merely personal opinion of the AO. However, for the purpose of reopening an assessment there should be a tangible material placed by the assessing officer to show that there was escapement of income from the payment of income tax. This being conspicuously absent, notice issued under section 148 of the Act is bad in law. (AY. 2017-18)

Dismissing the petition the Court held that the order under section 148A(d) is at a stage prior to issuance of notice under section 148. Unless glaring omissions are demonstrated or the conditions precedent for exercise of the power to reopen assessment are not complied with, a writ court would not ordinarily interfere with an order passed under section 148A(d) inasmuch as the proceedings are at a very nascent stage even prior to issuance of the statutory notice under section 148. The AO had sought to reopen the assessment in respect of the increase in liability to pay Works Contract Act noted by him as income escaping assessment. The assessee replied that no deduction was claimed in respect of impugned liability. However, the AO passed order u/s. 148A (d) of the Act without dealing with this submission. Court held that the Assessing Officer had not considered the crucial fact that the assessee had never claimed deduction concerning unpaid taxes. The order passed under section 148A(d) was set aside. The AO sought to reopen the assessment of the assessee, who was resident of Uganda, on the basis of information received that the assessee had indulged in transactions of time deposits and mutual fund investments but did not file return of income. The assessee submitted all the related details before the AO. However, the AO passed order u/s. 148A(d) holding that it was a fit case for issuance of notice u/s. 148 of the Act. The assessee challenged the same under Writ. The High Court accepted the contentions of the assessee that all investments were from non-resident (External) accounts and could not be subject of tax in accordance with the provisions of section 10(4) of the Act. Accordingly, the High Court held that impugned order was without jurisdiction. (AY. 2018-19)

On writ, allowing the petition the Court held that the application for approval, recommendation and the grant of approval under section 151 had all been made by the authorities mechanically and without application of mind. In the form submitted for approval under section 151 for issue of notice under section 148, in row 9, it was mentioned "time limit for current proceedings covered under section 149(1)(b) for more than three years but not more than ten years" and row 22 stated that the approval had been granted by Principal Commissioner. In the form in row 16 "whether personal hearing was requested by the assessee", the answer was shown as "No". In respect of rows 9 and 22, there had been non-application of mind by the Assessing Officer seeking approval, the Additional or Joint Commissioner who had recommended it was a fit case and the Principal Commissioner who had granted approval because the time limit for the reassessment proceedings under section 147 should be covered under section 149(1)(a), i. e., for less than three years because the assessment year was 2019-20 and the notice issued under section 148A(b) was dated March 28, 2023. For the Assessment year 2013-14 The learned CIT(A) quashed the notice relying on Seimens Services Pvt Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2023)) 457 ITR 647 (Bom)(HC). For the Assessment year 2014-15 notice was quashed relying on Godrej Industries Ltd v. ACIT. [2024] 160 taxmann.com 13 /338 CTR 25 (Bom)(HC). For the Assessment 2015-16 the notice was quashed relying on the decision in the case of Hexware Technologies Ltd v. ACIT [2024] 162 taxmann.com 225/ 464 ITR 430 / 338 CTR 536 (Bom)(HC) and held that notice issued u/s. 148 have been issued beyond the time limit of six years which had expired on 31/03/2022 and the notice has been issued after the due date. On appeal by the Revenue, the ITAT relying on the judgement of the Supreme Court in UOI v. Rajeev Bansal [2024] 167 taxmann.com 70 (SC), referred para 19 (f) of the judgement wherein the Revenue concedes that for the A. Y. 2015-16, all notices issued on or after 1 April 2021 will have to be dropped as they will not fall for completion during the period prescribed under TOLA. Further, for the A. Y. 2013-14 and 2014-15 Revenue has accepted that the expiry of the limitation (TOLA) will expire on 30/06/2021. In para 54 the Supreme Court explained the extension of TOLA time limit till 30-6-2021. After analysing the ratio of the judgement in Rajeev Bansal (Supra), the Tribunal held that in all instances for the relevant assessment years under question the time limit was extended only up to 30-6-2021 for issue of notice under section 148 of the Act. Accordingly on the facts of the case for the Assessment year 2013-14 the notice was issued on 29-7-2022, for the Assessment year 2014-15 on 31-7-2022 and for the Assessment year 2015-16 the notice was issued on 28-7-2022. Thus all the years referred above, the original time limit for six years for the Assessment year 2013-14 was up to 30-3-2020, for Assessment year 2014-15 it was 31-3-2021 and for AY. 2015-16 it was 31-3-2022. Even under TOLA the time limit for issuance of notice has expired on 30-6-2021 as conceded by the Revenue before the Supreme Court. Accordingly the notice u/s. 148 for the AY. 2015-16 has been issued on 28/07/2022 which is admittedly barred by limitation under the new provision of Section 149(1) and it is not covered under TOLA. Accordingly, all the notices are quashed being barred by limitation. Accordingly, the Tribunal held that issue involved was squarely covered by the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Shri Rajeev Bansal (Supra), therefore, the same has been decided on the principle laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court.. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2015-16) (ITA No. 4812/Mum/2024 / ITA No. 4814/Mum/2024 / ITA No. 4816/Mum/2024 dt. 7-11-2024.

Assessing Officer issued notice under section 148 on 24-7-2023 on basis of information received from DIT (I&CI) that there was an escapement of income to tune of Rs. 43. 32 lakhs under section 56(2)(vii)(b). Final assessment order was passed under section 147 read with section 144C (13) making an addition of Rs. 43. 32 lakhs under section 56(2)(vii)(b). Tribunal held that period of three years had elapsed from end of relevant assessment year and order dated 23-5-2022 was passed under section 148A(d) after obtaining approval of Principal Commissioner. Amount alleged to have escaped assessment was only Rs. 43. 32 lakhs, i. e. less than Rs. 50 lakh. Tribunal held that since notice was obtained in contravention of provisions of section 151 as sanction was not obtained from concerned Specified Authority but was also time barred as per provisions of section 149, same being void ab initio. Assessing Officer issued a reassessment notice on ground that assessee had entered into four transactions which included purchase of immovable property, purchase and sale of equity shares and other financial transactions for which assessee had not filed his return of income. Assessing Officer passed draft assessment order determining total income after making addition/disallowance on short term capital gain and unexplained investment on best judgment assessment for reason that assessee had been non compliant throughout assessment proceeding. Dispute Resolution Panel issued directions rejecting original draft assessment order passed by Assessing Officer for reason that Assessing Officer had reopened assessee's case based on erroneous facts and premise which did not relate to assesse. Pursuant to direction of Dispute Resolution Panel Assessing Officer passed final assessment order after making an addition as unexplained investment under section 69A. On appeal, the Tribunal held that order of Assessing Officer in reassessing a case on erroneous facts and on non application of mind had been reprimanded by various decisions of High Courts and Apex Court hence draft assessment order and consequential final assessment order is held to be invalid hence quashed. S. 149 : Reassessment-Time limit for notice-Assessing Officer had proceeded without jurisdiction by applying amended provisions of section 149 to case in hand when he issued notice on 25-7-2022 overlooking fact that limitation had already expired on 31-3-2020-Reopening notice issued under section 148 is quashed. [S. 148, 149(1)(b) Art. 226] 2145

For the Assessment year 2013-14, a notice under section 148 on 25-7-2022 was issued to the petitioner. The Petitioner filed writ petition and contended that notice was issued beyond limitation as prescribed under provisions of section 149 as would apply to assessment year in question. Court held that as provisions of section 149 would apply, limitation to issue notice under section 148 would expire if four years but not more than six years had elapsed from end of relevant assessment year, as per provisions of section 149(1)(b), as provision stood prior to amendment as incorporated by Finance Act, 2022 brought into effect from 1-4-2022. On facts Section 148 notice was issued on 25-7-2022, which was almost two years after limitation period had expired on 31-3-2020, which was further extended upto 31-3-2021 because of notification issued as result of Covid-19 pandemic. The Assessing Officer had proceeded without jurisdiction by applying amended provisions of section 149 to case in hand when he issued notice on 25-7-2022 overlooking fact that limitation had already expired on 31-3-2020. Therefore, reopening notice issued under section 148 is quashed. Followed, New India Assurance Company Ltd v. ACIT (2024) 158 taxmann.com 367 (Bom)(HC) (AY. 2013-14)

The Assessing Officer by notice dt. 16th March, 2022 called upon to assessee to file his response on or before 23rd March, 2022. It appears that the notice was never served on the assessee, as in reply to the petition, the respondents have produced the envelope, by which the notice was sent to the assessee and was returned back 'undelivered to the respondent Department, wherein the same has been received in the office on 28th March, 2022. The postal receipt pertaining to sending of the notice indicates the date of 17th March, 2022. S. 148A(b) requires providing opportunity of being heard to the assessee by serving upon him/her notice to show-cause within such time, as may be specified in the notice being not less than seven days' but not exceeding thirty days from the date, on which such notice is issued. Both the terminal days have to be excluded for the purpose of complying with the requirement of words 'not less than.... days'. Allowing the petition, Court held that the notice dt. 16th March, 2022 was issued and posted on 17th March, 2022 and the date fixed for response was 23rd March, 2022. Excluding two days le., the date of sending of the notice as well the last date indicated, even if the notice was received by the assessee, the same falls short of seven days' period, as envisaged by provisions of s. 148A(b) and as such, for violation of mandatory provisions of s 148A(b), the notice issued to the assessee cannot be sustained. Followed Pioneer Motors (P) Ltd. v. Municipal Council, Nagrecoil AIR 1967 SC 684. Court also held that the amount is less than 50 lakhs hence the notice issued beyond three years and hence the order is barred by limitation. (AY. 2015-16)

Dismissing the petition the Court held that Second proviso to S. 149(1) states that in cases where notice under S 153A or S. 153C is required to be issued in relation to a search conducted under S. 132 or books of account and other documents or any asset are requisitioned under S. 132A on or before 31st March, 2021, the time frame prescribed by S. 149(1) is inapplicable. In cases of search there is no restriction of time period for issuance of notice under S. 148. [S. 147, 148, 151, 156, Taxation and other Laws (Relaxation In Amendment Of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, Art. 226] Allowing the petition the Court held that according to section 149 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 the limitation applied. Held, allowing the petition, that the notice dated July 21, 2022, issued under section 148, for the assessment year 2016-17 was barred by the limitation period prescribed under section 149 since the three-year time period had ended on March 31, 2020. Further, the notice was for alleged escaped income which was less than Rs. 50 lakhs and therefore, the benefit of the extended period of limitation beyond three years till ten years was not available. The initiation of reassessment proceedings under section 147 was without jurisdiction. If the foundation of any proceeding was illegal and unsustainable, all consequential proceedings or orders were also bad in law. Accordingly, since the notice dated July 21, 2022, issued under section 148, was barred by limitation and was illegal, unsustainable and void ab initio and set aside, the subsequent reassessment order under section 147 and notice of demand under section 156 were also quashed and set aside. Dismissing the petition the Court held that since the search was conducted on June 9, 2022, in terms of the first proviso to section 149 read with unamended sections 153A and 153C and the amended section 148, Explanation 2, the Assessing Officer could and had rightly issued notice under section 148 of the Act for the assessment year 2013-14. As detailed in the seized documents the loan had been given at the interest rate of 1. 5 per cent. per month. However, enquires conducted by the Investigating Officer revealed that the loans had not been accounted for in the books of account of the assessee-company. Further the assessee-company in its return filed before the Department for the assessment year 2013-14, had declared its liability as nil. All these facts lead to the conclusion that there was no error in the action of the Assessing Officer in issuing the notice under section 148 of the Act. Finance Act, 2021 ([2021] 432 ITR (St.) 52). Prior to the amendment, the Assessing Officer in the case of search could assess in respect of six assessment years. The case involved the validity of a notice issued under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, for reopening the assessment of the assessee for a given assessment year, on the ground of income escaping assessment. The revenue alleged that the assessee had received accommodation entries from two parties, which were not disclosed in the return of income. The assessee challenged the notice on various grounds, including that it was barred by limitation, vague, unspecific, and without proper approval.

The Hon'ble High Court rejected the assessee's contentions and upheld the notice. The court held that the notice was issued within the period of three years from the end of the relevant assessment year, after excluding the time given to the assessee to respond to a prior notice under section 148A(b) of the Act, and extending the period by seven days, as per the fifth and sixth proviso to section 149(1) of the Act. The court also held that the notice was not vague or cryptic, as it set out the transactions alleged to have escaped assessment, and that the approval for issuing the notice was not required to be provided along with the notice but could be obtained by the assessee on request. On a writ petition challenging the notice issued under section 148 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, and the order disposing of the assessee's objections thereto, on the ground that the reassessment proceedings were commenced without the approval of the specified authority, the High Court held that approval granted by statutory authorities had to be furnished to the assessee along with the reasons to believe that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment, that the condition requiring the Assessing Officer to obtain prior approval of the specified authority was not fulfilled in the assessee's case, as otherwise, there was no good reason not to furnish it to the assessee along with the reasons for holding the belief that income otherwise chargeable to tax had escaped assessment, and that therefore, neither the notice issued under section 148 of the Act nor the order disposing of the assessee's objections were sustainable. On a petition for special leave to appeal to the Supreme Court, dismissing the petition, the Court held that in view of the categorical finding recorded in the judgment and in the facts of the case, no case for interference was made out under article 136 of the Constitution. [S. 147, 148,-Taxation And Other Laws (Relaxation And Amendment Of Certain Provisions) Act, 2020, S. 3. Art. 226]

The batch of writ petitions assails the validity of the reassessment action initiated by the respondents under section 148 of the Act and pertaining to assessment year 2015-16 were assailed before the Court was a violation of the provisions contained in section 151. The sanction was granted by Joint Commissioner. Allowing the petitions, the Court held that (i) tested on the principles enunciated in Suman Jeet Agarwal(2022) 449 ITR 517 (Delhi)(HC) the notices issued under section 148 for the assessment year 2015-16 had been issued and dispatched after April 1, 2021 but would be of little relevance or significance considering the fact that all the notices were approved by the Joint Commissioner, an authority recognised under the unamended section 151 of the 1961 Act. (ii) That section 3 of the 2020 Act established that where the time limit for the completion or compliance of any action under a specified Act were to fall between March 20, 2020 to December 31, 2020, the period for completion and compliance would stand extended up to March 31, 2021 or such other dates thereafter as may be specified by the Union Government by way of a notification which was lastly up to June 30, 2021. The Finance Act, 2021 ([2021] 432 ITR (St.) 52) was enacted thereafter and came into effect from April 1, 2021. The terminal point for initiation of reassessment for the assessment year 2015-16 in ordinary circumstances would have been March 31, 2020 and that date fell within the period stated in section 3 of the 2020 Act. Therefore, the period for issuance of notice for the assessment year 2015-16, stood extended up to June 30, 2021. (iii) That the fallacy of the submissions of the Revenue was even more evident on consideration of the fact that even if the reassessment actions were initiated as per the extended timelines in terms of the 2020 Act, and thus after the period of four years, section 151 incorporated adequate measures to deal with such a contingency and in unambiguous terms identified the authority for the purposes of sanction and approval. Section 151 distributed the powers of approval amongst a set of specified authorities based upon the lapse of time between the end of the relevant assessment year and the date when reassessment was proposed. Even if the reassessment was proposed to be initiated with the aid of the 2020 Act after the expiry of four years from the end of the relevant assessment year, the authority statutorily empowered to confer approval would be the Principal Chief Commissioner or Chief Commissioner or Principal Commissioner or Commissioner. It would only be in a case where the reassessment was proposed to be initiated before the expiry of four years from the end of the relevant assessment year that approval could have been accorded by the Joint Commissioner. Similar would be the position which would emerge if the actions were tested on the basis of the amended section 151 and which divided the power of sanction amongst two sets of authorities based on whether reassessment was commenced within three years or thereafter. (iv) That once it was conceded that the notice was issued four or three years after the end of the relevant assessment year, the approval granted by the Joint Commissioner would not be compliant with the scheme of section 151. The grant of approval by the Joint

Commissioner for issue of notice under section 148 for the assessment year 2015-16 was unsustainable. (v) That the contention of the Revenue that the use of the expression "sanction" in section 3 of the 2020 Act was meritless when the indisputable fact that the set of provisions which were concerned nowhere prescribed a time-frame within which sanction was liable to be accorded. "Sanction" when used in section 3 of the 2020 Act catered to those contingencies where a specified Act had prescribed a particular time limit within which an action could be approved. That was clearly not the position which obtained herein and hence the reassessment was unsustainable. The notices issued under section 148 based on a sanction obtained from the Joint Commissioner were quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

Allowing the petition the Court held that that since the notice under section 148 for the assessment year 2017-18 had been issued after a period of three years, the sanctioning authority had to be the Principal Chief Commissioner as provided under section 151(ii). The proviso to section 151 had been inserted only with effect from April 1, 2023 and, therefore, was not applicable. Hence, the sanction for passing of order under section 148A(d) and the consequent notice issued under section 148 were invalid and consequently, quashed and set aside. S. 151 : Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice –Failure to furnish approval of Designated Authority along with reasons recorded-Non application of mind-Notice and order disposing of objections is set aside. [S. 147, 148, Art. 226] 2159
On writ, allowing the petition, Court held that there was nothing contained in the order disposing of the objections raised by the assessee which would answer the poser raised by the assessee that there was no application of mind by the Principal Commissioner for initiation of reassessment proceedings under section 147 for the assessment year 2011-12. The only assertion made by the Revenue was that the Principal Commissioner had conveyed her approval under section 151 to the Assessing Officer by way of a letter but had not produced the letter despite the assessee's raising a specific objection that the Principal Commissioner had not applied his mind while granting approval for the commencement of reassessment proceedings. The condition requiring the Assessing Officer to obtain prior approval of the specified authority was not fulfilled, as otherwise, there was no good reason not to furnish it to the assessee along with the document which contained the Assessing Officer's reasons recorded for the belief that income otherwise chargeable to tax had escaped assessment. The notice issued under section

148 and the order disposing of the objections raised by the assessee were sustainable and hence set aside. (AY. 2011-12)

Assessing Officer recorded reasons believing that income had escaped assessment. Commissioner recorded his satisfaction regarding reasons recorded by Assessing Officer. Thereafter, reopening notice was issued. Assessee contended that approval was not recorded as per section 151. On writ, petitioner contended that revenue had filed supplementary counter affidavit which spoke of approval of issue of reopening notice for relevant assessment year by Principal Commissioner and indicated reasons for belief entertained by Assessing Officer. Dismissing the petition, the Court held that section 151 requires Principal Commissioner to be satisfied of reasons recorded by Assessing Officer that it was a fit case for issuance of such notice where notice was issued beyond expiry of 4 years. There was no requirement for Commissioner to record his own reasons and it would suffice that he recorded satisfaction regarding reasons recorded by Assessing Officer. Notice is held to be valid. On writ against issue of notice under section 148 the Court held that mere repeating of the words of the statute, mere rubber stamping of the letter seeking sanction or using similar words like 'Yes, I am satisfied' will not satisfy the requirement of law. Principal Commissioner has failed to satisfactorily record his concurrence. The mere use of expression 'Yes, I am satisfied' cannot be considered to be a valid approval as the same does not reflect an independent application of mind. The grant of approval in such manner is thus flawed in law. Accordingly, approval granted by the Principal Commissioner for issuance of notice under section 148 is not valid. Accordingly, the notice under section 148 is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2010-11)

151(ii)-Order as well as notice issued under section 148 is bad in law hence quashed and set aside. [S. 148, 148A(b), 148A(d), 151(i), 151(ii), Art. 226]

The assessee filed a writ petition challenging the order passed under section 148A(d) as well as the notice issued under section 148. On writ, assessee contended that the notice had been issued in breach of provisions of section 151 which provided for a sanction by the specified authority before issuance of notice. It was submitted that in the instant case, such sanction to issue the impugned notice was issued by the Principal Commissioner which itself was contrary to the provisions of section 151(ii), inasmuch as admittedly the impugned notice was issued after a period of more than three years having elapsed from that of the relevant assessment year 2016-17, hence, such sanction ought to have been issued by the Specified Authority as set out in section 151(ii) and not by an authority falling under clause (i) of the said provision. It was submitted that once such compliance itself was lacking, the impugned notice issued under section 148 would be rendered illegal, and on such count, would be required to be quashed and set aside. Court held that on a plain reading of section 148A it is clear that the Assessing officer before issuing any notice under section 148 is required to follow the procedure as set out in clauses (a) to (d) of section 148A. One of the pre-conditions as ordained by clause (d) of section 148A is that an order under such provision can be passed by the Assessing Officer only with the approval of Specified Authority. Thus, necessarily, when clause (d) of section 148A provides for prior approval of specified authority, it relates to the provisions of section 151 providing for 'Specified authority for the purposes of section 148 and section 148A. In the instant case, section 151 as amended by the Finance Act, 2021 and section 148A as also introduced by Finance Act, 2021 have become applicable. Although assessment year in question is 2016-17 in respect of which the assessment is sought to be reopened by issuance of notice under section 148, which is dated 30 July, 2022. Such amended provision would squarely become applicable since the date of notice under section 148 itself being 30 July, 2022. The record clearly indicates that the sanction in the present case was issued by the Principal Commissioner which can only be in respect of cases if three years or less than three years have elapsed from the end of the relevant assessment year, as would fall under the provisions of clause (i) of section 151. As in the instant case the assessment year in question is 2016-17 and the impugned notice itself has been issued on 30 July, 2022, it is issued after a period more than 3 years having elapsed from the end of the said assessment year, hence, clause (ii) of section 151 was applicable, which required the sanction to be issued by either Principal Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General or where there is no Principal Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General, Chief Commissioner or Director General for issuance of notice under section 148.

In the instant case, it is not in dispute that an appropriate sanction of the specified authority as per the provisions of section 151(ii) was not obtained and for such reason, certainly, the impugned notices would be rendered bad and illegal. The petition is allowed. Accordingly the notice issued under section 148 is quashed and set aside, as also the impugned order passed by the Assessing Officer under section 148A(d) is quashed and set aside. 2163 S. 151 : Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice- Merely stating "Yes"-Non-application of mind-Notice And Reassessment Proceedings Invalid. [S. 147, 148, 260A]
Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue, Court held that the Principal Commissioner had failed to satisfactorily record his concurrence. Mere penning down the expression "yes" could not be considered to be valid approval. Though the Assistant Commissioner had appended his signature by writing in his hand "Yes, I am satisfied", the Principal Commissioner had merely written "Yes" without specifically noting his approval while recording the satisfaction for issuance of notice under section 148 for reopening the assessment under section 147. Therefore, the order of the Tribunal holding that the Assessing Officer had initiated the reassessment proceedings on the basis of borrowed satisfaction and that the prescribed authority had granted approval under section 151 in a mechanical manner need not be interfered with. 2164 S. 151 : Reassessment-Sanction for issue of notice-Sanction of specified authority mandatory-Three years from the relevant assessment years-No approval of specified authority [S. 147, 148, Art. 226]
Allowing the petition, Court held that there was no dispute that three years had elapsed from the end of the relevant assessment year the approval was sought from authorities specified in clause (i), as against clause (ii) of section 151. Hence the notices and orders in the writ petitions were liable to be quashed on the ground that there was no approval of the specified authority, as indicated in section 151(ii) of the Act. Court also held that section 151 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 was amended by the Finance Act, 2021. After amendment, section 151 has been split and the part which enjoins that the approval of the specified authority is mandatory stands embedded in the first proviso to section 148. The concerned specified authorities, depending on the applicable time frame, are adverted to in section 151 of the Act. Clauses (i) and (ii) of the amended section 151 clearly specify the authority whose approval can trigger the reassessment proceedings. Thus, if three years or less have elapsed from the end of the relevant assessment year, the specified authority who would grant approval for initiation of reassessment proceedings will be the Principal Commissioner or Principal Director or Commissioner or Director. However, if more than three years from the end of the relevant assessment year have elapsed, the specified authority for according approval for reassessment shall be the Principal Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General or, where there is no Principal Chief Commissioner or Principal Director General, Chief Commissioner or Director General. That the approval is mandatory is plainly evident on perusal of the first proviso appended to section 148 of the Act. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18)

The assessee, a proprietor, was engaged in the business of manufacturing and trading bullions, precious stones, studded jewellery and gold and diamond ornaments. He filed his return of income for the assessment year declaring his total income. The case was selected for scrutiny and the Assessing Officer made an addition on account of unverifiable purchases from parties. The assessee appealed against the addition and the CIT(A) deleted the same. The department's appeal before the Tribunal was also dismissed. Subsequently, the Assessing Officer reopened the assessment under section 147 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (the Act) on the basis of information received from the Investigation Wing that one entity from whom the assessee had made purchases was a bogus entity managed by an individual, who was engaged in providing accommodation entries.
The Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 of the Act to the assessee and passed a reassessment order, making an addition as bogus purchase. The assessee challenged the validity of the reopening and the addition before the National Faceless Appeal Centre (NFAC), which upheld the action of the Assessing Officer. The assessee then filed an appeal before the Tribunal. Appeal was also on erroneous exercise of jurisdiction by the ITO at Delhi without due notice under section 127 on the transfer of jurisdiction.
The Tribunal held that the reopening of the assessment and the issuance of notice were invalid and void-ab initio, as the Assessing Officer had not obtained the proper sanction from the Joint-Commissioner of Income-tax as required under section 151(2) of the Act and had not issued the notice from the competent jurisdictional Assessing Officer as

S. 151A : Faceless assessment of income escaping assessment- Reassessment-Notice-Jurisdiction-Scheme-Procedure adopted by Department in contravention of statutorily prescribed procedure-Office Memorandum cannot override mandatory specifications in scheme-Reassessment notice is set aside-Department given liberty to proceed in accordance with amended provisions. [S. 144B, 147, 148, Art. 226] 2173
The Central Government in exercise of powers conferred by section 151A of the Income-tax Act, 1961 by Notification No. S. O. 1466(E), dated March 29, 2022 ([2022] 442 ITR (St.) 198) has introduced the e-Assessment of Income Escaping Assessment Scheme, 2022. Under section 151A, the scheme of faceless assessment is applicable from the stage of show-cause notice under section 148 as well as section 148A. A detailed procedure of faceless assessment has been prescribed under section 144B and section 151A requires for issuance of notice and assessment by Faceless Assessing Officer. Clause 3(b) of the notification clearly provides that the scheme would be applicable to notices under section 148. Even otherwise, it is a settled proposition of law that assessment proceedings commence from the stage of issuance of show-cause notice. It is axiomatic in tax jurisprudence that circulars, instructions and letters issued by the Central Board of Direct Taxes or any other authority cannot override statutory provisions. The circulars are binding upon authorities but courts are not bound by circulars. The mandate of sections 144B and 151A read with the notification dated March 29, 2022 ([2022] 442 ITR (St.) 198) issued thereunder is lucid. There is no ambiguity in the language of statutory provisions and therefore, the office memorandum or any other instruction issued by the Board or any other authority cannot be relied upon. Instructions or circulars can supplement but cannot supplant statutory provisions. For the assessment year 2020-21, the jurisdictional Assessing Officer issued a notice under section 148 to reopen the assessment under section 147 on the ground that there was escapement of income on account of the compensation received by the assessees on acquisition of their agricultural land. On writ petitions contending that the procedure of faceless assessment prescribed under section 144B and section 151A required for issuance of notices by the Faceless Assessing Officer. Held allowing the petitions, that the object of introduction of faceless assessment would be defeated if the notices under section 148 were issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer and therefore the notices were quashed giving liberty to the Department to proceed in accordance with law. Two notices under s. 148 were served in the month of December, 2005 and March, 2006. Period of limitation for completing the proceeding of reassessment will be nine months starting from 1st April, 2006 and ending on 31st Dec., 2006 as provided under S. 153(2). Even though the assessment order was passed on 28th Dec., 2006, the same was communicated to the Authorized Representative of the assessee only on 5th Jan., 2007. The assessee challenged the said order as time barred. Allowing the petition the Court held that order of any authority cannot be said to be passed unless it is in some way pronounced or published or the party affected has the means of knowing it and that it is not enough if the order is made, signed, and kept in the file, because such order may be liable to change at the hands of the authority who may modify it, or even destroy it, before it is made known, based on subsequent information, thinking or change of opinion. Accordingly, it is held that the proceeding of reassessment of return submitted by the assessee for AY. 2003-04 shall be deemed to be completed only on 5th Jan., 2007 when the assessment order was served/communicated to the representative of the assessee and the same was not completed within the period prescribed under S. 153(2). [S. 153(3), 237, 240, 244A, 254(1), Art. 226] 2178

Tribunal remanded the matter to the Assessing Officer. CIT(Judicial) had received the order of the Tribunal on 31st Jan., 2019. Order was passed on 13th Feb., 2023 by adjusting the refund. On writ, Court held that the Respondents have failed to address any submission which may compel the Court to doubt the prima facie opinion that came to be recorded on earlier occasion that period of limitation is liable to be computed from the date when the order is received by the concerned statutory authority.

Contention that the period of limitation being liable to be computed as commencing from the date when the SLP was dismissed by the Supreme Court and consequently from 29th Oct., 2020 is not sustainable. Further, the Court also observed that they are unable to either sustain or countenance the claim of the respondents that the order dt. 30th Jan., 2021 of the TPO was either not communicated to them or was not in their knowledge. That stand clearly appears to be wholly incorrect and factually untenable. Even if the benefits of TOLA were extended to the respondents, undisputedly, the order of assessment was liable to be framed lastly by 30th Sept., 2021 whereas the order was passed on 13th Feb., 2023. Accordingly the order is set aside. Adjustment of earlier years refund against perceived demand was not sustainable. Accordingly the Respondents are directed to re-compute the refund payable to the assessee along with statutory interest. (AY. 2011-12)

Assessment has become time-barred after remand by Tribunal. It was not in dispute that as per S. 153(2A) (which is the old provision), the limitation would expire on 31st March, 2018. However, if the amended provision, i. e., s. 153(3) were to be taken into account, the limitation would expire on 31st March, 2017. Thus, whichever regime is taken into account, i. e., the time-limit fixed as per s. 153(2A) or the time-limit fixed by the amended provision ie., s. 153(3) as of today the AO is bereft of jurisdiction and hence, would have no legal locus to pass assessment order-Assessment proceedings concerning asst. yrs. 1998-99 to 2009-10, pursuant to the orders of the Tribunal dt. 21st Nov., 2014 and 29th May, 2015, have become time-barred. S. 153 : Assessment-Reassessment-Limitation –Tribunal remanding matter to Transfer Pricing Officer-Limitation for passing final order nine months computed from date of order of Tribunal-No question of second reference being made by Assessing Officer to Transfer Pricing Officer-Tribunal has the power to remand matter to Transfer Pricing Officer. [S. 92CA(1)144C, 254(1),Art. 226] 2181

Held, that the Department's contention is not tenable because while it is true that a direction framed by the Dispute Resolution Panel is in one sense inchoate and remains latent till it comes to be transformed into an actual order of assessment, the writ petition was concerned with a challenge raised on the ground of limitation. The assessee questioned the very jurisdiction of the Assessing Officer to proceed to frame an order of assessment pursuant to any direction that the Dispute Resolution Panel may frame. Hence the High Court could consider the matter under article 226. That from the undisputed facts which obtained under the order of the Tribunal dated July 14, 2017 certain aspects were remanded for the consideration of the Transfer Pricing Officer directly. These were neither questioned nor assailed at any time by the respondents. In fact, the directions as framed were duly acknowledged and accepted, which fact becomes evident from not only the various notices which were issued by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer but also by the action of the Transfer Pricing Officer himself who had proceeded to pass an order on October 17, 2017. It was thus apparent that the principal order of the Tribunal dated July 14, 2017 [1] had come to be duly implemented by the Transfer Pricing Officer on October 17, 2017 itself. Once the Transfer Pricing Officer had proceeded to pass the order of October 17, 2017, all that the Assessing Officer was obliged to do was pass an assessment order in accordance with the procedure prescribed in section 92CA(4) of the Act. That the Tribunal, while remanding certain items for reconsideration to the Assessing Officer, had remitted the issues pertaining to arm's length price directly to the Transfer Pricing Officer. This was based on the consent of parties. Even the aspect of corporate guarantee was remanded directly to the Transfer Pricing Officer subject to the rider that it would be taken up for consideration after the Special Bench had rendered its decision. Thus the original order of assessment dated February 21, 2014 and in terms of the order of the Tribunal, a fresh order of assessment was liable to be drawn before the expiry of nine months from the end of the relevant financial year. Admittedly this period of nine months when reckoned from July 14, 2017 undoubtedly came to an end on December 31, 2018. Once that terminal point was reached, the respondent clearly stood deprived of jurisdiction or authority to pass an order of assessment pursuant to the directions of the Tribunal. The Transfer Pricing Officer had acted in terms of the directions as framed by the Tribunal, already passed a consequential order on October 17, 2017. All that was required of the respondents thereafter was for the Assessing Officer to frame an order of assessment in accordance therewith. The second reference which was framed by the Assessing Officer and was dated December 27, 2018, was clearly unwarranted and in any case could not be viewed as conferring a fresh lease of life to the power to assess. The Assessing Officer was barred in law from passing any further orders of final assessment pertaining to the assessment year 2009-10. (AY. 2009-10)

The Tribunal by its common order dated March 31, 2015 had granted certain relief to the assessee against disallowance of bad debts and advances written off and under section 14A of the Act essentially because of its order on these very aspects in the assessee's appeal against the authorities' orders for the assessment year 2006-07. The Tribunal in its order in the proceedings for the assessment year 2006-07, both on the question of disallowance of bad debts and advances written off and under section 14A of the Act, has concluded that the Assessing Officer, in the factual matrix and in the interest of justice and equity, must re-examine all the relevant facts "to ensure clarity" in the adjudication, and the Tribunal has restored these aspects to the Assessing Officer for reconsideration. The Tribunal had directed the Assessing Officer to consider the question of disallowance for bad debts and advances being written off and under section 14A of the Act permitting the assessee to produce further documents, and directing the Assessing Officer to extend an opportunity of hearing to the assessee and decide afresh in the light of judicial pronouncements. This order was common to all three assessment years, and in fact, it was in view of the Tribunal's similar order for the previous assessment years. Hence it was indubitable that the Tribunal's common order dated March 31, 2015 did not set aside or cancel the assessment orders requiring a fresh assessment. On writ the Court held that the notices dated November 5, 2020 and November 6, 2020 were liable to be quashed on the ground that they were issued after March 31, 2017 which would be impermissible because of the provisions of section 153(7) of the Act as amended by the Finance Act 2016. Tribunal vide order dated 20-2-2015, deleted additions made by Assessing Officer and partially remanded matter to file of Assessing Officer to consider related issues afresh. Assessing Officer on 27-12-2016 drew up a draft assessment order and a final assessment order came to be framed on 31-10-2017. On appeal, Tribunal held that since Assessing Officer had full knowledge of order of Tribunal and pursuant to such knowledge, he framed appeal effect order dated 12-3-2015, remaining effect should also have been given on or before 31-3-2016 and, thus, draft order and final assessment order were barred by limitation. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. Followed, CIT v. Odeon Builders (P.) Ltd. [2017] 247 Taxman 184/393 ITR 27 (Delhi)(HC)(FB) wherein the Court held that while examining the issue of limitation, one would have to pose the question of when the department became aware of the order and not when the concerned Commissioner or Principal Commissioner may have been served or had derived knowledge. It proceeded further to observe that once a responsible officer of

In *GE Energy Parts Inc. v. Dy. The Tribunal on 8-10-2018 remanded the matter to the Assessing Officer for the purpose of fresh assessment and the Tribunal had also deleted the demand reflected on the Income Tax Business Application (ITBA) portal. During the interregnum, the Dy. Commissioner had passed a penalty order under section 271(1)(c) on 27-3-2015 and the appeal against the said penalty order was also dismissed by the Commissioner (Appeals). Thereafter, the assessee made several representations to the respondents praying for rectification of the error with respect to the demand being reflected on the ITBA portal and the issue of refund, all to no avail. Since no reply was received by the assessee upon its representations, the assessee filed a Right to Information (RTI) application which revealed that the Tribunal's order had been forwarded to the Commissioner (Judicial) on 24-10-2018. The assessee filed the petition and contended that despite the order passed by the Tribunal being communicated to the concerned authority of the Income Tax Department (Department) within the stipulated time, the respondents have failed to pass a fresh assessment order. Allowing the petition, Court held that once a responsible officer of department becomes aware of order, period of limitation would commence from that point in time. Since Department had failed to comply with order of Tribunal in passing a fresh assessment order within stipulated time i. e. within 12 months from 24-10-2018, Department is directed to remove demands and penalty reflected in ITBA portal and to refund amount lying with Department along with interest. Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue, the Court held that shareholding pattern document prepared by way of secretarial compliance report, which was filed along with company's annual return in Form MGT-7 with ROC and was therefore available in public domain. GCL-HD-1, collected by jurisdictional authority during search carried out in premises of assessee in year 2017 did not constitute incriminating material so as to justify reopening of assessment of unabated/completed assessments under section 153A, thus, addition to income of assessee under section 68 of the Act is rightly deleted by the Tribunal. [S. 132, 147, 148, 149(1), 150, 153C, Art. 226] 2192

Held that in PCIT v. Abhisar Buildwell P. Ltd (2023) 454 ITR 212 (SC) the liberty which the Supreme Court accorded and the limited right inhering in the Revenue to initiate reassessment proceedings under section 147 was subject to that power being otherwise compliant with the Chapter pertaining to reassessment as contained in the Act. The observations of the Supreme Court could not be read or construed as a carte blanche enabling the Revenue to overcome and override the restrictions stipulated in section 149. The observations of the Supreme Court intended to merely convey that the annulment of the search assessments would not deprive or denude the Revenue of its power to reassess and which independently existed. The Supreme Court being mindful of the statutory prescriptions, which otherwise imbued the commencement of reassessment, qualified that observation by providing that such an action would have to be in accordance with law. This note of caution appeared at various places in that judgment and was apparent from the observation that the power to reassess would be subject to the fulfilment of the conditions mentioned in sections 147 and 148. While according liberty to the Revenue to initiate reassessment, the Supreme Court pertinently observed that it would be subject to the proposed action being in accordance with law and if "permissible in law". Therefore, neither of these decisions could be read as enabling the Revenue to overcome the statutory bar of limitation. Those judgments could not be construed to be giving liberty to the Revenue from the obligation of independently establishing that the proposed action for reassessment under section 147 would otherwise be in accordance with law. That the expression "finding" as occurring in section 150 should be understood to be a conclusion or a decision of an authority or Tribunal rendered in the context of a particular case and essential for determining the grant of relief. A "direction", would constitute one which an authority was empowered to issue under the Act. Tested on those precepts, the observations in PR. CIT v. Abhisar Buildwell P. Ltd(20223) 454 ITR 212 (SC) as amounting to a finding since the principal question in those appeals was with respect to the validity of the search assessments which were undertaken could not be countenanced. The Supreme Court had, in order to balance equities, had additionally observed that it would be open for the Revenue to commence reassessment, if otherwise permissible in law and such observation could not be viewed as amounting to a direction which would enable the Revenue to overcome the prescription of limitation which otherwise applied. Accordingly the reassessment notice under section 148 and the consequential proceedings under section 147 were quashed. (AY. 2007-08 to 2012-13)

The assessee is engaged in business of gold ornaments. Search conducted under section 132 at various business premises of assessee, yielded only such incriminating material as would have a bearing on income of assessee for assessment year 2008-09 as all such seized material was in relation to transactions that were current in said year. However, the Assessing Officer issued notices under section 153A to assessee and used incriminating material to reject books of account of assessee for all assessment years and proceeded to estimate alleged escaped income for all aforementioned assessment years based on estimation done for said year and declared income of all assessment years was enhanced accordingly. The Commissioner (Appeals) allowed appeal preferred by assessee for assessment years 2002-03 to 2007-08 but confirmed demand for differential tax for assessment year 2008-09. The Tribunal allowed the appeal preferred by the department. On appeal the Court held that it is not permissible and proper for the Assessing Officer to have re-opened the assessment pertaining to the assessee for the assessment years 2002-03 to 2007-08 under Section 153A under circumstances where the search conducted under Section 132 did not yield any incriminating material pertaining to the assessee for the said assessment years. AO dealing with the assessee on whom search was conducted or requisition made, being satisfied that seized material belongs or relates to another assessee shall hand over it to AO having jurisdiction of such assessee. Thereafter, the satisfaction of AO receiving the seized material that the material handed over has a bearing for determination of total income of such other person for the relevant preceding years. On fulfilment of twin conditions, the AO shall proceed in accordance with the provisions of S. 153A. Provisions of section 153A to 153D have prevalence over the regular provisions for assessment or reassessment under section 143 and 147/ 148. Once there is incriminating material seized or requisitioned belonging or relatable to the person other than on whom search was conducted, S. 153C is to be resorted to, notices issued under section 148 and orders are quashed. 2197 S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Electronic device in the form of a hard drive extracted from the computer of the assessee-Reappreciation of evidence-No substantial question of law. [S. 68, 132, 260A]

The Tribunal elaborated upon the contents of the so-called incriminating material, Le. GCL-HD-1 and recorded its conclusions while concurring with the findings of the CIT(A), which had concluded that this document was not an incriminating material and simply contained a shareholding pattern of the assessee which was duly verifiable from the books of accounts and other secretarial records tiled by the assessee with ROC prior to the date of search. The issue whether a document, which in these cases is the electronic device in the form of a hard drive extracted from the computer of the assessee during search constitutes incriminating material or not, would unquestionably require evaluation, assessment and appreciation of contents of such document which is an exercise of evaluation of evidentiary worth of the document. Thus, this Court has no doubt in its mind that the conclusions recorded on the nature of contents of the document by the competent forum, be it the CIT(A) or the Tribunal as to whether the same was incriminating or not, would definitely be findings of fact and hence, the proposed substantial question of law in all these appeals, which is the primary ground for assailing the judgment passed by the Tribunal and seeking admission of the appeals, cannot be considered to be a substantial question of law. Held that the premises that were searched, were not of the assessee, that there was nothing on record to connect the assessee with the premises searched, and that qua the assessee, the proceedings under section 153A were invalid, on appeal by the Department. S. 153A: Assessment-Search or requisition-Warrant of Authorisation-Panchnama-No search against the assessee-Panchanama reflected the name of the assessee-Panchnama cannot be treated as warrant of authorisation-Assessment order is quashed as without jurisdiction-Existence of alternative remedy-Not bar to entertainment of writ petition where challenge is to jurisdiction exercised by Authority and interpretation of statutory provisions involved. [S. 132,153D, Art. 226] 2199

Assessee owned land and entered into separate development agreements with five companies to raise security deposit towards development of land. A search was conducted at premises of assessee and final assessment order was passed under section 153A. Thereafter, a search and seizure operation was conducted at premises of one M3M India Ltd, pursuant to said search, a panchnama was drawn and assessee-company's name was added in it. Consequently, a notice under section 153A was issued against assessee on ground that five companies, which had entered into development agreement with assessee, had subsequently entered into separate agreements with ten other companies and had received substantial amount. Assessing Officer assessed the amount as undisclosed income in hands of assessee and passed order under section 153A read with section 153D. The assessee filed the writ petition and contended that when there was no search conducted under sections 132 and 132A as against assessee and only a panchnama reflected name of assessee which was prepared at registered office of M3M India Ltd. action of Assessing Officer in passing second assessment order based on notice under section 153A without conducting search and seizure operation was unjustified and was to be quashed. Panchnama would be a document which had to be prepared recording articles, material and objects which may be seized as incriminating documents at time of conducting search of premises, thus mentioning name of any company in panchnama would only reflect that documents relating to that company were found during search at premises and could not be treated to mean authorization issued to authorities under section 132. High Court quashed the assessment order. (AY. 2011-12)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-No assessment was pending on the date of search-No incriminating material was found during the search-Fresh material/information received after the date of search would not be sufficient to reopen the assessment under section 153A. [S. 80IAB, 132, 143(1), 143(2), 260A] 2200

A search and seizure operation was conducted at the premises of assessee. Consequently, a notice under section 153A was issued to assessee. In response, assessee requested to treat original return as return filed in response to notice. Assessing Officer disallowed deduction claimed under section 80IAB and added back same to income declared in return. Assessee claimed that no incriminating material was found during search and proceedings under section 153A were bad in law. It was noted that subsequent to search, a statement was recorded of valuer which formed basis for disallowance of deduction claimed under section 80-IAB. CIT(A) deleted the addition. Tribunal held, that since no assessment was pending on the date of the search and no incriminating material was found during the search, fresh material/information received after the date of the search would not be sufficient to reopen the assessment under section 153A. On appeal the High Court held that where no assessment proceedings are pending on the date of initiation of search, the Assessing Officer may consider only the incriminating material found during the search and is precluded from considering any other material derived from any other source. Appeal of Revenue is dismissed. (AY. 2011-12)

Held, that there was no dispute as to the first and last requisitions having been made on June 6, 2017 in the assessment year 2018-19, corresponding to the financial year 2017-18, and the last date of the relevant assessment year in which the requisition was made would be March 31, 2018 and the period of limitation would expire on December 31, 2020. No assessment was initiated on or before that date under section 153A. The assessments were initiated that too under section 148 for the assessment years 2013-14 to 2018-19 on March 31, 2021, long after the assessment period had expired. 2202 S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Elections notified-Applicable only where seized assets or requisitioned are in any manner connected with ongoing Assembly or Parliamentary Election-Seizure of cash by Tamil Nadu State Surveillance team after Tamil Nadu State Assembly Election model code of conduct was in force-Exception is not applicable-Assessee and its president are not excluded from purview of proceedings reassessment. [S. 131(IA), 147, 148, 153C, ITR, 112F, Art. 226]
After the Tamil Nadu State Assembly Election Model Code of Conduct was in force, the Tamil Nadu State Surveillance Team intercepted two persons R. Unnikrishnan a bank manager, and M. Swaminathan, who were found carrying in cash in a vehicle, and seized the cash. The statement of R. Unnikrishnan was recorded under section 131(1A) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. A statement was also obtained from the assessee's chairman, who stated that a consolidated cheque was drawn to disburse the salary of 25 different staff members. Subsequently, 25 self-cheques were drawn and the amount withdrawn was to be handed over at his house, as he was unable to go to the bank himself. After the orders rejecting the applications filed under rule 112F of the Income-tax Rules, 1962 were rejected and an assessment order was passed, R. Unnikrishnan retracted his earlier statement. On writ petitions contending that the exception provided in the provisions of rule 112F were attracted and therefore, invocation of the provisions of sections 153A and 153C was without jurisdiction, that the Assessing Officer should not have made assessment section 143(3) read with 153(1)(b). On writ, dismissing the petitions, that merely because the search was conducted or requisition was made when the Tamil Nadu State Assembly Model Code of Conduct from the State Assembly election in Tamil Nadu was in force, that could not mean that the issuance of notice under section 153A or section 153C would be automatically excluded and the exception under rule 112F(ii) applied. The seizure of cash from the possession of R. Unnikrishnan the bank manager and S, merely coincided with the implementation of the Tamil Nadu State Assembly Model Code of Conduct. The exception under rule 112F(ii) of the Income-tax Rules, 1962 would apply only where the assets seized or requisitioned were in any manner connected with the ongoing election in an assembly or Parliamentary constituency. On the facts this exception was not applicable to the assessee since the statements of R. Unnikrishnan and M. Swaminathan, they made it clear that it was the practice of the assessee as the president of the trust to credit the salary of the employees into their personal savings account and thereafter withdraw it by collecting self-drawn cheques duly signed by them. The statement that was given by the assessee was retracted only at a later point of time. Unless, the cash seized was in connection with the assembly election, the question of excluding the assessee and its president from the purview of proceedings under sections 147, 153A or 153C could not be countenanced. S. 153A: Assessment-Search-No incriminating material-Completed/unabated assessments-Order of Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed. [S. 132, 132A, 147, 148] 2203

In respect of completed/unabated assessments, no addition can be made by the AO in the absence of any incriminating material found during the course of a search under section 132 or requisition under section 132A of the Act, 1961. However, the completed/ unabated assessments can be re-opened by the AO in the exercise of powers under sections 147/148 of the Act, subject to fulfilment of the conditions therein. S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Information from Investigation Wing-Foreign Bank-The assessee has accepted the relevant documents as genuine-Not necessary to follow the procedure laid down in S. 65B of Indian Evidence Act, 1872-Admissible as evidence-Deposits in HSBC London-Income from other sources-Art. 23(3) of Indo-UK DTAA is not automatically applicable-DTAA-India-UK-Bank account showed closed status-Notional interest income cannot be estimated. [S. 90, Indian Evidence Act, 1872, S. 65B, Art. 23(3)] 2204

Held that the assessee has not retracted the statement and proceeded to revise the return of income and paid the relevant tax. Therefore, the search was initiated to verify the information available with the Revenue through the FT&TR division of the CBDT and the same was found to be proper when confronted with the assessee. Therefore, the information collected was confirmed in the search assessment proceedings is nothing but acceptance and confirmation of the existence of such bank account. That the assessee not only revised the return of income and chose not to retract the statement. Therefore, now invoking the jurisdictional issue relying on the several case laws is not acceptable at this stage. This goes to prove that the information with the Revenue is substantially correct. The material with the Revenue has to be considered proper and the action of the AO to accept the revised return of income and to complete the assessment goes to prove that the material with the Revenue can be assessable under s. 153A. Tribunal also held that deposits in HSBC London which is admitted by assessee is assessable as income from other sources. The benefit of Art. 23(3) of Indo-UK DTAA is not automatically applicable. Bank account obtained by the assessee with HSBC abroad showed closed status hence, notional interest income cannot be estimated. (AY. 2006-07 to 2012-13)

Held that the AO has not conducted any independent enquiry with the customs authorities, shipping agents, suppliers, etc. Further, the AO did not bring any corroborative materials and also did not conduct any independent enquiry to prove the genuineness of these documents and to disprove the explanations of the assessee. In view of the foregoing discussions, these documents, being loose papers, should be classified as dumb documents only and the AO could not have placed reliance on these documents in order to make the impugned additions. The documents found in the phone of the partner of the assessee-firm cannot be considered to be credible evidence which would support the additions made by the AO in both the years, they can be considered to be dumb documents only, since they were not corroborated by any other independent documents or enquiry. Accordingly, the additions made by the AO in both the years are deleted. (AY. 2020-21, 2021-22)

Held that though the search warrant was issued in the name of the assessee for opening the bank locker which was in the name of his father, keys of which were recovered from the residential premises of the assessee, issue of notice under s. 153A to the assessee is valid. Held that method of valuation adopted by the assessee has been accepted regularly by the Revenue. Accordingly, applying the average gross profit rate of 11. 34 per cent is rejected. Tribunal also held, that the assessee cannot be forced to pay tax on undisclosed income which has been computed incorrectly although, the assessee might have made a surrender at the time of search. Therefore, addition on account of difference in the valuation of stock is sustainable only to the extent admitted by the assessee. The Tribunal also held that additional income disclosed cannot be assessed at 60% as per provision of S. 115BBE of the Act. (AY. 2017-18)

Held that the Commissioner (Appeals) is justified in rejecting the extrapolation made by the Assessing Officer on the total turnover of the assessee because, if there were sales made outside the books of account to certain parties, the assessee's entire turnover could not be taken as suppressed turnover in the absence of any documentary evidence to substantiate it. The addition of gross profit ratio of 8. 6 per cent of such sales declared by the assessee on total sales as calculated and confirmed by the Commissioner (Appeals), is upheld. S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Suppression of sales-Running retail outlets dealing in gold-Assessing Officer is directed to make estimation of gross profit rate on suppressed sales. [S. 142(1)] 2219
Held that no addition could be made for completed assessment in the absence of any incriminating material. That the suppressed sales for assessment years 2017-18, 2018-19 and part of 2019-20 with respect to P's unit were merely extrapolated sales based on three months' unaccounted sales of assessment year 2019-20. There was no evidence of suppression of sales in assessment years 2017-18, 2018-19 and remaining months of 2019-20. It was trite law that no addition could be made merely on the basis of assumption, conjectures or surmises. Unless evidence of suppression of sales in relevant years was brought on record, the suppressed sales for only a part of the month could not be extrapolated for those years. Therefore, the assessee rightly offered the additional income only in respect of sales suppression detected during the search by applying the gross profit rate of accounted sales as per the books of account. Held that no addition could be made for completed assessment in the absence of any incriminating material. That the suppressed sales for assessment years 2017-18, 2018-19 and part of 2019-20 with respect to P's unit were merely extrapolated sales based on three months' unaccounted sales of assessment year 2019-20. Unless evidence of suppression of sales in relevant years was brought on record, the suppressed sales for only a part of the month could not be extrapolated for those years. [S. 139,143(3)]

Held, that the assessment year did not abate and the disallowance was not based on any incriminating material found in relation thereto in the course of search. The Assessing Officer had made the addition on reappraisal of the claim made in the return, which had been accepted in the original assessment under section 143(3) of the Act. In the absence of any incriminating material to justify the addition, the disallowance could not have been legally made in the unabated assessment year. Held that the additional ground of the assessee raising a fresh claim for deduction of loss incurred at the special economic zone unit while computing book profits under section 115JB of the Act for the assessment year 2010-11 for which the assessment had not abated, could not be entertained. Assessments for years for which assessments abate the assessee can lodge new claim not made in regular return of income. Tribunal also held that merely on the basis of statement, addition cannot be made, if assessee shows he was wrong on facts he admitted. (AY. 2009-10 to 2012-13, 2014-15)
IPCA Laboratories Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2024)113 ITR 53/ 230 TTJ 409(Mum.)(Trib)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Income from undisclosed sources-Hotel business-Cost of construction of hotel building-Valuation referred to Departmental Valuation Officer-Difference in value cannot be added as undisclosed income-Rejection of books of account-Addition is not justified-Business loss-Carry forward-Allowed current year business loss and carry forward thereof for set off in subsequent years. [S. 69, 145 (3)] 2222
Held that merely on the basis of valuation report of the Department Valuation Officer, addition cannot be made. Held that as the whole basis of rejection of books of account was the difference in amount invested in the building and that was held not justified, there was no justifiable basis for rejection of books of account. That the only ground for disallowing the current year's business loss and not allowing it to be carried forward was rejection of books of account under section 145(3) of the Act. Since, the very basis of rejection of books of account was not sustainable, there was no basis for denying the current year business loss and carry forward thereof for set off in subsequent years. Khanna Infrabuild P. Ltd. v. Dy. CIT (2024)113 ITR 595/231 TTJ 530 (Chd.) (Trib)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Cannot make a fresh claim for deduction under section 80-IA(4) for first time in return of income filed in response to notice issued under section 153A, pursuant to search conducted under section 132, in unabated/completed assessment as on date of search-In case of abated assessments, like Assessing Officer who can make assessment based on incriminating materials and any other information made available to him, including information furnished in return of income, assessee can claim all deductions towards any income or expenditure including under section 80IA(4). [S. 80IA(4), 132, 139(1), 143(3)] 2223
The assessee is engaged in the business of development of infrastructure projects. The assessee filed its original return of income for the assessment year 2009-10 admitting a total income of certain amount. The assessment had been completed under section 143(3) accepting the returned income. Consequent to the search, a notice under section 153A was issued and served on the assessee, requiring the assessee to file a return of income. In response to the notice under section 153A, the assessee filed a return of income admitting total income of certain amount, after claiming a deduction under section 80IA(4), for the first time, in respect of profits and gains derived from the development of infrastructure projects. The Assessing Officer rejected the fresh claim of deduction under section 80IA(4), for the reason that the said deduction could not be claimed during the proceedings under section 153A, as no such claim was made in the return of income originally filed by the assessee under section 139(1). On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) held that in an assessment pursuant to notice under section 153A, a statutory deduction not hitherto claimed under section 139(1) could also be claimed. Therefore, by taking note of projects executed by the assessee in light of the agreements between the assessee and the relevant State or Central Governments, the Commissioner (Appeals) held that the assessee is eligible for claiming deduction under section 80IA(4). On appeal the Tribunal held that an assessee cannot make a fresh claim for deduction under section 80IA(4) for first time in return of income filed in response to notice issued under section 153A, pursuant to search conducted under section 132, in unabated/completed assessment as on date of search. However, in case of abated assessments, like Assessing Officer who can make assessment based on incriminating materials and any other information made available to him, including information furnished in return of income, assessee can claim all deductions towards any income or expenditure including under section 80IA(4), as if it is a first return of income and fresh assessment. Referred, CBDT Circular No. 7 of 2003, dated 5-9-2003. (AY. 2009-10 to 2012-13, 2014-15)

A search was conducted upon assessee during which certain documents were found and seized which showed that assessee had made substantial amount of unexplained investment in purchase as well as on construction/renovation of immovable properties, which had not been shown by assessee in his accounts/ITR. Accordingly, on basis of DVO's report he arrived at satisfaction that aggregate of income of assessee which had escaped for relevant assessment years was more than Rs. 50 lakhs, hence he reassessed income of assessee under section 153A. However, there was no difference found between investment disclosed by assessee in books of account as compared to DVO's report. Further, DVO's report on standalone basis without any corroborating material cannot be construed as incriminating material. Tribunal held, that since evidence relating to undisclosed investments in respect of relevant assessment years as defined in Explanation 1 to 4th Proviso of section 153A(1) was less than Rs. 50 lakhs, reopening of assessment of relevant years being beyond six years is bad in law and hence, quashed. Held, that the Commissioner (Appeals) having rejected the books of account, ought to have estimated the income of the assessee for the whole year: he could not estimate the profit merely on the alleged undisclosed sales or unproved purchases. Therefore, the addition per se of unproved purchases and unproved sales could not be made in the hands of the assessee and the question of estimation of the profit thereon did not survive. S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Unabated assessment-No incriminating material-Addition is not valid. [S. 68, 132] 2227

A Search u/s. 132 of the Act conducted on 20. 04. 2017. As on the date of search, no assessment proceedings were pending in the case of the assessee and the AO had made addition by disallowing 10% of expenses claimed in the P&L Account by stating that no vouchers / bills, etc. have been submitted and has further made addition of advances received from customers due to non-furnishing of confirmation letters, ledgers and necessary documentary evidences, addition u/s. 68 on account of unexplained cash credit being unsecured loans due to non-furnishing of any confirmation with ledgers. CIT (A) deleted the disallowances. On appeal the Tribunal held that since the case of the assessee is of completed assessment years and no pending proceedings as on the date of search, additions could not have been made without any incriminating material or documents found during the course of search. ACIT v. Dynamic Infraplanners Pvt. Ltd. (2024) 112 ITR 174 (Delhi) (Trib.)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Unexplained expenditure-Payment of commission-Bogus sales-Gross profit offered to tax-Gross profit is available to set off-Unaccounted advances paid to employees-Only remaining amount is taxable-Stock-Valuation at average rate of method is acceptable-Addition is deleted-Undisclosed income is accepted-Further addition towards purchases is not justified. [S. 69, 69C, 132, 133] 2228

Held that the assessee had disclosed gross profit at a rate ranging between 1. 6 per cent and 5 per cent on bogus sales of knitted cloth and, therefore, the commission for procuring the bogus purchase and sale so determined by the Assessing Officer stood covered by this gross profit and there could not be any separate addition in this regard. Hence, the addition sustained by the Commissioner (Appeals) was directed to be deleted. The gross profit, which was sustained, being an intangible addition, was available to the assessee to be set off against the addition towards unexplained expenditure and towards unaccounted advances paid to employees. Only the remaining amount could be brought to tax. That the unaccounted receivables, which were brought to tax as undisclosed income at the time of survey, were available to the assessee to make subsequent purchases, which again remained unaccounted for and were sought to be taxed by the authorities. Given that the amount had already been brought to tax in the year under consideration, there could not be any further addition on utilisation of that amount towards purchases. Therefore, the addition to the extent sustained by the Commissioner (Appeals) was directed to be deleted. Held that the stock had to be valued at cost after reducing the gross profit rate. (AY. 2013-14, 2015-16 to 2018-19)

Seo Lehenga House v. Dy. CIT (2024) 111 ITR 681 (Chd.) (Trib)

S. 153A: Assessment-Search-Cost of construction of hotel building-Original assessment completed and not abated on date of search-No incriminating material is found-Reference to Departmental valuation officer is not valid-Addition is deleted-Cost of construction of hotel building prior to commencement of hotel business-Capital invested by shareholders-Addition is deleted. [S. 69, 132, 143(2)] 2229

Held that the time for initiating original scrutiny assessment under section 143(3), by issue of notice under section 143(2) of the Act, in this case had already lapsed on the date of search action, which meant that the original assessment in this case stood completed and not abated on the date of search. The matter was referred to the Departmental Valuation Officer after the search action at the premises of the assessee. However, no incriminating material whatsoever was found during the search action, which could have been stated to be a trigger point to refer the matter to the Departmental Valuation Officer. The reference to the Departmental Valuation Officer was not valid. That during the course of search, no incriminating material was found exhibiting unexplained investment by the assessee, and merely, on the basis of Departmental Valuation Officer's report, the addition could not be made. That the assessee-company's business had not commenced and the construction of the building was done out of the capital invested by the shareholders and hence, there was no case of earning of any income, much less any income from undisclosed sources. Thus, the additions made in the case of the assessee could not be held to be justified and the same were accordingly ordered to be deleted. (AY. 2013-14, 2015-16, 2016-17)

Assessment of assessee for relevant assessment year was completed. Subsequently, a search and seizure operation was carried at business and residential premises of a group company and assessee, being part of said group was also searched on same date along with other family members. In course of assessment, Assessing Officer noticed that assessee had claimed exemption of LTCG earned in respect of sale of shares under section 10(38). Assessing Officer on basis of seized documents held that LTCG disclosed by assessee represented unaccounted money and there was no genuine or bona fide purchase and sale of shares. Accordingly, he made an addition under section 68 treating same as unexplained cash credit. CIT(A) up held the addition. On appeal the Tribunal held that seized documents (share certificates and contract notes) from a bank locker did not belong to assessee but were in name of and belonged jointly to father and Grandmother of assessee. Locker was neither operated by assessee and nor did assessee have its possession. Further it was observed that pursuant to scheme of amalgamation approved by High Court, assessee had received shares of AGL in lieu of shares held in MGPL and shares of AGL were received and credited in D-mat account of assessee. Assessee had sold certain shares of AGL and had disclosed LTCG on sale of shares of AGL as part of original return of income filed well before date of search. The assessee had purchased shares of company MGPL during financial year 2010-11 relevant to assessment year 2011-12, said transaction did not pertain to impugned assessment years. In view of aforesaid facts and circumstances, share certificates and contract notes seized by Assessing Officer were not incriminating in nature and in fact same would corroborate and confirm disclosed transaction of purchase of shares of MGPL by assessee. Since, addition made by Assessing Officer during reassessment proceedings was not based on any incriminating material during search and seizure action, same being a case of completed/unabated assessment, impugned addition is deleted. A search was conducted in case of assessee and a Swiss Bank account statement in name of 'S', ex-husband of assessee was found. Assessee had stated that said bank statement did not belong to her and 'S' had stated that he was in no way either directly or indirectly connected with the said bank account. Assessing Officer, therefore, subsequently sent a proposal through proper channel to FT & TR Division, Government of India requesting for information under exchange of information Article of India Swiss DTAA and response was received that there was no relation between assessee and said bank and thereafter assessment was completed. On appeal the Tribunal held that information sought pertaining to assessee for assessment year 2008-09 could not have been received by revenue since article 26 of Indo Swiss Treaty regarding exchange of information was applicable for information that related to period on or after 1-4-2011 and therefore, it was not a valid reference. Consequently, claim of revenue that period of limitation was extended by one year under section 153B based on reference was untenable and, accordingly, assessment order dated 29-12-2016 passed by Assessing Officer was clearly barred by limitation and was liable to be quashed. Held that the assessment beyond six years but not more than ten years can be reopened u/s 153A of the Act only if the AO is in possession of evidence depicting the escapement of income exceeeding 50 lakhs. Appeal is allowed. (AY. 2009-10, 2011-12)

Search covered various premises and lockers, including Locker No. s 299, 2070, and 1320. Subsequent searches on 2930-4-2021, revealed no seizures, and panchnamas were issued. Subsequently, an assessment order pertaining to assessment year 2015-16 was framed by ACIT on 31-3-2023. Principal Commissioner invoked section 263 and issued a notice on 24-8-2023, observing that assessment order passed by ACIT was erroneous and prejudicial to interest of revenue. Assessee contested the said notice by asserting that as per panchnamas dated 29-4-2021 and 30-4-2021 framed in respect of aforesaid lockers, no seizures were made and in absence of any seizure, search stood concluded on 2-3-2021, when first panchnamas were drawn up and therefore, period of limitation for passing an order under section 153A expired on 31-3-2022 and this delay of one year in passing reassessment orders could not be condoned. It was held that restraint and revocation orders pertaining to Locker 299 unequivocally established that Locker 299 underwent its initial search on 29-4-2021, even though it resulted in no recoveries and that date marked onset of limitation period prescribed under section 153B. High Court held that search operation being an ongoing process that definitely concluded on 29-4-2021, when Locker 299 was inspected that rendered assessment under section 153A, which culminated on 31-3-2023, within time limit prescribed under section 153B. On SLP it was noted that order was passed without issuing a formal notice to respondent, Department or calling for a response from Department although standing counsel for Department was present in Court. Therefore, High Court having passed order without having benefit of response of respondent-Department, SLP filed by assessee was disposed of by reserving liberty to assessee herein to raise contentions regarding jurisdictional error vis-a-vis limitation period before appropriate authority despite impugned order passed against assessee. Allowing the appeal the Tribunal held that subsequent panchnama merely revokes prohibitory order without any seizure of material, the time limit is not extended. Further, the restraint order was not lifted within one month of assessment order. Release of prohibitory order, panchnama and assessment order is invalid. The Tribunal referred Central Board Of Direct Taxes Circular, Dated 3-7-2002. Last panchnama cancellation of restraint order is considered as second Panchnama is not the last panchnama of conclusion of search. Order is barred by limitation. Use of electronic documents used as evidence the mandatory conditions of Section 65B of Indian Evidence Act is not complied with hence not admissible as evidence. [S. 132, Art. 136] 2238

The assessee filed writ petition for the quashing of notices issued under section 153C for the assessment years 2014-15 to 2020-21, on the ground that the proceedings were illegal and without jurisdiction. It contended that the satisfaction note revealed that the incriminating material pertained only to the assessment year 2019-20, yet the action under section 153C encompassed assessment years 2014-15 to 2020-21. Allowing the petition the Court held that the satisfaction note pertained to non-searched entity, and material which was alluded to be pertained to assessment year 2019-20 only. Accordingly, the action under section 153C, pertaining to AYs 2014-15, 2015-16, 2016-17, 2017-18, 2018-19 and 2020-21 were quashed and set aside. The High Court dismissed the assessee's writ petition against an order of the Commissioner rejecting the assessee's application under section 264 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, challenging an order of assessment under section 153C holding that the Commissioner having found that despite several opportunities being granted the assessee did not appear or make submissions on the merits of the case, no fault could be found with the Commissioner declining to interfere with the assessment. The court further held that in writ proceedings, it was difficult for the court to examine the documents seized and determine if in fact the documents were incriminating for the assessee, that the court had to be satisfied that the Commissioner's orders were not unfair, unjust or irrational and were consistent with the basic procedural requirements, and that on none of these counts, did the orders of the Commissioner warrant interference. SLP is dismissed. (AY. 2004-05 to 2009-10)

High Court held that recording of satisfaction note is pre-requisite and same must be prepared by Assessing Officer before he transmits record to other Assessing Officer who has jurisdiction over such other person under section 153C and since in instant case satisfaction note was not recorded by Assessing Officer of searched person, Tribunal had rightly quashed assessment on account of lack of jurisdiction. S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Not discharged the burden of having agricultural income-Addition as undisclosed income is justified-Order of High Court is affirmed. [S. 260A, Art. 136] 2243
Court held that the assessee admittedly had a direct connection with the premises searched, the documents recovered during the search necessitated initiation of action under section 153A, read with section 153C of the Income-tax Act, 1961, and that therefore the proceedings were valid; and (b) that the burden of proving that the amount was agricultural income was on the assessee. That it was clear from the findings recorded by the authorities that the assessment of the amount as undisclosed income was justified, and that therefore no question of law arose. Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the Tribunal was right in law in holding that the AY relevant to the financial year in which satisfaction note was recorded under section 153C of the Act, would be taken as the year of search for the purposes of clauses (a) and (b) of sub-section (1) of section 153A of the Act by making reference to the first proviso to sub-section (1) of section 153C. Therefore, the Tribunal was right in law in holding that no satisfaction was recorded by the Assessing Officer of the searched person and the notice issued by the Assessing Officer under section 153C of the Act would be taken as the year of search for the purpose of clauses (a) and (b) of sub-section (1) of section 153A. The Tribunal was right in law in setting aside the assessment order passed for the AY. 2011-12 under the facts and circumstances of the case holding that there was no satisfaction recorded by the Assessing Officer of the searched person in so far as section 153A in the case of the assessee. On writ the High Court held that a notice under section 153C was served on assessee on 11-5-2009 by DCIT, Central Circle 1(1). Meanwhile, an order under section 127(2) was issued on 20-7-2009 by Commissioner, Bangaluru and case of assessee was transferred from ACIT, Circle 6(1) to DCIT, Central Circle 1(1), Bangalore. However, notices under section 153C were issued by DCIT, Central Circle, Bangaluru on 11-5-2009 and furthermore, date of transfer of files from ACIT was 19-8-2009. High Court held that it was ex-facie apparent that notices under section 153C were issued prior to transfer of case and jurisdiction conferred on DCIT and since notice issued by DCIT, Circle-1(1), Bangalore, was without jurisdiction, all further proceedings would be rendered void ab initio. High Court also held that amendment by insertion of clause (c) in sub section (3) of section 124 by Finance Act, 2016 which came into effect from 1-6-2016 is prospective in nature. [S. 132, 133A, 143(3), 153A, 260A] 2247

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held, that Chapter VI of the IT Act contemplates the procedure for assessment, wherein various stipulations are provided in terms of sections 136 to 153 of the IT Act. Sections 153A, 153B and 153C have been inserted by the Finance Act, 2003 with effect from 1-6-2003, which specifically contemplates assessments in cases of search or requisition. Section 153A contains various stipulations with regard to the person searched and section 153C contains various stipulations with regard to such other person, other than the person searched. Therefore, once material pursuant to a search is relied upon, the Assessing Officer is required to follow the procedure as contemplated under sections 153A, 153B and 153C and it is impermissible for the Assessing Officer to continue the regular assessment. [S. 127, 132, 153A, Art. 226] 2248

A Division Bench of the Hon'ble Karnataka High Court had to decide Writ Appeals filed against a common order of the Ld. Single Judge of the Hon'ble Court on questions relating to validity of notices issued under section 153C of the Act. The Hon'ble Court relied on landmark rulings of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and applied the tests laid down therein to observe that the action taken by Revenue against assessee based on material contained in diaries/loose sheets are contrary to law declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Further, on the other issues, the Hon'ble Court observed that on perusal of material, it does not satisfy the ingredients of fair play embodied under section 127 of the Act. The Hon'ble Court also noted that Satisfaction Note is required to be recorded under section 153C for each assessment year and since in the instant case, a consolidated satisfaction note has been recorded, the same would vitiate entire assessment proceedings. Thus, ultimately it was held that the Ld. The single Judge had considered all the points and did not warrant any interference. Consequently, the appeals were rejected and the single Judge's order was confirmed. (AY. 2012-13 to 2018-19)

The Petitioner by way of a Writ Petition impugned the notice under section 148 of the Act issued for A. Y. 2013-14 on the ground that it was issued beyond limitation. The Hon'ble Court held that any search conducted after 01. 04. 2021 would cease to be regulated by section 153C (3) of the Act as it stood before the amendment and thus, it would have to meet the foundational tests as specified in the first proviso to section 149(1) of the Act. In light of a decision rendered by the Hon'ble Court in PCIT v. Ojjus Medicare Pvt. Ltd. [2024] 161 taxmann.com 160/ 465 ITR 101 (Delhi) (HC), it was held that A. The assessee filed writ petition for the quashing of notices issued under section 153C for the assessment years 2014-15 to 2020-21, on the ground that the proceedings were illegal and without jurisdiction. It contended that the satisfaction note revealed that the incriminating material pertained only to the assessment year 2019-20, yet the action under section 153C encompassed assessment years 2014-15 to 2020-21. Allowing the petition the Court held that the satisfaction note pertained to non-searched entity, and material which was alluded pertained to assessment year 2019-20 only. Accordingly, the action under section 153C, pertaining to AYs 2014-15, 2015-16, 2016-17, 2017-18, 2018-19 and 2020-21 were quashed and set aside. S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Merely on the basis of statement under section 132(4) without any other material discovered during the search-No addition can be made –Order of Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed. [S. 132, 132(4), 143(3), 260A, 292B] 2253
Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the Tribunal has explicitly held that no addition has been made on the basis of any incriminating material found during the course of search. It is settled law that the date of initiation of assessment proceedings under S. 153C would be calculated from the date of handing over of the books of accounts, documents or assets seized to the jurisdictional AO of the non-searched person and not from the date of search. Therefore, the relevant assessment year in the present case would come under the block of six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year in which the satisfaction note was recorded by the AO of the assessee-companies. Section 292B is not attracted on the facts of the case. Order of Tribunal deleting the addition is affirmed. (AY. 2011-12)

Allowing the petition the Court held that where the search was conducted under section 132 on February 9, 2022, and notice was issued to the assessee on March 31, 2023, under section 148 the ten-year block period would be assessment years 2014-15 to 2023-24. Consequently, the notice under section 148 for the assessment year 2013-14 was unsustainable and hence, quashed. Court also observed that under the provisions of section 149 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, any action for reassessment pertaining to an assessment year prior to April 1, 2021 can be sustained only if it be compliant with the timeframes specified under section 149(1)(b), section 153A or section 153C as the case may be and on the anvil of those provisions as they existed prior to the commencement of the Finance Act, 2021. Date of receipt of books of account or documents or assets seized or requisitioned by jurisdictional Assessing Officer of non-searched person and not actual date of search-Amendments of 2017 is not applicable since search was conducted prior to introduction of amendments-Consequently extended ten year block period cannot be applied. [S. 132, 153A, 153C, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that prior to the insertion of sections 153A, 153B and 153C of the Income-tax Act, 1961, an assessment in respect of a search case was regulated by Chapter XIV-B of the Act, comprising sections 158B to 158BI which embodied the concept of a block assessment. A block assessment in a search case undertaken under the provisions in Chapter XIV-B was ordained to be undertaken simultaneously and parallelly to a regular assessment. Contrary to the scheme underlying Chapter XIV-B, sections 153A, 153B and 153C contemplate a merger of regular assessments with those pursuant to a search. On a search being undertaken, under section 153A, the jurisdictional Assessing Officer is enabled to initiate an assessment or reassessment, in respect of the six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year relevant to the year of search and also in respect of the "relevant assessment year", as defined by Explanation 1 to section 153A. Of equal significance is the introduction of the concept of abatement of all pending assessments. Amendments introduced in sections 153A, 153B and 153C by virtue of the Finance Act, 2017 ([2017] 393 ITR (St.) 1), for the first time adopted the concept of the "relevant assessment year" and provided an Explanation for the term and defined the expression "relevant assessment year". Both sections 153A and 153C embody non obstante clauses and are in express terms ordained to override sections 139, 147 to 149, 151 and 153. By virtue of the 2017 Act, amendments were introduced in section 153A in the year 2017 which included, inter alia, extension of the search assessment block to ten assessment years consequent to the addition of the stipulation of "relevant assessment year" which was defined to mean those years which would fall beyond the six-year block period but not later than ten assessment years. The 2017 Act also stipulated in the fourth proviso to the section, certain prerequisite conditions which would have to inevitably be shown to be satisfied before the search assessment could stretch to the "relevant assessment year". The preconditions include the prescription of income having escaped assessment and represented in the form of an asset amounting to or being "likely to amount to" Rs. 50 lakhs or more in the "relevant assessment year" or in aggregate in the "relevant assessment years". As in the case of section 153A, section 153C which pertains to the other person other than the entity subjected to search was also to apply to all searches that may have been undertaken between the period June 1, 2003 and March 31, 2021. In terms of that provision, the Assessing Officer is similarly empowered to undertake and initiate an assessment in respect of the other entity for the six assessment years and for "the relevant assessment year". The assessment years, which would consequently be thrown open for assessment or reassessment under section 153C follow lines pari materia with section 153A.

The first proviso to section 153C introduces a legal fiction on the basis of which the commencement date for computation of the six year or the ten-year block period is deemed to be the date of receipt of books of account by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer of the other party. The identification of the starting block for the purposes of computation of the six year and ten year periods is governed by the first proviso to section 153C, which significantly shifts the reference to the point in section 153A(1), while defining the point from which the period of the "relevant assessment year" is to be calculated, to the date of receipt of the books of account, documents or assets seized by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer of the non-searched party. In the assessment under section 153C the starting point is the handing over of books of account or documents or assets seized during the search under section 132 of the searched party by the Assessing Officer to the jurisdictional Assessing Officer of the other person and that event constitutes the point from which the preceding six assessment years or the "relevant assessment year" has to be computed. 2258 S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Block Assessment-Satisfaction note-Block period-Seized material must pertain to relevant assessment year-Bearing-Notices issued in absence of incriminating material based on non-speaking satisfaction notes unsustainable-Satisfaction notes in these petitions had alluded to incriminating material having been recovered for the assessment years 2013-14 and 2014-15, respectively, and the materials that were co relatable had been specifically identified. All other contentions of parties could be raised in the ongoing proceedings. [S. 132, 153A 158BB, Art. 226]

On writ petitions challenging notices issued under section 153C contending that, in the absence of any incriminating material against the third party assessees having been seized during the search of the searched party under section 132, pertaining to the assessment years which were proposed to be reopened, the assumption of jurisdiction by the Assessing Officer was illegal and unsustainable, allowing the petitions, the Court held that except in two writ petitions forming part of this batch against the invocation of section 153C in respect of the assessment years 2013-14 to 2020-21, no incriminating material had been gathered or obtained. The flow of events contemplated under section 153C being firstly the receipt of books, account, documents or assets by the jurisdictional Assessing Officer, an evaluation and examination of their contents and an assessment of the potential impact that they would have on the total income for the six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year pertaining to the year of search and the "relevant assessment year". It was only when the Assessing Officer of the assessees was satisfied that the materials coming into his possession were likely to "have a bearing on the determination of the total income" that notice under section 153C could be issued. Abatement would thus be a necessary corollary of that notice. The Department had erroneously proceeded on the assumption that the moment any material was recovered in the course of a search or on the basis of a requisition made, they were empowered in law to assess or reassess for all the six assessment years immediately preceding the assessment co relatable to the search year or the "relevant assessment year" as defined in Explanation 1 of section 153A. Such approach was unsustainable and contrary to the precedents. That the satisfaction notes of the jurisdictional Assessing Officers had failed to record any reasons as to how the material discovered and pertaining to a particular assessment year was likely to "have a bearing on the determination of the total income" for the year which was sought to be abated or reopened in terms of the notices. The satisfaction notes established that the jurisdictional Assessing Officers had proceeded on the premise that the moment incriminating material was unearthed in respect of a particular assessment year, they had the jurisdiction and authority to invoke section 153C in respect of all the assessment years which could otherwise form part of the "relevant assessment year" as defined in section 153A. Such understanding of the provisions of section 153C was erroneous and unsustainable. The discovery of material likely to implicate the assessee and impact the assessment of total income for a particular assessment year was not intended to set off a chain reaction on all assessment years which could form part of the "relevant assessment year". This, more so since none of the satisfaction notes had recorded any reasons of how that material was likely to materially influence the computation of income for those assessment years. Therefore, the satisfaction notes would have to evidence a formation of opinion that the material is likely to be incriminating for more than a singular assessment year and warranting proceedings under section 153C for the assessment years in addition to those to which the material may be directly relatable. Hence, the notices issued for the assessment years 2013-14 to 2020-21 in all but the two petitions were quashed. Dismissing the petitions (W. P. (C) Nos. 3007 and 3019 of 2023), that the satisfaction notes in these petitions had alluded to incriminating material having been recovered for the assessment years 2013-14 and 2014-15, respectively, and the materials that were correlatable had been specifically identified. All other contentions of parties could be raised in the ongoing proceedings. (AY. 2013-14 to 2020-21)

S. 153C : Assessment – Income of any other person – Limitation – Composite satisfaction note sufficient if it records material gathered in search relevant to all AYs of block – Delay in initiation not fatal if proceedings commenced within reasonable period from completion of searched person's assessment – Writ petition dismissed. [S. 132, 153A, 153B, Art. 226] 2259

The assessee challenged notices under section 153C on grounds of delay, limitation, absence of year-wise incriminating material, and non-recording of separate satisfaction notes. The High Court held that a composite satisfaction note is valid if it embodies search material pertaining to the entire block; delay in initiation is not fatal so long as proceedings are within a reasonable period from closure of the searched person's assessment. Petitions filed belatedly could not justify interference under Art. 226. Issue of limitation left open for adjudication in assessment proceedings. (AY 2014-15 to 2016-17)

Indian National Congress v. DCIT [2024] 463 ITR 431 / 337 CTR 761 (Delhi)(HC)

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search and seizure-Satisfaction note-Served satisfaction note subsequent to notice under section 143(2)-Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 132 142(1), Art. 226] 2260

In response to notice under section 153C dt. 9-6-2022 the Assessee had filed return. Notice issued under section 142(1) dated 11-12-2023. Assessee filed writ petition on the ground that no satisfaction note was provided along with notice under section 153C.

Dismissing the petition the Court held that satisfaction note of Assessing Officer had been served upon assessee, subsequent to notice under section 142(1) dated 11-12-2023. Hence, the assessee should have raised all possible objections before Assessing Officer during course of assessment proceedings instead of filing writ petition. [S. 153A, 246,246A,Art. 226]
There is a vital distinction between the object, intention as well as the express language of sections 153A and 153C. Section 153C requires the satisfaction of two conditions prior to issuance of notice, (i) recording of satisfaction by the Assessing Officer of the searched entities that some of the incriminating materials relate to a third party, and (ii) recording of satisfaction by the Assessing Officer of the third party that the incriminating materials have a bearing on the determination of the total income of that third party. Notice under section 153C would have to be issued only upon the concurrent satisfaction of both these conditions. The court made it clear that the appellate authority should make good the error committed by the assessing authority by ensuring that an effective opportunity of cross-examination was granted to the assessee prior to finalising the appeal proceedings. The powers of the appellate authority under sections 246 and 246A are co-terminus with those of the Assessing Officer and the direction would suffice to protect the interests of the assessees and to remedy the procedural error committed by the officer while framing the assessment.] (AY. 2009-10, 2011-12, 2012-13, 2013-14 to 2019-20)

Assessing Officer after recording satisfaction, issued notice under section 153C. Thereafter, assessment orders were passed. On writ, the assessee challenged the orders on ground that satisfaction notes supplied to assessee did not bear DIN. Dismissing the petition the Court held that satisfaction note was document prepared by Assessing Officer which was kept in file and unless demanded by assessee it was not required to be provided to assessee. Since when satisfaction notes were provided to assessee, said communication bore DIN. Hence, notices and assessment orders were not without jurisdiction. S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Block period-The period of the "relevant assessment year" is to be calculated, to the date of receipt of the books of accounts, documents or assets seized by the jurisdictional AO of the non-searched person-Block periods would have to be reckoned with reference to the date of search can neither be countenanced nor accepted-Precondition of Rs. 50 lakhs or more constitutes a sine qua non for initiating action for the extended ten-year block, the aforesaid satisfaction and the reasons in support thereof would have to borne out from the satisfaction note itself. [S. 68, 69C, 153A, 260A, Art. 226] 2264

The group of writ petitions and an Income Tax Appeal was filed before Delhi High Court, to assail the initiation of assessment proceedings pursuant to the provisions of Section 153C of the Act. Firstly, the petitioners questioned the identification and computation of the block of six Assessment Years immediately preceding the AY relevant to the previous year in which the search was conducted or requisition made and the enlarged period of ten years that could become subject to reopening or reassessment in cases emanating from a search, introduced by virtue of the amendments made by the Finance Act, 2017. The court held the First Proviso to Section 153C introduces a legal fiction on the basis of which the commencement date for computation of the six year or the ten-year block is deemed to be the date of receipt of books of accounts by the jurisdictional AO. The identification of the starting block for the purposes of computation of the six and the ten year period is governed by the First Proviso to Section 153C, which significantly shifts the reference point spoken of in Section 153A(1), while defining the point from which the period of the "relevant assessment year" is to be calculated, to the date of receipt of the books of accounts, documents or assets seized by the jurisdictional AO of the non-searched person. The shift of the relevant date in the case of a non-searched person being regulated by the First Proviso of Section 153C(1) is an issue which is no longer res integra and stands authoritatively settled by virtue of the decisions of this Court in SSP Aviation Ltd v. Dy. CIT (2012) 346 ITR 177 (Delhi)(HC) and CIT v. RRJ Securities Ltd 2015 SCC OnlineDel 13085 as well as the decision of the Supreme Court in CIT v. Jasjit Singh 2023 SCC Online SC1265. The aforesaid legal position also stood reiterated by the Supreme Court in ITO v. Vikram Sujitkumar Bhatia 2023 SCC Online SC 370. The submission of the revenue, therefore, that the block periods would have to be reckoned with reference to the date of search can neither be countenanced nor accepted. The reckoning of the six AYs would require one to firstly identify the FY in which the search was undertaken and which would lead to the ascertainment of the AY relevant to the previous year of search. The block of six AYs would consequently be those which immediately precede the AY relevant to the year of search. In the case of a search assessment undertaken in terms of Section 153C, the solitary distinction would be that the previous year of search would stand substituted by the date or the year in which the books of accounts or documents and assets seized are handed over to the jurisdictional AO as opposed to the year of search which constitutes the basis for an assessment under Section 153A. The second challenge was whether the limit of INR 50 lakhs which is spoken of must be satisfied in each of the "relevant assessment year" or could the prescriptions of clause (a) of the Fourth Proviso to Section 153A of the Act be said to be satisfied if that monetary precondition is met on a cumulative calculation of the total asset value pertaining to the years opened up for assessment or reassessment as the case may be. The court held that the precondition of Rs. 50 lakhs or more constitutes a sine qua non for initiating action for the extended ten-year block, the aforesaid satisfaction and the reasons in support thereof would have to borne out from the Satisfaction Note itself. We are also of the opinion that the precondition of Rs. 50 lakhs is not liable to be viewed as being the qualifying criteria for each "relevant assessment year" that may be thrown open and that the said condition would stand satisfied if the escaped income cumulatively or in the aggregate meets the minimum benchmark of Rs. 50 lakhs. [S. 132] Held that only on recording of such satisfaction by the AO of the "searched person" and handing over of the assets/documents to the AO of the "other person", proceedings under s. 153C can be initiated by the AO of the "other person". Such satisfaction was recorded by the AO of the "searched person" in this case and the documents were transmitted to the AO of the assessee, based on which he had rightly initiated the proceeding under S. 153C. Prior to the amendment of S. 153C, w. e. f 1st October, 2014, only the AO of the searched person was required to record the necessary satisfaction before handing over the seized documents. The AO of the other person was not required to record any satisfaction before initiating proceedings u/s 153C. Incriminating material was found in the course of search hence, the assessment is valid. [S. 132, 132A] 2268

Held, that the Commissioner (Appeals) had counted the limitation period from the date of search. The case was centralised on September 13, 2021, the satisfaction note was recorded by the Assessing Officer a week later and the notice under section 153C was issued a day after. All these dates fell in the previous year 2021-22 relevant to the assessment year 2022-23. The preceding ten assessment years would be 2012-13 to 2021-22. The assessment years under consideration, viz., 2009-10 and 2011-12 were beyond the period of ten years from the date of recording of the satisfaction note and, hence, barred by limitation. 2272 S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Limitation-From date of handing over of books of account and other documents by Assessing Officer of person searched to Assessing Officer of third person-Limitation will start on date of recording of satisfaction note by Assessing Officer of person searched that incriminating material referred to third person-Assessing Officer of person searched also having jurisdiction over third person-Assessment year falling beyond stipulated six assessment years and four relevant assessment Years-Barred by limitation. [S. 132, 153A(1)]

Held that the Assessing Officer of the searched person had recorded a satisfaction note for proceeding under section 153C with reference to the books of account seized during the course of search. The Assessing Officer of the other person had also recorded a satisfaction note for initiation of proceedings under section 153C on the same date, on being satisfied that the documents seized during search had information relating to the assessee's total income. Taking into consideration the date of handing over of the books of account and documents as the date of recording of the satisfaction by the Assessing Officer of the searched person and the Assessing Officer of the assessee, the subject assessment year fell beyond the stipulated six assessment years and four relevant assessment years because the date of satisfaction note recorded by the Assessing Officer fell in the assessment year 2022-23 and the 10 preceding assessment years immediately preceding the assessment year of the search, were up to 2012-13. Hence, the notice issued under section 153C for initiation of proceedings against the assessee for the assessment year 2010-11 and consequent assessment order passed under section 143(3) read with section 153C were barred by limitation, void ab initio and liable to be quashed. That the law did not make any distinction in case the Assessing Officer of the searched person and the Assessing Officer of the other person were one and the same. The proviso to section 153C(1) was very clear that in the case of such other person, the reference to the date of initiation of search under section 132 in the second proviso to section 153A(1) shall be construed as referring to the date of receipt of the books of account, documents, etc., by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person. Since, the Assessing Officer of the searched person could not hand over the books of account and other documents to the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over the other person unless he recorded the satisfaction for proceeding under section 153C, the subject assessment year of the date of receipt of books of account and other documents by the Assessing Officer having jurisdiction over such other person fell beyond the stipulated six assessment years and relevant four assessment years and, thus, the notice issued by the Assessing Officer under section 153C and consequent assessment order passed under section 143(3) read with section 153C were barred by limitation and liable to be quashed. Held that in spite of that, the Assessing Officer had proceeded with the assessment proceedings in the case of the assessee and finalised the assessment under section 153C by order dated December 26, 2018. The order in the case of the assessee is not sustainable in the eyes of law since the company was not in existence at that material point of time at all. The assessment proceedings were not maintainable as the assessment order suffered from jurisdictional error. The order having admittedly being issued in the name of a non-existent company the entire proceedings were vitiated and the entire assessment proceedings initiated against the assessee were quashed. S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Time limit for initiation of proceedings-Legal grounds-Notice was issued on 11-1-2016-Six years for which proceeding under section 153C could have been initiated were assessment years 2015-16 to 2010-11-Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to initiate proceeding under section 153C for assessment year 2008-09-Lack of jurisdiction-Assessment order is quashed. [S. 132, 254(1), ITAT, Rule,27] 2274

A search was carried out in Sural Ltd. group premises on 18-12-2013. Certain incriminating documents belonging to assessee were found during course of search proceeding. Assessing Officer initiated proceeding under section 153C against assessee for assessment year 2008-09 by issuing notice under section 153C on 11-1-2016. CIT(A) deleted the addition on merits. The asssesse raised jurisdiction issue under Rule 27 of the ITAT Rules. Tribunal admitted the legal ground and held that for proceedings under section 153C, year of search was to be substituted by year of receipt of books/documents by Assessing Officer of other person and thereafter period of six years had to be counted backwards from that year. Since notice under section 153C was issued on 11-1-2016, it prima facie transpired that six years for which proceeding under section 153C could have been initiated were assessment years 2015-16 to 2010-11 only. Therefore, Assessing Officer had no jurisdiction to initiate proceeding under section 153C for assessment year 2008-09. Accordingly, the assessment order is quashed. (AY. 2008-09)

2275 S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Unabated assessment-No incriminating material found during search-Addition based on loose sheets is unsustainable. [S. 132, 132(4), 153A]
Held that the loose sheets recovered in a search action carried out under section 132 of the Act in the case of Kasera group, and relied upon by the Revenue, were brought by the search party with them. No incriminating material whatsoever was found during the course of search action in the case of the assessee. The alleged incriminating material found in the case of a past search action in the case of third party, i. e., Kasera group was not acted upon and no proceedings under section 153C were initiated or contemplated. Thus, the Assessing Officer could not make such dead material the basis in the subsequent assessment proceedings carried out in the case of the assessee under section 153A to make additions, when the limitation to proceed under section 153C on the basis of the loose sheets or incriminating material had already expired in terms of the provisions of section 153B. Therefore, according to the provisions of section 132 read with the provisions of section 153B, the search party had exceeded its jurisdiction in recording statement of the assessee under section 132(4), and by bringing the documents from its record and thereby confronting the assessee in respect of the document during the recording of the statement would not infuse life in such dead documents. That neither any assessment proceedings under section 153C of the Act were initiated nor pending on the date of search. No other assessment proceedings were initiated, or pending on the date of search. Therefore, no assessment stood abated on the date of the search. Since, no assessment stood abated, the assessment year under consideration would fall within the scope of unabated assessment year. Therefore, the Assessing Officer was not justified to make the additions in the absence of any incriminating material found during the course of the search. (AY. 2018-19, 2019-20)

2276 S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-No incriminating material is found-Addition is not valid [S. 132, 153A]
The Hon'ble Tribunal held that the additions under Section 153A cannot be made in an unabated assessment year without incriminating material found during the search of the assessee. Further that the documents used for making additions were seized from third parties and not from the premises of the assessee. Moreover, the proper legal recourse for using documents seized from third parties was to proceed under Section 153C. The Hon'ble Tribunal relied on the Supreme Court's decision in PCIT v. Abhisar Buildwell Pvt. Ltd. (2023) 454 ITR 212 / 149 taxmann.com 399(SC) to ratify that no addition could have been made in an unabated assessment year without incriminating material found during the search. (AY. 2012-13)

S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Satisfaction note-Date of satisfaction note is to be reckoned as date of handing over of materials for purpose of assumption of jurisdiction-Time limit of calculating six years was to be calculated from this date-Assessment year 2008-09 is time barred-No incriminating documents-Addition is deleted. [S. 68, 132] 2277

The ITAT observed that the date of handing over of the materials was not mentioned in the satisfaction note and, therefore, in the absence thereof the date of satisfaction note shall be reckoned as the date of handing over of the materials, and consequently, the time limit of calculating the six years has to be calculated from this date i. e. 02. 02. 2016 in the present. Therefore, in the present case, AY 2008-09 was held to be beyond the period of six AYs i. e. time barred. With respect to addition u/s 68 in the absence of any seized incriminating documents/materials in the assessment completed u/s 153C r. w. s. 153A, the ITAT held that in respect of completed or unabated assessment no addition can be made by the AO in the absence of any incriminating material having been found during the course of search u/s 132 or requisition u/s 132A. Search and Seizure action in case of Sh. Mohit Goel was on 23-12-2016. The Assessing Officer recorded the satisfaction on 24-9-2018. Held that amendment to section 153C by Finance Act, 2017 is applicable only to search and seizure operation conducted after 1-4-2017 and not prior to it. Where search and seizure operation was conducted prior to 1-4-2017, as per existing statutory provisions, date of search had to be reckoned from date of recording of satisfaction for purpose of section 153C. [S. 69A, 132, 153A] 2279

Search and seizure action on Sarthav Infra Pvt. Ltd. was conducted on December 04, 2014. The information was received by the Assessing Officer on March 16, 2018, i. e AY. 2018 19). The notice under section 153C was issued on April 04, 2018. Therefore, six years prior to AY. 2018-19 would be the period between AY. 2012-13 to 2017-18. Accordingly, AY. 2018-19 falls beyond the period of six years and hence, the proceedings are time barred. On appeal the CIT(A) held that the date of information received was 31-3-2018 is to be considered. The AY. 2011-12 is beyond the period of six assessment years but within period of 10 years from the AY. In which the documents pertaining to the appellant have been received. Accordingly, the ground of limitation was dismissed. On appeal, the Tribunal held that the AO had no jurisdiction to initiate proceeding under section 153C of the Act for the AY. 2011-12. Search was conducted before the amendment and also satisfaction note for the assessee being a non-searched party in AY. 2018-19, search was conducted before the Finance Act, 2017. [S. 69A, 143(3)]

Assessing Officer passed assessment order under section 153C read with section 143(3) on assessee and made addition to his income treating certain amount as unexplained money under section 69A. Addition was affirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal the assessee raised additional ground that the Assessment order neither contained any Document Identification Number nor any reason for non-mentioning. Thereof, assessment order is bad in law. Tribunal held that since assessment order neither contained any Document Identification Number (DIN) nor any reason for non-mentioning thereof and subsequent communication issued by Assessing Officer generating DIN for assessment order could not make good deficiency in assessment order issued without generating DIN, assessment order in question was in violation of Circular No. 19/2019, dated 14-8-2019 quashed. S. 153C: Assessment-Income of any other person-Search-Not mention of Document Identification No (DIN) in the assessment order-Subsequent separate communication of DIN is a superfluous exercise-Order invalid hence, quashed-Circular No. 19 of 2019, dt. 14th Aug., 2019. [S. 119, 292B] 2282

In an appeal the assessee has raised additional ground as regards the passing of order without making reference to DIN in the assessment Order. Tribunal admitted the additional ground and held that Circular No. 19 of 2019, dt. 14th Aug., 2019 makes it clear that the object behind bringing the circular is for creating an audit trail. In para 2, it has been very clearly mentioned that no communication is to be issued by any income tax authorities relating to assessment, appeals, orders, statutory or otherwise, exemptions, enquiry, investigation, verification of information, penalty, prosecution, rectification, approval, etc. to the assessee or any other person, on or after the 1st day of October, 2019, unless a computer generated DIN has been allotted and is duly quoted in the body of such communication. Paragraph 3 of the circular carves out certain exceptions to para 2 by providing that under certain exceptional circumstances, the communication may be issued manually but only after recording reasons in writing not only in the file and with prior written approval of the Chief CIT/Director General of IT, but the communication issued manually in such circumstances must also state the reasons as to why the communication is issued manually without a DIN and must also mention the date and number of written approval of the Chief CIT/Director General of IT for issuing manual communication. In fact, in para 3 of the aforesaid circular, the format for recording such reasons has been specified. Para 4 of the circular makes it clear that any communication issued which is not in conformity with para 2 and para 3 shall be treated as invalid and shall be deemed to have never been issued. It is fairly well settled that a circular issued under s. 119 has statutory force and binding on subordinate authorities working under the CBDT. Accordingly, the order passed without mentioning of DIN in the order is bad in law. Subsequent separate communication of DIN is a superfluous exercise. (AY. 2012-13 to 2014-15)

During search and seizure operation conducted upon assessee, Assessing Officer passed an order under section 127 leading to centralization of case of assessee followed by issuance of notice under section 153A. Pursuant to same, Assessing Officer passed a scrutiny assessment order under section 153A read with section 143(3) making certain additions. On appeal the Tribunal held that since order of approval under section 153D for relevant assessment year was granted by Addl. Commissioner for 43 cases on a single day without perusing draft assessment orders at all and without an independent application of mind, assessment order was rightly declared to be illegal by Tribunal. Affirming the order of the Tribunal the Court held that grant of approval under section 153D cannot be merely a ritualistic formality or rubber stamping by authority, rather it must reflect an appropriate application of mind. 2292 S. 153D: Assessment-Search-Approval-Approval of Joint commissioner –Mechanical approval-Final assessment on same day-Assessment order is annulled. [S. 132]

Held that the legislative intent of section 153D, inserted by the Finance Act, 2007 with effect from June 1, 2007, was that the order of assessment or reassessment of search cases should be passed only with the prior approval of the superior authority. However, the Joint Commissioner had granted approval in a hasty manner, without even going through the records. The entire exercise of seeking and granting of approval was completed in a single day, making it apparent that the Joint Commissioner did not have adequate time to apply his mind to the seized material, which formed the basis for the draft assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer. The Department could not demonstrate, by cogent evidence, that the Joint Commissioner had adequate time with him so as to grant approval after duly examining the material prior to approving the assessment order. The Central Board of Direct Taxes Circular No. 3 of 2008, dated March 12, 2008 (2008) 299 ITR 8 (St), made it evident that the Legislature made it compulsory that the assessments of search cases should be made with the prior approval of the superior authority. [S. 132, 153A]

On 2.5.2013, a search was conducted at the premises of different members/associates of Mantri-Soni Group of Jalna /Bhilwara and the assessee was one of the entities covered under search. The AO issued notice u/s. 153A of the Act to the assessee on 13.02.2014 and in response thereto the assessee filed its letter on 20.03.2014 requesting to treat return filed earlier on 28. 09. 2019 declaring income of Rs. 38,94,890/- be treated as return filed u/s 153A. The assessment was completed on 30.03.2016 by making addition in respect of share capital/premium, unsecured loans as accommodation entries. The CIT (A) confirmed the order passed by the AO. On further appeal, the assessee challenged the validity of the assessments arguing that approval granted by the Joint Commissioner u/s 153D of the Act was technical, procedural and without application of mind. The approval was granted without mentioning any reason or justification for making additions. It was pointed out that the AO had sent orders for various entities for approval on 18.03.2019. The following days- 19.03.2019, 20.03.2019- were Saturday, Sunday and the approval was granted on 21.03.2019 within which it was not possible to look into all facts and details of search proceedings. The DR argued that process of assessment was under continuous supervision and guidance of Joint Commissioner of Income-tax, he had applied his mind to seized material and appraisal report during assessment proceedings. Therefore, the allegation of the assessee that the approval was granted in four days without application of mind is baseless while approving draft order under section 153D and the perception and observation of authorised representative become infructuous.

After considering rival submissions and case laws referred, the Tribunal held that section 153D is a mandatory requirement and such approval is not meant to be given mechanically. Such approval granted mechanically without application of mind by the Additional Commissioner of Income-tax results in vitiating the assessment orders. Taking into account the sequence of events, the Tribunal held that the approving authority granted approval in one day mechanically without examining the relevant material. The Tribunal noted that admittedly, the Assessing Officer sought approval under section 153D of the Act in 49 assessment orders vide letter dated 18.03.2016 which was placed on record by the learned Departmental Representative on 9.10.2023. The approving authority had to examine number of evidence, documents, statements of various persons, etc., recorded which were necessarily to be taken into consideration while granting approval under section 153D of the Act by the Joint Commissioner of Income-tax. On an examination of the approval dated 21.03.2016 which was on record placed by the learned DR, the Tribunal did not find such indication of examination of evidence, documents, statements of various persons, etc., at least, no reference whatsoever made by the Joint Commissioner of Income-tax, i. e., approving authority. Hence, Tribunal held that the approval granted mechanically vitiates the assessments and accordingly, quashed the assessment orders. (AY. 2009-10 to 2014-15)

Assessee filed a writ petition challenging imposition of an excess surcharge and demand for Assessment Year 2022-23. High Court held that since assessee had a statutory alternative remedy, there was no justification to entertain the writ petition. On SLP the Court held that for Assessment Year 2021-22, a similar surcharge issue was addressed, and High Court allowed writ petition with Revenue agreeing to remit amount. Similarly, in current Assessment Year 2022-23 excess surcharge was also rectified, and amount was remitted. However, during pendency of present proceedings, another demand notice was raised for Assessment Year 2023-24, with a surcharge computed at 37%. Revenue submitted that error occurred as CPC had not adopted a mechanism to delete excess calculations. Court held that technological impediment cannot be a reason for harassing an assessee year after year and therefore, immediate steps must be taken by Revenue to upgrade software or take such other steps as might be necessary to ensure that such mistake did not occur in future. For impugned assessment year dispute had already been resolved and amount was said to have been remitted. However, for assessment Year 2023-24, revenue should take immediate steps and communicate order of withdrawal of excess surcharge amount within six weeks from date of receipt of order and Central Board for Direct Taxes should also take necessary steps for rectifying software as issue might not be resolved by Jurisdictional Assessing Officer. S. 154: Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record-Refund of tax deduction at source-Central Board of Direct Taxes-Instructions-Application was filed after 12 years from assessment year-High Court dismissed as barred by limitation-SLP dismissed as withdrawn with the liberty to make an application before CBDT. [S. 119, Art. 136] 2296

Assessing Officer did not entertain application on ground that it had been filed beyond period of limitation. He also rejected assessee's application seeking condonation of delay stating that as per clause 3 of Circular No. 9/2015, dated 9-6-2015 no condonation application for claim of refund/loss shall be entertained beyond six years from end of assessment year for which such application/claim was made. High Court held that by resorting to clause 3 of Circular No. 9/2015, dated 9-6-2015 assessee could have sought condonation of delay in moving rectification application by another two years, however, since it did not move rectification application either within period of limitation or within period for which delay could be condoned, i. e., up to six years, rectification application filed by assessee after over 12 years was barred by law of limitation. On SLP, assessee submitted that permission may be granted to withdraw this SLP with liberty to make a representation to CBDT under section 119 so as to seek adjustment in view of rectification made by Department with regard to PAN number of assessee. Accordingly, the SLP filed by assessee is dismissed as withdrawn, reserving aforesaid liberty to assessee to approach CBDT. (AY. 2008-09)

On the basis of the order passed by Authority for Advance Rulings that payment received by assessee from its Indian distributor for sale of software product in India was royalty, assessee filed its returns and paid taxes under protest. Order of AAR had been challenged by assessee before Apex Court and it was expressly overruled. Subsequent to order of Apex Court, assessee filed rectification application and sought for refund of taxes by invoking section 154 but lower authorities rejected assessee's rectification application on premise that section 154 was not applicable to facts of the case. On writ the Court held that as per circular No. 68, dated 17-11-1971, an assessee is entitled to seek rectification pursuant to interpretation of law by Apex Court, taxes paid by assessee under protest deserved to be refunded by rectifying income-tax returns filed by assessee. [S. 14A, 115JB, 156, Art. 226, RTI Act, 2005 S. 19(1)]

The petitioner filed its return of income, returning certain income under section 115JB. The income under the normal provisions of the Act was shown as Nil. The assessee's case was picked up for scrutiny and an assessment order under section 143(3) came to be passed determining the book profits after adding a sum under section 14A. The assessee challenged the assessment order by filing an appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals). On perusal of the portal, it was found that a demand of Rs. 46. 84 lakhs was appearing in the portal as against the assessee. It appeared that the demand arose out of an order passed under section 154. As no communication had been received with regard to the said order, representations were made to the Assessing Officer to provide copy of the rectification order. As no response was received, the assessee even filed an application under the RTI Act, 2005. In response to the application, the assessee was served with a copy of the computation sheet. The assessee, therefore, preferred an appeal under section 19(1) of the RTI Act, 2005 before the First Appellate Authority. The First Appellate Authority directed the Assessing Officer to re-examine the matter and furnish full and appropriate information sought. Notwithstanding this direction by the First Appellate Authority, the assessee received from the Assessing Officer, by a letter, the same documents which were provided earlier. The assessee filed a writ petition challenging the demand raised as per the alleged order passed under section 154. The respondent informed the Court that he has instructions that the demand has been uploaded by the erstwhile Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax on the portal but the Department does not have any file relating to that matter. The respondent states that his instructions are to inform the Court that the Department has no document to show that any notice was issued under section 154 or even an order was passed under section 154. The Revenue stated that if the Court directs, they shall remove the pending demand from the Income Tax Portal pertaining to petitioner. High Court quashed the demand. [S. 194, 205, 237, Form No. 26AS, Art. 226] 2300 Allowing the petition the Court held that no recovery towards tax deducted at source could be made from the assessee in terms of the provisions of section 205 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The Court also held that the assessee should be given credit for the tax deducted at source though it was not reflected in form 26AS. The assessee had followed the regime put in place in the Act for collecting tax albeit, through an agent of the Government. The agent for collecting the tax under the Act who was the deductor had failed to deposit the tax with the Government and the recovery proceedings could only be initiated against the deductor. The order passed under section 154 was accordingly set aside. Since the assessee had lodged a claim with the resolution professional, if it were to receive any amount, it would deposit with the Department the amount not exceeding the tax deducted at source by the deductor undergoing the corporate insolvency resolution process. S. 154: Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record-Refund-Interest-Adjustment of refund-Order giving effect to court order-Quashing of reassessment proceedings-Pendency of rectification application-Directions issued to Assessing Officer. [S. 148, 237, Art. 226] 2301

On writ the assessee contended that the amount adjusted in excess of 20 per cent of the outstanding demand for the assessment year 2015-16 was in violation of Office Memorandums dated February 29, 2016 and July 31, 2017 (2017) 396 ITR 55 (St) issued by the Central Board of Direct Taxes. The court directed the Assessing Officer to pass an appeal effect order within four weeks and refund the amount with interest, if any, for the assessment year 2000-01 and (ii) to decide the rectification application for the assessment year 2015-16 in accordance with law within four weeks and refund the excess amount with interest, if any. On writ petitions by the assessee-company seeking directions to the Revenue to dispose of the rectification applications dated June 30, 2021, and January 29, 2020, and to issue refund of amounts for the assessment years 2017-18 and 2018-19, against the short-grant of credit of tax deducted at source as well as brought forward loss and unabsorbed depreciation. The Court directed the Deputy Commissioner to decide the assessee's rectification applications dated June 30, 2021, and January 29, 2020, by way of a speaking order in accordance with law within eight weeks and release to the assessee consequential refunds with up-to-date interest, if any in further eight weeks' time. The assessee filed its return of income for AY. 2018-19 disclosing income received from Heidrick and Struggles India P. Ltd. under the head 'Income from other sources'. The return was processed u/s. 139(1) of the Act by CPC. The assessee sought its rectification in view of provisions of Article 14 of Indo-USA DTAA. However, CPC rejected the same and CIT(A) confirmed view taken by CPC. However, the Tribunal in view of Circular 14 dated 11. 04. 1955 and also rectification having accepted by CPC in two other group companies viz. Heidrick and Struggles Pvt. Ltd., Singapore and Heidrick and Struggles Pvt. Ltd. UK, allowed the appeal filed by the assessee. The Revenue filed belated appeal before the High Court. After condoning the delay, the High Court dismissed appeal holding that circular 14 was applicable in the case of the assessee and merely because respondent assessee placed the income under wrong head, cannot possibly make it amenable to imposition of tax. Held that the order under S. 154 passed by the CPC without issuing any prior notice granting an opportunity of being heard to the assessee is bad in law. The issue of allowability of PF/ESI contributions already stood decided in favour of the assessee by a decision of the jurisdictional High Court as on the date of passing of rectification order. [S. 80P(2), 143(1), 154(7)] 2306

Held that in the absence of anything to prove that the intimation under S. 143(1) was served on the assessee, there is no question of calculating the period of limitation of four years for rectification thereof under s. 154 from the date of passing of intimation and, therefore, the application seeking rectification of said intimation could not be rejected as time-barred. Tribunal held that unaccounted stock found during survey is related to business and thus assessable as business income; assessee having offered additional income on account of stock difference as business income and the AO having accepted the same, the rectification order passed by the AO under s. 154 applying S. 115BBE to the said income is not sustainable. S. 154: Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record-Interest on refund-Assessing Officer is directed to allow interest under Section 244A up to respective dates of credit of refund in account. [S. 244A] 2308

Held that the Commissioner (Appeals) had fallen in error in making observation that the assessee had sought rectification of the determination of interest under section 244A of the Act while in fact the question was the period for which the interest should have been paid. There was no question of making a conclusion after a long process so as to be outside the purview of section 154 of the Act. It was merely a matter of rectification of a clerical nature arising out of a mistake in calculation of the period for which interest was payable to the assessee. Admittedly, the refund had been credited on February 25, 2021 while the refund was determined on February 20, 2009. The assessee is entitled to interest up to February 25, 2021, which should have been rectified by the Assessing Officer. Consequently, the Assessing Officer is directed to allow the interest under section 244A of the Act up to the respective dates of credit of refund in the account of the assessee. 2311 S. 154: Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record-Intimation-Appeal against intimation withdrawn on ground return selected for scrutiny-Regular assessment on scrutiny made without taking into account disallowances proposed in intimation-Rectification order in respect of delayed deposit of employee contributions to the provident fund and employees Stat Insurance-Change of law-No merger of orders passed under intimation and regular assessment-Rectification is proper. [S. 143(1), 143(3)] Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that while exercising power under section 154 read with section 143(3) of the Act, the Assessing Officer had not gone back to reconsider the issues examined under section 143(3) and make an addition thereupon. It was not a case where rectification power was exercised consequent to any change of law or applying a different proposition of law than one considered while framing the assessment under section 143(3) of the Act. The rectification order made it apparent that the income determined in intimation under section 143(1) was taken as the income for making further additions under the section 143(3) assessment. That was a mistake apparent from record as the intimation under section 143(1) stood final after withdrawal of the appeal by the assessee. Accordingly, the difference between the returned income of Rs. 18,10,42,260 and the assessed income under section 143(1) of Rs. 30,93,07,020, was erroneously ignored while passing order under section 143(3). Therefore, the Assessing Officer had committed no error in exercising the rectification powers under section 154. Where the additions made under the intimation under section 143(1) and those made under section 143(3) were on different issues and heads, the intimation under section 143(1) of the Act stood final after withdrawal of the appeal by the assessee, and there was no merger of the two orders. The addition was made in intimation under section 143(1) of the Act with regard to disallowances on account of delayed contribution to the provident fund and employees' State insurance and the house property income. In the scrutiny assessment these issues were not under examination so as to say that while exercising rectification powers the Assessing Officer had made rectification due to any change in opinion of law or fact. Thus, the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) was sustained. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 154: Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record-Source of investment-Accepted in original assessment proceedings-Change of opinion is not possible. 2312
Held that the finding of the Assessing Officer in the assessment order was concluded after considering all the documentary evidence and personal appearances on behalf of the assessee and he did not draw any adverse inference against the assessee. Section 154 of the Act mandates rectification of mistake apparent from record. The source of the investment which was accepted by the Assessing Officer in his original assessment order could not be revised under section 154 of the Act as it could not be said to be a mistake apparent from the record. The Assessing Officer wanted to change his view in the garb of rectification of mistake under section 154 of the Act, which was not permissible under the law. The order passed by the Assessing Officer under section 154 of the Act is invalid and quashed. (AY. 2010-11)

S. 154: Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record-Unexplained investments-Survey-Payment made to vendor under Registered sale-cum-General power of Attorney agreements-Amounts received as advances from 30 Persons-Only part of sum confirmed-Agreeing to addition of balance as unexplained investment-Vendor unilaterally cancelled all General Power of attorney-cum-sale agreements by registered cancellation deeds and took back possession of property on ground that he had not received any consideration from assessee-Registered cancellation of sale deed is not valid without decree of Civil Court Rejection of rectification application is valid. [S. 69,133A, Specific Relief Act, 1963, S. 31, 32, 33, Registration Act, 1908] 2313
Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that sections 31, 32 and 33 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 clearly mentioned that any instrument which has been registered under the Indian Registration Act, 1908 has to be cancelled by the civil court by way of decree only and then only the Registrar can implement the cancellation of the earlier instrument so registered with them. In the present case, there was no decree obtained from the civil court by the landowner with regard to cancellation of the earlier agreement and therefore, the registered cancellation of the sale deed was not valid in the eyes of law. Further, there was no cogent material to suggest that without passing the consideration, the landowner registered an agreement of sale-cum-general power of attorney in favour of the assessee. But, the recitals were very clear that the vendor had received the sale consideration and executed the document. Therefore, simply cancelling the registered agreement of sale-cum-general power of attorney by way of a registered deed of cancellation was not enough to come to a conclusion that the assessee had not paid the consideration to the landowner. Moreover, the assessee, for whatsoever the reason, himself admitted before the Assessing Officer for making an addition of Rs. 35,96,210, and therefore the assessee was precluded from saying that he had not paid any amount to the landowner and hence there was not any unexplained investment made by the assessee. Moreover, the Assessing Officer had considered the creditworthiness of the 30 investors and the assessee got relief to the extent of Rs. 63,03,790. Apart from this, the assessee had also failed to establish the creditworthiness of the 30 investors. In these circumstances, there was no infirmity in the orders of the Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals), dismissed the rectification application. (AY. 2004-05)

[S. 40(a)(ia)]

The AO disallowed the expenditure for non-deduction of tax at source on certain expenses. On appeal the assessee was granted certain relief. Order of Tribunal was affirmed by the Supreme Court. The assessee filed rectification application under section 154 claiming relief under second proviso to section 40(a)(ia). It had filed all necessary documents to Assessing Officer evidencing facts regarding applicability of second proviso to payments disallowed u/s. 40(a)(ia) of the Act. The AO denied the relief. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the assessee relied on the judgement of the Gujarat High Court in case of Pr. CIT v. Arvind Lifestyle Brands Ltd., R/Tax Appeal No. 539 of 2019, order dated 05-08-2019 had categorically held that second proviso to Section 40(a)(ia) which was introduced on Statute by Finance Act, 2012, with effect from 01-04-2013 was retrospective in operation and was curative in nature. Tribunal held that Revenue had not controverted position of law as laid down by jurisdictional High Court. Accordingly, the application filed by assessee u/s. 154 seeking benefit of second proviso to section 40(a)(ia) is entertained and allowed since assessee had pointed out a mistake apparent from record. S. 154: Rectification of mistake-Mistake apparent from the record-Property held for charitable purposes-Educational institution-Net income or gross receipts-Exemption denied-Corpus donation-Final accounts reflected a loss-Matter is remanded to Assessing Officer for taking on record audited final accounts on basis of which assessee had returned income and then pass an order under section 154-Provision under section 10(23C)(iiia) did not speak of gross receipt but annual receipt which would not include voluntary contribution toward corpus, assessee is entitled for exemption of its income, including capital receipt, under section 10(23C)(iiiad). [S. 10(23C (iiia) 11(1)(d), 12A, 12AA, 143(1)(a)] 2315

Assessee is an educational institution and has filed its return of income claiming exemption on entirety of its gross receipt under section 11. Claim was denied under section 143(1)(a). Assessee moved an application under section 154 stating that it's income for relevant year was only Rs. 11. 19 lakhs, balance being corpus donation is eligible for exemption under section 11(1)(d). Assessing Officer rejected application filed by assessee on ground that assessee is not registered under section 12AA. Meanwhile, assessee applied for registration under section 12AA which was granted on 20-8-2016 with effect from assessment year 2015-16. On appeal the CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. The Tribunal held that the assessee being admittedly not registered under section 12AA for relevant year, it's claim under section 11 could not be admitted, and was to be rejected at threshold, i. e., be it under section 11(1)(a), (b) or (d). Since, assessee's final accounts reflected a loss on operations, which were mistakenly returned as income, matter was to be remanded to Assessing Officer for taking on record audited final accounts on basis of which assessee had returned income and then passing an order under section 154. Assessee moved an application under section 154 stating that it's income for relevant year was only Rs. 11.19 lakhs, balance being corpus donation was eligible for exemption under section 10(23C) (iiiad). Assessing Officer denied same for reason that assessee's admitted gross receipt was in excess of Rs. 100 lakhs. Since provision under section 10(23C) (iiia) did not speak of gross receipt but annual receipt which would not include voluntary contribution toward corpus, assessee was entitled for exemption of its income, including capital receipt, under section 10(23C) (iiiad). [S. 10(15), 143(1), 250] 2316

Assessee claimed that interest income earned by it from Government companies, which was exempt under section 10(15) was inadvertently stated as dividend income in its return of income instead of interest income received from investments made in several Government Companies which was exempt from tax. The Assessing Officer rejected application under section 154 of the Act. On appeal the Commissioner (Appeals) dismissed the rectification. On appeal, Tribunal is directed to carry out necessary verifications and if claim of assessee was found to be correct, relief was to be allowed to assessee in accordance with law. *Zen Tobacco (P.) [S. 12A, 12AA]
Assessee is a charitable trust registered under section 12A since 30-12-1993. Assessing Officer rejected claim of assessee under section 12A/12AA for reason that assessee inadvertently omitted to show in the return that section 12A registration had been obtained by it. Assessee filed rectification application under section 154 which Assessing Officer rejected stating that benefit of exemption under section 12A/12AA could not be allowed as there was no claim for same in return of income which could have been rectified by filing revised return which was not done. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee did not seek registration or any fresh claim of benefit of exemption under section 12A/12AA in its rectification application under section 154, instead it made a mere request to rectify inadvertent mistake which had crept in ITR filed by it online. Assessing Officer was not right in denying benefit of registration under section 12A. (AY. 2013-14)

Assessee's appeal was dismissed due to an ongoing moratorium on account of initiation of insolvency resolution proceedings by the CIT(A). On appeal the asessee contended that no demand/proceedings pertaining to pre-CIRP periods survived after passage of order of NCLT and that section 156A authorizes Assessing Officer to modify demand order in conformity with order of adjudicating authority. Section 156A provides that where any tax, interest, penalty, fine or any other sum in respect of which a notice of demand has been issued under section 156, is reduced as a result of an order of an Adjudicating Authority as defined in IBC, Assessing Officer shall modify demand payable in conformity with such order and shall thereafter serve on assessee a notice of demand specifying sum payable, if any, and such notice of demand shall be deemed to be a notice under section 156 and provisions of Act shall apply accordingly. S. 158BC: Block assessment-Search-Undisclosed income-Disclosure was made in the return filed after search action-Income from HUF-Return was not filed-Addition is justified-No substantial question of law. [S. 132, 158BB, 260A] 2320

Court held that the investment made on behalf of the sons in the company was not disclosed in the returns of the assessee. Only on the return filed pursuant to the search, the disclosure was made regarding the floating of the company with the assessee, his wife and mother as partners. This led to the discovery of the investment made in the name of his sons, hence, the assessee having accepted this in the reply submitted to the AO pursuant to the notice issued under S. 132, it is relatable to the search and the addition is proper. As regards the investment of Rs. 50,000 in the name of HUF was deleted by the first appellate authority. The education expenses also stood confirmed by the assessee. The Tribunal found that the information regarding assessee's son pursuing his education was discovered as a result of search. It is pursuant to that a requisition was made from the school and the entire expenses were detected for the four assessment years; of which two stood explained. The assessee was not able to substantiate the source of income as put forth detected in the two years; allegedly by way of income from HUF, the returns of which were not filed in the relevant assessment year and a gift, which was just a bland statement without any substantiation. The additions made were as a result of the material recovered and the admissions made pursuant to the search directly relatable to the search. On the above finding no question of law arises from the impugned order of the Tribunal and the finding on facts of the AO, affirmed by the first appellate authority and the Tribunal are unassailable in the present appeal. S. 158BB speaks of computation of undisclosed income of block period "in accordance with the provisions of the act on the basis of evidence found as a result of search or requisition of books of accounts or other documents and such materials or information as are available with the AO and related to such evidences". 2321 S. 158BC: Block assessment-Search and seizure-Undisclosed income-Protective assessment-Altering protective assessment of assessee without any change or development in findings recorded in second block assessment order of other company-Second block assessment order in case of assessee vitiated-Assessee proved nature and source of credit entries in bank accounts of two companies sourced from another company and its subsidiaries-Tribunal order setting aside second block assessment order of assessee justified. [S. 132, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the Tribunal had taken note of the fact that the court had set aside the block assessment in the case of Shaw Wallace and Company Ltd. and directed fresh assessment to be made. Therefore, the Tribunal thought it fit to set aside the assessment in the case of the assessee and remand the matter to the Assessing Officer for fresh assessment with a direction to take into consideration further developments in the block assessment of Shaw Wallace and Company Ltd. The remand was for a very limited purpose and therefore, the Assessing Officer in the reassessment proceedings could not have altered the protective assessment of the assessee as there was no change or development in the findings recorded in the second block assessment order of Shaw Wallace and Company Ltd. Therefore, the Tribunal was right in holding that the second reassessment order was vitiated as it exceeded the specific direction given by the Tribunal. The Tribunal had rightly came to the conclusion that when there was no change in the reassessment order in the case of Shaw Wallace and Company Ltd. taking note of the direction issued by the Tribunal in the order in the year 1999, the Assessing Officer in the second reassessment proceedings could not have disturbed the findings rendered in the original block assessment order in the year 1998 in the assessee's case as it would amount to the second Assessing Officer reviewing his own order, this power was not vested with him. The Tribunal rightly concluded that the protective assessment was not warranted in the hands of the assessee because the assessee had been able to discharge the onus for showing the nature and source of credit entries in the bank account of Kalao Engineering Ltd. and Pragati Engineering Ltd. as well as in the bank accounts of N. C. Jain and P. L. Mittal which in turn were sourced from Shaw Wallace and Company Ltd. and its subsidiaries and it was evident that the source of money for Shaw Wallace and Company Ltd. and subsidiaries was in turn from ICDs which prompted the Assessing Officer to disallow the interest expenditure in the hands of Shaw Wallace and Company Ltd. Therefore, the addition made in respect of credit entries in the bank accounts of the two entities were unjustified and rightly directed to be deleted. Thus, the Tribunal after verifying and examining the factual position had granted relief to the assessee and was justified in setting aside the second assessment order. (BP. 1-4-1986 to 27-8-19986)

S. 158BD : Block assessment -Undisclosed income of any other person-Block period 1-4-1996 to 7-5-2002-Assessing Officer of searched person had not recorded the satisfaction for initiation of proceedings-Order is without jurisdiction and unauthorised-No substantial question of law. [S. 132, 144, 153C, 260A] 2323

A search in premises of 'UIC' Group was conducted in which certain documents relating to assessee were found and Assessing Officer of assessee passed an assessment order under section 158BD read with section 144 of the Act. Tribunal quashed the order on the ground that since Assessing Officer of searched person had not recorded any satisfaction note for initiating proceedings under section 158BD against assessee and also had not handed over to Assessing Officer of assessee seized documents, etc., to enable him to proceed under section 158BC hence, the order passed by Assessing Officer is without jurisdiction and unauthorized. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. No substantial question of law.

PCIT v. Milia Tracon (P.) Ltd. (2024) 300 Taxman 273 (Cal.)(HC)

S. 158BD : Block assessment-Undisclosed income of any other person-Satisfaction note is sine qua non and must be prepared by Assessing Officer who has jurisdiction over such other person- Assessment order is illegal-Additions confirmed by the Tribunal is deleted. [S. 131, 153C, 260A] 2324

Assessee was director in two companies namely, Zenith Finvest and ARC Finance. He was partner in S. K. Investment, which was a partnership firm. Search in office premises of aforesaid three entities was conducted and certain documents including computerized cash book, journal, bank book, ledger and trial balance etc. relating to aforesaid entities, assessee and his family members were seized. Simultaneously, a search was conducted at the premises of J. M. (father of the assessee), during which cash amounting to Rs. 12. 57 lakhs was found in a safe in the possession of the assessee's father and was seized. Assessing Officer made an addition of said cash in hands of assessee under provisions of section 158BD which was confirmed by Tribunal. Statements of assessee and his father were recorded under section 131 wherein assessee claimed that cash seized from safe of his father belonged to his aforesaid three entities. Further, entire facts and evidences in form of seizure of books of account including cash book, statement of assessee and J. M. under section 131, statement of parties who made payment to entities of assessee recorded under section 131 and letters of J. M. and assessee evidencing sufficient explanation regarding cash seized to be belonging to aforesaid entities and reflected in their cash book were well available on record. Court held that in ignorance of evidences on record, addition made by Assessing Officer/Tribunal in hands of assessee was unsustainable. Even otherwise, since Assessing Officer had not prepared a satisfaction note either before or along with or even after assessment proceedings, as mandatorily required under section 158BD, entire proceedings initiated by Assessing Officer to pass an assessment order under section 158BC was illegal and liable to be set aside. 2326 S. 161 : Liability of representative assessee-A determinate Trust with sole beneficiary is liable to be taxed at same rate as applicable to its beneficiary. [S. 115BAA, Form No-10IC]

The assessee is a discretionary trust, which held investments mainly for its beneficiary, i. e., Reliance Industrial Investments and Holdings Limited (R). Since Reliance Industrial Investments and Holdings Limited being a limited company opted to be taxed under the new tax regime under section 115BAA by filing Form 10-IC, claiming to be taxed at the rate of 22 per cent plus applicable surcharge and CESS. The assessee being a representative assessee, claimed to be taxed at same rate applicable to its beneficiary. The claim was dismissed as the assessee was not treated as a representative assessee. On appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) accepted the status of the assessee as a representative assessee and held that since the assessee was a determinate trust with 'R' as its sole and 100 per cent beneficiary and settler and as 'R' had opted to be taxed under the new tax regime at the rate of 22 per cent being a representative assessee under section 161, the assessee was also liable to be taxed at the same rate, i. e., at the rate of 22 per cent plus applicable surcharge and cess. [S. 2(37), 12A, 164(1), 164(2)]

Tribunal held that the assessee being a religious Trust maintaining a temple, its beneficiaries are the general public and, therefore, it is liable to tax at the rates applicable to AOP/individual in view of the specific provision of s. 164(2) and not at maximum marginal rate. The Revenue Department website also advises that the tax rate of the trust is as applicable to the individual. The assessee has been granted registration certificate under S. 12A, benefit of deduction of the expenditure claimed by the assessee as per object of the trust is allowable. (AY. 2013-14 to 2017-18)

S. 164: Representative assessees-Charge of tax –Private discretionary trust-Shares of beneficiaries were indeterminate or unknown-Trust under will –Assessable as total income of an Association of persons-Deeming fiction cannot extend to an extent denial of deduction-Chapter VI-A-Deduction under section 80C and 80TT is available. [S. 2(31), 80C, 8OTT, 160(1)(iv), 164(1)(ii), 167B] 2328

Assessee-trust was declared by one Smt. Pashiben Shambhubhai Prajapati for the benefit of her sons namely Shri Dhulabhai Shambhubhai Prajapati and Shri Ashokbhai Shambhu Prajapati through her will, for benefit of her sons and their families. Assessing Officer applied maximum marginal rate of taxes on income declared by assessee on grounds that, trust was a private discretionary trust where shares of beneficiaries were indeterminate or unknown. Further, deductions under Chapter VI-A were also denied. CIT(A) up held the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since beneficiaries under trust were defined, i. e., two sons of Smt. Pashiben Shambhubhai Prajapati and their families but, specific share of each beneficiary on whose behalf income was received by trustees were indetermined and unknown, as same was not specified in Will, section 164(1) read with clause (ii) to Explanation (1) to section 164 would become relevant and relevant income would be chargeable to tax at maximum marginal rate. However, since trust declared by Smt. Pashiben Shambhubhai Prajapati was only trust declared by her, income of assessee would be chargeable to be taxed under provisions of section 164(1) read with clause (ii) of first proviso to section 164(1), as it were total income of an association of person (AOP). Deeming fiction created under section 164(1) read with clause (ii) of first proviso to section 164(1), that tax would be charged on relevant income, as if it were total income of an association of person (AOP) could not extend to an extent of denial of deduction under sections 80C and 80TTA which is otherwise available to individuals, as all beneficiaries under instant trust were individuals. Held that the maximum marginal rate is to be computed by taking the maximum rate of income-tax and maximum rate of surcharge applicable in the case of an individual. This rate applies to a private discretionary trust as well. The levy of maximum marginal rate on trust is thus specific anti avoidance rule and therefore should be given a strict interpretation. [S. 2(31)(v)] 2330

Assessee, an Association of Persons (AOP), was a joint venture between TPL and Chint. Assessing Officer applying tax rate of 40 per cent on entire taxable income instead of 30 per cent offered by assessee on reasoning that one of members of AOP; being foreign company, whose income was above taxable limit, was paying tax at rate of 40 per cent. CIT(A) up held the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee had clearly mentioned in its ITR that members' share in AOP's profit was determinate i. e., TPL 99. 99 per cent and Chint 0. 01 per cent, since TPL is domestic company and Chint was a Chinese company, 99. 99 per cent of income of TPL is to be taxed at maximum marginal rate (MMR) of 30 per cent plus surcharge and cess and 0. 01 per cent of income of Chint at MMR of 40 per cent plus surcharge and cess. [S. 148, 143(3), Art. 226]

Order of NCCT was issued on 18th April, 2022. By virtue of the order, the scheme of amalgamation between PT (P) Ltd. and CS (P) Ltd. was sanctioned. Appointed date was specified as 1st April, 2020. Therefore, Section 170A enables the transferee or successor to file the modified return within a specified time limit. Option to file the modified return under S. 170A had not been enabled in the portal. Assessee filed return on 14th March, 2022 which was revised on 24th Aug., 2022. In view of the scheme of amalgamation having become effective and thereby operational from 1st April, 2020, the assessee's consolidated return of income, after its amalgamation, should have been the basis for assessment based on the scrutiny. Further, the issuance of an assessment order within about two days from the receipt of the reply to the show-cause, in a matter relating to about 59 additions to income, constitutes a further reason to interfere with the impugned order. It is open to the respondents to issue fresh notices and make a reassessment on the basis of such consolidated return of income. (AY. 2021-22)

S. 176 is applicable only when the company has discontinued the business. [S. 147, 148, 176(5), 176(7), Companies Act Art. 226]

The petitioner/assessee was the Director of the Speed & Safe Freight Systems India Private Limited and the said Company was struck-off from the official register of companies with effect from 29-10-2019. He received a notice under section 148 on 31-3-2021 for reopening of assessment for the relevant assessment year 2015-16. On writ petition, the assessee submitted that the assessment order could not be reopened against the company, which was already struck-off. It was only after the revival of the Company, the Authority would get power to reopen the assessment and pass further orders. For this the respondent/revenue would have to file an application for revival under section 252 of the Companies Act, read with rules 11 and 87 of the NCLT Rules, within the period mentioned therein. However, the impugned order was passed by the revenue without application of mind. Hence, the said impugned order was liable to be quashed. Where a company is struck off, the reassessment proceedings against it can only be initiated by its revival. The department cannot initiate the reassessment proceedings against the Directors in case of struck companies. S. 176 is applicable only when the company has discontinued the business. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 178 : Company in liquidation-Stay-Share application money -Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP)-No proceedings could be initiated against assessee-company including income tax proceedings and recovery of demand or giving effect of any order. [S. 68,178(6), Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, S. 31, 238] 2333
The AO made addition under section 68 related to transaction of share capital and share premium received from different entities against the high premium. CIT(A) up held the order of the AO. On appeal the the assessee submitted that assessee-company was undergoing Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP) and a resolution plan was approved by the NCLT. Tribunal held that IBC is a complete Code in itself and in view of provisions of section 238 of IBC, its provisions would prevail notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for time being in force including Income-tax Act which has been specifically provided under section 178(6) of the Income-tax Act as amended with effect from 1-11- 2016. Once resolution plan is approved by Adjudicating Authority, dues including statutory dues of Government or local authority, if not part of resolution plan, stand extinguished and no proceedings in respect thereof for a period prior to date of approval under section 31 can be initiated against corporate debtor, that is, assessee company including income tax proceedings. Therefore, where assessee-company was under Corporate Insolvency Resolution Process (CIRP), no proceedings could be initiated against assessee-company including income tax proceedings and recovery of demand or giving effect of any order; appeal filed by assessee against addition made by Assessing Officer under section 68 in respect of share application money was dismissed as infructuous. [S. 4, 5, 15, 192A up to 194LBB, Art. 136]
On appeals by the Department against the decision of the Single Judge allowing writ petitions filed by nuns, sisters, priests and fathers, who rendered service as teachers in schools receiving grants-in-aid from the State to the extent of their full salary, against instructions of the Income-tax Department to the concerned authorities of the State Government to deduct Income-tax at source on the payment of salaries made to these teachers, nuns, etc., along with other teachers employed in such schools, the Department appealed to a Division Bench. The Division Bench (UOI v. The Society of Mary Immaculate (Tamil Nadu) (2019) 412 ITR 545 (Mad)(HC), 2019 SCC OnLine Mad 39034) held that the salary in question was not directly received by the congregation or religion by overriding diversion of title, but was paid by the State to the teachers who were nuns or missionaries, that the circulars issued on January 24, 1944 and in 1977 had been overridden and clarified by the subsequent circulars of February 26, 2016 and April 7, 2016, in which the Board clearly stated that these old circulars would not cover the case of salary and pension payable to such nuns or missionaries working as teachers, and that therefore tax had to be deducted at source on the salaries. The court held that neither the Income-tax Department nor the State Government had anything to do with the religious character of the institution, and therefore, could not take a stand for not making the tax deduction at source in view of the canon law. The petitions for special leave to filed by the assesses before the Supreme Court were dismissed.

Allowing the petition the Court held that sub-clause (ix) of sub- section (3) of section 194A, stipulates such exemption from deduction of tax, from the interest income, when the aggregate amount of such income credited or paid during the financial year exceeds Rs. 50,000. Section 194A(3)(ix) has been substituted with effect from June 1, 2015 providing for exemption in respect of "income credited by way of interest on the compensation amount awarded by the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal". On the provision coming into force from June 1, 2015, no tax can be deducted even on the interest component. Court also observed that the Tribunals have to follow proper procedure for refund, if the claimant does not have income in excess of the taxable limit under the Income-tax Act.

Held that reimbursement which do not constitute income do not trigger TDS obligation. Accordingly, no liability on reimbursement of interest paid through group companies which does not constite income, is not liable to deduct tax at source. Therefore, proceedings initiated under sections 201(1) and 201(IA)) are quashed. (AY. 2016-17, 2017-18, 2018-19, 2019-20, 2020-21) (ITA Nos 5305, 5225, 5354, 5356 & 5357 / Mum/2024 dt 27-11 2024)
KD lite Developers Pvt Ltd v. DCIT, TDS (2024) Chamber's Journal- December-104 (Mum) (Trib)

S. 194A : Deduction at source-Interest other than interest on securities-Excess interest retained by nonbanking financial companies-loans purchased by bank-Upfront payment and allowing the originating NBFCs to retain part interest on such loan paid by the borrowers-No obligation to deduct tax at source-NBFCs have already offered to tax in their returns of income the interest earned on loans sold to the assessee-Levy of tax under section 201 (1) and levy of interest u/s 201(IA) for failure to deduct u/s 194A, 194H or 194J is not applicable. [S. 2(28A 194A, 194H, 194J 201(1), 201(IA)] 2339 Tribunal held that the assessee had only purchased a part of the loan by making the upfront payment and allowing the originating NBFCs to retain part interest on such loan paid by the borrowers. There is no material available on record to show that the assessee borrowed any funds or incurred any debt from the NBFC. Therefore, in the absence of any funds borrowed or debt incurred by the assessee from the NBFC, the part interest allowed to be retained back by the originating NBFC cannot be said to be interest within the meaning of S. 2(28A). Under S. 194A, the payment must be in the nature of interest in order to make the payer responsible for deducting tax at the time of payment or credit of such income. Therefore, though the payment by the borrower of the loan, in the nature of interest, when the same is allowed to be retained with the originating NBFC by the assessee under the tripartite agreement, the nature of the same is converted into a consideration for the purchase of 90 per cent of the pool of assets. The nature of income in the hands of the recipient and the nature of expenditure of said sum by that person may not always be the same. Therefore, it is not necessary that what is received as interest is also interest when paid, particularly in the absence of any money borrowed or debt incurred. Accordingly, there is no obligation on the assessee to deduct tax at source under S. 194A. Accordingly levy of tax under S 201(1) and levy of interest under S. 201(1A) for non-deduction of TDS under S. 194A is not sustainable. As the assessee has purchased a pool of loans from NBFC by way of direct assignment of part interest allowed to be retained back by the originating NBFC cannot be said to be interest within the meaning of section 2(28A). Therefore, no liability to deduct tax at source under S. 194A. Since the NBFC was not acting as an agent of the assessee in respect of loans advanced to the borrowers, the provisions of S. 194H are also not applicable. (AY. 2012-13 to 2019-20)

[S. 147, 148, 190, 196, 197, 201, 221, 271C, 273B, Art. 226, 289]
Assessee contended that no TDS was deductible on external development charges paid to a statutory authority as there was no privity of contract and the authority was part of the State. The High Court held that s. 194C does not require a formal contract; an arrangement suffices. Payments to statutory authority are not exempt as it is not "Government" for Art. 289 or s. 196 purposes. However, penalty cannot be automatic where taxability remained unclear and reasonable cause existed. Reassessment notices under s. 147/148 based solely on applicability of s. 194C were quashed, though liberty was given to the Department to proceed under s. 201 afresh.

S. 194C: Deduction at source-Contractors-Technical services- Processing of milk attracts deduction of tax at source under section 194C at 2 per cent is rightly deducted-Order of Tribunal is affirmed. [S. 40(a)(ia), 194J, 260A] 2342

The assessee, engaged in the business of selling milk and milk products, made payments to a dairy for conversion of raw milk into processed milk and milk products. It deducted tax at source @2% under section 194C treating payments to be contract payments. However, the assessing officer made disallowance under section 40(a)(ia) holding that the payments were in the nature of payments for technical services and therefore, tax should have been deducted @10% under section 194J. However, the Commissioner of Income-Tax (Appeals) deleted the disallowance made by the Assessing Officer. On appeal by Revenue, the Hon'ble Tribunal upheld the CIT (A) order and held that the CIT(A) has rightly deleted the disallowance made by the Assessing officer. On appeal by the Department, the Hon'ble Gujarat High Court held that the Hon'ble Tribunal relied on the decision of the co- ordinate Bench in the assessee's own case wherein, relying on CBDT Circular No. 13/2006 dated 13 December 2006(2006) 287 ITR 174 (St) wherein it held that the services provided by the dairies are in the nature of job work which falls within definition of 'work' under section 194C. The services are neither technical nor managerial nor consultancy since the dairies are not assigned any exclusive work relating to quality check and therefore, the main and basic nature of transaction of conversion/processing of milk on job work basis does not lose its true characteristic. Accordingly, the Department's appeal is dismissed.

S. 194C : Deduction at source-Contractors-Work contracts-Payments for testing and commissioning of BTG and to CIPL for installation and commissioning of BOP-Rightly deducted under section 194C and not under section 194J. [S. 194J, 201] 2343

The AO view that payments were made to BHEL for testing and commissioning of BTG and to CIPL for installation and commissioning of BOP and since said services were technical, the tax was to be deducted u/s. 194J. He passed the order u/s. 201 and held assessee to be in default for short deduction of TDS and consequently, raised demand. CIT(A) up held the order. Tribunal deleted the addition. On appeal the High Court Held that, element of testing and commissioning of technical works etc. were part of main contract-to set up a thermal power plant including therein work of transportation, insurance, erection, installation, testing and commissioning of BTG and also commissioning of BOP, in absence of any internal tool arising therefrom and in absence of any legal provision allowing AO to break down composite nature and character of the contract. The Contracts executed with BHEL and CIPL were indivisible contracts for BTG and BOP, respectively. The dominant object of the contract could not be overlooked, and thus, TDS was required to be made u/s. 194C and not under section 194J. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14, 2015-16)

2344 S. 194C : Deduction at source-Contractors-Freight charges to transporters on behalf of third party under tripartite agreement- Provision is not attracted. [S. 201(1), 201(IA)]
CIT (A) up held the order of the Assessing Officer for failure to deduct tax at source on payment made to Truck owners. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee raised separate invoices on behalf of truck operator union and received the freight payment agreed between PIH (P) Ltd. and truck operator union and passed on this payment to the truck operator union as per the tripartite agreement to this limited extent of raising the invoices and subsequently making the payment, it also acted as an agent for the truck operator union/truck owners. The Tribunal held that the assessee basically acted as an intermediary between PIH (P) Ltd. and truck operator union/truck owners. Accordingly, the responsibility to deduct TDS from the payments made to the truck operator union is that of PIH (P) Ltd. and not that of the assessee. Accordingly, the provisions of s. 194C are not attracted to the disbursal of freight payments made by the assessee to the truck operators union/truck owners. (AY. 2016-17)

Assessee was a manufacturer of computers and peripherals. It supplied its product to distributors. Assessing Officer held that as assessee had paid money to distributors therefore, it amounted to commission liable to TDS. On appeal, Commissioner (Appeals) held that in order to ensure that sale of product was not adversely affected by unfavorable market changes, assessee had suggested distributors to sell products at price less than the actual price mentioned in invoices raised by assessee. Further, such contingencies arose on several occasions due to festival discounts, sudden change in market value, introduction of similar products etc. and distributors sold product at their risk to dealers. S. 194H : Deduction at source-Commission or brokerage-Discount price-Franchisees or distributors at discount price-Assessee Cannot be made to ask for information from franchisee or distributor and deduct tax at source-Not under obligation to deduct tax at source on income or profit component in payments received by franchisees or distributors from third parties or customers, or while selling or transferring prepaid coupons or starter-Kits to distributors-Not liable to deduct tax source-Obligation to deduct tax at source arises only when legal relationship of Principal-Agent is established-Obligation and time and manner in which tax to be deducted at source, fixed by statute which cannot be modified or postponed on concession by Department-Servant-Distributor-Franchisee-Independent Contractor [S. 119, 204, Contract Act, 1872, S. 186] 2347

Held that while the prepaid SIM cards were not the property of the franchisees or distributors and no right, title or interest was transferred to them, this was a mandate and requirement of the license issued to the assessees by the Department of Telecommunications. In actual practice, the right to use the SIM card and its possession was handed over and given to the end-user, who installed the SIM card in his phone to avail of the telecommunications services. Similarly, the franchisees or distributors had to ensure that post-paid customers or end-users filled up the form as prescribed with the documents to be submitted to the assessees. These were mandates prescribed by the license issued by the Department of Telecommunications to the assessees. The contractual obligations of the franchisees or distributors, did not reflect a fiduciary character of the relationship, or the business being done on the principal's account. Held that the profits of the franchisees or distributors consisted of the difference between the sale price received by them from the retailer, end-user or customer and the discounted price at which they had "acquired" the product. Though the discounted price was fixed or negotiated between the assessees and the franchisees or distributors, the sale price received by the franchisees or distributors was within the sole discretion of the franchisees or distributors. The assessees had no say in this matter. The obligation to deduct tax at source was fixed by the statute itself, that is, on the date of actual payment by any mode, or at the time when income was credited to the account of the franchisees or distributors, whichever was earlier. The income of the franchisees or distributors, being the difference between the sale price received by the franchisees or distributors and the discounted price, was paid or credited to the account of the franchisees or distributors when they sold the prepaid product to the retailer, end-user or customer. The sale price and accordingly the income of the franchisees or distributors was determined by the franchisees or distributors and the third parties. Accordingly, the assessee did not, at any stage, either pay to, or credit the account of the franchisees or distributors with, income by way of commission or brokerage on which tax at source under section 194H of the Act was to be deducted. Held that the assessees neither paid nor credited any income to the person with whom they had contracted. The assessees were not privy to the transactions between the franchisees or distributors and third parties. It was, therefore, impossible for the assessees to deduct tax at source and comply with section 194H of the Act, on the difference between the total consideration received by the distributors or franchisees from third parties and the amount paid by the distributors or franchisees to them. The Department's contention that even if the franchisees or distributors received payment in the form of income from the retailer or end-user or customer, and the assessees were not making payment or crediting income to the account of the franchisees or distributors, the assessees would be liable to deduct tax at source as payment received or receivable, directly or indirectly, was to be subjected to deduction of tax, was not tenable. Held, the argument of the Department that the assessees should periodically ask for this information and thereupon deduct tax at source was far-fetched, imposing an unfair obligation and inconveniencing the assessees, beyond the statutory mandate. Further, it would be well-nigh impossible to deduct, as well as make payment of the tax deducted, within the time limits prescribed by law, as these began when the amount was credited in the account of the payee by the payer or when payment was received by the payee, whichever was earlier. The payee received payment when the third party made the payment. This payment was not the payment received or payable by the assessee as the principal. The distributor or franchisee was not the trustee who was to account for this payment to the assessee as the principal. The payment received was the gross income or profit earned by the distributor or franchisee. It was the income earned by the distributor or franchisee as a result of its efforts and work, and not a remuneration paid by the assessee as a cellular mobile telephone service provider. Held that, therefore, the assessees were not under a legal obligation to deduct tax at source on the income or profit component in the payments received by the franchisees or distributors from the third parties or customers, or while selling or transferring the prepaid coupons or starter-kits to the distributors. Section 194H of the Act was not applicable to the facts and circumstances of this case. (AY. 2003-04 to 2008-09)

Assessee, telecom service provider, entered into agreements with distributors/franchisees for sale of their prepaid products. Assessing Officer held that the assessee is liable to deduct tax at source under section 194H on amount which was in nature of commission payable to an agent by assessee under franchise / distributorship agreement. CIT(A) and Tribunal up held the order. On appeal the Court held in assessee's own case in Bharti Cellular Ltd. v. Asstt. CIT [2024] 160 taxmann.com 12/298 Taxman 552/462 ITR 247 (SC), that contractual obligations of distributors/franchisees did not reflect a fiduciary character of relationship, or business being done on principal's account, hence, assessee would not be under a legal obligation to deduct tax at source on income/profit component in payments received by distributors/franchisees from third parties/customers, or while selling/transferring prepaid coupons or starter- kits to distributor. Following the ratio the Court held that the assessee is not liable to deduct tax at source under section 194H of the Act. (AY. 2008- 09, 2009-10)

S. 194H : Deduction at source-Commission or brokerage- Manufacturer of computers and peripherals-Sale of products by distributor at price less than invoice price after products reached distributor and after raising of invoices-Principal to Principal and not that of principal to agent-Assessee is not in default-Order of Tribunal is affirmed. [S. 201(1), 201(IA), 260A] 2349

Held, dismissing the appeals the Court held that the payments from the distributor to the assessee had no link with the further sales made by the distributor. The decision to sell the products at a price less than the invoice price was taken after the products had reached the distributor and after the invoices were raised by the assessee. The distributor was liable for making payment of full invoice value. The Commissioner (Appeals) had recorded that reduction in price by the distributor was to overcome unfavorable market changes and special occasions on which discount was given to the purchasers of computers and peripherals. He had rightly recorded that the distributors were required to place the purchase order under the agreement and the assessee reserved the right to accept or reject any order. The inventory risk after acquiring the product was that of the distributor. The facts recorded by the Commissioner (Appeals) that payment from the distributor to the assessee had no link with the further sale made by the distributor had been confirmed by the Tribunal as the last fact finding authority. The Tribunal was right in confirming the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) cancelling the order passed under section 201(1) and (1A). (AY. 2012-13, 2015-16)

Assessee is a public sector undertaking, which is engaged in business of telecom operations and providing telecom services. During year, assessee sold prepaid vouchers and cards of various face value to distributors at lower rate than its face value.

Assessing Officer treated difference between face value of prepaid vouchers and amounts actually received by assessee on distribution of prepaid vouchers as commission paid to distributors and passed order under sections 201(1)/201(1A) holding that assessee was an assessee-in-default on account of non-deduction of tax at source under section 194H. Commissioner (Appeals) upheld order of Assessing Officer. Assessee filed rectification application and submitted that it had already deducted tax at source at appropriate rates on such discounts/commission given to its agents, hence could not be held to be an assessee-in-default for non-deduction of tax at source under section 194H. On appeal the Tribunal held that Department not having analyzed this aspect/contention of assessee, matter is restored to file of Commissioner (Appeals) for carrying out necessary verification as to whether assessee had deducted tax at source on such discounts/ commissions given to its agents or not. The Assessing Officer had held that tax was liable to be deducted at source under section 194-I of the Act, and he had also proceeded to analyse the section and hold that external development charges were in the nature of rent. He had, in addition, also applied the rate of 10 per cent for assessing the assessee's liability. Court held that the approach of the Revenue was flawed. The contention that the findings of the Assessing Officer regarding the nature of the external development charges as well as at the provisions referred by him for determining the assessee's liability were not material, was erroneous. The orders passed by the Assessing Officer raising a demand under section 201(1) and (1A) of the Act were liable to be quashed. SLP of Revenue is dismissed.

On a writ the issue before the Court was as to whether there should be deduction of TDS on the amount payable to Petitioner as "Transit Rent", by the developer. The Honourable Court held that the ordinary meaning of Rent would be an amount which the Tenant / Licensee pays to the Landlord / Licensor. In the present proceedings the term used is "Transit Rent", which is commonly referred as Hardship Allowance / Rehabilitation Allowance / Displacement Allowance, which is paid by the Developer / Landlord the tenant who suffers hardship due to dispossession hence the 'Transit Rent' is not to be considered as revenue receipt and is not liable to be tax, as a result there will be no question of deduction of TDS. from the amount payable by the Developer to the tenant. The assessee-company is engaged in the business of manufacturing and trading of readymade garments. For the purpose of carrying out its business, the assessee had taken on lease a unit/shop in a mall. During the year under consideration, the assessee had paid rent, Common Area Maintenance ('CAM') and miscellaneous amenity charges to the payee. During the subject assessment year, the assessee had deducted TDS on payments for lease of business premises at the rate of 10 per cent under section 194-I. Further, the payments for CAM services were subject to TDS at the rate of 2 per cent under section 194C. The Assessing Officer held that TDS should be deducted on payment of CAM under section 194I treating the same as payment of rent instead of TDS deducted by the assessee under section 194C. CIT(A) has up held the order of the AO. The Tribunal held that the CAM charges paid are for separate and distinguishable services and cannot be said to be for use of building. [S. 2(14), 201(1), 201(IA)]

District Land Acquisition Officer (DLAO) paid compensation to various parties on account of land acquisition by government. Assessing Officer held that TDS under section 194L was attracted as said land was urban in nature. Accordingly, TDS was worked out and interest were charged in terms of section 201(1) and 201(1A) for failure to deduct TDS. However, Commissioner (Appeals) deleted addition by mainly relying on reports of other District Administrations, who had certified distance of said agricultural lands beyond 2 KMs range. On appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had fortified his conclusion based on reply of Executive officer, Nagar Panchayat, Khunti wherein it had been stated that aerial distance of impugned land being part of a project-'Knowledge City', was 1. 5 km from Khunti Nagar Panchayat which was apparently within two km limit as per clause b(i) to section 2(14). There was apparent contradiction in stands taken by all government authorities, evidently being part of same hierarchy, it was incumbent on Commissioner (Appeals) to clearly bring on record basis of their respective claims. Since Commissioner (Appeals) had considered a one-sided version to be correct, matter is remanded back to Commissioner (Appeals) to arrive at a conclusion

S. 194LBC : Deduction at source-Investment in securitization trust- Assessee in default-Excess Interest Spread by securitization trust group-Pass through certificates by originator-No liability to deduct TDS from the payment of Excess Interest Spread by securitization trust-Not an assessee in default. [S. 115TCA, Explanation (d), 201(1)] 2359
For failure to deduct at source the assessee is treated as assessee in default and passed an order levying interest under section 201(IA) of the Act. The order of AO is affirmed by CIT(A). On appeal the Tribunal held that, it is only in a situation where the originator has subscribed to the Pass Through Certificates (PTCs) of the securitization trust that it can be regarded as an investor within the meaning of S. 115TCA, Expln. (d). Once the originator has not subscribed in PTCs, but the Minimum Retention Requirement (MMR) is maintained via cash collateral and in the form of collateralizing of excess receivables, then the first condition provided in S. 194LBC is not fulfilled. On the facts the originator i. e., AMPL is not holding any PTCs/SDI, it cannot be regarded as investor as defined in cl. (d) of Explanation to S. 115TCA. Tribunal also held that since the cash flow received was to be utilized in the manner provided in the water flow mechanism of the trustee, the Excess Interest Spread (EIS) is the residual amount that flows to the originator and is not pursuant to any investment in the securitization trust or return of investment so made. Payment was not in respect of investment made by AMPL in the PTCs issued by the assessee. Surplus represents a reward earned by AMPL for its effort of creating pool of loan receivables which is capable of assigning. MRR requirement was introduced by RBI for the first time in the year 2012 and prior to that there was no requirement for the originator to comply with MRR which further corroborates that EIS cannot be regarded as income in respect of investment. There is no liability to deduct TDS under s. 194LBC from the payment of EIS. The assessee cannot be treated as an assessee in default. Levy of interest u/s 201(IA) is deleted. (AY. 2018-19)

[S. 201(1),201(IA)] 2360
Assessee is a securitisation trust. Assessee had paid an amount under head of Excess Interest Spread (EIS) to originator for relevant year. The AO held that the assessee is obliged to deduct tax from the said amount under S. 194LBC of the Act and treated the assessee as defaulter under S. 2001(1), 201(IA) of the Act. On appeal the CIT (A) held that the assessee cannot be treated as an investor within the meaning of clause (a) Explanation 115TCA as the organisor is neither receipt. On appeal the Tribunal held that there is a clear distinction between originator, who was assignor of loan portfolio to assessee, and PTC holders, who were investors in securitisation trust and since originator was neither a holder of any securitized debt instrument, securities or security receipts, it could not be regarded as an investor. Therefore, assessee is not obliged to deduct TDS under section 194LBC of the Act. (AY. 2018-19)

2361 S. 194N : Payment of certain amounts in cash-Deduction of tax at source-Constitutional validity of provisions-No evidence that assessee was business correspondent-Liable to deduct tax on cash withdrawals-Constitutional validity upheld. [S. 197, Art. 265]
The assessee contended that section 194N was not constitutionally valid and in any case was not applicable to it. The single judge accepted the plea that section 194N was not applicable to the petitioner. On appeal, allowing the appeal, that the judge had proceeded on the basis of an argument that was, in fact, not advanced by the assessees, holding them to be "business correspondents" of the co-operative societies in disbursal of the Pongal gifts to the banks. This was based on a Government Order in G. O. (2D) No. 66, Co-operation, Food and Consumer Protection (D1) Department dated November 26, 2019, where under, the Government of Tamil Nadu had sanctioned a sum of Rs. 2,363 crores towards Pongal hampers and cash support of Rs. 1,000 to all rice card holders. The Tamil Nadu Civil Supplies Corporation that was appointed as a nodal agency for distribution of the cash support was to co-ordinate with the co-operative societies for the distribution. The conclusion of the judge that the societies had acted as business correspondents of the assessees did not find any support from the records or from any material placed by the assessees. Thus, the conclusion of the judge that the transactions at issue, being cash withdrawals by the societies, and were excluded from the purview of section 194N by virtue of clause (iii) of the third proviso was erroneous.

[S. 194A, Art, 226]
The Assessee,a Co-Operative Society, received deposits and thereafter redeemed the same. They were also engaged in granting loans to its members. Revenue issued notices directing assessee-Co-Operative society to deduct TDS under section 194A for interest income which exceeded Rs. 40,000 and TDS under section 194N for cash withdrawals exceeding Rs. 20 lakhs. Assessee-Co- operative society claimed that they were acting as business correspondents to pass on cash benefits as mandated by State Government to distribute same to farmers to meet out their minimum requirements i. e., to buy fertilizers, etc. and also for providing reliefs such as Pongal,enam, flood relief, etc. and, thus, would be exempt under section 194N. On writ dismissing the petition the Court held that that assessee had not established that they had distributed cash benefits as mandated by State Government to its members as well as non-members in terms of guidelines of Reserve Bank of India. Active involvement of assessee to act as business correspondents of a State Government for distribution of cash benefits to its members as well as to non-members was not a banking transaction but a transaction other than banking activities in nature. Since Revenue had merely brought to the knowledge of assessee-societies the need to comply with said provisions of sections 194A and 194N, same could not be challenged under article 226 of Constitution of India. The State of Tamil Nadu had filed representations to Minister of Finance and CBDT to grant exemption to PACCS from the provisions of Section 194N of the Act in the similar manner it was granted to commission agent or trader operating under Agriculture Produce Market Committee and registered under related law. The exemption was sought for the reason that the interest spread of PACCS was very marginal and deduction of tax at source would create cash crunch besides, eating all its income. The assessee made payments to its non-resident group company for general business support services under a cost contribution arrangement. The arrangement was that the non-resident company managed its group entities, either directly or through own employees or through its third-party affiliates or vendors. The costs incurred were then allocated to the entities on a cost-to-cost basis. On an application for an advance ruling made by the assessee under section 245Q of the Income-tax Act, 1961, the Authority for Advance Rulings ruled that while providing general business support services, the non-resident entity worked closely with the employees of the assessee and supported and advised them, that the assessee was able to use the know -how or intellectual property generated from the general business support services independent of the service provider and hence the services listed under the agreement were made available to the assessee, that the payments made by the assessee to the non-resident company for the general business support services under the cost contribution arrangement were in the nature of fees for "technical services" within the meaning of article 13(4)(c) of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement between India and the United Kingdom, and hence, constituted income in the hands of the non-resident entity. The Authority ruled that the assessee was under an obligation to deduct tax at source under section 195 on such payments. On a writ petition, allowing the petition, the Court held that the list of services availed of by the assessee related to managerial services not involving anything of a technical nature. The Authority for Advance Rulings had discussed the services appearing in the cost contribution arrangement and had concluded that these activities in a retail business were at the core of retail marketing and hence the advice tendered in taking a decision of commercial nature was a consultancy service. The Authority for Advance Rulings had considered the definition of the word "consultancy" as defined in the dictionary and had observed that a consultant was a person who gives professional advice or services in a specialized field, but had failed to appreciate that the word "consultancy" appearing in the article of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement was to be interpreted in the context of consultancy which makes available technical knowledge and not of managerial nature. Therefore, the services availed of by the assessee were not technical services and article 13 was wholly inapplicable in the facts and circumstances. That any service was construable as technical but the true import of the service actually rendered had to be seen and the determination must be made in this context. There was no such discussion in the order of the Authority for Advance Rulings and the finding was based on a generic reference to the meaning of the word "consultancy" as given in the dictionary. The Authority for Advance Rulings had proceeded on conjectures and surmises to render the finding that the list of services mentioned in the cost contribution arrangement was not an exhaustive list and might have included other technical services. That the Authority for Advance Rulings had interpreted the requirements to be satisfied for "make available" based on its own general notion of the term without appreciating the applicable law on the subject and had reached an erroneous conclusion that the services availed of were technical services. Even if it was fees for technical or consultancy services, it could be only where fees were paid in consideration for making available technical knowledge and experience. Therefore, the view of the Authority for Advance Rulings [1] that the non-resident entity had worked closely and advised the employees of the assessee and hence made available the services was not correct and suffered from the fallacy since the cost contribution arrangement continued to operate till date. If the view of Authority for Advance Rulings was correct then the contract would have concluded as once the services and the know-how and skill were transferred to the assessee, the need of continuing to render such services must have ended. The Authority for Advance Rulings had not considered the issue relating to the "permanent establishment" of the non-resident entity and there was no determination on the same though, it was not a subject of reference before it. The order of the Authority for Advance Rulings suffered from legal infirmity and was quashed and set aside. However, the Department was at liberty to take necessary action as available to it in law including as to whether the subject would be covered under article 7 of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement and if such proceedings were taken, the time taken in the present proceedings would stand excluded for the purpose of limitation.

The Tribunal allowed the appeals filed by the assessee holding that payments made to non-residents for services rendered outside India were not subject to tax deduction at source (TDS) under Section 195. The assessee had paid commission and sales promotion expenses to non- residents, which the Assessing Officer disallowed under Section 40(a)(ia) for failure to deduct TDS, despite the payees having no business connection or Permanent Establishment (PE) in India. The Tribunal noted that the payments were made for services related to exports, with no income deemed to accrue in India. The Tribunal concluded that the non-resident agents were not liable to Indian tax, and thus, the assessee was not obligated to deduct TDS. Consequently, the disallowance under Section 40(a)(ia) was deleted. (AY. 2012-13)

During a survey, assessee was found to have made payments to IGTL Solutions (USA) without deducting tax at source under section 195. Assessing Officer treated assessee as in default under section 201(1) and charged interest under section 201(1A). Said decision was upheld by lower authorities. However, on further appeal, High Court noted subsequent issuance of a certificate under section 195(3) exempting IGTL Solutions (USA) from TDS and therefore, remanded matter to Tribunal to consider implications of this exemption. Tribunal held that if contents of certificate issued in section 195(3) were verified and found to be correct and genuine, then consequences would be that remittances that have been made to IGTL Solutions (USA) would be non-taxable so far as TDS was concerned. Therefore, Assessing Officer was directed to cause verification of certificate issued under section 195(3) and if it was found to be genuine, entire remittances that were made to IGTL Solutions (USA) would be non-taxable so far as TDS was concerned, order under section 201(1A) would have no legs to stand. The assessee remitted payment to its parent company after tax deduction as directed by the Assessing Officer. Assessee filed appeal before CIT(A) under Section 248 of the Act for a declaration that assessee was not liable to deduct tax at source on payment to non-resident.
The CIT(A) rejected the appeal of the assessee. Tribunal held that the assessee though claimed to have reimbursed the cost incurred by the parent company to provide certain common services without any mark-up, the claim was not substantiated. From the agreement it was difficult to ascertain whether they were in the nature of fees for technical services "or" only reimbursement of costs.
Assessee relied upon the Certificate of D and contended that payment made to non-resident was only cost incurred by the parent company without any mark-up. However, the same was not supported by any evidence. Assessing Officer was directed to re-examine the issue as to applicability of Section 195 in respect of payment to non-resident in the light of Cost Sharing Agreement and Certificate issued by D and provisions of Section 9(1)(viii) read with DTAS between India and Germany. High Court held that where assessee had entered into an agreement with UK based university for the provision of certain technical services for which it had agreed to bear Indian taxes, liability of assessee to deduct TDS under India- UK DTAA from payments made to UK University was to be computed on gross amount of fees for technical services (FTs) paid to University. Further, since obligation to pay tax was on university and assessee in terms of agreement, they had agreed to pay tax, the same had to be necessarily added to income of university and therefore, principle of grossing up had to be applied. On writ the Court held that in order to qualify as a capital asset as per the IT Act, it should be property of any kind held by an assessee, including, as per the legal fiction in Expln. 1 to s. 2(14), rights in or in relation to an Indian company, such as rights of management or control. Shares are indisputably capital assets because they qualify as movable goods under the Sale of Goods Act, 1930 and the Companies Act, 2013 and, consequently, fall within the scope of the expression "any property" in s. 2(14). ESOPs, by contrast, are rights in relation to capital assets, i. e. rights to receive capital assets (shares) subject to the terms and conditions of the ESOP scheme. Since the assessee has no rights in the Indian company of which he is an employee (other than as an employee), Expln. 1 is also not attracted. Assessee, employee of step down subsidiary of FPS, held ESOPs of FPS and received monetary benefit at pre-exercise stage by way of compensation for diminution in value of stock options, since assessee did not make any payment towards ESOPs and continued to retain all ESOPs even after receipt of compensation, entire receipt would qualify as perquisite and would become liable to be taxed under head salaries. [9(1)(vi), 144C, 195, Art. 226, R. 28AA(2)]

Allowing the petition the Court held that while passing the order rejecting the application for certificate for nil deduction of tax at source under section 197, the authority had clearly failed to examine the aspect whether the income in question was chargeable to tax. The authority had clearly confused the issues which arose out of two distinct revenue streams, namely, the one which pertained to the outsourcing of back-end services and the other which pertained to the providing of licensed software copies to group entities subject to reimbursement to the assessee by those entities. The orders in question were essentially founded on the draft assessment order. For the assessment year 2020-21, the objections which had been preferred by the assessee before the Dispute Resolution Panel were rejected and in the final order passed accordingly, the Assessing Officer had held that the revenue received by the assessee was in the nature of royalty. The Tribunal had set aside such order holding that the cost-to-cost reimbursement of price paid towards software usage could not be treated as royalty. The order of the Tribunal was sufficient for the orders in question being quashed and set aside. That the submissions of the assessee that, the supply or licensing of software could not be treated as royalty, either under the Act or the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement should not have been negated merely on the basis of a draft assessment order. Consequently, the applications of the assessee under section 197 for grant of nil, withholding tax certificates should be examined afresh in accordance with law bearing in mind the observations made in the judgment. S. 197: Deduction at source-Certificate for lower rate –Mere assertion that income could not be estimated - cannot be ground for rejection of application for certificate. [R. 28AA, Art. 226] 2375

The provisions of rule 28AA of the Rules cannot be read as stipulating that an assessee, to be eligible to make an application under section 197(1) of the Act, should have necessarily filed returns for preceding four years and paid tax for the preceding assessment year, and that the failure in these regards, or the absence thereof, would create an ineligibility to file an application. The Assessing Officer under section 197(1) of the Act will have to be satisfied objectively that the total income of a recipient justifies either deduction at a rate lower than the rates mentioned in the provisions of section 197(1) of the Act or that no deduction is necessary. This objective satisfaction must be based on the determination of the existing and the estimated liability, and income will have to be determined considering the details mentioned in rule 28AA(2) of the Rules. The Assessing Officer must also be satisfied that issuance of certificate while convenient to the assessee will not adversely affect the Revenue's interest. Court held, that the reasons assigned by the Assessing Officer to say that the assessee would not be eligible for certificate under section 197 of the Act because of the ambiguity surrounding the transactions with the existing concern were not justified. The rejection of application for a certificate under section 197 was invalid. (AY. 2024-25)(SJ)

Assessee, a tax resident of Republic of Ireland entered into reseller agreement with SDFC India for sale of its products in India and made application under section 197 to receive payments thereunder with Nil or low TDS. Revenue passed order under section 197 determining TDS rate at 10 per cent on entire estimated receipts on ground that assessee was not selling standard off-the-shelf and non-customized downloadable software and that it was in fact offering a comprehensive service experience or solution with help of technology embedded in software, hence, remittances so received were liable to be taxed as fee for technical services within meaning of section 9(1)(vii) read along with article 12 of India-Ireland DTAA. On writ the assessee contended that SDFC India was appointed as non-exclusive reseller without any technology transfer. Technical assistance and training imparted to SDFC India did not appear to bear characteristics of a conferral of specialised or exclusive technical service and did not constitute either core or foundational basis of consideration which was received by assessee and there was no transmission of specialised knowledge or skill. Imparting training or educating a person with respect to functionality and attributes of a software or application did not amount to rendering of technical service under DTAA. The order did not proceed on basis of any material or evidence which might have indicated that moneys remitted to assessee could be said to constitute consideration for technical services. Court held that order denying Nil or lower TDS certificate to assessee was to be quashed and set aside, with liberty to revenue to examine issue in light of above observation. Matter remanded.

Assessee-manufacturer shifted to another location after first two quarters of relevant assessment year. Consequently, it obtained new TAN. However, certain suppliers of assessee had applied for lower TDS certificates in advance for transactions pertaining to relevant year. These lower TDS certificates were issued by Assessing Officer (TDS) of respective suppliers and mentioned old TAN of assessee. While processing TDS returns, CPC ignored lower TDS certificates on ground that certificates mentioned old TAN of assessee which was changed. CPC raised demand for short deduction of tax. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since certificates were in name of assessee-company directing it to deduct TDS at lower rates, merely because, assessee had separate TANs would not render said certificates issued in terms of section 197(2) as redundant resulting in tainting assessee as assessee in default. Since assessee had deducted tax at source at rates prescribed in certificates for each of suppliers and had complied with necessary requirements of their deposit and filing of returns, assessee could not be treated as assessee in default merely on ground that certificates had not been issued on subsequent TAN obtained by the assessee. Assessee is a Cooperative Bank which had paid interest to its depositors. While paying interest to depositors, assessee had not deducted tax stating that amount of interest varied between Rs. 25,000 to Rs. 62,000 in case of those citizens who were below age of 60 years and who had produced Form No. 15G. The Assessing Officer passed the order stating that a reading of representations/replies indicated that assessee had not fully collated information that was required to be furnished prior to show cause notices, although it had furnished few details earlier by e-mail. On writ the Court held that the Assessing Officer ought to have been examined by Assessing Officer while passing impugned assessment orders.

Considering the facts, no useful purpose would be served by directing assessee to file a statutory appeal under section 251 before Appellate Commissioner, although Appellate Commissioner could call for a remand report. S. 199: Deduction at source-Credit for tax deducted-Failure to deposit the tax deducted by the deductor-Deductee cannot be denied the credit for tax deducted. [S. 199(1), 221, 260A, 271C R.] 2379

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the CBDT is empowered to frame rules that may be necessary to give credit to a person "other than those referred to in sub-s. (1) and sub-s. (2)... " of s. 199- Therefore, S. 199, read in its entirety, does not limit credit only to those deductees whose deductors have deposited the amount with the Central Government. Moreover, the expression "and paid" to the Central Government found in S. 199(1) must be contextualized in the setting in which it is placed, i. e., Chapter XVII, whereby, the sanctions for failing to deposit tax with the Central Government are laid on the payor/deductor. Significantly, Chapter XVII contains provisions for penalizing the payer/deductor when he fails to deposit the tax deducted at source with the Central Government. The Act does not seem to cast a burden on the deductee/payee with regard to the deposit of money, which is retained as tax, by the payer i. e., the deductor. Therefore, insofar as the deductee/payee is concerned, once the payer/deductor, who acts as an agent of the Central Government, has retained money towards tax, credit for the same cannot be denied, having regard to the consequences and the modes available for recovering the said amount from the payer/deductor. Assessee, a foreign company, which is engaged in investment activities managed from out of India. Assessee is a beneficial owner of American Depository Receipts (ADRs) of Vedanta Ltd., which were held through a broker. Thereafter, ADRs were compulsorily redeemed by Citibank, acting as depository participant for Vedanta Ltd. Upon redemption, Citibank NA withheld tax at 43. 68 per cent on gross proceeds as assessee did not have PAN. Later, assessee after obtaining PAN filed revised return and claimed TDS credit. Assessing Officer denied the claim of assessee on ground that TDS was not reflected in Form 26AS. Commissioner (Appeals) upheld the order of the AO, on ground that assessee's non-compliance with rule 37BA was a sufficient basis for denial of TDS credit and dismissed appeal. On appeal the Tribunal held that due to absence of assessee's PAN at time of deduction, TDS credit was incorrectly attributed under category 'without PAN' or in name of broker, Credit Suisse AG rather than assessee and this misattribution led to TDS credit not reflecting in assessee's Form 26AS. Upon obtaining a PAN, assessee actively engaged with Citibank NA and Credit Suisse AG to correct TDS attribution. Despite continuous communication and submission of necessary documents, including confirmations, these procedural corrections were not completed in time to reflect in assessee's Form 26AS at stage of assessment. A taxpayer should not suffer due to procedural lapses caused by third parties, especially when taxpayer had acted in good faith and made all reasonable efforts to rectify the situation. Substance of compliance, namely offering income to tax, should take precedence over procedural errors when assessing a taxpayer's entitlement to TDS credit. TDS credit, once deducted, should not be denied based on procedural failures, particularly those not attributable to taxpayer. The assessee is entitled to TDS credit as claimed. (AY. 2022-23)

The assessee had made foreign remittance to a company Red Hat Singapore without deducting tax at source on ground that payment for purchase of subscription was not taxable as per the provisions of article 7 read with article 5 of the India Singapore DTAA. The Assessing Officer held that the subscription fee was liable to be taxed as 'royalty' within the meaning of section 9(1)(vi) as well as article 12(3) and also taxable as 'fee of technical services' within the meaning of section 9(1)(vi) as well as article 12(4)(a) and article 12(4)(b). Accordingly, assessee was treated as an 'assessee-in- default' under section 201(1) and passed the order. The Commissioner (Appeals) partly allowed the appeal. Tribunal deleted the addition. Court also held that the ITAT also came to the conclusion that assessment should be lawfully made by AO on the payee/recipient. Since that has not been done, the order of AO under section 201(1) read with Section 201(1A) of the Act was unsustainable. Order of the Tribunal is affirmed. *Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. v. Dy. Dy. CIT passed an order under S 201 wherein it is held that the purchase of intellectual property amounted to sale of an intellectual property (asset) situated in India liable to be taxed as capital gains. Assessee is treated as an assessee- in-default for non-deduction of tax. The assesee challenged the order by filing writ petition and one of the grounds being that the order was barred by limitation relying on the decision in DIT (IT) v. Mahindra & Mahindra Ltd. (2014) 270 CTR 105/ 106 DTR 337 (Bom) (HC). Dismissing the petition the Court held that mixed question of fact and law involved, which is within the jurisdiction of the appellate authority to apply its mind and take an appropriate view of the matter by considering the materials, including examining the agreement on its merits and the legal status of the asset as available in the Indian market, by virtue of its registration and the applicability of the provisions of the Trade Marks Act.

The Court also urged the learned ASG that in the larger interest of the officers of the Revenue and with a hope that such issues do not percolate in the orders being passed by the Officers of the Revenue, this concern needs to be taken up at the appropriate level of the Ministry, so that the limits of propriety, the tenor and language used by the officials in passing orders, and on understanding of the legal principles, is well inculcated in such officers of the Revenue, by having regular training sessions. More particularly, considering that such officers-in-discharge of their quasi-judicial powers are required to deal with legal issues, involving the applicability of the decisions rendered by different Courts. Court also observed that the Assessing Officers were not to make such observations so as to indicate the righteous and solemn path which needs to be followed by the Officers in the course of statutory adjudication, we would have possibly failed in our duty as a Constitutional Court. [S. 133A, 194C (4), 195(2), 201(1), 201(IA), 260A] 2391

During course of survey under section 133A, it was found that assessee had made direct payment to non-resident contractor, PT and deducted tax at rate of 2 per cent under section 194C instead of rate of 48 per cent under section 195(2), resulting into short deduction of TDS of Rs. 3. 35 crores. Department initiated proceedings under section 201(1) read with section 201(1A) and an order was passed for determining interest under section 201(1A) considering certificate of lower deduction/no deduction under section 194C(4) issued by DDIT (International Tax.), Chennai. Tribunal held that when deductee, PT, had paid entire amount of tax except Rs. 8.00 lakh which was paid as self-assessment tax, contractor had not commited any default in obtaining certificate under section 194C(4) as against section 195(2) and further held that interest under section 201(1A) should be charged upto ultimate tax liability of deductee and directed Assessing Officer to charge interest on amount which was deposited by said deductee as self- assessment tax. Tribunal is justified in directing Assessing Officer to calculate interest on amount which was paid by contractor as self-assessment tax till date it was deposited and such interest is to be paid by assessee for not deducting tax at source.

The petitioner has filed the writ petition directing the respondent Jharkhand Bijli Vitram Nigam Ltd (JBVNL) to issue TDS certificate for the amount deducted of Rs 2,90,32,000 as income tax @ 2 per cent from the bills raised by the petitioner for supply of materials to respondents to enable the petitioner to get the tax credit. The Department has conducted the Survey and issued notice under section 201 to JBVNL. Demand notice issued to the Jharkhand Bijli Vitram Nigam Ltd (JBVNL) that it committed default in not making TDS deductions cannot cloak the JBVNL with any authority or even an excuse to withhold a certain amount from the running bills of the contractor. This is also relevant that the deductions by the JBVNL starting from the financial year 2016-17 have accumulated to Rs. 2,90,32,000 but it did not deposit the said amount with the IT Department. Amount so withheld from the running bills of the petitioner-firm is speculative and kind of a wagering step by the JBVNL. JBVNL has no authority in law to withhold Rs.2,90,32,000 as "kept back" amount for the purpose of litigation with the IT Department. Action of the JBVNL in withholding Rs. 2,90,32,000 is therefore, held illegal and deprecated and cost must be imposed upon it. JBVNL has not followed its own stipulation under cl. 10. 1 of the general conditions of contract and it seeks to place a very unreasonable reliance on cl. 10. 7 which is not at all applicable in a situation like the present one. It is not that a new tax liability has been created for which appropriate and equitable adjustment in the contract price is required. Petitioner-firm has specifically pleaded that it has filed IT returns and already paid taxes which shall include the illegal 2 per cent retention from its running bills. Court also held that refund of Rs. 2,90,32,000 must therefore carry interest as a matter of course. JBVNL must be saddled with cost of Rs. 5 lacs which shall be recovered from the managing director.

The Tribunal dismissed the assessee's appeal, holding that the assessee was rightfully treated as an "assessee-in-default" under Section 201(1) for failure to deduct TDS on property purchases as required under Section 194IA. The assessee claimed relief under the First Proviso to Section 201(1), arguing that the property sellers had already discharged their tax liability. However, the assessee failed to furnish Form 26A or a CA certificate as prescribed under Rule 31ACB of the Income Tax Rules, which is necessary to avail of the Proviso. The Tribunal further upheld the levy of interest under Section 201(1A), relying on the CBDT Circular No. 275/201/95-IT(B) dated 29. 01. 1997 and the Supreme Court's decision in Hindustan Coca Cola Beverage Pvt. Ltd. v. CIT (2007) 163 taxmann.com 355 (SC), holding that interest is payable by the purchaser until the seller files their tax returns. As the assessee did not prove compliance with these provisions, the interest demand was confirmed. Both appeals were dismissed as the assessee could not substantiate claims or comply with the procedural requirements. (AY. 2015-16)

The Assessee argued that the proceedings under Section 201(1) and 201(1A) were time-barred as they were initiated beyond a reasonable period of four years from the end of the relevant financial year. The Revenue maintained that there was no specific time limit prescribed for initiating proceedings under Section 201(1) and 201(1A) in cases involving non- resident payees. The Tribunal held that the proceedings under Section 201(1) and 201(1A) were not time-barred. That there is no specific time limit prescribed for initiating such proceedings in cases involving non- resident payees. Moreover, that the determination of a "reasonable time" limit depended on the facts and circumstances of each case. (AY. 2003 to 2010-11)

Assessing Officer had fallen in error by straightaway invoking rule 3 for computing value of perquisite and treat assessee in default in deducting tax at source on said value, without first recording a finding as to whether there was concession and case was covered by section 17(2)(ii). 2400 S. 201: Deduction at source-Failure to deduct or pay-DTAA-India-UAE. [S. 9(1)(vi), 201(1), 201(IA), Art. 7]

The TDS Officer held that the assessee had made payment to oilstone UAE for various services as mentioned in the Explanation 2 to Section 9(1)(vi) of the Act and such payment was in the nature of royalty and since the assessee failed to deduct tax on such payment, it was default and liable to the provisions of Section 201(1) and (1A) of the Act. The TDS Officer accordingly raised a demand-under Section 201(1) and (1A) of the Act on the assessee.

Aggrieved with the aforesaid order, the assessee filed appeal before CIT(A) challenging addition made / treatment given by TDS Officer. CIT(A) held that since, the services were provided by oilstone, UAE to the assessee outside India and services were utilised for the purpose of business of the assessee outside India, the case of the assessee was covered by the exclusion clause provided in Section 9(1)(vii)(b) of the Act and the payment was not chargeable to tax in India as "fees for technical services" hence, the Assessing officer was not justified in holding the assessee as an assessee in default under Section 201(1) and (1A) of the Act. The Department filed an appeal before Tribunal against the deletion of additions made by the TDS Officer. Tribunal held that in the absence of fees for technical services clause in the India-UAE Tax-treaty, payment of aforesaid services cannot be taxed in India, unless it is established that the overseas company had a permanent establishment (PE) in India. In the instant case, the assessee had also furnished a declaration regarding "no permanent establishment in India". Tribunal further held that the assessee was not under any obligation to withhold taxes on such payments made to Oilstone UAE and did not find any infirmity in the Order of CIT(A). Hence, the appeal of the department was dismissed. (AY. 2018-19)

Employer paid salary to assessee after deduction of tax at source but did not deposit same with department. Assessing Officer did not allow credit of tax deducted at source and raised demand against assessee towards tax and interest. The Revenue has adjusted the demand against the refund due to the assessee. On writ the court held that, if employer after deduction failed to deposit the tax deducted at source, the assessee cannot be penalised. Section 199 could not operate as impediment to grant relief to assessee. Accordingly, the demand is set aside. The Revenue is directed to refund the amount recovered. The Court also observed that it is the duty of the employer acting as a collecting agent to pay the tax deducted at source to Central Government. (AY. 2009-10, 2011-12, 2012-13)

Assessee provided services to Clutch Auto Ltd. (CAL) which made payment. Assessee claimed that CAL did not deposit deducted tax at source with revenue department on payments so made. Demand was raised against the assessee. On writ the Court held that revenue department could not indirectly recover tax that could not be directly collected from deductee, as this would contravene section 205 and ordered a refund to assessee. Revenue filed a review application, contending that Form 16A was not produced as evidence of tax deduction. Court held that Form 16A is amongst others, a piece of evidence which can establish deduction of tax at source but said, Form 16A is not only piece of evidence in that regard and in a case where assessee can show reliable material other than Form 16A and prima facie establish deduction of tax at source, then assessee cannot be denied benefit of provisions of section 205. Bar under section 205 operates as soon as it is established that tax had been deducted at source and it is wholly irrelevant as to whether tax deducted at source is deposited or not and whether Form No. 16A has been issued or not. Since the assessee declared in his return of income tax deducted at source by CAL and supported same with his ledger account, it showed assessee's efforts to prove tax deduction and therefore there was no apparent error in order of High Court requiring a review. Dismissing the review petition of the Revenue the Court held that at the time of disposal of the writ petition, the counsel for review applicant Revenue had not disputed that the issue raised in the present writ action stands covered by the judgment in the case of Sanjay Sudan v. ACIT (2023) 331 CTR 797/ 224 DTR 99(Delhi) (HC). Now, counsel for the review applicant contended that the case which led to the judgment of Sanjay Sudan stood on different footing insofar as in the said case, the assessee had produced Form No. 16A to establish the tax deducted at source. However, Form 16A is not the only piece of evidence in that regard. Assessee can rely on other material. From the language of S. 205, it is clear that the bar operates as soon as it is established that the tax had been deducted at source and it is wholly irrelevant as to whether the tax deducted at source is deposited or not and whether Form No. 16A has been issued or not. There is no error, much less an error apparent on the face of record which would persuade the Court to engage in reviewing the impugned order dt. 31st May, 2023. Revenue cannot recover the deficit tax at source from the assessee, which was deducted and pocketed by CAL, and they also cannot refuse to grant credit for the same. What the Revenue cannot do directly, it is impermissible for it to reach the same end indirectly. Revenue is directed to refund Rs. 11,39,870 to the assessee. Followed *Sanjay Sudan v. Employer paid salary to assessee after deduction of tax at source but did not deposit same with department. Assessing Officer did not allow credit of tax deducted at source and raised demand against assessee towards tax and interest. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that assessee having accepted salary after deduction of tax at source had no further control over it and it was duty of employer to pay deducted tax to department and employer having failed to perform his duty to deposit deducted tax, assessee could not be penalized. S. 205: Deduction at source-Bar against direct demand-Salaried employee –Tax deducted at source-Tax has been deducted at source but not deposited to Government's account by deductor, deductee- assessee shall not be called upon to pay demand to extent tax has been deducted from his income-Department should not deny benefit of tax deducted at source by employer during relevant financial years. [S. 192, 199, 234B, 234C, Form 26AS, Art. 226] 2408

Assessee, a salaried employee, filed his income tax return for assessment year 2013-14, reporting a gross salary from its employer-company with TDS deducted. However, a significant discrepancy was found between TDS amount deducted by employer and amount reflected in Form 26AS obtained from Income Tax Department website. Despite tax being deducted, a portion of amount had not been transmitted to Income Tax Department by employer. Consequently, assessee was deprived of receiving credit for full TDS amount, leading to a demand notice issued by income tax department, inclusive of interest under Sections 234B and 234C. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that in case of an assessee whose tax has been deducted at source but not deposited to Government's account by deductor, deductee-assessee shall not be called upon to pay demand to extent tax has been deducted from his income. Further, section 205 puts a bar on direct demand against assessee in such cases and demand on account of tax credit mismatch in such situations cannot be enforced coercively. Therefore, department should not deny benefit of tax deducted at source by employer during relevant financial years to assessee. Followed in Taylor v. Taylor (1876) 1 Ch D 426, it was laid down that where a power is given to do a certain thing in a certain way the thing must be done in that way or not at all. Other methods of performance are necessarily forbidden. This doctrine has often been applied to Courts. Lord Roche in Nazir Ahmad v. King Emperor AIR 1936 PC 253 followed the aforesaid principle. Subsequently, the said principle has been well recognized by the apex Court and is holding the field till today. (AY. 2013-14) *Malay Kar v. Allowing the appeal the Court held that by a process of auction or tender, the excise contractors were shortlisted. Thereafter, they were provided permits. On the strength of the permits, they obtained arrack in bottled condition (or in sealed polythene sachets) from the warehouse or depot on payment of issue price fixed by the Excise Commissioner. Such arrack was then sold in retail by the excise contractors in the area or areas allotted to them. Therefore, it could not be said that by virtue of the auction, certain quantities of arrack were purchased by the excise contractors. At this stage there were two transactions, each distinct. The first transaction was shortlisting of excise contractors by a process of auction, etc., for the right to retail vend. The second transaction, which was contingent upon the first transaction, was obtaining of arrack for retail vending by the excise contractors on the strength of the permits issued to them post successful shortlisting following auction. Therefore, it was clear that arrack was not obtained by the excise contractors by way of auction. What was obtained by way of auction was the right to vend the arrack on retail on the strength of permits granted, following successful shortlisting on the basis of auction. Thus, the first condition under clause (iii) of Explanation (a) to section 206C was satisfied. After the arrack was obtained by the excise contractor, the requirement of the second condition under Explanation (a)(iii) was that he had to sell it in the areas allotted to him at the sale price fixed in terms of rule 4 of the 1967 Rules. The language of the second condition was that the sale price of such goods to be sold by the buyer was fixed by or under any State statute. Rule 4 of the 1967 Rules enabled the excise contractor to sell the arrack in retail at a price within the range of minimum floor price and maximum ceiling price which is fixed by the Excise Commissioner. A minimum price and a maximum price were fixed within which range the arrack had to be sold by the excise contractor. Thus, the price of arrack to be sold in retail was not dependent on market forces but predetermined within a range. Therefore, the arrack was sold at a price which was fixed statutorily under rule 4 of the 1967 Rules and thus, the second condition was satisfied. Since both the conditions as mandated under Explanation (a) (iii) were satisfied, the excise contractors or the liquor vendors selling arrack would not come within the ambit of "buyer" as defined under Explanation (a) to section 206C of the Act. Section 206C was not applicable in respect of the assessee and the liquor vendors (contractors) who bought the vending rights from the assessee on auction could not be termed "buyers" within the meaning of Explanation (a) to section 206C of the Act. The orders of the Division Bench of the High Court, the single judge and the Deputy Commissioner (TDS) were to be quashed. That though a show-cause notice was issued to the assessee to which reply was also filed, that would not be adequate having regard to the consequences that such an order passed under section 206C(6) of the Act would entail. It was incumbent on the Assessing Officer to have afforded the assessee an adequate and reasonable opportunity of hearing. (AY. 1995-96 to 2000-01)

Assessee floated tenders to select third-party bar contractors (licensees) to sell eatables and collect empty bottles left by consumers at bars situated adjacent to/within assessee's retail shop of liquor. Assessee acting as an agent merely collected tender/licence amount from successful tenderer and remitted 99 per cent of same to Government retaining 1 per cent commission. The AO held that sell of bottles as scrap and treated the assessee as assessee-in-default for failure to collect tax at source under section 206C on amount tendered by bar licensee from sale of empty bottles. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that empty bottles were neither generated in manufacturing, nor in mechanical working of material and hence, cannot be termed as scrap. Neither assessee nor licensee were owners of waste bottles hence, sections 206C, 206CC and 206CCA were incorrectly invoked. Orders are not valid. The Revenue filed an appeal challenging the order of the Tribunal before the Hon'ble Karnataka High Court wherein it had to be decided whether the provision of section 206AA starting with a non-obstante clause overrides all provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1961 and as such provisions of the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement would not override the provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1961. However, the Hon'ble Court relied on the decision in case of *CIT (IT) v. Wipro Ltd. [2023] 22 ITR-OL 371 (Karn.) [Art. 136] 2415

Assessee challenged a conditional stay order issued by Appellate Authority, which required payment of 20% of total tax demand for assessment years 2014-2015 to 2019-2020 in seven installments. Single Judge dismissed writ petition, deeming stay order reasonable. Assessee filed writ appeal, arguing that no reasons were provided for 20% payment requirement and that compliance would cause hardship due to financial difficulties. Court held that in as much as Appellate Authority had directed assessee to pay only 20% of total tax demand raised for various assessment years and had also granted installments to effect said payment of 20% of said tax amount, non- interference with said order by Single Judge did not appear to be unreasonable. However, considering assessee's financial difficulties, court modified order to permit payment in seven monthly instalments starting from June 15, 2024. SLP of assessee is disposed of by reserving liberty to assessee to file a review petition before Division Bench of High Court and till initial consideration of review petition for any interim or final order, there would be stay of directions. Supreme Court by order dated 16-10-2023 in CIT v. Bharti Hexacom Ltd. [2023] 155 taxmann.com 322/ 458 ITR 593 (SC), overruled Delhi High Court's ruling and held that payment of license fee to DoT under Telecom Policy, 1999 was capital in nature. It was submitted that a heavy burden would now be on assessees as from assessment year 2000-2001 onwards tax demand would have to be recomputed and met. Therefore, assessees sought for waiver of interest for said period. Revenue however, objected to this submission by contending that since now tax demand would have to be met by assessees, it was logical that interest on said demand would also have to be paid. The assessee is the Zoos and Parks Authority of the State. In terms of circulars dated February 29, 2016 and July 31, 2017 ([2017] 396 ITR (St.) 55) of the Central Board of Direct Taxes, the Commissioner (E) granted stay of demand subject to payment of 20 per cent of the total demand for the assessment years 2016-17 and 2021-22. In the writ petition filed by the assessee against such order, the court remanded the matter back to the Commissioner (E) for passing a fresh order after giving due opportunity of hearing to the assessee. The Commissioner (E) passed a fresh order to the effect that the assessee had obtained a new permanent account number on December 22, 2014 under which it did not apply for registration under section 12A and that therefore, the assessee did not have a valid registration for the claim of exemption under section 11 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 during the period for which demands were raised and accordingly, raised a demand. Appeals under section 246A were pending before the Commissioner (Appeals) for each of the assessment years. On a writ the Court held that while the main issue as to entitlement of the assessee to exemption under section 11 was the subject matter of the appeals pending before the Commissioner (Appeals), considering the status of the assessee which had been taken note of by the Commissioner (E) himself, a deposit of Rs. 3 crores being made by the assessee, the demand raised under section 156 for the assessment years 2016-17 to 2021-22 should remain stayed till disposal of the appeals stated to be pending before the Commissioner (Appeals). Ordered accordingly. (AY. 2016-17 to 2021-22)

The assessee has preferred an application on 3rd May, 2023 before the Asst. CIT, for grant of stay against outstanding demand by filing an application under S. 220(6) contending that the demand raised in assessment is high pitched and it is not possible for the assessee to pay even 20 per cent of the disputed demand because the assessee does not possess enough resources to pay 20 per cent of the demand relying upon the circulars which was considered favorably by providing installment facility. Thereafter, he has preferred an application before the Principal CIT reiterating the same which has been further considered and the installment was reasonably reduced vide order dt. 11th Dec., 2023. The record of the case would clearly demonstrate that the assessee has not prayed for waiver of 20 per cent of assessed tax liability before the appellate authority. The circular issued by the Department cannot overwrite the power of the appellate authority, quasi-judicial authority deciding the merit of the appeal/interim application for stay as the circulars are self-imposed Departmental restraint on the demand/recovery to be raised/persuaded, which cannot affect the statutory power conferred upon the appellate authority. The assessee has not substantiated genuine hardship by placing materials or evidence. Writ petition is dismissed. Followed, *Amolak Singh Bhatia v. Dismissing the writ petition, that admittedly the assessee had filed an appeal against the order passed by the Assessing Officer before the Commissioner (Appeals) which remained pending and a stay petition dated February 1, 2023 was filed before the Assessing Officer seeking stay of collection of the demand. However, the Assessing Officer while entertaining the stay application directed the assessee to pay 20 per cent. of the demand amount, which was passed on the merits keeping in mind the economic condition of the assessee. The order being a reasoned one and having been passed after assessing the status and financial condition of the assessee, as only 20 per cent of the entire demand amount was directed to be deposited, the direction of the Assessing Officer by order dated February 21, 2023 was just and reasonable, and could not be interfered with. [S. 2(22), 46A, 115-O, 220(6), 260A, Art. 226] 2432
Petitioner filed petition, seeking interim stay of the recovery proceedings initiated by the Assistant Commissioner pursuant to an order passed by the Tribunal affirming the orders of the Commissioner (Appeals) and the Assessing Officer and consequential notices issued under section 226(3) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 for the assessment year 2017-18.
The court, held that on the facts and circumstances and having regard to the submissions made by the assessee and the Department, in the interest of both the parties, granted interim stay on conditions that (i) the assessee was to make a payment of Rs. 1,500 crores in cash or give a letter to the bank to remit Rs. 1,500 crores to the Department from the fixed deposits available, and furnish property security for the balance tax with interest and penalty within the time stipulated in the order, (ii) on such payment and deposit of title deeds pertaining to the property, the Department was to release the lien on the remaining fixed deposits of the assessee in the bank, and (iii) in the event of default on the part of the assessee in complying with these conditions, the interim stay order would stand vacated automatically, without any further reference to the court and it would be open to the Department to recover the tax dues from the assessee in accordance with law. The questions raised herein would be considered at the time of final hearing of the appeal. (AY. 2017-18)

Initially, authority ordered assessee to deposit 20 per cent of demand before considering appeal. Assessee challenged this decision, citing lack of judicial scrutiny. Court held that the demand raised fell within the definition of a high-pitched demand. S. 220: Collection and recovery-Assessee deemed in default-Stay- Transfer pricing-Arms' length price-Conditional stay-Order of Tribunal is affirmed. [S. 92C, 254(2A), Art. 226] 2435

Assessee-company, subsidiary of Mauritius based group company was part of Vodafone group. TPO observed that over a period from 2008-2015, direct and indirect shareholding of Vodafone Group plc in Vodafone India Limited had increased from 51. 58 per cent to 100 per cent. Accordingly, TPO made ALP adjustment on account of assignment of call/put options vested by assessee to its Mauritius based group concern, in as much as it put said group concern at an undue advantage of buying Vodafone India shares at a price much below market rate without any corresponding benefit to assessee. Consequently, Assessing Officer made high pitched adjustment and raised demand against assessee. Assessee-company filed stay application seeking a blanket unconditional stay on demands contending that Tribunal passed stay order in assessment year 2008-09 wherein assessee deposited substantial amount along with corporate guarantee and same ought to be reckoned for purpose of stay application for subsequent assessment year 2014-15. Assessee further claimed that deposits made in assessment year 2008-09 had been adjusted by revenue by way of protective adjustment for assessment year 2010-11. However, Tribunal granted a conditional stay by directing assessee to pay 20 per cent of disputed tax demand and furnish a corporate guarantee. It was noted that assessment year 2008-09, being a substantive assessment, assessment for year 2010-11 would be required to be treated as a protective assessment as put/call options exercised was 2. 34 per cent, however, events which triggered taxation in subsequent period were different as it pertained to 6. 01 per cent of holding in respect of call and put options being actually exercised. On writ, the Court held that recovery as sought to be made for relevant assessment year could not be in nature of protective recovery and, interim order passed by Tribunal on stay application was purely a discretionary order, and upheld. [S. 226, 250, Art. 226]

Assessee filed an appeal against an assessment order dated 29. 12. 2023 and subsequently petitioned for a stay, which was rejected due to non-payment of required 20% deposit per CBDT's office memorandum in F. No. 404/72/93- ITCC dated 29. 02. 2016 and F. No. 404/72/93-ITCC dated 31. 07. 2017. A second stay petition was dismissed by Commissioner of Income Tax (TDS). Assessee then filed a writ petition contending they could demonstrate financial stringency if given another opportunity. Court held that CBDT's office memorandum serve as guidelines for deciding stay applications and these guidelines do not replace need to assess whether applicant has established a prima facie case, balance of convenience, and financial stringency and since impugned order overlooked those considerations, interference was warranted. Since stay petition filed by assessee did not contain details relating to financial stringency, it was necessary to impose costs on assessee subject to payment of a sum of Rs. 10,000/- assessee would be permitted to submit a fresh stay application before assessing officer. Assessee had paid both income-tax and FBT through a single challan dated 13-6-2008. These payments made through a composite challan were separately indicated in return of income filed for assessment year 2009-10. However, while processing return of income, entire amount was adjusted against income-tax liability, thereby, creating liability of FBT demand along with interest charged under section 115WJ. Assessee submitted that since no demand notice concerning interest component of FBT demand was served on assessee, liability did not ensue. CIT(A) held, that the dispute arise out of order passed for assessment year 2009-10, it cannot be subject matter of appeal for the assessment year 2017-18. On appeal the Tribunal held that it was clearly borne out from record that assessee, indeed, had discharged its FBT liability for assessment year 2009-10 in June, 2008 itself and it was only department which had appropriated FBT liability towards income-tax. The reason for negating assessee's claim was that assessee was aware of tax liability uploaded by revenue on e-filing portal. However, mere reflection of demand on e-filing portal did not absolve revenue from properly serving intimation and demand notice qua FBT liability. Since revenue had failed to establish that intimation and demand notice concerning FBT demand was ever served on assessee, interest charged under section 220(2) on assessee is deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

Dues payable to creditors, including statutory creditors, for periods which precede date when Resolution Plan (RP) is approved, can only be paid as per terms contained in RP and, hence, demand recovery notices and consequent orders issued to assessee for a period preceding date of RP were unsustainable in law and, could not be enforced. [S. 143(3), 147, 148, 153A 156, 271(1)(c), Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016, S. 31, 238, Art. 226]
The assessee had acquired Bhushan Steel Ltd. in terms of the corporate insolvency resolution proceedings under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016. Subsequently, notice was issued under section 221(1) calling upon assessee to deposit cumulative demand of Rs. 257. 80 crore for assessment years 2001-02, 2009-10, 2010-11 and 2013-14 and to show cause why penalty under section 221(1) be not imposed on assessee. Assessee sought to assail demand raised by revenue on ground that it concerned periods which preceded date of approval of Resolution Plan (RP) by NCLT and once RP was approved, all stakeholders were bound by terms contained therein and revenue was not any different from other creditors. On writ Court held that dues payable to creditors, including statutory creditors, for periods which precede date when RP is approved, can only be paid as per terms contained in RP. In cases where no provision is made for claims lodged on behalf of creditors, or there is failure to lodge a claim with Resolution Professional, all such claims stand extinguished. Successful applicant whose RP has been approved should not be put in a position where it is called upon to liquidate dues of creditors, including statutory creditors, which were not embedded in RP. A successful applicant is, in law, provided with a 'clean slate', therefore, dues for period prior to date when RP was approved cannot be recovered. Therefore, demand recovery notices and consequent orders issued to assessee for period preceding date of RP were unsustainable in law and, hence, could not have been enforced. Court held that the notice under section 221(1) of the 1961 Act dated August 28, 2018 and the order dated October 17, 2018, rejecting the assessee's objections were unsustainable and hence, could not be enforced. As regards recoveries sought to be made by the Department for the assessment year 2001-02, the parties would have to abide by the final decision that would be rendered in the special leave petitions. Relied on *Ghanashyam Mishra and Sons P Ltd. v. [S. 45,50C, 56(2)(x), 143(3), 250, Art. 226] 2444

The assessment was completed valuing the property as per the stamp valuation without waiting for the valuation of Departmental Valuation Officer. On writ the Court held that, the conclusion had been drawn without awaiting the valuation report from the Departmental Valuation Officer. As a consequence, in spite of the assessee asserting and reiterating that the sale consideration specified in the sale deed represented the fair market value, the assessee had been put to prejudice without any material to support the conclusion that the guidelines value represented the fair market value. Therefore, the assessee is entitled to an interim stay of coercive action pending disposal of the statutory appeal. Assessee-HUF received a donation of Rs. 5 lakhs from an individual. Assessment was completed which reflected the said receipt. However, ITO after seventeen years, reopened assessment under section 147 and held that demand of Rs. 5 lakhs had emanated from assessee. Assessee's appeal against said order was allowed by AAC as well as Tribunal. On reference to High Court, matter was set aside to Tribunal. Tribunal thereafter, passed ex parte order upholding assessment. Assessee filed reference against said order under section 256(2). Meanwhile, recovery proceedings were initiated and assessee submitted objections that, a sum of Rs. 2,45,000 had already been deposited and a sum of Rs. 1,20,000 had already been recovered and, thus, same was to be deducted from total shown in recovery certificate to TRO. TRO had rejected objections and conducted auction of said property and sold same and recovered disputed sum. Assessee filed writ petition and while writ was pending, High Court answered reference in favor of assessee and entire proceedings under section 147 were held to be bad in law. Court held that once sum of Rs. 2,45,000 was deposited, recovery certificate was required to be revised. TRO should have withheld proclamation and further proceedings of auction, particularly when demand notice and recovery certificate were based on order of Tribunal which had been set aside by High Court. Since, ultimately it had been found that there was no tax requirement to be paid, writ petition is allowed and order was to be set aside and department is directed to restore properties of assessee from auction purchaser and compensation should also be paid to him by department. TRO has power even to cancel recovery certificate on being informed that payment has been made by concerned defaulter. Where a reference has been admitted by High Court against an order of Tribunal, prudence demands to keep away from conducting auction of properties for purpose of recovery. An auction conducted under the Income-tax Act, 1961 cannot be put on the same footing as that of an auction being conducted for execution of a decree by the Court or elsewhere in public as it would be in clear distinction of income-tax default auction. Court also directed the Income tax department is directed to pay cost of Rs 1 lakh to the petitioner. (AY. 1946-47)

Therefore, it was not required to direct refund of the 20 per cent already recovered from the assessee. 2452 S. 226 : Collection and recovery-Modes of recovery -Recovery of tax -Appellate Tribunal -Interim order -Conditional stay of demand of tax and interest on demand -Exercise of discretion by Tribunal neither perverse nor illegal and hence not interfered with -On facts recovery is not protective in nature. [S. 144C, 254(1),254(2A), Art. 226]

On writ against the interim order of the stay by the Tribunal, the Court held that the orders passed by the Tribunal in respect of the earlier years would not assist the assessee, firstly because for the assessment year 2011-12 when the percentage of transactions in respect of which the put or call option was exercised was 2. 34 per cent of the total holding in respect of which an assessment order was passed applying the provisions of section 92C and an amount of Rs. 50 crores was directed to be deposited at the interim stage for stay of the assessment order. For the assessment year 2012-13, the proceedings were pending before the court and the assessee was directed to deposit an amount of Rs. 100 crores. Both such orders were accepted by the assessee and the amount was deposited, without any grievance. That the proceedings in the miscellaneous application were concerned with the interim order passed by the Tribunal on the stay application by the assessee which was a discretionary order and the discretion had not been exercised by the Tribunal perversely or illegally. Although the order in so far as it directed the assessee to deposit an amount of Rs. 230 crores, being the lowest or minimum amount of 20 per cent of the disputed tax demand, was in consonance with the provisions of section 254(2A), the Tribunal ought not to have directed the assessee to furnish a corporate guarantee from an associate company which had unencumbered assets in India in excess of the balance of the disputed demands, i. e., Rs. 900 crores, particularly considering the interim orders passed for the prior years. Such condition, therefore, was substituted by directing the assessee to furnish a corporate guarantee of its parent company as accepted by the Revenue in the assessment year 2008-09. That the contention that the recovery being in the nature of a protective recovery, it was not permissible for the Tribunal to pass the order in question considering the decisions of the order passed for the assessment year 2008-09 as substantive year could not be accepted though it was factually correct since the events for taxation in the subsequent period were different, as it pertained to 6. 01 per cent of the holding in respect of call and put options being actually exercised. If such contention was accepted, then orders that had been accepted by the assessee in depositing the demands for the assessment years 2011-12 and 2012-13, which were Rs. 50 crores and Rs. 100 crores, respectively, could not have been passed. On the facts, considering what had transpired for the earlier assessment years 2008-09, 2010-11, 2011-12 and 2012-13, the contention that the assessment for the assessment year 2014-15 being a high-pitched assessment, such demand would warrant a blanket stay, could not be accepted. Except for the modification in respect of condition No. (ii) as imposed by the Tribunal, the order was not interfered with otherwise. (AY. 2014-15)

S. 226: Collection and recovery -Modes of recovery –Attachment -Joint account holder -Primary account holder -No separate notice is required for having joint account as secondary holder in view of section 226(3)(iii) [S. 226(3)(iii), Art. 226] 2453

The petitioners were farmers and were doing agricultural activities. They had sold agricultural goods out of the produce from the joint holding land with their uncle KBG and out of the sale proceedings, certain amount was deposited in the joint account of the petitioners with their uncle Kirit Bachubhai Gamit. When the petitioner approached the Bank for withdrawal of the said amount, they were informed that there was attachment over the joint account for outstanding of their uncle by the Income Tax Department. The petitioners had challenged the issuance of notice under section 226(3) whereby the authority had made attachment over the account. When impugned notice under section 226(3) is issued for recovery of the outstanding dues of Kirit Bachubhai Gamit who is defaulter in making payment of dues to the department, merely because the petitioners were joint account holders, no separate notice is required to be issued to the petitioners for having joint account as secondary holder in view of provisions of section 226(3)(iii). Court held that on perusal of the provisions of section 226(3)(iii), it is clear that notice is required to be forwarded to the assessee from whom money is due or may become due to the assessee or any person who holds or may subsequently hold money for or on account of the petitioner. Meaning thereby notice is required to be issued, as per aforesaid provisions, from whom amount is due and not to joint account holder. If the petitioners have any grievance against recovery of the above dues in the account of their uncle along with them, they can initiate necessary proceedings in accordance with law before appropriate forum. Petition is dismissed.

[S. 281, Securitisation and Reconstruction Of Financial Assets And Enforcement Of Security Interest Act, 2002, S. 26, Art. 226] 2455

Allowing the petition against the tax recovery certificate issued by the Tax Recovery Officer, the Court held that since the mortgage to the bank was prior to the attachment of the property in question by the Department, the orders of attachment were quashed. The 1961 Act has not provided any first charge of its debts. But there is a first charge over the bank's debt under the 2002 Act and the amendment of section 26 of the 2002

Act is applicable to pending Lis. Therefore, even though it was a statutory duty to attach property by the Department, as and when the bank claimed and exercised its first charge over the property, the Department was liable to issue a no-objection certificate and also lift the attachment. Consequently, the Tax Recovery Officer was directed to lift the attachment and the Sub-Registrar was to strike the name of the Tax Recovery Officer from the encumbrance certificate with respect to the property in question. [S. 119, 211, 234B, 234C, Art. 226] 2459

On writ the assessee contended that the assessee is entitled for waiver of interest under S. 234A, for the asst. yrs. 2008-09 and 2009-10 on similar lines for the asst. yrs. 2005-06 and 2007-08 deserves to be accepted, as there is only marginal delay in filing the returns after the audit report was received by the assessee from the office of Jt. Director of Co-operative audit on 22nd March, 2011 for the asst. yr. 2008-09 and on 31st Jan., 2012 for the asst. year. 2009-10. The returns for these years were filed by the assessee on 31st May, 2011 and 2nd April, 2012, respectively. Therefore, to the extent of rejection of waiver of interest under S. 234A the order warrants interference. Court held, that the interest under S. 234B and 234C are concerned, they pertain to belated payment of advance tax under S. 210 within the stipulated period under S. 211 no case is made out by the assessee for waiver of interest notwithstanding the reason stated by the assessee in the affidavit. CBDT Circular No. 400/129/2002-IT(B), dt. 26th June, 2006, does not specifically deal with waiver of interest under S. 234B and 234C. There were no impediments operating against the assessee from paying the advance tax within the time line under S. 211. Payment of interest on the tax that was payable on the date specified in S. 211 is axiomatic in the sense it has to be paid by the due date prescribed under the statute and therefore, there cannot be any waiver either on the ground of equity or on a reading of the Circular dt. 26th June, 2006, bearing reference No. 400/129/2002-IT(B). 2462 S. 234B: Interest -Advance tax -Application of seized or requisitioned assets -Seized cash can only be adjusted against tax liability of person from whom cash was seized and till date of framing of assessment of parties -Revenue had no authority to treat cash seized from possession of one person as cash belonging to another person. [S. 132(4), 132B (3), 140A, 153A, 260A]
A search was conducted at premises of assessees, and one Sarup Chand. Department discovered cash in Sarup Chand's accounts. Both Sarup Chand and assessees vide an affidavit claimed that seized money actually belonged to assessees as part of house sale proceeds. Assessees requested that cash be adjusted against their tax liabilities. However, until assessment of both parties was completed, cash was treated as belonging to Sarup Chand. Revenue eventually adjusted cash against assessees tax liability but charged interest for delayed payment of tax under section 234B of the Act. Assessee contended that cash should have been adjusted earlier as advance tax and that no interest should be charged. The AO has not accepted the contention of the assesse. On appeal the CIT(A) held that the money seized from Sarup Chand could not be adjusted against the assesee's advance tax liabilities. Tribunal affirmed the order of CIT(A). On appeal, the Court held that in view of sub-section (3) of Section 132B, person from whose custody assets are seized is entitled to adjustment thereof against tax liability and as per explanation, existing liability does not include advance tax. Thus, contention of assessees that amount seized from possession of another person should be treated as advance tax paid by assessees was misconceived. Since seized cash was concededly lying deposited in bank account of Sarup Chand therefore, till determination of liability of all parties, there was no question of adjustment of seized cash against liability of assessees and accordingly, they were liable to pay interest in terms of Section 234B on account of delayed payment on advance tax. Appeal of assessee is dismissed. (AY. 2007-08)

Held that the assesse is entitled to credit for tax deducted at source and advance tax as claimed by the assessee in the return of income. However, while allowing the credits for prepaid taxes, the Assessing Officer has to ensure no similar credit for tax deduction at source or advance tax was availed of by the beneficiaries therein before allowing the credit. The Assessing Officer shall also ensure that the jurisdictional High Court had not taken any contrary view on the subject matter. That with regard to charging of interest under sections 234B and 234C, since they were consequential in nature, the Assessing Officer was to charge correct interest after giving effect to this order. (AY. 2015-16)

Held, that considering the acceptance of the fact by the Assessing Officer in the remand report the assessee was not granted the credit of taxes while calculating the interest under section 234B of the Act and that too without referring to any adverse comment in the remand report, the Assessing Officer was to give the credit of the taxes paid by the assessee. According to the computation sheet given in the remand report and the interest based on the chart given by the assessee. The Assessing Officer is directed to give credit of payment of tax for which credit was not granted while computing the interest under provisions of section 234B of the Act. The assessee is denied the benefit of the interest under section 244A of the Act only on the ground that the net refund due and calculated by the lower authority was less than 10 per cent of the total demand raised upon the assessee. Since the assessee is eligible to get relief under section 234B of the Act for an amount of Rs. 1,43,33,259 after that credit the resultant figure of refund was more than 10 per cent of the tax determined and the assessee is eligible to receive the interest under section 244A of the Act in accordance with the law. S. 234B: Interest -Advance tax -Search -Cash and fixed deposit receipts -Release of seized assets -Application was made for release/adjustment of cash and FDRs -No interest can be levied in the course of regular assessment -Payment of interest on seized FDRs -FDRs cannot be treated as money as referred in section 132B(4)(b) and since by mere seizure of FDRs, assessee had not suffered any pecuniary loss by way of loss of interest, no interest under section 132B(4) could be granted to assesse. [S. 132, 132B(4)(b)] 2465

A search and seizure action under section 132 was conducted at premises of assessees on 18-3-2010. During course of search, cash and fixed deposit receipts [FDRs] were seized. Assessees had made an application for release/adjustment of cash and FDRs on 28-4-2010. Assessing Officer passed an assessment order under section 143(3) and levied interest under section 234B without making any adjustment of seized cash and FDRs against tax liability of assessees. Commissioner (Appeals) held that assessees were entitled to adjustment of seized Cash/FDRs against self-assessment tax liability from date on which period of 120 days was over in terms of section 132B and had upheld action of Assessing Officer in charging interest under section 234B. On appeal the Tribunal held that application made by assessees was well within prescribed period, 30 days from end of month in which assets were seized. Further, seized cash and FDRs were from disclosed source of income from respective assessees only. As per section 132B(1), Assessing Officer ought to have adjusted seized cash and FDRs against tax liability while framing regular assessment and, therefore, there was no question of levy of interest under section 234B up to 15-9-2010. Therefore, Commissioner (Appeals) was not justified in confirming interest charged under section 243B. The Assessing Officer is directed to rework computation in accordance with provisions of law. Tribunal also held that FDRs cannot be treated as money referred in section 132B(4)(b). Accordingly, mere seizure of FDRs, assessee had not suffered any pecuniary loss by way of loss of interest, no interest under section 132B (4) could be granted to assessee. (AY. 2010-11)

The liability to pay a fee for delay in filing the statement of tax deducted at source gets attracted under sub-section (1) of section 234E of the Income-tax Act, 1961 once a person fails to deliver or cause to be delivered a statement within the time prescribed in sub-section (3) of section 200 or the proviso to sub-section (3) of section 206C of the Act and the liability shall continue for every day during which the failure continues. Sub-section (4) of section 234E of the Act provides that these provisions would apply to the statement referred to in sub-section (3) of section 200 of the Act which is to be delivered or cause to be delivered on or after July 1, 2012. Section 200A(1)(c) was amended with effect from June 1, 2015. Section 234E of the Act by itself creates a liability and the liability to pay the late fee is not dependent on section 200A(1)(c) of the Act which only prescribes the recovery mechanism and reflects the true intent and purpose of section 234E. S. 237: Refunds-Disability pension-Retired Officer of Indian Army -Arrears of disability pension received in December 2008 -Entitled to exemption -Strictures -Court directed the Revenue for refund of tax paid by assessee with interest at 9 per cent per annum within one month with costs of RS. 1 lakh. If the payment was not made within the stipulated period interest was to be paid at 18 per cent per annum from the date of entitlement till actual payment -Delay of 279 days, SLP of Revenue is dismissed. [Pension Regulations for the Army, Rule, 173, Art. 136] 2469

The assessee is a disabled officer of the Indian army who was commissioned on March 23, 1975 and retired on November 31, 2008 with service pension. The assesse filed revised return within 20 days of the receipt of the amount on implementation of the court's orders whereby he was granted arrears of disability pension and this was within the time stipulated in the Central Board of Direct Taxes Circular No. 2009 of 2015. The assessee's claim to refund of the Income-tax for the past years on his exempted income of disability pension was rejected. The assessee again approached the authority through the portal of the Government of India and even this was rejected. On a writ petition allowing the petition, the Court held that Circular No. 13 of 2019 dated June 24, 2019 ([2019] 415 ITR (St.) 209), Supreme Court order dated August 30, 2019, Circular No. 210 dated February 20, 2020 and Circular No. 211 dated March 3, 2020 were not disputed by the Department. No explanation has been given as to why under Circular dated July 2, 2001, once the disability pension was exempted from Income-tax why this benefit was not given to the assessee. Hence, the order is not valid. Court directed the Revenue for refund of tax paid by assessee with interest at 9 per cent per annum within one month with costs of Rs. 1 lakh. If the payment was not made within the stipulated period, interest was to be paid at 18 per cent per annum from the date of entitlement till actual payment. SLP of Revenue is dismissed as the delay of 279 days is not condoned.

On the basis of order of Tribunal, the assessee was entitled for refund for the assessment year 2013-14. Assessing Officer refused to refund amount on grounds that proceedings for subject assessment year were pending before DRP and in interregnum refund payable had been adjusted towards what could be a possible demand for assessment proceedings pending for reconsideration for assessment year 2010-11. On writ the Court held that since there is no recoverable demand from assessee as of today and adjustment was in anticipation of conclusion of a particular proceeding in a possible manner without due process and a levy could not be unless, it is with authority of law, Assessing Officer is directed to refund amount to assessee. [S. 119(2)(b), 139(4), Art. 226]

The application for condonation of delay of application for refund is rejected by the Commissioner. On writ, the assessee's contended that the assessee had filed the revised return based on Form 16A, which showed the TDS on rental income, and that he had declared a higher loss in the revised return. He also contended that the Circular dated 30.10.2003, which was applicable to his case, had increased the limit of the refund amount from Rs. 1,00,000 to Rs. 5,00,000, and had relaxed/modified the conditions stipulated in the earlier circular which the revenue purportedly made a reference to, laying restrictive conditions on such subsequent claim for refund/losses. He contended that his claim was for a refund of TDS only, and not for any additional income and that he had filed the application for condonation of delay in good faith. The revenue contended that the assessee's claim was supplementary, as he had filed the revised return after the original return had been processed, and that he had not disclosed the rental income or the TDS in the original return. Thus, rejection is valid. Further, the revenue relying on the Circular dated 12.10.1993, (which laid down the conditions for condoning the delay in filing the return and granting refund) rejected the application for condonation. The assessee contended that the revenue failed to draw any reference to the circular dated 30.10.2003 which was effective and in force on the given day when the impugned order was passed. The Hon'ble High Court allowed the writ petition filed by the assessee, who sought condonation of delay in filing a revised return for the assessment year 2001-02, claiming refund of tax deducted at source (TDS) on rental income. The court held that the revenue authorities had failed to consider the Instruction No. 12 of 2003, dated 30.10.2003, which had relaxed the conditions for granting refunds in such cases. The court also held that the assessee had not made any additional income while filing the revised return and that his claim was not supplementary in nature as per the said Instruction given that the refund claim was based on Form 16A for TDS on rental income, which was part of the original scope of income reporting. Directed to refund the tax deducted at source. (AY. 2001-02)

The petitioner filed the writ petition due to the failure to issue a refund with interest. Department contended that the interest system under the control of Centralized

Allowing the petition the Court held that, the standard excuse given by the Income Tax Department is that the refund cannot be processed due to technical issues at the CPC. The High Court reprimanded the Department, stating that the interest is payable in law until the date of refund, and the Department failed to realise that it is the public money used to pay interest, which is a burden on the exchequer. A copy of the Order was asked to be sent to the Office of the Honourable Prime minster, The Hon'ble Finance Minister GOI, The Hon'ble Law Minister, the Central Board of Direct Taxes and to the Attorney General for India for information and necessary action. The orders u/s 201(1) / (1A) were passed by the AO determining the tax liability with interest for the alleged default of non-deduction of tax at source for the payments made on various remittances for purchase, installation and supervision charges. Aggrieved by the order of the CIT (Appeals) upholding the AO's order, the Assessee filed the appeal before the ITAT, which had been decided in favour of the Assessee. However, during the pendency of the appeal, on insistence of the department, the Assessee had deposited the outstanding tax amount with interest under the protest. The AO passed the orders giving effect to the ITAT's order u/s 254 for a refund of certain amount, but not paid to the Assessee on the ground that the Assessee had not filed its application on TRACES portal in prescribed form 26B. On Writ, the Hon'ble Court observed that Section 240 dealt with refund of any amount that becomes due to Assessee as a result of any order passed in appeal or other proceedings and mandates that the AO shall refund the amount to the Assessee without having make on claim on that behalf in the event of refund becomes due as a result an order was passed in appeal. The Hon'ble Court further observed that the non-functionality of the TRACES portal shall not be ground for denying the benefit arising out of the statutory provisions under the Act. S. 244: Refunds -Interest on refunds -Not entitle to interest at the rate of 18 per cent -Salary paid in arrears or in advance -Refundable amount -Relief under section 89 is to be considered at time of calculating payable amount of tax there is no provision in Act to refund amount of relief granted under section 89 as it is [S. 89(1), 237, Art. 226] 2478
Assessee was an employee of a bank. Assessing Officer allowed relief under section 89 of Rs. 2,81,797 to assessee. He further granted refund of Rs. 2,05,030 to assessee. Assessee submitted before High Court that principal refundable amount should be equal to amount of relief, i. e., Rs. 2,81,797 instead of Rs. 2,05,030 calculated by Assessing Officer. Court held that, since refundable amount of Rs. 2,05,030 was calculated by Assessing Officer after considering relief of Rs. 2,81,797 as claimed by assessee under section 89 and Chartered Accountant attached to High Court also verified refund of Rs. 2,05,030, there was no mistake on part of Assessing Officer in calculation of refundable amount to tune of Rs. 2,05,030. High Court directed Assessing Officer to refund due amount to assessee with allowable interest. Assessing Officer granted refund to assessee along with interest calculated at rate of 0.5 per cent per month. Assessee submitted before High Court that High Court earlier directed Assessing Officer to pay amount of refund along with interest, therefore, principal amount could not be treated as refund and it was judgment debt and, therefore, he was entitled for simple interest at rate of 18 per cent per annum. Since Chartered Accountant attached to High Court also mentioned in his report that interest was payable at rate of 0.5 per cent per month and assessee had not suggested any provision under which he was entitled to interest at rate of 18 per cent per annum and it was also not pointed by assessee that if amount of refund be considered as judgment debt then under which provision same will fetch interest at rate of 18 per cent per annum, there was no error in calculation of interest. S. 244A: Refunds -Interest on refunds -Non-Functionality of Department's Portal -Amalgamation -Delay was not attributable to assessee -Entitled to additional interest -Interpretation of Taxing Statutes -Application of principles of equity. [S. 153(5), 244A (1), 250, Art. 226] 2479
Allowing the petition the Court held that the denial of additional interest was based on the following reasons, namely, amalgamation of the assessee, non-availability of the functionality of the Department's portal and the prevailing covid-19 situation. The primary rationale behind denying refund to the assessee by the Revenue was nonfunctionality of the portal due to the amalgamation of the assessee. It was the case of the Revenue that due to the amalgamation of the assessee, the appeal effect order could not be passed on the old permanent account number of the assessee since it was non-existent. It was also the case of the Revenue that in case, the appeal effect was given on the new permanent account number, there was no functionality on the Departmental portal to migrate the tax credit from the old permanent account number to the new permanent account number of the assessee. The responsibility imposed upon the assessee to intimate the Revenue the scheme of amalgamation, stood fulfilled. The amalgamation was permissible and had duly been carried out. It could not, at a later stage, be treated to be detrimental to the interest of the assessee and that too, for denying statutory benefits. Furthermore, the non-functionality of the Departmental portal due to the deletion of the old permanent account number of the assessee, pursuant to the amalgamation of the assessee, in all possibility, could never come under the umbrella of section 244A(2) of the Act, i. e., delay attributable to the assessee. The non-functionality of the portal was an administrative difficulty on the part of the Revenue. The technical glitch of the portal maintained by the Revenue which had not incorporated appropriate provisions for the transfer of tax credit in lieu of the amalgamation of the assessee was a contingency which the Revenue ought to have resolved. Thus, the non-functionality of the portal could not have been attributed to the assessee and statutory interest could not be denied by taking resort to section 244A(2) of the Act.

Court also held that concomitants of the principles of equity can be resorted to when the remedy prescribed under the law is impermissible or unjustified. It is a trite position of law that principle of equity is not the panacea to cure any defect rather it can only supplement the law and not supplant it. It was not the case of the Revenue that the covid-19 pandemic was attributable to the assessee. The Revenue may have had some difficulties in dealing with such instances, but that would not absolve the Revenue from the rigour of section 244A(1A) of the Act. Notably, since the Revenue had already granted the interest under section 244A(1) of the Act without attributing any delay to the assessee, there was no cogent reason for not granting additional interest as mandatorily prescribed under section 244A(1A) of the Act. In fact, the reasons of delay attributed to the assessee were without any logical explanation and lacked merit. Revenue is directed to grant the statutorily prescribed interest as mandated under section 244A(1A) of the Act to the assessee, with due expediency. (AY. 2010-11)

2480 S. 244A: Refunds -Interest on refunds -Instructions of Central Board Of Direct Taxes -Failure to refund amounts payable under Form 5 issued Under Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act, 2020 Read With Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Rules, 2020 -Assessee entitled to interest on refund for period from date of issue of Form 5 till date of payment. [S. 237, Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act, 2020, Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Rules, 2020, Art. 226]

Held, allowing the petition, that since form 5 under the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020 read with the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Rules, 2020 had been issued on June 15, 2021, the jurisdictional Assessing Officer was duty bound to have passed consequential orders and issued refunds latest by July 31, 2021. The assessee was entitled to refund which ought to have been processed and paid latest by July 31, 2021. Since the amount had been paid only on May 26, 2023, the assessee was entitled to interest on the refund amount for the period from August 1, 2021 till May 26, 2023 at the rate of 6 per cent. per year which was the rate prescribed under section 244A.

S. 244A: Refunds -Interest on refunds -The Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas (DTVSV) Act, 2020-Delayed payment -Entitle to interest on refund amount of delay beyond period of 90 days from date of refund. [The Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas (DTVSV) Act, 2020, S. 7, Form Nos, 3, 4, 5] 2481

Assessee filed an application for dispute relating to assessment year 2013-14 and after making necessary compliance got Form No. 3 of DTVSV Act indicating a refund of certain amount. On filing Form No. 4, assessee received Form No. 5 from revenue under DTVSV Act indicating that full and final settlement had been done in accordance with Form No. 3. Pursuant to Form Nos. 3 and 5 as issued by revenue under DTVSV Act, assessee made several representations for issuing refund of certain amount. After making several requests, assessee received/got adjustment against demands for certain amount, however, no interest was paid for delayed payment. On writ the Court held that perusal of Form No. 5 clearly revealed that order had been passed by designated authority under DTVSV Act and Rules determining amount refundable to assessee in accordance with provisions of Act. Therefore, once order in Form No. 5 had been issued, assessee became entitled for amount of refund and since said amount was refunded to assessee/ adjustment towards demands after more than 90 days from date of determination of refund amount, assessee would be entitled to interest on refund amount for delay beyond period of 90 days from date of refund. S. 244A: Refunds -Interest on refunds -Payment of excess amount of equalisation levy -Entitle to interest on equalisation levy up to payment of refund. [Finance Act, 2016, S. 166, 168, Art. 226] 2482

Assessee filed its statement of specified income disclosing total consideration for specified services and equalisation levy thereon. After declaring total levy paid, refund was claimed. Refund was paid after petition was filed, however, no interest was paid on amount refunded. On writ the Court held that since assessee had paid amount in excess of what was due and liable to be paid, it should equally be compensated with interest. Therefore, assessee would be entitled to interest on amount refunded from 1-4-2018 (end of financial year in which excess tax was paid by assessee) up to date of payment of refund to assessee. Held that in computing the interest payable to the assessee on refund under section 244A the Assessing Officer had to grant interest on the amounts paid pursuant to the demands raised, and the advance tax, tax deducted at source and self-assessment tax. It is a cardinal principle of interpretation that the words in a statute must be given their natural and ordinary meaning(AY. 1989-90)

2484 S. 244A: Refunds -Interest on refunds -Delay in application under circumstances beyond control of assessee -Delay is condoned -Entitled to interest on refund -Money held without authority -Directed to grant interest under section 244A. [S. 194LA, Form No. 16A, 26AS, R. 31(3), Art. 226]

In the return of income filed by the assessee, interest on the delayed refund of tax deducted at source from interest was also claimed. However, no interest on delayed refund was granted by the petitioner. On a writ petition the Court held that the assessees were not at fault for not filing the return of income to claim the refund as the deductor, i. e., the Executive Engineer, Irrigation Department neither informed the assessee about the deduction of tax nor was form 16A which is mandatory, issued. On the contrary, when the assessees made representations by informing the Executive Engineer, Irrigation Department about the wrong mentioning of the provision for deduction of tax in form 26AS issued as per return of tax deducted at source to be filed by the deductor, no reply was given. It was clear that the assessees were not at fault for the delay caused in filing the return of income claiming the refund of the tax deducted at source as no tax was payable by the assessee on the amount of interest under section 194LA of the Act. Even as per sub-section (2) of section 244A of the Act, as it existed during the relevant assessment year 2013-14, when the proceedings resulting in the refund were not delayed for reasons attributable to the assessee whether wholly or in part, the period of the delay so attributable only can be excluded from the period for which interest is payable under sub-section (1) or (1A) or (1B) to section 244A of the Act. In the facts of the case, the words "or the deductor, as the case may be," which were inserted with effect from April 1, 2017 would not be applicable as the assessees had been permitted to file the refund claim for the assessment year 2013-14 after condonation of delay and such delay in claiming the refund could not be said to be attributable to the assessees as the assessees were not made aware about the deduction of tax at source by the deductor in the absence of issuance of form 16A which was mandatorily required as per rule 31(3) of the 1962 Rules. S. 244A: Refunds -Interest on refunds -Section 7 of Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act, 2020 (DTVSV Act, 2020) is a complete code by itself and if case is to be settled under it, no interest under section 244A is available. [S. 154, 245, DTVSV Act, 2020, S. 3, 4(1), 7, Art. 226] 2485

Petitioner opted to settle disputes under DTVSV Act, 2020 by filing declarations in Form-1 on 31-1-2021 for ten assessment years starting from assessment year 1999-2000 up to assessment year 2008-09 before Designated Authority in terms of section 4(1). For period in dispute i. e., assessment year 1999-2000 to assessment year 2002-03, Deputy Commissioner, International Taxation had issued orders dated 29-1-2021 under section 154 and ordered refund of amounts after adjusting tax liability from refunds due for assessment years 2004-05 & 2005-06 under section 245. Petitioner had adjusted refundable amounts from assessment year 2004-05 and assessment year 2005-06 towards amounts payable by petitioner for assessment years 1999-2000 to 2002-03 years in Form-1-Designated Authority accepted adjustment and ordered refund of amounts to petitioner but declined to interest under section 244A on delayed payments/adjustments of refund. On writ the Court held that section 7 of DTVSV Act, 2020 is a complete code by itself and if case is to be settled under it, no interest under section 244-A is available. Accordingly, the amounts adjusted and appropriated towards tax liability for assessment years 1999-2000 and 2000-01 under provisions of DTVSV Act from and out of refunds due for assessment years 2004-05 and 2005-06 were to be treated as amount paid by petitioner for assessment year 1999-2000 and assessment year 2000-01 under DTVSV Act, 2020 and consequently, department was to be directed to process excess amount quantified as refundable in section 154 orders dated 29-1-2021 for those assessment years together with interest under section 244-A for assessment years 2004-05 and 2005-06, subject to limitation that no declaration was filed for assessment year 2004-05 and assessment year 2005-06. Amount of tax that had been ordered to be refunded for rest of two assessment years i. e., assessment year 2001-02 and assessment year 2002-03, was concerned; excess amounts were refundable because of section 7 of DTVSV Act but petitioner was not entitled to interest under section 244-A for these two assessment years in view of Explanation to section 7 of DTVSV Act. S. 244A: Refunds -Interest on refunds –Lease rent on the basis of actual production days -Deducted TDS on higher on the basis of anticipating tax liability -Excess TDS paid is directed to be refund with interest. [S. 195, Art. 226, 265] 2486

Assessee-company is engaged in manufacturing and trading of moulded plastic items. During year, assessee had imported moulds from Dart USA under Rental Agreement and had made certain payments. As per agreement, mould lease rent was agreed to be paid by assessee on basis of actual production days. Later on, due to change in method for charging rent on mould lease, certain deliberations were made between assessee and Dart USA to increase said rent. However, before negotiations could be finalized, assessee made a provision for higher rental in its books of account and pursuant to revised estimate, assessee made a deduction of TDS on higher side and deposited same. Subsequently, increase in mould lease rent did not happen which resulted in excess deposit of TDS amounting. Accordingly, assessee made an application before

Commissioner for a refund of higher tax deducted which was denied. On writ, the Court held that since no income had accrued to Dart USA qua excess TDS paid by assessee and consequently, no right of retention of excess TDS paid by assessee vests in Commissioner. Even otherwise, Commissioner was not entitled to withhold excess TDS deposited by assessee in lieu of anticipated liability for concerned assessment year as same would amount to collection of tax without any authority of law and, therefore, was to be directed to issue a refund of excess TDS with interest. [S. 143(1), Art. 226]
Assessee, a Limited Liability Company (LLC) incorporated in USA, sold equity shares in India to a buyer in USA who deducted income tax at 20 per cent of sale consideration. Assessee filed its return of income declaring a total income and claimed refund. Upon examining return, an intimation was issued under section 143(1) informing assessee that it was entitled to a certain refund. However, as refund was not made, assessee raised grievances with Central Processing Centre (CPC) that it was unable to input its foreign bank account details by imputing SWIFT code and IBAN as per ITR. After being informed orally that refund claim could not be processed unless a bank account was set up in India, assessee set up a bank account in India and said bank account was validated by revenue on 7-7-2023 and refund was made in October 2023 without interest. On writ, the Court held that when assessee requested department to enable assessee to provide SWIFT Code and IBAN, delay in processing of return could not be attributed to assessee and thus, revenue was to be directed to pay interest on refund amount at rate specified in section 244A from 1-5-2022 to 5-10-2023. S. 244A: Refunds -Interest on refunds –Since the refund was due to the assessee pursuant to rectification carried out u/s. 154 and arising out of the tax deducted at source up to 31.03.2017 the interest was to be paid to the assessee for period from 1. 4. 2017 to the date of granting refund. [S. 154] 2491

The assessee originally filed the return on 29.11.2017 claiming TDS credit of Rs. 81,86,10,024/-. It was finally revised in the revised return on 30.03.2019 claiming TDS on Rs. 75,14,12,726/- and refund of Rs. 2,89,36,036/-. Thereafter, the assessee's case was scrutinized by issuing of notice u/s. 143(2). Assessment order was passed on 29. 05. 2021 and refund was granted of Rs. 3,31,49,723/-. No interest u/s. 244A of the Act was given because the TDS was less than 10% of the total tax liability. Thereafter, on 06.06.2022, assessee moved a rectification application and one of the points of its application was that the assessee is entitled to substantial MAT credit brought forward from earlier years. The claim of the assessee was accepted and refund was granted with interest thereon for a period of five months. The assessee filed appeal before CIT(A) claiming interest from 1.4.2017. However, the CIT(A) rejected the contentions and upheld order passed by the AO. On further appeal, the Tribunal after analysing provisions section 244A of the Act held that for the purpose of calculating interest, assessee's return shall always be treated to be filed u/s. 139(1) of the Act accordingly the interest u/s. 244A of the Act in the case of the assessee for AY 2017/18 needs to be computed from 01. 04. 2017 to the date of grant of refund. Assessee claimed refund of dividend distribution tax (DDT). Assessing Officer issued order granting refund of DDT, however did not grant interest under section 244(A). Assessee filed rectification application. Assessing Officer passed order under section 154 and denied interest claimed by assessee on ground that intention of legislature was to grant refund of excess payment made for regular payment or penalty, where notice was issued under section 156 however, in assessee's case no such demand notice was served under section 156. CIT(A) has up held the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that in case similar to assessee, Supreme Court held that interest payment was a statutory obligation and non-discretionary in nature to assessee and section 244A grants substantive right of interest and was not procedural. Interest under section 244A is granted on refund of Dividend Distribution Tax (DDT). (AY. 2014-15)

[S. 244A(IA)]

Assessee filed its return claiming refund of certain amount. Refund was granted and certain interest was also granted to assessee. Subsequently, a co-ordinate Bench of Tribunal passed an order giving relief to assessee. Assessing Officer passed an order giving effect to said Tribunal's order and granted certain refund to assessee. However, Assessing Officer did not grant interest on refund. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had reduced interest only to extent it was determined at point of issuance of earlier refunds, thus, leading to larger adjustment of refund towards tax component as against interest component. Therefore, manner in which Assessing Officer had adjusted refund was not correct and assessee would be entitled for interest on unpaid refunds. Assessing Officer is directed to compute correct amount of interest allowable to assessee by first adjusting amount of refund already granted towards interest component and balance left, if any, towards tax component. Held that provision of sub-section (1A) to section 244A is inserted by Finance Act, 2016 as a remedial measure to compensate assessee in cases where there are delays in granting refunds due on account of delay in passing order giving effect to appellate or revisional orders. Therefore, provisions of section 244A(1A) would be applicable from 1-6-2016 till date of actual receipt of refund. (AY. 1993-94)

During the pendency of assessment proceedings, assessee filed application before Settlement Commission under section 245C on 30-3-2021. Assessing Officer, however, completed assessment proceedings and passed assessment orders on 27-7-2021 on ground that applications were filed before Settlement Commissioner after cessation of settlement commission. CBDT came out with a press release dated 7-9-2021, directing to admit all applications filed after 31-1-2021 and before 30-9-2021. On writ the Court held that application filed by assessee under section 245C would be an eligible application though filed after 31-1-2021 and same was required to be considered as pending application for adjudication on merits. On writ allowing the petitions the Court held that the eligibility condition in the circular issued under section 119(2)(b) should be read as March 31, 2021 and not as January 31, 2021 since the Finance Act, 2021 ([2021] 432 ITR (St.) 52) was notified with effect from April 1, 2021 and therefore the eligibility of the assessee to file the application for the settlement had to be considered from immediately preceding date. The order passed by the Interim Board for Settlement holding the applications filed by the assessee was invalid and, was not sustainable in view of the decisions of the Madras and Bombay High Courts and reading down the eligibility conditions would be applicable PAN India. That the applications filed by the assessees between February 1, 2021 and March 31, 2021 shall be deemed to be the pending applications and should be applications for the purpose of consideration by the Interim Board for Settlement considering the last date of eligibility mentioned in para 4(i) of the circular dated September 28, 2021 ([2021] 438 ITR (St.) 5) should be read as March 31, 2021 by reading down the last date February 1, 2021 as March 31, 2021 in section 245C(5) as amended by the Finance Act, 2021 ([2021] 432 ITR (St.) 52). The orders of the Interim Board for Settlement were therefore, set aside and the applications filed by the assessees should be deemed to be pending applications for consideration by the Interim Board, if otherwise, in order and eligible and should be dealt with in accordance with law on the merits and in accordance with the scheme that would be framed by the Central Government as in respect of the other cases which were pending as on January 31, 2021. During the period from August 2022 to September 2023, settlement proceedings were conducted by the Interim Board for Settlement constituted by the Central Government pursuant to the notification dated August 10, 2021 ([2021] 436 ITR (St.) 48). The assessee from time to time pursued the proceedings before the Interim Board for Settlement. On September 22, 2021, the assessee refiled the settlement application pursuant to the press release on September 7, 2021, and paid additional interest for the period of March 2021 to September 2021. The application was rejected. On a writ petition allowing the petition, that the order passed by the Interim Board for Settlement rejecting the assessee's application under section 245C for settlement of case on the ground that the conditions as incorporated in paragraph 4 of the Central Board of Direct Taxes notification dated September 28, 2021 ([2021] 438 ITR (St.) 5) issued under section 119(2)(b) were applicable since it was contrary to the decision of this court which had struck down paragraph 4 as being ultra vires of the parent Act, was illegal and unsustainable. *(Sar Senapati Ghorpade Sugar Factory Ltd v ACIT (2024) 470 ITR 723 (Bom.) Vishwakarma Developers v. CBDT (2024)468 ITR 686 / 165 taxmann.com 391 (Bom.) (HC)

S. 245C: Settlement Commission -Fixing the last date for filing of application -When the Department has extended the last date from 1st Feb., 2021 to 30th Sept., 2021, it can only extend the deadline but cannot introduce a new concept of eligibility as on 1st Feb., 2021 which is not there in the Act itself -Condition imposed by the Notification dt. 28th September, 2021 of CBDT is invalid and bad in law -Petitioner has the right to approach the Settlement Commission. [S. 119(2)(b), 245C (5), Art. 226] 2499

Allowing the petition the Court held that Madras High Court in Jain Metal Rolling Mills v UOI (2023) 335 CTR 761 / 232 DTR 331 (Mad.) (HC) has held that the eligibility condition in the impugned notification dt. 28th Sept., 2021 issued under S 119(2)(b) should be read as 31st March, 2021 and not 31st Jan., 2021 as the Finance Act, 2021 was notified, w. e. f. 1st April, 2021, and, therefore, the eligibility of an assessee is to be considered from the immediately preceding date. In view of the decision of the Madras High Court, the impugned notice/order dt. 16th Sept., 2021, passed by respondent No. 1 holding assessee's application as invalid and bad in law is clearly not sustainable. That apart, retrospective legislation cannot affect vested rights. When the Department has extended the last date from 1st Feb., 2021 to 30th Sept., 2021, it can only extend the deadline but cannot introduce a new concept of eligibility as on 1st Feb., 2021 which is not there in the Act itself. Though the CBDT relaxed the rigours of the provisions of the Act for the benefit of assessees, it is not open to the CBDT to put in new rigours or impediments to the rights of an assessee in a press release or a notification which is contrary to the provisions of the Act-Sub-s. (5) of S. 245C, even though inserted with retrospective effect from 1st Feb., 2021, can be given effect to only after the date when the assent of the President of India was received to promulgate the Finance Act, 2021. Assessee had already made the application on 18th March, 2021 when sub-s. (5) of s. 245C was not in the statute and hence, assessee had made the valid application as per the provisions of the Act. Purport of sub-S. (5) is not to make an application already filed after 1st Feb., 2021 as invalid but it should be read as no application shall be made after 1st Feb., 2021 once the assent of the President of India has been received. But before receipt of the assent, any application made by an assessee will not be hit by sub-s. (5) of S. 245C. That apart, if the notice under S. 153A would have been issued on or before 31st Jan., 2021, assessee would have been eligible to make an application. Therefore, when the eligibility is dependent on the action of respondent No. 1 to issue a notice and when respondent No. 1 issues a notice after inordinate delay from the search, respondent No. 1 should not be entitled to claim that assessee has lost its right to approach the Settlement Commission on account of such delayed action of respondent No. 1 itself. As a result of search conducted under section 132 on himself and his group filed an application under section 245C before Interim Board for Settlement for settlement of cases. Commissioner in his report submitted to Settlement Commission stated that assessee did not have any basis for apportionment of unaccounted expenditure and unaccounted income between himself and company and also said that assessee had not made full and true disclosure in application. Settlement commission held that assessee despite opportunity having been granted to him during hearing did not explain basis for apportionment of unaccounted sales, expenditure and income between himself and company and concluded that assessee had not come before it with clean hands and had not offered full and true particulars of his income and rejected application. On writ dismissing the petition, the Court held that since Settlement Commission had taken a correct view that assessee failed to disclose true and correct facts before it in his application and did not approach it with clean hands, there was no ground to interfere with order of Settlement Commission. The Assessee/Applicant filed an application before the Settlement Commission, disclosing certain additions not reported in the return of income. The Settlement Commission made an addition towards share capital, noting that it was derived from individuals who either did not exist or were identified as accommodation entry operators. The assessee failed to provide substantial evidence to substantiate the authenticity of the share capital. Further, the assessee did not disclose the additional income towards share capital at the threshold stage of the settlement application. Despite these shortcomings, the Settlement Commission allowed the application, made the additions on share capital, and granted immunity from penalty and prosecution. The Revenue challenged this decision, arguing that the application lacked full and true disclosure, a prerequisite for the Settlement Commission to assume jurisdiction. The High Court observed that if an application lacks full and true disclosure, the Settlement Commission loses jurisdiction to entertain such applications or grants immunity from penalty and prosecution. The High Court set aside the order of the Settlement Commission, citing the Supreme Court's decision in the case of Ajmera Housing. The Hon'ble Supreme Court dismissed the Special Leave Petition filed by the assessee, upholding the High Court's decision. (AY. 2001-02 to 2007-08)

Assessee-firm is carrying out mining activities. A search and seizure operation was carried out at mines allotted to assessee and it was found that assessee had carried on excess mining and assessee had grossly suppressed actual quantity of production of manganese ore. Thereafter, revenue prepared a volumetric report through a private architect to demonstrate total volume of manganese ore extracted by assessee. Assessee filed application under section 245C before Settlement Commission and disclosed unaccounted income and also paid taxes. However, Settlement Commission declared settlement application filed by asseseee as abated on account of it not being true and full disclosure of unaccounted income on basis of volumetric report dismissed the settlement application. On writ the Court held that private architect was merely qualified as bachelor in civil engineering and he did not have basic qualification of a geologist. Moreover, stripping ratio was not calculated properly and, thus, there were fundamental errors in volumetric measurement report. Further, report submitted by private architect was also not scientific and authentic. High Court held that since Settlement Commissioner dismissed statutory mining plan prepared under Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957 and approved by IBM and even dismissed report prepared by state government and mining officer as per direction of High Court and merely relied on volumetric report prepared by private architect, order passed by Settlement Commission is quashed. High Court also held that writ petition against Survey report prepared by a private architect to determine total volume of manganese ore extracted by assessee during certain period. Thereafter, assessee withdrew said petition and filed application before Settlement Commission. Settlement Commission by an order passed under section 245D(4) declared settlement application filed by assessee as abated on account of it not being true and full disclosure of unaccounted income on basis of volumetric report. High Court held that Settlement Commission had erred in upholding survey report merely on basis of withdrawal of writ petition filed before High Court. High Court also held that withdrawal of writ petition did not close any of rights of assessee to raise issue of illegality of survey report before Settlement Commission and, thus, by withdrawal of writ petition matter of challenge to volumetric measurement report could not become final. High Court remanded the matter to Settlement Commission. SLP filed against order of High Court is dismissed.

In such circumstances, the issue regarding delay in filing the return and the contention of the Department that the Settlement Commission had wrongly allowed the deduction under section 80-IA(4) of the Act, without taking into consideration the aspect of delay, did not survive. That on the question whether the assessee was only a works contractor, and the benefit of the provisions relating to work undertaken for infrastructural development had wrongly been allowed by the Settlement Commission, the Settlement Commission had discussed these aspects extensively and had recorded a finding in that regard. The finding in favour of the assessee was a finding of fact and did not warrant interference by the court in writ proceedings. SLP of Revenue is dismissed.

[S. 153A, 245C, 245D(4), Art. 226]

The bunch of Writ Petitions filed before the Hon'ble Delhi High Court sought to challenge the common order of the ITSC on the ground that the addition made by the ITSC on account of commission and margin money was de hors the provisions of the Act and mandate of law prescribed in Chapter XIX-A. The Hon'ble Court observed that once application for settlement is accepted by the ITSC, it is bestowed with an authority to issue an order upon examination of records and report provided by the CIT. Thus, the power of ITSC to pass an order is not limited only to the aspects covered by the application for settlement preferred by the assessee, rather the ITSC is empowered to render a decision on such issues which find a mention in the report of the CIT or PCIT. Primary objective of settlement provisions is to entrust upon ITSC the mandate to compromise with the errant taxpayers which is strikingly different from the power of regular assessment employed by the AO in order to put an end to protracted litigations. Thus, it was ultimately held that addition made by ITSC was not manifestly erroneous as ITSC has meticulously exercised its powers taking into consideration the underlying intent of settlement process. Order of Settlement Commission is affirmed. Writ petition of Assessee is dismissed. (AY. 2010-11 to 2015-16)

[S. 115BBE, 132, 245D(4), 245I, Art. 226]

Assessee is an individual assessee and its source of income was from salaries. Search under section 132 was conducted by department during which records/documents and jewellery was seized and an undisclosed income was offered for tax. However, additional income offered before Settlement Commission was stated to be an amount constituting cash gifts received from relatives and well-wishers. Assessee also filed affidavit declaring that she had not maintained details of cash gifts. However, Settlement Commission observed that if indeed assessee had disclosed cash gifts as cash in hand in wealth tax returns, alleged unaccounted cash would have stood explained as noticed in search and there would have been no occasion for disclosure as made before Settlement Commission. Accordingly, Settlement Commission deemed additional income offered for tax as being fair and reasonable. The Revenue filed writ petition before the High Court on the ground that the order of Settlement Commission is not proper. Dismissing the petition the Court held that since assessee filed an affidavit under Rule 8 of Income-tax Settlement Commission (Procedure) Rules, 1997 explaining receipt of gifts from friends and relatives and such declaration had not been rebutted by revenue by placing any additional facts to contrary, conclusion of Settlement Commission by accepting explanation in spirit of settlement could not be faulted calling for interference in exercise of writ jurisdiction.

PCIT v. Umah Agarwal (Smt.) (2024) 300 Taxman 493 /(2025) 474 ITR 253 (Karn.) (HC)

S. 245D: Settlement Commission -Settlement of cases -Settlement Commission has wide power under Chapter XIX-A -High Court can interfere only if decision of Settlement Commission is not in accordance with provisions of Act or if it were based on bias, fraud and malice. [S. 80IB(10), 245D(4), 245I, 292C(i)(ii), Art. 226] 2513

The Settlement Commission passed an order dated July 31, 2013 under section 245D(4) of the Act whereby the Settlement Commission allowed the assessee's settlement application and also granted immunity from penalty and prosecution. Admittedly, in the statement of the assessee's director recorded under section 132(4) of the Act, the assessee offered additional income of Rs. 12,16,83,252 which included Rs. 11,95,51,448 on account of alleged bogus purchases. The Settlement Commission allowed capitalization to the extent of Rs. 8,33,53,000 and consequently held depreciation may be allowed. On a writ petition against the order the Revenue contended that on the claim of deduction made by the assessee under section 80-IB(10) of the Act a sum of Rs. 2,07,51,048 should be treated as income from other sources. It also submitted that the capitalisation was erroneous. Dismissing the writ petition, the Court held that it was the Revenue's case that the claim to deduction under section 80IB(10) of the Act was not examined in accordance with section 245D(3). Calling for a report is solely at the discretion of the Settlement Commission and the court should not interfere with an exercise of discretion by the Settlement Commission. Moreover, an ad hoc disallowance of expenses had been made by the Revenue for the assessment years 2005-06, 2006-07, 2007-08, 2008-09 in the assessment order passed under section 143(3) read with section 153A of the Act for those years. Detailed working and explanation in respect thereof was already available as a part of the settlement application and submissions. The issue raised being a question of fact as to the quantum of deduction to be allowed under section 80-IB(10) of the Act could never qualify as ground for interference by this court under article 226 of the Constitution of India. That the assessee was subjected to search and seizure action under section 132 of the Act on March 29, 2011. In the course of search, the investigation team of the Revenue came across a diary which was seized and showed that the assessee had entered into certain transactions of purchases which were alleged to be bogus. The director of the assessee in his statement recorded under section 132(4) of the Act accepted the total of such bogus purchases at Rs. 11,95,41,448. The seized diary showed that part of the cash generated by the company from bogus purchases was utilized for the purposes of incurring capital expenditure at its office premises. Under the provisions of section 292C(1) the Settlement Commission could presume the document to be true. Since the bogus purchases were offered to tax by deduction from the work-in-progress, the corresponding utilization of the cash towards incurring of capital expenditure was treated as an addition to fixed assets eligible for depreciation. The High Court could not interfere with the order of the Settlement Commission on this ground. Referred, J*yotendrasinhji v. S. I. Tripathi (1993) 201 ITR 611 (SC), Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd. v. Held dismissing the writ petition, that the Settlement Commission was entitled to exercise discretion while passing the order and it had exercised its discretion. There was neither violation of any mandatory procedure prescribed under any of the sections of Chapter XIX-A of the Act nor any violation of any of the rules of natural justice. Further, it could not be said that the reasons assigned by the Settlement Commission for granting relief sought for by the assessee had no nexus to the decision taken. The order of the Settlement Commission was valid. Chapter XIX-A makes it clear that the Settlement Commission exercises many powers which affect all the rights of the parties before it and vests in it powers to grant immunity from prosecution and penalty, to investigate into many matters and to enjoy conclusiveness regarding its orders or settlement. *Jyotendrasinhji v. S. 245D: Settlement Commission -Settlement of cases -Procedure -Application -Infrastructure Development -Works contractor, Settlement Commission after extensive discussion recording finding -Finding of fact -Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 80IA(4), Art. 226] 2516

Dismissing the petition of the Revenue, the issue of filing of returns after the date prescribed by law had been taken up by the assessee before the court in a writ petition whereupon the court had set aside the order passed by the Central Board of Direct Taxes and condoned the delay on the part of the assessee in filing the returns (DILIP BUILDCON LTD. v. UOI (2017) 9 9 ITR-OL 33 (MP) 2016 SCC OnLine MP 12234). Admittedly, the order passed by the court had attained finality as it had not been challenged by the assessee before any higher court. In such circumstances, the issue regarding delay in filing the return and the contention of the Department that the Settlement Commission had wrongly allowed the deduction under section 80-IA(4) of the Act, without taking into consideration the aspect of delay, did not survive. That on the question whether the assessee was only a works contractor, and the benefit of the provisions relating to work undertaken for infrastructural development had wrongly been allowed by the Settlement Commission, the Settlement Commission had discussed these aspects extensively and had recorded a finding in that regard. The finding in favour of the assessee was a finding of fact and did not warrant interference by the court in writ proceedings.

Court held that Section 245D(2C) provides that within 15 days of the receipt of a report, the Commission could declare the application to be invalid, after hearing the applicant. The second proviso also requires that if no report has been furnished within the period, the Commission shall proceed further even in the absence of the report of the Commissioner. Dismissing the petition the Court held that the request for adjournment made on the ground of the officer being deputed for election duty, was considered and rejected. The Commission specifically noticed that the report of the Assessing Officer was due on February 28, 2019, while the general elections were announced only on March, 10, 2019. The Department's request to take up the case after the general elections was also found to be not permissible since the elections would be over only on May 23, 2019 and the applications were getting time barred as on May 31, 2019. The Department was also represented before the Commission. Accordingly, the order under section 245D(1) passed on November 24, 2017 directing the application to be proceeded with is valid. [S. 45 90, 119,245R(2) Art. 13(3) 13(3A), 27A]

The assessees undertook investment activities and earned long-term capital appreciation and investment income. The Assessee made application before Authority for Advance ruling for claiming benefit of double taxation benefit and other reliefs. Authority for Advance Ruling rejected the application. On writ, allowing the petitions, mere routing of investments through Mauritius cannot result in drawing adverse inference or raise presumption of illegality or treaty abuse. Order of Authority for Advance Rulings denying benefits illegal and unsustainable. Certificate of residence issued by Mauritius Authorities would constitute sufficient and valid evidence. Circular No. 682, Dated 30-3-1994 (1994) 207 ITR (St) 7, Circular No. 789, Dated 13-4-2000 (2000) 243 ITR (St) 57. Applicant is not liable to tax on capital gains on transfer of shares to another non-resident. Treaty will prevail over provisions of Act. Subsidiaries have distinct and independent personas. Order of Authority for Advance Rulings holding that Article 13(3A) applicable only to sale of shares of a resident company and thereby that the assessee is not covered by Article 13(3A) is unsustainable. Court also held that the law does not raise a presumption of illegality or disreputability to foreign investments that may be made through entities domiciled in Mauritius. It would be wholly incorrect to presume investments originating from Mauritius as being inherently dubious or disreputable. Thus, the mere fiscal residence of an entity in Mauritius would not give rise to a presumption of infamy or constrain courts to approach such investments through what are metaphorically referred to as tinted lenses. The Supreme Court in unequivocal terms held that there was nothing inherently abhorrent in treaty shopping given the economic compulsions of nations who are desirous of attracting foreign investment. Mauritius and entities domiciled in there are neither liable to be viewed on a negative plane nor are they obliged to satisfy a separate standard of legitimacy. The stand struck by the two Contracting States clearly dispels any assumption of a roll back of the Mauritian route or an avowed intent to place residents of that nation to a stricter degree of proof. The data relating to investments flowing from that nation and in terms of the facilitative Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement regime lays all doubts, in this respect, to rest. The tests of a legitimate investment stand duly incorporated in the Double Taxation Avoidance Agreement between India and Mauritius and the various protocols entered into from time to time representing the exclusion of those which are not intended to reap the benefits of the Convention. The adoption of the limitation of benefits provisions was clearly intended to subserve those objectives. The intent of the Contracting States to adhere to the globally accepted standard of substance over form stands further fortified from the recent protocol which has been executed and is yet to be notified. The Union and the Revenue have accepted the legal position as enunciated in the Supreme Court decisions in UOI v. Azadi Bachao Andolan (2003) 263 ITR 706 (SC) and Vodafone International Holdings B. V. v. UOI (2012) 341 ITR 1 (SC), which had acknowledged the invocation of the substance over form principles to the confined and extremely narrow contingencies where the Revenue may be recognised as being justified in questioning the motives of an investment transaction. The principles of substance over form must be considered to be the prevailing norm and the Revenue is entitled to doubt the bona fides of a transaction only in those situations where it is found that the transaction involves a sham device intended to achieve illegal objectives or formulated based on illegal motives. Held, dismissing the petition, that the power vested under section 220(6) is discretionary and it is not mandatory to direct a pre-deposit of 20 per cent of the assessed amount to obtain stay of deposit at the stage of filing the appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals). The Assessing Officer in the assessment order had given a number of cogent findings against the assessee. The Assessing Officer after analysing a number of relevant facts had held that the transaction between the assessee and the foreign entity was based on "reverse engineering". The assessee had not been able to make out a prima facie case in its favour. The assessee's plea of financial stringency based on its balance-sheet did not inspire confidence as according to the Assessing Officer, the-accounts had not been properly maintained. The court however observed that its view in the writ proceedings should not prejudice either of the parties at the stage of the appellate proceedings.

Writ petitions were filed before the Honourable Gujarat High Court on the ground that the Commissioner of Income Tax (Appeals) are not disposing the pending Appeals on one hand and the recovery proceedings are initiated by the respondent -Income Tax Department for the outstanding demand. Some of the appeals were pending for more than four years. The Revenue has filed an affidavit-in-reply showing the details of total appeals pending before the appellate authority as on 26.09.2024 are as under:

Category	Pending appeals as on 26. 09. 2024
Faceless CIT (A)	3,90,878
Non-Faceless CIT (A)	80,170
JCIT(A)	1,09,140
Total	5,80,188

The Hourable Court directed the Revenue to provide the mechanism for disposal of pending appeals. However, the Revenue has not came out with any concrete proposal or the mechanism for disposal of the pendency of appeals. Honourable Court observed that if the Respondents are not interested in resolution of the issue of pendency of the Appeals the manner in which it ought to have been resolved by classifying the Appeals as per the issues concerning the recurring issues, covered issues, etc. The Court held that no recovery should be made from the assessees during the pendency of the Appeals. Therefore, in all these petitions, there shall be no recovery of any outstanding dues from the petitioners whose Appeals are pending during pendency of petitions.

S. 246A: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Appealable orders -Sole beneficiary of private discretionary Trust -Appeal could be filed beneficiary only and not by trust -Beneficiary is directed to file an appeal before CIT(A) by filing application for condonation of delay. [S. 160, 166, 250] 2524

A minor was the sole beneficiary of the assessee-trust (a private discretionary trust). The Assessing Officer found that the minor during the demonetization period, i. e., 9-11-2016 to 30-12-2016 had deposited certain amount in the bank account of the assessee-trust and having not been satisfied with her explanation as regards the source of cash deposits in the bank framed the assessment in the hands of the minor and held the aforesaid amount as her unexplained money under section 69A. The CIT(A) up held the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that since as per provisions of section 246A an appeal against order of assessment could only be filed before Commissioner (Appeals) by assessee against whom assessment order had been passed and minor was a separate and distinct entity from assessee-trust who had filed appeal before Commissioner (Appeals), order passed by Commissioner (Appeals) suffered from a serious infirmity and could not be sustained. Accordingly, the assessee's claim that as the trust is the primary assessee, no infirmity arises from the fact that the latter had filed the appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) against the assessment order which was never passed in its case cannot be accepted. Tribunal also held that as the minor had for the aforesaid misconception failed to carry the impugned order of the Assessing Officer by way of a proper appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals), she shall remain at a liberty to assail the impugned assessment order before the Commissioner (Appeals) who is directed to adopt a liberal approach regarding the reasons leading to the delay in preferring of the appeal before him. [S. 154(8),244A]

As per the direction of the CIT(A)'s order dt. 4th Jan., 2013, the assessee filed an application under S. 154 before the AO for proper working of quantum of refund due to it along with interest thereon under S. 244A which was not disposed of within the statutory time period of six months as per s. 154(8). The assessee filed an appeal before the CIT(A) which was dismissed. On appeal the Tribunal held that since no order was ever passed by the AO, the assessee was not aware about the fate of its application filed under s. 154. Said application under s. 154 and grievance petitions were disposed of together by a communication dtd. 4th July, 2020. Since the AO failed to discharge his statutory duty in passing the order disposing the application filed under s. 154, the assessee was justified in raising this issue before the appellate authority as this was the only recourse available to it. In view of Circular No. 73, dtd. 7th Jan., 1972, a rectification application can be disposed of by the AO even after the expiry of the statutory time-limit on merits and in accordance with law. Inference drawn by the assessee that the communication dtd. 4th July, 2020 is nothing but refusal to admit his claim under s. 154 is not misplaced. AO is directed to entertain the said application under s. 154 and dispose it of as per law after verification of record. Circular 73 dt. 7th Jan, 1972, Circular No. 4. dtd. 20th June, 2012. Held that the assessee can file appeals before the Commissioner (Appeals) only against the orders passed under specific sections mentioned in section 246A of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The assessee had filed appeal against the letter of the ITO to the assessee for recovery of the outstanding demand under section 234E of the Act. Since the letter of the ITO was not mentioned in section 246A of the Act, it was not an appealable order for the purpose of section 246A of the Act. Assessing Officer disallowed deduction claimed by assessee under section 80P. Assessee filed an appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) with a delay of 11 days and sought condonation of delay in filing appeal stating that delay was due to non-availability of its legal consultant. Commissioner (Appeals) refused to condone delay and dismissed appeal in limine. On writ the Court held that since filing an appeal in tax matters required legal and technical assistance, reason advanced by assessee for condoning delay was sufficient and delay had to be condoned by Commissioner (Appeals). Delay is condoned and Commissioner (Appeals) is directed to consider assessee's appeal on merits. Matter remanded.

The assessee, which was in the real estate business, did not file its return of income. Assessment proceedings were initiated following which an order was passed under section 147 read with sections 144 and 144B of the Income-tax Act, 1961 on the findings that there were some transactions of purchase and sale of immovable property in the assessment year 2016-17 and unexplained investment under section 69 and bringing the income to tax at a higher rate of tax under section 115BBE. On a writ petition against the assessment, the court relegated the assessee to the remedy of appeal. The assessee filed an appeal before the authority under the Faceless Appeal Scheme, 2021 ([2022] 440 ITR (St.) 15) with an application for stay. On a writ petition contending that for all the subsequent assessment years, including for the assessment year 2023-24, the assessee had filed loss returns and these had been accepted under section 143(1) and that therefore, it should be permitted to prosecute the appeal in terms of the proviso to sub-section (4) of section 249 against the order of assessment without payment of tax. Court held that since it was not disputed that the proviso to section 249(4)(b) was applicable, the appeal filed by the assessee before the authority under the Faceless Appeal Scheme, 2021 along with an application for stay could be disposed of on the merits after affording an opportunity of hearing on the condition that it remitted a total sum of Rs. 12 crores against the demands raised for the assessment year 2016-17 in eight equal instalments commencing from April 15, 2024 for maintaining the appeal which should be adjudicated only after the payment of the stipulated amount. If the assessee failed to remit the amounts as directed, the Department could proceed for recovery of demand as raised in the assessment order passed under section 147 read with sections 144 and 144B. (AY. 2016-17)

The Commissioner (Appeals) dismissed the appeal on the ground that the assessee had not demonstrated sufficient cause for the condonation of the delay. Tribunal held that the assessee gave the reasons for condonation before the Commissioner (Appeals) and has even filed an affidavit of the concerned employee who was responsible for receiving e-mails on behalf of the assessee. The said affidavit showed that that employee inadvertently failed to notice the e-mail containing the order in question sent to the e-mail ID of the assessee. She has given detailed reasons for missing the e-mail. There was no reason to disbelieve the affidavit. Delay is condoned, the CIT(A) is directed to dispose of the appeal on merit. (AY. 2012-13)

Assessing Officer in intimation made under section 143(1) denied benefit of exemption under section 11 claimed by assessee-trust. Commissioner (Appeals) dismissed appeals filed by assessee as non-maintainable on account of substantial delay in filing of appeals. Tribunal held that appeals required to be restored back to Commissioner (Appeals) first to deal with assessee's application seeking condonation of delay and thereafter to deal with merits of case. 2538 S. 249: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Form of appeal and limitation –Appeal not to be admitted unless tax is paid -Business loss -No liability to pay advance tax -Section 249(4)(b) not applicable -Appeal to be decided on merits. [S. 249(4)(b)]
Allowing the appeal, the Tribunal held that the invocation of section 249(4)(b) by the CIT(A) was incorrect when the assessee had incurred a business loss and had no liability to pay advance tax. In this case, the assessee did not file a return of income (ROI) for the assessment year 2011-12. The assessee had losses during the year. The CIT(A) dismissed the appeal on the grounds that no advance tax was paid as required under section 249(4)(b) when no return of income is filed. The Tribunal held that if an assessee has incurred a loss and had no taxable income, section 249(4)(b) would not apply, as there was no requirement to pay advance tax. The Tribunal restored the appeal to the CIT(A), directing it to be admitted and decided on merits. (AY. 2011-12, 2012-13)

2539 S. 249: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Form of appeal and limitation -Advance tax -Merely on technical ground, appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) could not have been dismissed. [S. 249(4)(b)]
Held, allowing the appeal, that the provisions of section 249(4)(b) of the Act are clear that the appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) should be admitted only when the assessee paid the advance tax where return of income has not been filed. The proviso to the section also prescribes that the assessee will get exemption from this clause if the application is made before the Commissioner (Appeals) for not filing return of income or paying advance tax. But in the present case in peculiar circumstances, the assessee had explained that the assessee herself had not obtained the property but her son had paid the amount for purchase of the property from his own funds. In fact, the assessee's son was a joint owner of the property and for the sake of the conveyance deed, the stamp deed was lesser the assessee's name has been utilised in the conveyance deed. The direct relation between the mother and son should have been considered by the Assessing Officer as well as by the Commissioner (Appeals). In the peculiar circumstances, the proviso to section 249(4)(b) of the Act should have been pointed out by the Commissioner (Appeals) during the hearing which the Commissioner (Appeals) failed to do. Merely on the technical ground, the appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) could not have been dismissed and in fact after seeing the merits of the case, the transaction was not doubted and the investment made by the son of the assessee was also not questioned by the Assessing Officer. Therefore, the appeal of the assessee was allowed on the peculiar facts of the assessee's case. The order could not be treated as a precedent. (AY. 2013-14)

2540 S. 249: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Form of appeal and limitation -Pre-deposit of tax -Advance tax -No taxable income -No obligation to pay advance tax -Order of CIT(A) refusing to admit appeal for hearing for non-payment of tax as per provisions of section 249(4)(b) is set aside -Directed to decide the appeal on merits. [S. 208, 249(4)(b)] Assessee, an agriculturist, derived agricultural income and sale proceeds on sale of agricultural lands against registered sale deeds. It had also deposited certain amount of cash in its bank account. Assessing Officer made an addition on account of total deposits including cash deposits with respect to sale of land and advance received. Commissioner (Appeals) refused to admit appeal for hearing for non-payment of advance tax as per provisions of section 249(4)(b). On appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessee had filed documentary evidence before the Assessing Officer demonstrating that he had no taxable income for the year under appeal. His income consisted solely of agricultural income and receipts from the sale proceeds of agricultural land, which is exempt income under the Act. Therefore, there was no obligation to pay advance tax under section 208. Tribunal held that the Commissioner (Appeals) should have admitted appeal for adjudication on merits, and amount of advance tax payable by assessee for purpose of presenting appeal, as per provisions of section 249(4)(b), should be taken as nil. S. 249: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Form of appeal and limitation –Appeal filed before wrong forum -Delay of 657 days in filing an appeal -Form No 35 was filed before the AO instead of CIT(A) -Delay is condoned -Assessee is directed to deposit Rs. 5,000 to Prime Minister National Relief Fund within thirty days -CIT(A) is directed to decide the appeal on merits. [S. 249(3), 250, 253(3), 254(1)] 2541

Tribunal held that the Assessee having filed the appeal in Form No. 35 in the office of the ITO by mistake instead of filing the same before the CIT(A), and the CIT(A) having dismissed the belated appeal filed by the assessee without making any enquiry, the delay in filing the appeal before the CIT(A) is condoned subject to assessee depositing Rs. 5,000 to Prime Minister National Relief Fund within thirty days. CIT(A) is directed to decide the appeal on its merits in accordance with law. (AY. 2014-15)

An assessment order was passed against deceased assessee even when petitioner-legal heir of assessee had filed death certificate of deceased assessee, and further, there was no document to show that any notices were tried to be served on petitioner and returned back unserved with a noting that assessee was no more. On writ the High Court set aside the order passed against deceased and CIT(A) is directed to hear the appeal a fresh after issuing a proper notice as per law. (AY. 2018-19)
Sitaram Raikwar v. NFAC (2024) 301 Taxman 528 (MP)(HC)

S. 250: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Multiple e-mail ids-Opportunity of being heard -Notices were sent via email-Responded by the assessee -Communications to the assessee were not sent at the addresses indicated in the appeal memorandum -Order of single judge dismissing the petition is set aside -CIT(A) is directed to issue a fresh notice of hearing at correct email address and thereafter pass the orders in the appeal -Strictures -Department is advised to evolve a procedure whereby e-mail ids furnished by the assessees are regularly updated after confirmation with the assessee, so that at any given point in time, an assessee can only insist upon a maximum of three e-mail ids to which communications intended for him may be addressed. [S. 254(1) Art. 226] 2543

The CIT(A) passed the ex parte order on the ground that when the assessee himself has given multiple e-mail ids and assessee has responded to the notice issued on its latest e-mail id on which several communications for hearing of the appeal were issued. On writ the single judge held that the opportunity of hearing was given, hence, the writ petition was dismissed. On appeal the Court held that notices to the assessee were not sent at the addresses indicated in the appeal memorandum. Therefore, the appellate orders are set aside and the appellate authority is directed to issue a fresh notice of hearing in respect of the appeals at the correct e-mail address and thereafter, pass final orders in the appeal after hearing the assessee or his Authorised Representatives in the matter. Department is advised to evolve a procedure whereby e-mail ids furnished by the assessees are regularly updated after confirmation with the assessee, so that at any given point in time, an assessee can only insist upon a maximum of three e-mail ids to which communications intended for him may be addressed. Dismissing the petition the court held that when the assessee himself has given multiple e-mail ids and assessee has responded to the notice issued on its latest e-mail id on which several communications for hearing of the appeal were issued, it cannot be held that the assessee was not afforded opportunity of hearing by the appellate authority before passing the impugned orders. Assessing Officer made addition under section 68 in respect of loans received from Magunta exports on the ground that lender has filed nil return. On appeal the CIT(A) accepted all conclusions of Assessing Officer and rejected appeal. On writ the Court held that since there was nothing to indicate that appellate authority independently applied its mind while drawing conclusions, impugned order was to be set aside and matter was to be remanded back to appellate authority for disposal afresh. Court also held that the conclusions were in the nature of ipse dixit and no supporting reasons were discernible. (AY. 2020-21) (SJ)

Held that section 250(6) of the Act, obligates the CIT(A) to state point for determination in appeal before him, the decision thereon and the reasons for determination. CIT(A) has no power to dismiss appeal of assessee on account of non-prosecution and without deciding on merits of the case. The matter is restored to the file of the CIT(A) to decide on merits. S. 250: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Procedure -Territorial jurisdiction of CIT(A) -Appeal filed before non-jurisdictional CIT(A) -Order by the CIT(A) CIT(A), Noida is set aside and the matter is remanded to the CIT(A), Ghaziabad to adjudicate the appeal afresh in accordance with law. [S. 246A] 2548

Revenue challenged the order passed by the CIT (A) Noida on the ground that he has no jurisdiction to pass the order as the jurisdiction was with CIT(A) Ghaziabad. Allowing the appeal of the Revenue the Tribunal held that as per the CBDT Notification No. 66 of 2014, dt. 13th Nov., 2014 read with Order No. G-03/2014-15, dt. 15th Nov., 2014 of the Principal Chief CIT (CCA), Kanpur, the jurisdiction for hearing the first appeal, in the present case, lies with CIT(A) at Ghaziabad. However, the assessee opted to file appeal before the CIT(A) at Noida. Contrary to the above notification and the order, the CIT(A) at Noida, passed the impugned order without there being jurisdiction to do so. On appeal by the Revenue, the Tribunal held that an order passed by a Court or Tribunal or authority having no jurisdiction is nullity and that its invalidity could be set up whenever and wherever it is sought to be enforced or relied upon. Circular No. 3 of 2018, dt. 11th July, 2018 issued by the CBDT is applicable only when the Revenue authority passes the order having proper jurisdiction. Said circular is not applicable to the cases where the authority passes the order by exercising wrong jurisdiction. [S. 69A, R. 46A(1)] 2555

Held that that certain information and documents had been requisitioned by the Assessing Officer from the assessee for the purpose of enquiry and submission of remand report to the Commissioner (Appeals) and the assessee had submitted a reply to the notices along with certain evidence. In this situation, once the Commissioner (Appeals) had opted to seek a remand report in respect of the documents submitted by way of additional evidence, he should have waited for the report, instead of disposing of the appeals without the report. The remand report was necessary for adjudication of the subject matter of the appeals. Since, no step was taken for early submission of the report for just adjudication of the appeals, the Commissioner (Appeals) could be said to have proceeded in violation of principles of natural justice. The orders passed by the Commissioner (Appeals) are set aside, and the matters are restored. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

S. 250: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Procedure -Grounds of appeal -Deciding altogether different grounds of appeal which were not there in memorandum of appeal in Form No. 35 and allowing Appeal of assessee -Order set aside and direction to Commissioner (Appeals) to look into facts and pass an order on merits after giving proper opportunity of hearing. [S. 68, 133(6), 246A, Form No. 35] 2557

Allowing the appeal of the Revenue the Tribunal held that the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) is devoid of any facts related to the appeal. The Commissioner (Appeals) had decided altogether different grounds of appeal which were not there in the appeal memo in form no. 35 before him, but had taken grounds of appeal which were not at all the issues in appeal and allowed the appeal of the assessee. Each of the grounds of appeal raised by the Assessing Officer was emphatic, clear and forthright. All the grounds of appeal were appropriate and in guarded words to set aside the appellate order passed by the National Faceless Appellate Authority in a most casual manner. The order of the Commissioner (Appeals) was passed without application of mind, was devoid of any merit, unsustainable and perverse. The Commissioner (Appeals) is directed to look into the facts and pass an order on the merits of the case, after giving proper opportunity of hearing to the assessee. (AY. 2014-15)

[S. 92CA(3), 250(6), 251(1)(a)]
Held that clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 251 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 obligates the Commissioner (Appeals) to adjudicate the issue either by confirming or annulling the addition or reducing or enhancing the addition made by the Assessing Officer without the right to remand the matter back. However, while exercising the jurisdiction under section 251(1)(a) of the Act, the Commissioner (Appeals) is required to state point of determination, his decision thereon and clear reasons therefor in terms of section 250(6) of the Act. This exercise by the Commissioner (Appeals) is a prerequisite and invariably necessary for each assessment year in each case irrespective of repetition. This is because in taxation each assessment year per se is a separate unit which is governed by its own peculiar facts and the principle of res judicata is inapplicable in fiscal laws. Therefore, any adjudication in taxation is final utterly for the year of adjudication only and it does not govern any later or subsequent year. The matter is remanded to the file of CIT(A) to pass a speaking order in terms of section 250(6). Referred Chandra Kishore Jha v. Mahavir Prasasd (1999) 8 SCC 266. (AY. 2012-13)

The orders passed by the Commissioner (Appeals) were in contravention of the provisions of section 250(6) of the Act. The Commissioner (Appeals) had erred in facts and in law in summarily dismissing the assessee's appeals for the assessment years under consideration, by passing a non-speaking order, without mentioning the various grounds of appeal raised by the assessee in his appellate order and without discussing the merits of the case. Therefore, in the interests of justice, the cases were to be remanded to the Commissioner (Appeals) for fresh adjudication on the merits, for both the assessment years, after giving due opportunity of hearing to the assessee to present his case on the merits. S. 250: Appeal -Commissioner (Appeals) -Procedure -Not adjudicated on merits -Filed written submissions -Order is set aside and grounds restored to him for decision on merits, after affording adequate opportunity of being heard -Appeal filed before Bangalore bench -Time spent in filing appeal before Bangalore Bench is to be excluded -Delay in filing appeal is condoned. [S. 254(1)), Limitation Act, 1963, S. 5] 2560

Held that the assessee had filed the appeal within time before the Bangalore Bench of the Tribunal and that appeal having been dismissed for want of jurisdiction, the time spent by filing an appeal before the Bangalore Bench which had no jurisdiction deserved to be condoned in terms of section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963. Therefore, the delay was to be condoned and the appeal admitted for adjudication. Tribunal also held that issues were not adjudicated on the merits. However, looking to the submissions of the assessee, the assessee had filed written submissions before the Commissioner (Appeals) to which he ought to have adverted and decided after considering. Therefore, the order was to be set aside and the grounds restored to the Commissioner (Appeals) for decision on the merits, in accordance with law, after affording the assessee adequate opportunity of being heard. S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Best judgement assessment-Dismissed ex-parte-Matter restored to Assessing Officer for assessment afresh. [S. 144, 147, Form No 26AS.] 2561

Held that the assessee had adduced reasonable cause for not appearing before the Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals), demonstrating the difficult circumstances preventing it from doing so, on account of the demise of the Karta of the Hindu undivided family and the financial turmoil which followed. Further, taking note of the fact that the assessee was now able to produce necessary details by way of form no. 26AS for determining the correct interest income earned by it as also bank statements for explaining the deposits added by the Assessing Officer to the income of the assessee, in the interests of justice the matter is restored to Assessing Officer for assessment afresh. S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Service of notice-Procedure-Ex parte order-Notice is not issued to email address provided by assessee in Form no. 35 or on email address provided in profile information-Order of CIT(A) is set aside and matter remanded back to adjudicate appeal afresh. [Form No. 35] 2562

CIT(A) passed the ex-parte order. On appeal the assessee contended that during appellate proceedings, Commissioner (Appeals) had not issued notice to e-mail address provided by assessee in Form no. 35 or on e-mail address provided in profile information but notice was sent to e-mail of former CA provided. Commissioner (Appeals) had passed an order ex parte qua assessee. On appeal the Tribunal held that notice by Commissioner (Appeals) on e-mail address other than e-mail address given in Form 35 of appeal tantamounted to issue of notice on wrong and invalid address and as such no service of notice. Therefore, matter is remanded back to Commissioner (Appeals) to adjudicate appeal afresh after granting sufficient opportunity of being heard. (AY. 2012-13, 2015-16, 2016-17)

2563 S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Erroneously decided appeal based on facts and grounds of different case-Order of CIT(A) is set aside [S. 56(2)(vii)(b), 147, 250(6)]

Assessing Officer made addition of a sum under section 56(2)(vii)(b) for undervaluation of property and a sum as unexplained deposits. Commissioner (Appeals) dismissed assessee's appeal. On appeal the Tribunal held that since Commissioner (Appeals) had dismissed appeal of assessee on facts and grounds of appeal of some other case and not on facts and grounds of assessee's case, order of Commissioner (Appeals) is liable to be set aside at threshold because it had not been passed as per mandate of section 250(6). Matter is remitted back to Commissioner (Appeals) for fresh adjudication. (AY. 2014-15)

2564 S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Additional Evidence-Remand report-Failure to discuss-Possible human error-Matter remanded for de novo adjudication. [S. 144]

Held that since, for the first time, the Central Board of Direct Taxes had introduced the Faceless Appeal Scheme for adjudication by the Commissioner (Appeals), it was possible that in the transition, the Commissioner (Appeals) (National Faceless Appeal Centre) had not received copies of the additional evidence filed by the assessee. As a result, the Commissioner (Appeals) (National Faceless Appeal Centre) failed to discuss the additional evidence and remand report. Therefore, it was deemed appropriate to set aside the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) (National Faceless Appeal Centre) and remand it to the Commissioner (Appeals) for de novo adjudication. The Commissioner (Appeals) shall consider the additional evidence filed by the assessee and also the remand report. The Commissioner (Appeals) shall also provide an opportunity to the assessee, who shall be at liberty to file necessary documents before the Commissioner (Appeals). (AY. 2009-10)

Tribunal condoned the delay of two days in filing of appeal before the Tribunal. As regards the ex parte order due to non-compliance with issued notices and failure to furnish documentary evidence, in the interest of justice, the matter is remanded to the file of the CIT(A) to decide the issue in accordance with law on merit by giving a reasonable opportunity of hearing. 2566 S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Dismissal of appeal-Remedy under Vivad Se Vishwas Scheme sought against other orders-Appeal restored to Commissioner (Appeals) for disposal of appeal on merits-Appeals not served on registered address-Delay in filing of appeal is condoned. [S. 92CA, 254(1)]

Held that the assessee had not opted for the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Scheme, 2020 in respect of the orders passed under section 201(1A) of the Act but in respect of the assessment orders passed under section 143(3) read with section 92CA of the Act for the assessment years 2013-14, 2014-15 and 2015-16. The Commissioner (Appeals) had committed an error in dismissing the appeal filed by the assessee by recording an erroneous finding. Therefore, the issues involved in the appeals were restored to the file of the Commissioner (Appeals) with direction to decide them afresh in accordance with law after hearing the assessee. Tribunal also held that the orders in question were not served at the registered address of the assessee and the assessee came to know about the passing of the orders only on July 13, 2023 when the assessee perused the Income-tax portal. Therefore, the delay in filing the appeals is to be condoned. (AY. 2013-14, 2014-15, 2015-16)

S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Penalty-Appeal dismissed ex-parte-Matter remanded to the file of CIT(A) to grant one more opportunity of hearing and decide on merits. [S. 270A] 2567
Held, that considering the totality of the facts of the case and in the interests of justice it was proper to restore the issue to the Commissioner (Appeals) with a direction to grant one final opportunity to the assessee to substantiate its case by filing the necessary documents and decide the issue as per fact and law. The assessee is also hereby directed to participate in the appeal proceedings before the Commissioner (Appeals) by filing the requisite details without seeking any adjournment under any pretext failing which the Commissioner (Appeals) would be at liberty to pass appropriate order as per law. S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Procedure-Income from other sources-Appeal is dismissed without deciding on merits-Matter remanded to the file of CIT(A) to decide on appeal. [S. 56(2)(x)(b), 250(6)] 2568
Assessee purchased a property for Rs. 36.20 lakhs. Value of property for stamp duty purposes was Rs. 1.77 crores. Assessing Officer held that difference of Rs. 1.41 crores was to be taxed in hands of assessee under section 56(2)(x). On appeal the CIT(A) dismissed the appeal on ground that assessee did not comply with notices of hearing. On appeal the Tribunal held that since Commissioner (Appeals) did not give a detailed reason on ground of appeal raised by assessee in terms of section 250(6), matter was to be restored back to Commissioner (Appeals) with direction to assessee to submit details. S. 250: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Non-speaking order-Procedure-Commissioner (Appeals) has to decide appeal on merit by passing a speaking order and does not have any power to dismiss appeal for non-prosecution. [S. 68, 69, 131, 133(6), R. 46A] 2569
Assessee filed return of income electronically declaring income. Its case was selected for scrutiny and various notices including show cause notice were issued upon assessee, however, assessee failed to comply. Assessing Officer made additions on account of sundry creditors under section 68 and cash deposits under section 69 as unexplained investment. Further, he had also made an addition on account of difference in 26AS statement and return of income on ground that assessee failed to file details called for.

Commissioner (Appeals) upheld addition made by Assessing Officer. Tribunal held, that Assessing Officer had not taken any proactive steps as per section 133(6) or 131 to collect information directly from sundry creditors. Further, Commissioner (Appeals) failed to consider documents filed by assessee under rule 46A and had not adjudicated each and every ground raised by assessee on merits. Since Commissioner (Appeals) had not passed a speaking order for rejecting additional evidences filed by assessee and Assessing Officer having failed to carry out necessary investigations and to understand facts in totality, impugned order passed by Commissioner (Appeals) is set aside for de novo adjudication. Assessee claimed that AO did not compute capital gains on shares in accordance with provisions of section 48 and sought to produce additional evidence before Commissioner (Appeals). Commissioner (Appeals) did not admit additional evidence as filed by assessee observing that assessee did not fulfil any of conditions specified in rule 46A. On appeal the Tribunal held that since additional evidence goes to root of dispute, matter was to be restored to Commissioner (Appeals) for deciding appeal afresh after considering additional evidence. Allowing the appeal of the assessee the Court held, that notice was not issued to the assessee by the Commissioner (Appeals), as mandated by section 251(2) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, before enhancing the cash in hand from Rs. 4,13,500 to Rs. 4,66,500. The order of the Commissioner (Appeals) was not valid. Matter is remanded back to the file of CIT(A). (AY. 2007-08)

S. 251 : Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-Additional evidence-CIT(A) is justified in admitting the additional evidence-Appeal of Revenue is dismissed. [S. 246A, 251(1)(a), 260A, R. 46A] 2573

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that that the Commissioner (Appeals) had considered the aspect of additional evidence as objected to by the Assessing Officer after considering the explanation of the assessee that the assessee was an illiterate person and had studied up to fourth standard and he was not able to read in english, and therefore, the provisions of rule 46A(1) more particularly clause (b) thereof was complied with as the assessee was prevented by sufficient cause from producing the evidence which he was called upon to produce by the Assessing Officer. All such evidence were corroborative and could not have been manipulated at that stage. The Assessing Officer had the opportunity to cross verify any information during remand proceedings but he had sent the remand report in a very routine manner. The independent corroborative evidence placed on record during the remand proceedings could not be ignored. There was no discrepancy in the sundry creditors accounts which could be added to the income of the assessee and hence, the addition was deleted. The assessee being an illiterate person could not appear before the Assessing Officer and the appellate proceedings being the continuation of the assessment proceedings, the Commissioner (Appeals) had rightly permitted the assessee to produce the additional evidence in consonance with rule 46A. S. 251: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-Setting aside of matter back to the AO-Failure to file return-best judgement assessment-No power to set aside the matter w. e. f 1st June 2001-the matter is restored back to the CIT(A) with a direction to call for a remand report from the AO and then adjudicate the matter. [S. 139, 142(1), 144] 2574

Held that with the amendment of s. 251 w. e. f. 1st June, 2001, the first appellate authority is not empowered to set aside the appeal before him; though the assessee did not furnish any return and did not comply with order notices asking her to substantiate the deposits in her bank account, the CIT(A) exceeded his powers in setting aside the matter back to the AO. Matter is restored back to the CIT(A) with a direction to call for a remand report from the AO and then adjudicate the matter. (AY. 2017-18)

Held that the CIT(A) cannot dismiss the appeal for default expressly or by inevitable implication; appellate authority has to decide the appeal on merits; CIT(A) having summarily dismissed the assessee's appeal for default for the reason that the assessee has not submitted petition for condonation of delay in filing the appeal, impugned order of the CIT(A) is set aside and the matter is remanded back to his file for fresh adjudication. [S. 69, 153A, 251(1), 263]
Tribunal held that Principal CIT revised the assessment order passed by the AO under s. 144 r/w s. 153A by exercising powers conferred under s. 263 and set aside the assessment order passed by the AO with a direction to reconsider the issue of additions made towards the consideration paid for purchase of property under s. 69. On appeal by the assessee, the Tribunal set aside the order passed by the Principal CIT. Therefore, the powers exercised by the CIT(A) under s. 251(1) to enhance the assessment towards consideration paid for purchase of property in the hands of the assessee is beyond the scope of the powers of the CIT(A). Tribunal also held that investment in purchase of property was made out from the capital contribution by the partners. Accordingly, Addition is deleted. (AY. 2014-15, 2015-16, 2017-18)

2577 S. 251: Appeal-Commissioner (Appeals)-Powers-co-terminus powers with that of the AO-Revaluation of asset-Assessing the income under different head-Cash credits-Capital gains-Powers exercised by the CIT(A) cannot be said to be beyond the scope of provisions of s. 251(1)-What was considered by the CIT(A) is the very same income which arose out of the revaluation of the asset held by the firm. [S. 45(4), 68]
Tribunal held that once the first appellate authority is having the co-terminus powers with that of the AO, then the powers of the CIT(A) under s. 251(1)(a) are wide enough to consider any other issue which comes to his knowledge during the course of appellate proceedings, but such issues should be emanating either from the assessment order or from the return of income filed by the assessee. In the present case, the AO considered the increase in the capital accounts of partners on account of revaluation of the assets held by the assessee-firm under s. 68 as unexplained cash credit. The CIT(A) having noticed the fact invoked the provisions of s. 45(4). Therefore, the powers exercised by the CIT(A) cannot be said to be beyond the scope of provisions of s. 251(1). What was considered by the CIT(A) is the very same income which arose out of the revaluation of the asset held by the firm and the same has been assessed under proper provisions of section and as per facts available on record. [S. 14A, 92C, 92CA, 115BBD, 154, R. 8D] 2580

Held that although the assessee's rectification application dealt with only the matter of professional fees, the Commissioner (Appeals) mistook the rectification as one moved also on two other issues relating to employees stock option plan and foreign exchange loss. The Commissioner (Appeals) dismissed the appeal on these three issues failing to appreciate the grounds raised by the assessee on the merits. That the assessee had raised many issues such as selection of comparables, erroneous computation of margins of comparable companies, computation of transfer pricing adjustment, corporate guarantee, use of single year data and benefits of +/-5 per cent. However, the Commissioner (Appeals) adjudicated only a single issue concerning the validity of the comparable. That the fact whether the dividend received by the assessee was covered under section 115BBD and whether any expenditure had been incurred for earning the dividend were required to be verified from the records of the assessee. As the Commissioner (Appeals) had not elaborately dealt with the issue in his order. Matter remanded to the file of CIT(A) for fresh consideration. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

CIT(A) disposed of assessee's appeal for non-prosecution and failed to apply his mind to the issues, which arose from impugned order and assailed by assessee before him. Once an appeal is preferred before CIT(A), it becomes obligatory on his part to dispose of the same on merits and it is not open for him to summarily dismiss the appeal on account of non-prosecution of the same by assessee. In fact, a perusal of section 251(1) (a) and (b), as well as 'Explanation' to section 251(2), revealed that CIT(A) remains under a statutory obligation to apply his mind to all the issues, which arises from impugned order before him. Commissioner (Appeals) directed the Assessing Officer to proceed under section 250 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and to reframe the assessment after complying with the prescribed procedure, on appeal, the Tribunal held that the assessment had been framed without issue of notice under section 143(2) of the Act which meant that the assessment has been framed without assuming jurisdiction making the assessment order null and void. This fact had been accepted by the first appellate authority. The Commissioner (Appeals) had set aside the assessment which he did not have the power to do. Assessee company purchased immovable property at an auction from a bank. Assessing Officer made an addition on account of unexplained source of this investment in property. Tribunal remanded back matter to Commissioner (Appeals). Commissioner (Appeals), in the course of remand, enquired ered into another issue on basis of statement of bank account of assessee. He recorded a finding that while making repayment of an unsecured loan, there were certain repayments and also EMI of loan which were preceded by certain cash deposits and which were not explained. He made an addition on account of said cash deposits in bank account. The Commissioner (Appeals) was, satisfied with additional evidences filed during the course of appeal establishing genuineness of sources of investment in hands of assessee for purchase of property. He however travelled beyond mandate of Tribunal in first round of litigation. On appeal the Tribunal held that since Commissioner (Appeals) failed to put assessee on notice as mandated by section 251, questioned source of cash deposits in bank account and considered same as unexplained cash credits in books of account for year under consideration, impugned addition made by Commissioner (Appeals) on a new source in form of cash deposits was not sustainable. 2589 S. 253 : Appellate Tribunal-Appeals-Suppression of production-Current year loss-Unabsorbed depreciation-Issue which does not arise out of the order of the CIT(A) cannot be raised before the Tribunal. [S. 154, 254(1), 250, 263]
Held that the order challenged before the CIT(A) was the order passed under S. 154 pertaining to rectification of an apparent mistake, qua not allowing set off against the current year's loss and unabsorbed depreciation. Issue pertaining to the addition made by the AO on account of alleged suppression of production was raised and assailed before the CIT(A) but was not dealt with by the CIT(A) observing that the issue is barred by limitation as the same was related to assessment order dt. 30th Sept., 2016 passed under s. 143(3) r/w s. 263, which was not appealed against. Finding of CIT(A) that the issue does not emerge from the order under S. 154 which was challenged before him is sustainable. Accordingly the issue regarding addition on account of suppression of production, has no nexus with the order passed under s. 154 which was challenged before the CIT(A) and same cannot be raised before the Tribunal. Contention of the assessee that, an issue which has not emerged from the impugned order which was challenged before the CIT(A), can be taken up in an appeal before the Tribunal cannot be accepted. Accordingly, the grounds of appeal of the assessee, which are not emerging from the order under s. 154 which is the foundation of the disputes raised in the appeal before the CIT(A), is infructuous/non-maintainable.. 2591 S. 253 : Appellate Tribunal-Appeals-Delay of 506 days-Sufficient cause-Not diligent in pursuing issue relating to application-Delay is not condoned. [S. 12A, 253(5)]
Held that in the absence of reasonable and satisfactory cause or even appropriate explanation for seeking condonation of delay, it is not to be condoned lightly. Condonation of delay should not be granted only on the ground that ordinarily a litigant does not stand to benefit by lodging an appeal late. The delay was therefore not condoned. However the Tribunal granted liberty to the assessee to make an application and seek appropriate relief from the Commissioner (E) in terms of Circular

No. 7 of 2024, dated April 25, 2024 issued by the Central Board of Direct Taxes. The Commissioner (E) may examine the application of the assessee to see if it was covered by the circular and decide the matter in accordance with law and the circular.

Held that section 253 of the Act prescribes the appeal fees an assessee has to remit while filing an appeal before the Tribunal. According to clause (d) of sub-section (6) of section 253 of the Act, while filing a penalty appeal before the Tribunal, the assessee need to have remitted Rs. 500 for an appeal. Therefore the Assessing Officer was to refund the excess fee paid either by way of adjustment against the outstanding demand, if any, or by way of grant of refund within a reasonable period. S. 253 : Appellate Tribunal-Appeals-Condonation of delay of 7 years and 104 days-Lapse on part of counsel-Appeal is dismissed as time barred. [S. 119, 254(1)] 2594
Assessee filed an appeal before Tribunal along with application for condonation of delay of 7 years and 104 days in filing said appeal claiming that delay had occurred due to lapse on part of counsel accompanied by assessee's affidavit as well as supportive affidavit of counsel. Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that though assessee was claiming that delay in filing had occurred solely due to lapse of counsel as he neither appeared nor filed any reply but the fact was that assessee had also contributed to a large extent in the delay as assessee had filed appeals of other two years, i. e., assessment years 2011-12 and 2013-14 on 7-9-2022 and even at that stage, had not taken care to enquire and see status of present appeals. On facts, assessee did not deserve any sympathy for a whopping delay of more than 7 or 6 years and, consequently, assessee's condonation prayer is rejected and appeals were dismissed as being time-barred. Assessee-HUF claimed deduction under section 54F. Assessing Officer as well as Commissioner (Appeals) disallowed assessee's claim. Appeal is delayed with 17 days and sought for condonation of delay. The asseessee contended that karta is an elderly person of 72 years of age and was not well at time of filing of appeal and was under serious illness thereby helpless in signing appeal papers and filing appeal. Assessee paid fee for appeal before due date of filing of appeal. Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that since fee for appeal was already paid before due date of filing of appeal and assessee had failed to come forth with any plausible explanation elaborating acceptable reasons leading to delay in filing appeal, delay in filing appeal is not condoned. Assessee did not respond to any of notices, therefore, Assessing Officer treated receipts of such money as unexplained cash credit and made an addition. Commissioner (Appeals) confirmed additions. The appeal before the Tribunal was barred by 24 days. Tribunal held that neither an affidavit of Director was filed, nor exact details were submitted as to how this delay had occurred. Accordingly the appeal is dismissed as time barred. (AY. 2012-13)

If the cause for delay would fall within the four corners of "sufficient cause", irrespective of the length of delay same deserves to be condoned. [S. 142A(1), 143(3), 253, 260A] 2599

Held, that the assessee had specifically raised the issue that if reference to the Department Valuation Officer, without rejecting the books of account by the Assessing Officer was not permissible, whether the addition to the income of the assessee could have been made based on the report of the valuer in the cross-objection filed before the Tribunal. The Tribunal had erred in refusing to consider the grounds raised in the cross-objection on the strength of section 142A. Matter remanded to Tribunal. Court also held as regards valuation of asset, without rejecting the books of account the Assessing Officer cannot make a reference to the Department Valuation Officer. Followed *Sargam Cinema v. S. 254(1) : Appellate Tribunal-Duties-Additional grounds-Depreciable assets-Capital gains-Appeal by Department-Additional grounds-Matter remanded. [S. 2(11), 45(4), 48 50(1),50A, 253, 260A] 2600

The Assessing Officer, passed an order wherein he made an addition attributed to the short-term capital gains alleged to have accrued to the assessee-firm by computing it in accordance with section 50A. The Commissioner (Appeals) found that while the Assessing Officer computed the short-term capital gains, had not factored in the addition of the building valued at Rs. 7. 4 crores, that was brought into the firm by an incoming partner, and hence the written down value as on March 31, 2012, at the end of the previous year, after allowing depreciation would be reduced and reduced the addition of short-term capital gains. In its appeal against such order, the Department raised an additional ground, which was accepted on record by the Tribunal, where under it was contended that the capital gains had to be charged under section 45(4) and that the computation methodology adopted by the Assessing Officer and the Commissioner (Appeals) was not. On appeal held that the Tribunal was right in allowing the additional ground raised by the Revenue before the second appellate forum, which were not raised either by the Assessing Officer or the Commissioner of Income-tax (Appeals) nor considered by them. The Tribunal after hearing the rival contentions had found force in the submission of the Revenue and held that the charge of short-term capital gains had to be in accordance with the provisions of section 45(4), but the Tribunal had not proceeded to determine the tax effect, if any, that would follow pursuant to its finding. The Tribunal was right in holding that the transfer of the depreciable capital assets attracted capital gains tax under section 45(4) in the absence of distribution of any capital asset among the partners following the dissolution of the assessee firm. On the facts, the charging provisions for short term capital gains under the Act, were as stipulated under section 45(4). Under section 45(4) the computation had to be in the manner prescribed under section 48, as modified by section 50(1). The Tribunal ought to have discussed the consequence of application of these provisions to the income of the assessee in its order also while disposing the appeal preferred by the Revenue, especially since the order of the Commissioner (Appeals) was in favour of the assessee. Though the finding of the Tribunal that the charge of short-term capital gains, had to be computed as mandated in section 45(4), had been affirmed the matter was remanded back to the Tribunal, for the specific finding on the extent of short term capital gains if any to be computed and brought to tax. The Tribunal should examine the provisions of section 48, as modified by section 50(1) and would have take into account the totality of transactions effected during the previous year relevant to the assessment year 2012-13. Matter remanded. (AY. 2012-13)

Assessing Officer while passing assessment order disallowed interest expenses of certain amount and administrative expenses of certain amount by invoking provisions of section 14A. Tribunal remanded matter back to Assessing Officer for proper verification and adjudication and to decide same as per law. On appeal the Court held that the Tribunal had not considered its decision for previous assessment years 2009-10 and 2010-11 wherein on similar facts of disallowance under section 14A, Tribunal had allowed interest expenditure to assessee and also restricted disallowance of administrative expenses only up to certain amount and such orders passed by Tribunal were also confirmed by this Court while dismissing tax appeals of revenue. The AO had passed assessment order allowing the set off of derivative loss against the business income. The said order was sought to be revised by the CIT. However, in spite of giving opportunity, the assessee did not appear before the CIT. Hence, the CIT passed revisional order which was challenged before the Tribunal. The Tribunal held CIT had no jurisdiction as this aspect was examined by the AO during assessment proceedings. The Tribunal recorded argument of the advocate of the assessee that there was no bar under the Act allowing such set off but it did not give any finding about correctness of such submission. The Revenue challenged the order of the Tribunal in further appeal. The High Court held that since the Tribunal has not given a specific finding as to how there is no bar under the Income Tax Act for setting off of derivative loss against business income in the facts and circumstances of the case, the matter has to be freshly decided by the CIT. S. 254(1) : Appellate Tribunal- Powers-Ex -parte order by CIT(A) – Tribunal set a side the matter to decide on merits – The assessee trying to use technical reasons – Appeal is dismissed. [S. 147, 255 (8), 263, 260A] 2604

Held that the Commissioner (Appeals) had dismissed the appeal ex parte. On further appeal, the Tribunal had ex-parte restored the issue back to the Commissioner (Appeals) and the appeal was dismissed by him for non-compliance. The Tribunal in the interest of natural justice had restored the issue to the Commissioner (Appeals) so that the assessee could be granted the opportunity to substantiate its case. This clearly showed that the assessee was not interested in showing the reconciliation but had attempted to use technical reasons to avoid the responsibility. This scathing remark of the Tribunal showed the triviality of the matter. The submissions made with regard to section 255 showed the intention of the assessee to delay the case. While scrutinizing the documents at hand, it was clear that due compliance had been made with respect to the reassessment proceedings and all the subsequent appeals Additionally, the assessee had been provided with the regular chances to submit his representation but the assessee had been delaying it. Appeal is dismissed. (AY. 2008-09)

Held that no Will was produced before the AO and CIT(A), however, at the stage of appeal before the Tribunal, the assessee produced the Will which was considered by it. The Tribunal has found that there was no application moved under R. 46A and the additional evidence as well as grounds regarding the Will having been executed in favour of the assessee, could not have been considered. Provisions of the Act of 1961 are to be read as it is. No addition or subtraction can be made in the Rules of 1962 nor any principles of natural justice, where not applicable, can be applied, nor can any other provisions regarding equity be made applicable while construing the provisions of the Rules. It is an admitted position that there was a violation of R. 46A and therefore, such documents could not be taken into consideration. No reason has come forward for not placing the so-called Will during the time of assessment. (AY. 2011-12) The tribunal was right in refusing to admit the will placed before it as evidence.

On a writ the Court held that the ITAT has power to set aside Assessment Order and direct a de novo enquiry, in which case every aspect, computation and dimension is open for consideration. This partakes nature of an assessment which is akin to original assessment and, therefore, period of limitation applicable to original assessment must apply to fresh assessment. However, where Appellate Authority remands case for a determination on a selected issue or aspect of assessment, parties are fully aware of parameters within which fresh enquiry is circumscribed and limited and thus, the period of limitation did not apply to the fresh enquiry. Tribunal had directed Assessing Officer to consider question of disallowance for bad debts/advances being written off, permitting assessee to produce further documents, and directing Assessing Officer to extend an opportunity of hearing to assessee and decide matter, Tribunal's order did not set aside or cancel subject assessment orders requiring a fresh assessment. *CIT v. Tribunal held that delay which has occurred in filing this appeal with Tribunal is both on account of wrong observations and directions given by the CIT(A) as well as delays and laches on the part of the assessee.. However, it could not be said that there was a malice in the conduct of the assessee. The assessee has been pursuing legal remedy albeit at the wrong forum. Under these facts and circumstances and in the interest of justice, the delay in filing of this appeal with Tribunal needs to be condoned, but at the same time the assessee is admonished and reprimanded for its carelessness. When technicalities are pitted against substantial justice, the Courts will lean towards advancement of substantial justice, unless the mala fide on the part of the assessee is writ large. Under the facts and circumstances, there is no mala fide on the part of the assessee in filing this appeal belatedly, and in the interest of justice, the delay with respect to this appeal is condoned. Matter is restored to CIT(A) for de novo adjudication. (AY. 2008-09)

S. 254(1) : Appellate Tribunal-Powers-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Condonation of delay of 2359 days-CIT directed the AO to pass fresh order following decision of Supreme Court in the case of CIT v. A. Gajapathy Naidu (1964)53 ITR 114(SC)-The AO passed order without following this direction-CIT(A) dismissed the appeal against the order of the AO on the ground that the appeal was not maintainable-Tribunal held that appeal was maintainable and considering facts of the case, condoned delay of 2359 days and restored the matter to the file of the AO. [S. 155(16), 263] 2615

The assessee had filed its return of income for A. Y. 2005-06 declaring loss of Rs. 48.82 lakhs and the same was accepted in regular assessment completed u/s. 143(3) of the Act. The assessee did not offer arbitral award of Rs. 9.90 crores as the same was contested by Government of Rajasthan and the same was considered as not taxable as award had not attained finality. The CIT issued notice u/s. 263 and passed order on 25.2.2010 holding that the arbitral award of Rs. 9.90 crores given to the Appellant was taxable income on mercantile basis and directed the AO to pass fresh order following decision of Supreme Court in the case of CIT v. A. Gajapathy Naidu (1964)53 ITR 114(SC). On 26.02.2010 the AO passed order giving effect to the order passed u/s. 263 and added Rs. 9.90 crores to the income of the Appellant. The CIT(A), vide order dated 9.08.2012, dismissed appeal against assessment order holding appeal was not maintainable against order which simply gave effect to the findings of the Commissioner. The assessee filed appeal before the Tribunal on 26.03.2019 i. e. after delay of 2359 days. The assessee explained the delay pointing out that new arbitration award was passed on 8.8.2015 and the application for its execution was dismissed on 17.8.2017. The assessee had filed application u/s. 155(16) on 28.11.2018 which was dismissed by the AO on 11.3.2016. Therefore, taking into account the facts of the case and that the assessee was not negligent, proactively pursuing alternative remedy u/s. 155(16) of the Act, in the interests of justice, the Tribunal condoned the delay.

On the issue of maintainability of the appeal, the Tribunal held that the CIT(A) had dismissed the appeal on the ground that that no appeal lay against the order of the Assessing Officer which simply gave effect to the findings of the learned Commissioner of Income-tax. The Tribunal found that the CIT had not given any factual finding that the amount of arbitral award of Rs. 990 lakhs accrued as right to receive to the assessee in the impugned year. In the fact, there is no possibility of such finding in the order of the CIT since he has noted in his order that the assessee did not file copy of the arbitral award before him. The AO was required to examine the facts of the case and thereafter adjudicate upon the taxability of the arbitral award of Rs. 990 lakhs in view of the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of CIT v. A. Gajapathy Naidu (1964)53 ITR 114(SC). The Tribunal restored back the issue to the file of the AO to verify the facts of the case and pass order accordingly. (AY. 2005-06)

The Tribunal allowed the admission of additional evidence submitted by the assessee,, relating to the disallowance under Section 40A(2) for excessive expenditure incurred on purchases from its associated enterprise (AE). The assessee had adopted the internal TNMM (Transaction Net Margin Method) for benchmarking the transaction and had submitted segmental financial statements during the proceedings before the Dispute Resolution Panel (DRP). The DRP rejected these statements as they were not audited. In appeal, the assessee produced certified segmental financial statement as additional evidence under Rule 29 of the ITAT Rules. The Tribunal noted that this additional evidence was crucial for proper adjudication of the issue, as it allowed for a more accurate comparison between the transactions with the AE and an unrelated party.. The Tribunal found that excluding this evidence would be unjust and admitted it, emphasizing the need for a fair determination of the arms-length price as it had a direct and important bearing to adjudicate the present controversy. 2618 S. 254(2): Appellate Tribunal-Rectification of mistake apparent from the record-Application for recalling Tribunal's order-No rectifiable mistake apparent on the record. [Art. 136]

The assessee filed a Miscellaneous Application (MA) under section 254(2) seeking recall of the Tribunal's order dated 09-09-2022, alleging errors in specific observations. The Tribunal held that the scope of section 254(2) is limited to correcting glaring, apparent, patent, or obvious mistakes on record and does not permit reappreciation of facts or review of findings. The reliance on Honda Siel Power Products Ltd. v. CIT (2007)295 ITR 466(SC)) was found misplaced as it pertained to a distinct context. The Tribunal concluded that the application aimed at re-adjudicating the issues on merits rather than pointing out rectifiable mistakes and was therefore dismissed. The jurisdictional High Court and the apex court affirmed the decision delivered by the Hon'ble Tribunal.

[S. 2(24)(x),36(1)(va) 43B,139(1), Art. 226, Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order XLVII, Rule 1] 2619

The assessing officer disallowed certain amounts in regard to the payment of the statutory dues like the Provident Fund and Employees State Insurance Corporation under Section 36(1)(va) of the Income-Tax Act, on the ground that the payments were not made within the statutory period of respective Acts,though the payments were made before due date of filing of return. CIT(A) allowed the claim on the ground that the payments were made before due date of filing of the return. Order of CIT(A) is affirmed by the Tribunal. The order of the Tribunal was dated 26th July 2022. Subsequently the Honourable Supreme Court in Checkmate Services Pvt Ltd v. CIT (2022) 448 ITR 518 /290 Taxman 19 (SC) held that the payment is not allowable as deduction unless the payments are made within specified dates of the Respective Acts. The order of the Supreme Court is dated 12-10-2022. The Revenue has filed Miscellaneous application before the Tribunal to rectify the order of the Tribunal based on the Judgement of Supreme Court. The miscellaneous application of the Revenue was delayed by 92 days. The Tribunal allowed the Miscellaneous application of the Revenue. The petitioner filed writ petition and contended that the Tribunal has no power to condone the delay in filing the Miscellaneous application and also the Tribunal cannot review the order based on the subsequent decision of Supreme Court. Allowing the petition the Court held that the Tribunal was in error in exercising jurisdiction under Section 254(2) and setting a side the original order. Order of the Tribunal is quashed on ground of delay as well as on merits.

S. 254(2): Appellate Tribunal-Rectification of mistake apparent from the record – Followed Orissa High Court-Not following the Jurisdictional High Court-Mistake apparent on record-Order of Tribunal is quashed-Matter is remanded back to the Tribunal. [Art. 226] 2620

Before the Tribunal the assessee has relied upon the decision of this Court in case of Gujarat Urja Vikas Nigam Ltd. v. Dy. CIT in Tax Appeal No. 63 of 2020 wherein, the tax appeal was preferred by the Revenue on the aspect as to whether interest received on staff loan is business income or not for the purpose of consideration of disallowance under s. 14A. The facts of the case of Gujarat Urja Vikas Nigam Ltd. v. Dy. CIT and the facts of the case of the assessee are identical and not different. Tribunal relied on Orissa High Court in Odisha Power Generation Corporation Ltd v. Asst CIT (ITA Nos, 1, 2, 3 of 2015 dt. 11th March, 2022) and dismissed the appeal of the assessee. The asseesse filed miscellaneous application which was dismissed by the Tribunal. On writ the allowing the petition the Court held that the Tribunal could not have relied upon the decision of Orissa High Court while distinguishing the facts of the case of the assessee by ignoring the decision of the Jurisdictional High Court. More particularly, when the CIT and the Tribunal in case of the Gujarat Urja Vikas Nigam Ltd. v. Dy. CIT have held that interest income on staff loans is required to be treated as 'business income' instead of 'income from other sources' which is confirmed by this Court in the aforesaid tax appeal. In case of Gujarat Energy Transmission Corporation Ltd. in ITA No. 633 of 2013, the Coordinate Bench of the Tribunal, after considering the decision of this Court, has held that the interest on staff loans and advances are part of the 'business income' only. In such circumstances, the decision of the Coordinate Bench of the Tribunal as well as this Court were binding upon the Tribunal resulting into the mistake apparent on record. The Tribunal therefore ought to have considered such aspect while deciding the miscellaneous application under s. 254(2). Tribunal therefore ought to have considered such aspect while deciding the miscellaneous application under s. 254(2). The decision of the jurisdictional High Court is binding upon the Tribunal. Assessee filed a miscellaneous application under s. 254(2) before the Tribunal seeking to recall Tribunal's order dt. 4th May, 2022 but Tribunal rejected the miscellaneous application by observing that the High Court states the IT authorities and the Tribunal is not an authority and there was no apparent mistake in its order dt. 4th May, 2022. On writ the Court held that though the view expressed by the Tribunal is correct that in the order dt. 4th May, 2022 there was no error, the Tribunal failed to appreciate the spirit in which the order dt. 23rd Aug., 2022 was passed by the High Court. Accordingly the delay had been condoned by the High Court. The High Court observed that the return for A. Y. 2011-12 had been delayed for a reasonable cause. Further the deduction for A. Y. 2010-11 to 2013-14 had been allowed. In view of these circumstances in the interest of justice the assessment order dt. 14th March, 2014 is quashed and the matter

S. 254(2): Appellate Tribunal-Rectification of mistake apparent from the record –Failure to apply CBDT Circular-Error which could be rectified [S. 119] 2622
Held, that on January 7, 2019 while dismissing the appeal the Tribunal had taken into consideration the circular dated July 11, 2018 but had not taken into consideration the fact that the circular was amended on August 20, 2018 and subsequently clause 10(e) had been inserted which clearly provided that if an addition was based on information received from external sources in the nature of law enforcement agencies the low tax effect would be immaterial. The assessment order passed by the assessing authority dated December 29, 2006 clearly showed that the undisclosed income belonging to the assessee was as per the investigation of Central Bureau of Investigation. Thus, the Tribunal had not committed any illegality or irregularity in allowing the miscellaneous application filed by the Department and recalling its earlier order. Assessee filed miscellaneous application seeking rectification of order passed by Tribunal on ground that order of first appeal passed by Commissioner (Appeals) was without DIN and, therefore, non est as per CBDT Circular dated 14-8-2019. Assessee submitted that jurisdictional issue could be raised at any stage; therefore, it could be raised in present miscellaneous application even though it was not part of original appeal. Dismissing the petition the Tribunal held that when issue did not form part of the appeal there could not be any mistake apparent from record therefore, assessee could not rectify his own lapse or mistake in present miscellaneous application. Held that the Assessing Officer made addition on basis of cash found and seized from assessee in form of demonetized notes and not merely on basis of statement of assessee. Miscellaneous application. is rejected. Held that cash seized by department and agreed by assessee to be adjusted against tax liability of assessee, was in nature of self-assessment payment made before due date of filing of return which deserved to be allowed in computation of interest under section 234A. [S. 36(1)(va), 43B, 139(1), 254(1)]
The Revenue filed the miscellaneous application on the ground that the issue of claim of deduction of the amount deposited on account of employees' contribution to PF and ESIC after due dates specified in PF /ESIC Acts, but before the due date filing of return as prescribed in Section 139(1) of the Act is not allowable, in view of the subsequent judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Checkmate Services P Ltd. v. CIT (2022) 143 Taxmann.com 178/ 448 ITR 518 (2023) 290 Taxman 19 (SC) vide judgment and order dated 12/10/2022 has decided the controversy in favour of the department. The assessee contended that once the matter has attained finality, then based on subsequent judgment of a Higher Court, cannot be the ground to recall or to review the order within the scope and ambit of Section 254(2). The Honourable Tribunal after referring the Judgement of the Apex Court in CIT v. Reliance Telecom Ltd. (2022) 440 ITR 1 (SC) powers u/s. 254(2) of the Income Tax are akin to Order XLVII Rule 1 CPC, then it cannot be held that scope of power u/s. 254(2) is beyond and much larger than scope of review as given in the Order XLVII Rule 1 of CPC. In fact, the scope of Section 254(2) is very limited and the scope of review is much wider. Accordingly, in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Constitutional Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and several other judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court held that order of the Tribunal cannot be recalled based on the subsequent judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court when the order of the Tribunal had attained finality between the parties. [S. 68, 220(6), Art. 136] 2632

On appeal to the Supreme Court the Court having regard to the fact that 30 per cent. of the demand had already been recovered by the Department, modified the order of the High Court, granting stay of further recovery of the outstanding dues pending disposal of the assessee's appeal before the Tribunal, and directing that the Tribunal shall consider the appeal on the merits and without being prejudiced or influenced by any of the observations of the High Court. S. 254(2A): Appellate Tribunal –Stay-Political parties-Denial of exemption-Rejection of stay by the Tribunal-Tribunal is justified in rejecting the stay application. [S. 13A(2), 226, Art. 226] 2633

Assessee, a political party, registered under section 29A of the Representation of Peoples Act, 1951 and recognised as such by the Election Commission of India claimed exemption under section 13A. Assessing Officer denied said exemption on ground that assessee had violated provisions of section 13A(2) by not filing its return of income within time prescribed under section 139(4B). Assessing Officer also held that assessee had violated section 13A(2)(d) as it had received donations in cash in excess of Rs. 2,000. An order of assessment was passed and in terms of which demand notice was issued. In meanwhile, challenging order of assessment, assessee moved Commissioner (Appeals) and more particularly moved an application for stay of recovery of demand before Assessing Officer That application came to be disposed of by Assessing Officer with a direction to assessee to deposit 20 per cent of outstanding tax liability. Assessee admittedly failed to comply with aforesaid condition as imposed by Assessing Officer.

Appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) also came to be dismissed. Thereafter, assessee filed an appeal before Tribunal. During pendency of said appeal, Assessing Officer proceeded to issue demand notices under section 226(3). Assessee moved a stay application before Tribunal in its pending appeal. Tribunal rejected stay application. Assessee not having accepted opportunity of a final hearing on appeal and there being number of adjournments which were sought at behest of assessee on different dates, Tribunal was justified in rejecting stay application. However, an amount of Rs. 65. 94 crores i. e. 48 per cent of outstanding demand having been recovered in interregnum by encashing bank drafts would merit consideration by Tribunal, in case assessee chooses to move a fresh application for stay. The Court dismissed the petition with liberty to the assessee to move fresh application for stay before the Tribunal in the light of the department having recovered an amount of Rs. 65. 94 crores. Circulars and Notifications: CBDT Office Memorandum No. 404/72/93-ITCC dated 31-7-2017 (2017) 396 ITR 55 (St) and Instruction No. 1914 dated 21-3-1996. (AY. 2018-19)

Held that a rectification application before DRP which had not been disposed of till date and delay in disposal of said rectification application could not be attributed to any malafide conduct of assessee, stay on recovery of demand is to be granted. Assessee, a political party, which was subjected to scrutiny assessment for relevant assessment year 2018-19 whereby addition of Rs. 199. 15 crores was made as against Nil income declared by assessee in return of income and demand of Rs. 105. 17 crores (inclusive of interest) was raised. Difference between returned and assessed income was solely because of denial of claim for section 13A exemption. Assessment order was upheld by Commissioner (Appeals) and appeal against it is pending before Tribunal. Assessee preferred a stay application citing hardship in view of forthcoming Parliamentary Elections. Tribunal held that while exercising power of stay, it is imperative for Tribunal to not only consider factors, such as, existence of a prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable loss/hardship but also to be circumspect; and, that stay on recovery proceedings should not be granted as a matter of course or in a routine manner. Since delay in determination of Appeal, if any, was not attributable to revenue as Assessing Officer was willing to keep recovery in abeyance requiring assessee to pay 20 per cent of disputed demand and it was assessee who had not shown keenness to expedite hearing in its appeal before Tribunal as it sought three adjournments. Accordingly stay application is without merits and dismissed. (AY. 2018-19)

Demands against assessee were stayed by the Tribunal on condition that assessee would not seek an adjournment without there being bona fide reason and in case assessee sought an adjournment without there being reasonable cause, stay so granted shall be withdrawn. However, on date of hearings, assessee sought repeated adjournments without reasonable cause. Tribunal vacated the stay and the was directed to pay outstanding taxes in three equal instalments. S. 255 : Appellate Tribunal-Procedure-Functions-Jurisdiction-Transfer of appeals-Cash credits-Share capital and premium-Commissioner (Appeals), Kolkata deleted addition-Appeal filed by revenue before Gauhati Bench of Tribunal-Appeal is dismissed on ground of lack of jurisdiction. [S. 68, ITAT R, 1963, R. 4] 2637
Assessee company had raised share capital including share premium during year. Assessing Officer located at Kolkata passed an assessment order treating said amount of share capital including share premium as unexplained and made an addition under section 68 on account of same. Commissioner (Appeals), Kolkata deleted said addition. Revenue filed an appeal before Gauhati Bench of Tribunal. Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee always had its address in Kolkata. In both orders of Assessing Officer as well as Commissioner (Appeals), there was not a whisper about transfer of case of assessee from Kolkata jurisdiction to Gauhati jurisdiction by complying with provisions of Act. Appeal filed by revenue was under improper jurisdiction, owing to fact that impugned assessment order was passed by Assessing Officer at Kolkata. Accordingly the appeal is dismissed with liberty to revenue to file a fresh appeal before appropriate bench of Tribunal having jurisdiction over assessee. (AY. 2012-13)

S. 260A: Appeal-High Court –Long term capital gains-Penny stock-Bogus claim-High Court cannot examine factual issues not raised before lower authorities-SLP of assessee is dismissed [S. 68, Art. 136] 2638
The case involved a claim for long-term capital gains from the sale of shares, which the Commissioner (Appeals) determined to be bogus after examining the factual details and the modus operandi of the transactions. This finding was upheld by the Tribunal. Subsequently, the petitioner sought to introduce new documents obtained under the Right to Information (RTI) Act for re-examination by the Tribunal or Commissioner

(Appeals). The petitioner also refererred to a Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) order related to the company whose shares were traded, arguing that it could provide fresh evidence. However, the High Court, exercising jurisdiction under Section 260A of the Income-tax Act, ruled that it could not re-examine factual issues that were not raised before the lower authorities. Additionally, the Court found the reliance on the SEBI order to be misplaced, as it did not relate to the specific transactions in question. In light of these factors, the Supreme Court upheld the High Court's ruling, affirming that no substantial question of law arose and dismissing the Special Leave Petition (SLP). (AY. 2015-16)

2639 S. 260A : Appeal-High Court-Review petition before High Court which was dismissed as withdrawn without any liberty-SLP against order of High Court which was also dismissed –Another Review petition is also dismissed-SLP is dismissed. [Art. 136]

Review petition before High Court which was dismissed as withdrawn without any liberty. SLP against order of High Court which was also dismissed. Assessee filed another review petition which was also dismissed. Assessee filed special leave petition. Since assessee did not seek liberty to file second review petition at initial stage or before Supreme Court, non-seeking of liberty was fatal to case of assessee. Filing of initial Review Petition and thereafter withdrawing same and pursuing Special Leave Petition and on its dismissal once again filing another Review Petition was not in accordance with policy of attaining finality in litigation. After dismissal of special leave petition by Supreme Court, assessee could not have filed another review petition before High Court as there must be an end to litigation otherwise rights of persons would be in an endless confusion and justice would suffer and, thus, SLP is dismissed. Self-operating order was passed by Prothonotary & Senior Master, rejecting revenue's appeal for non-removal of office objections. Revenue filed instant three Notices of Motion seeking condonation of delay of 286 days in seeking to set aside above self-operating order. However, it was found that affidavits-in-support of Notices of Motion were bereft of any particulars, inasmuch as, basic date of when Assessing Officer came to know of dismissal of Appeals for non-removal of office objections was even not mentioned therein. High Court held that since Affidavits-in-support were most casual and there was no explanation even attempted to be offered for delay, therefore, all Notices of Motion were to be dismissed. SLP filed by revenue is dismissed.

Revenue filed appeal after a delay of 4 years and 100 days and cited only reason for such delay to be that there was a contrary decision of Bangalore Bench of Tribunal in its favour. High Court held that revenue failed to give any adequate or sufficient reasons to explain delay and, thus, appeal was to be dismissed as being time barred-On SLP, revenue filed an affidavit clearly stating that pursuant to order of Tribunal in Bharti Airtel Ltd. v. ITO (TDS) [2016] 67 taxmann.com 223 (Delhi-Trib.), a decision was taken not to file an appeal and that it was only after coming to know that Bangalore Bench had given a decision in favour of Department that as an afterthought it was decided to file an appeal in instant case. [S. 234A, Art. 136] 2643

The High Court, while admitting the Department's appeal, formulated ten questions : whether the Tribunal was correct in allowing deductions in respect of interest for the preoperative period as revenue expenditure, deferred revenue expenditure relating to sponsorship of Wills World Cup, which pertained to the next year, provision of Rs. 60,61,952 in respect of cigarettes in stock claimed to be damaged, and deduction under section 80HHD of the Income-tax Act, 1961, with reference to the receipts of the approved hotel instead of proportion of the foreign exchange earnings to the profit and total turnover of the assessee, deleting disallowances in respect of travel expenses pertaining to the non-employees, proportionate interest relatable to interest-free advances to the subsidiaries, and excess price paid for purchase of tobacco from the subsidiaries at rates higher than the market price, directing that proportionate capital gains pertaining to land would be treated as long-term capital gains, allowing and holding that the self-assessment tax paid was to be deducted from the tax payable as per the assessment order for the purposes of calculating interest payable under section 234A of the Income-tax Act, 1961. When the appeal came up for final hearing, the High Court dismissed the appeal holding that no substantial question of law arose out of the judgment rendered by the Tribunal. On appeal, allowing the appeal, that there was no option except to set aside the judgment of the High Court and remand the matter to High Court for hearing the appeal. S. 260A : Appeal-High Court-Circulars-Monetary limits-Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Tax liability in revenue appeal was below Rs. 1 crore, in view of Circular No. 5/2024, dated 15-3-2024 appeal is not maintainable before High Court. [S. 263, 268A] 2647

The Principal Commissioner passed order under section 263. The Tribunal quashed the order passed by the Principal Commissioner. The Assessing Officer quantified tax liability at Rs. 32.61 lakhs. The revenue filed instant appeal on ground that the present appeal fell under the exception provided in clause 3. 1(f) of Circular No. 5/2024 dated 15-3-2024 as order passed under section 263 had been specifically mentioned in the aforesaid clause.

The assessee submitted that the appeal was covered by Circular No. 5/2024 dated 15-3-2024 that provided for limits wherein the Department could file appeal before the High Courts. She submitted that the amount prescribed therein was tax liability of Rs. 1 crore. In light of the same, she submitted that since none of the exceptions provided in clause 3.1 of the aforesaid circular were applicable, instant appeal under section 260A could not be filed by the revenue. Dismissing the appeal the Court held that upon a careful perusal of the relevant clauses of the Circular No. 5/2024, dated 15-3-2024, it appears that where the tax liability is not quantifiable or is not involved, in such cases the order passed under section 263 would fall under the exception provided in clause 3.1(f). In the present case, such is not the case and the entire issue is with regard to the tax, and quantification of the same has also been made by the Assessing Officer. As the quantum involved is below Rs. 1 crore, the appeal is covered by the said circular and is not maintainable before the High Court. The appeal filed by the revenue is not maintainable and the same is, accordingly, dismissed. (AY. 2017-18)

Tribunal dismissed the miscellaneous application of the Revenue on the ground that original appeals were dismissed by the Tribunal on 26th Sept. 2019 on account of low tax effect and the CBDT issued special Circular No. 23 of 2019, dt. 6th Sept., 2019 and special order dt. 16th Sept., 2019 before passing the order by the Tribunal. Further, appellant had the right to prefer an appeal before this Court against the order dt. 26th Sept., 2019 passed by the Tribunal in ITA No. 205/Ctk/2019-But the order passed under s. 254(2) in the miscellaneous application is not appealable one, because, the order so passed under S. 254(2) cannot be covered under the expression every order passed in the appeal, as has been mentioned under S. 260A,thereby, the income-tax appeal is not maintainable. S. 260A : Appeal-High Court-Delay of three years-Not explained sufficient cause in delay in filing an appeal-The lack of sincerity, or rather complete absence thereof on the part of the Revenue in this case was glaringly conspicuous by its having not even filed an application seeking condonation of this colossal delay of about three years in filing these appeals-Delay is not condoned. [S. 260A(1) 260A(2)] 2653
Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held, that the lack of sincerity, or rather complete absence thereof on the part of the Revenue in this case was glaringly conspicuous by its having not even filed an application seeking condonation of this colossal delay of about three years in filing these appeals, that too despite having faced a situation where it had to withdraw the earlier appeals and was granted liberty to file afresh. The circumstances enumerated in the affidavits dated May 17, 2023 of the Revenue sounded merely an "excuse" and not an "explanation" of delay. None of the dates and stages recorded could be accepted by any stretch of imagination as disclosure of factors beyond the control of the Revenue and thereby sufficient cause which led to delay in filing the appeals. The Revenue in its affidavits dated May 17, 2023 did not even disclose the date of filing of those earlier appeals. From records of the Registry it was found that those earlier appeals were filed on February 9, 2021, i. e., much subsequent to expiry of the limitation period. Even if the covid-19 lockdown were kept in mind, it started on March 15, 2020 much later than expiry of limitation period (which expired on August 9, 2019). The Revenue had failed to disclose sufficient cause for not having filed these appeals during the period from August 9, 2019 to March 15, 2020. The delay in filing appeals is not condoned.

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the High Court held that while giving effect to CIT(A)'s order, it resulted in refund of certain sum and subsequently, on verification of records, Commissioner noticed that AO had failed to conduct proper enquiries and examine issues in an appropriate manner which gave rise to an erroneous enhanced refund as the Commissioner felt that delay in claiming enhanced refund was attributable to assesse and accordingly interest under section 244A of the Act was not allowable on said refund. The High Court held that since there was nothing in findings of Commissioner as to how the assessee delayed proceedings that resulted in refund or what were reasons that could be attributable to assessee and it was only in giving effect to CIT(A)'s order by AO which resulted in refund therefore it could not be stated that proceedings resulting in refund were delayed for reasons attributable to assessee wholly or in part. Assessing Officer computed capital gain in respect of sale of an asset. PCIT invoked section 263, claiming Assessing Officer passed assessment order without necessary enquiries and verifications, thus making it erroneous. The Tribunal allowed the appeal by the assessee, noting that the AO had made the necessary enquiries and verifications regarding the computation of capital gain during the assessment process. It held that the PCIT's claim that the AO did not conduct due enquiry was factually incorrect, and his method of computation would be prejudicial to the revenue's interest. [S. 45, 50C, 143(1), The Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (SARFAESI Act), Art. 136] 2664

The return of income is accepted under section 143(1) of the Act. Commissioner revised the order on the ground that a land was sold by assessee to an entity below value adopted by concerned authority for levy of stamp duty, and therefore, there was under-assessment of income to extent of differential amount, and accordingly, assessment made was contrary to provisions of section 50C of the Act. On appeal the Tribunal held that it was not assessee who effectuated sale of subject land and land was actually sold by secured lenders to recover dues owed to them by assessee. Principal Commissioner had failed to notice these underlying facts while invoking his powers under section 263 of the Act. Accordingly the revision order was quashed. On appeal by the Revenue the court held that the twin conditions for invoking powers under section 263 i. e. not only order should be erroneous, but it should also be prejudicial to interest of revenue were not met. Accordingly the order of the Tribunal is affirmed. SLP of Revenue is dismissed. (AY. 2014-15)

Assessee-company, engaged in manufacture and export of garments, sold its land to discharge encumbrances from sale proceeds to pay off its shareholders under dispute. It claimed encumbrance charges as cost of improvement while computing long-term capital gains and same was accepted by Assessing Officer. Commissioner passed the revision order and set aside assessment order on ground that assessee's claim of expenses were wrongly allowed as deduction since they did not qualify as capital expenditure nor did they result in any enduring improvement to value of capital asset. The Commissioner also held that the assessee did not make payments to remove encumbrances as claimed and neither was there compliance with sections 50A and 55(1)(b) while passing of assessment order. Tribunal and High Court set aside order of Commissioner. Supreme Court held that order passed by Assessing Officer was erroneous as well as prejudicial to interest of revenue and thus it could not be said that Commissioner erred in exercising jurisdiction under section 263. High Court committed a very serious error in setting aside order passed by Commissioner in exercise of powers under section 263 and, thus, order of Commissioner was restored Assessee filed review petition the Court held that there being no apparent error in order warranting its reconsideration, review petition was to be dismissed. [S. 143(3), 260A] 2669

On appeal the Tribunal held that it was not a case where no enquiry was made by the Assessing Officer during the course of assessment proceedings or that the Assessing Officer failed to apply his mind to the issues on hand and taken a view which was not legally plausible. The Commissioner set aside the assessment order merely because the Principal Commissioner had a different opinion. On appeal held that merely because the Principal Commissioner had a different opinion he should not have invoked revision jurisdiction. The Tribunal held that the assessee did not create any mortgage on the property but he had given a personal guarantee to the entity for discharge of the debt for which there was a charge over the property and for release of the personal guarantee of the assessee, the amount was paid by the buyer directly to the entity Titco Ltd. It was also not in dispute that the assessee did not avail of any loan on mortgage of the property sold by him. The Tribunal had rightly held that the assessment order by the Assessing Officer was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. No substantial question of law. (AY. 2013-14)

Commissioner (Appeals) deleted penalty holding that the possibility that the Gold jewellery was received by assessee during her marriage could not be ruled out and, therefore, no concealment was established beyond doubt. Tribunal being of view that assessee had not discharged her burden of explaining source with plausible evidence confirmed penalty levied by Assessing Officer. High Court held that one more opportunity could be given to assessee to appear before Assessing Officer to re-do reconciliation by affording an explanation. The Assessing Officer passed a consequential order deleting penalty. PCIT initiated proceedings under section 263 to impose penalty. The assessee filed writ petition and submitted that there was a merger of order passed by Asstt. Commissioner AO and, therefore, there was no scope for invoking section 263 to revise assessment. High Court merely gave a fresh opportunity to assessee to explain case afresh. Assessing Officer had passed a consequential order stating that case does not attract penalty since additional income towards investment in jewellery was offered only to purchase peace with department. Since there was no merger of order of AO with CIT(A), no case was made out for interfering with order passed by PCIT, petition is dismissed. (SJ) (AY. 2012-13)

On an appeal preferred by the Revenue against the order of the Tribunal, the Hon'ble Meghalaya High Court had to decide on questions relating to the finality of assessment order passed by AO under section 263 read with section 143(3) of the Act. The assessee followed the mercantile method of accounting, but recognized interest on debtors on cash basis, This had been accepted from A. Y. 2003-04. The PCIT sought to revise the order on the ground that the method of accounting was hybrid. The HC held that while the principle of res judicata did not apply to tax proceedings, without challenge to the fundamental aspect permeating through earlier assessment years, the assessment of this year could not be disturbed. The High Court therefore quashed the revision order under section 263. (AY. 2014-15)

The assessee an apex body, came into existence by an order of the State Government to facilitate collection, storage, processing and disposal of specified forest produce within the periphery of the State of Chhattisgarh and the society was entitled for a commission of Re. 1 per annum for the aforesaid services rendered by it as an agent of the State Government of Chhattisgarh. The Commissioner exercised revisionary jurisdiction under section 263 against the assessee on ground that the Assessing Officer had not conducted proper enquiry regarding genuineness of the contention made by the assessee. The Commissioner set aside the assessment order and remanded the matter back to the Assessing Officer for fresh adjudication of the issues discussed by conducting necessary enquiries in this case and framing fresh assessment order after affording adequate opportunities to the assessee. On appeal, the Tribunal upheld the order passed by the Commissioner. On appeal the Court held that the reasons for coming to the conclusion that the lack of enquiry caused prejudice to the revenue are required to be recorded. In the instant case, after going through order, which is the substratum of the entire issue, it is manifest that the said procedure has not been followed. Accordingly the appeal is allowed and question of law is answered in favour of the assessee and case is remanded back to the Principal Commissioner to reconsider the reply and the documents of assessee.

Chhattisgarh State Minor Forest Produce (Trading and Development) Co-operative Federation Ltd. v. PCIT (2024) 300 Taxman 202 (Chhattisgarh)(HC)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Educational Institution-Charitable purpose-Subsidised fee collected and corporate donations utilized solely for purposes of educational activities-Surplus funds utilised for educational purposes-Activities fell within definition of S. 2(15)-Imparting of education through Virtual Mode-Order of Tribunal quashing the revision is affirmed-The question with respect to whether the Commissioner (E) was justified in invoking its powers conferred by section 263 was insignificant hence not answered. [S. 2(15), 11, 12A,13(1)(c), 80G(5), 143(3), 260A] 2679

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue The Tribunal held that the corporate receipts were mainly flowing from the Corporate Social Responsibility obligations of the concerned business houses which could not be viewed or characterised as aimed at profiteering. Those corporate donations were asserted to have been utilised solely for the purposes of the educational activities which were undertaken by the assessee and the veracity of these facts was not contested by the Revenue. Section 2(15) as being concerned with training and developing knowledge, skill, mind and character by formal schooling. The tests as propounded by the Supreme Court were met by the assessee. The mode and manner in which education was imparted would be a concept which would have to necessarily be evaluated considering the march of technology and the myriad modes of imparting instruction which presently exists and have enabled institutions to overcome barriers of distance and time. Imparting of education through a virtual mode or by the adoption of new technologies would not detract from such activity, otherwise fulfilling the requirements of structured education. The test, as propounded by the Supreme Court required to evaluate whether a formal and systematic process of imparting education had been adhered to. Approving and affirming the observations of the Tribunal to the effect that the whole world is experiencing "new normal" in all spheres of activities and education is no exception, that classrooms have no bricks and mortar, no benches and blackboards, that "blackboard collaborate" and digital white boards have replaced blackboards, that the teachers and students do not assemble at one place but they reach each other on cloud through Meets, Teams, WebEx and Zoom! That chat boxes are medium of group discussion, that timings are 24/7, that still it has all the essentials of a "classroom" and the digital structure covers "process of training, developing the knowledge, skill, mind and character of students like normal schooling and that therefore, in true sense the activities performed by the assessee were no different from "classrooms", that the educational activities carried on were covered by the provisions of section 2(15) and were neither business nor profession of the assessee but constituted charitable activities since it did not charge the fees at the level of market rate and even otherwise the surplus generated was also used for charitable activities of education as found by the Assessing Officer for the assessment year 2014-15 and for earlier assessment years and therefore, his order under section 143(3) was not erroneous, and that therefore the order passed by the Commissioner (E) under section 263 for the assessment year 2014-15 was quashed and set aside. Considering the conclusions on the principal issue of section 2(15), the question with respect to whether the Commissioner (E) was justified in invoking its powers conferred by section 263 was insignificant hence not answered. The AO had passed an order which was set aside by the Principal CIT, and thereafter, the order of reassessment was passed by the AO under s. 263 r/w s. 143(3). Once the order under s. 263 has become final and stood quashed, no question of passing another order will arise in view of the fact that the subsequent order passed by the AO is invalid in the eye of law, as the opinion formed by the AO is not sustained on the reasoning that revision under s. 263 is not permissible. When the order of assessment is found to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of Revenue, the right vests with the Principal CIT to review the order and since the said stipulation has not been satisfied, the order passed under s. 263 cannot stand on its legs. Order of Tribunal is affirmed. (AY. 2014-15)

2681 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue – More than one source of income-Addition made in respect of one source-Failure to consider genuineness of transactions in respect of other sources of income-Order of Assessing Officer erroneous and prejudicial to revenue.

Held, that the assessee was a works contractor. He had income from different sources; from a firm, house property and other sources. Hence, the income declared by the assessee was not solely from the contract work. Essentially, the Commissioner had found the order to be erroneous for reason of non-payment into the Treasury, of the tax deducted at source having not been verified and also the sundry creditors having not been examined ; the latter ground resulted in the finding that the estimation of profits on the contract receipts alone would be an erroneous exercise and it caused prejudice to the interests of the Revenue. The order of revision setting aside the order of assessment is valid. (AY. 2012-13)

2682 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Long term capital gain-Order not prejudicial to interests of Revenue-Revision is not sustainable. [S. 10(38), 45, 260A]

Allowing the petition, that suo motu revisional proceeding for the assessment year 2017-18 were initiated merely on the basis of a proposal under section 263 without independent application of mind by the Principal Commissioner on the basis of a proposal submitted by the Assistant Commissioner and forwarded by the Joint Commissioner. Hence, the very initiation of the proceeding was illegal, without jurisdiction and untenable. The long-term capital gains in question were exempt and therefore, the non-disclosure of the amount could not result in prejudice to the Department. The net long-term capital gains was shown in the return after deduction of the long-term capital loss and both the long-term capital gains and long-term capital loss were duly shown in the return. Even if the amount in question was considered long-term capital gains there would have been no further tax liability and non-disclosure of such amount could not be prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue since there was no loss of revenue. Therefore, one of the preconditions for the exercise of powers under section 263 had not been fulfilled. Hence, the notice for initiation of proceedings and the subsequent ex parte order passed under section 263 were quashed and set aside. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Cash credits-Long term capital gains-Penny stock-Principal Commissioner had applied its mind and came to prima facie conclusion that Assessing Officer should have treated entire credit as bogus and added back same under section 68 rejecting claim for exemption under section 10(38)-Order of Tribunal quashing the revision is set aside. [S. 10(38), 45, 68, 143(3), 260A] 2683

Assessee claimed exemption under section 10(38) in respect of Long term capital gain arising from sale of shares. Assessing Officer accepted same and completed assessment under section 143(3). Commissioner passed the revision order on ground that Assessing Officer failed to make proper enquiry in respect of bogus claim of exemption of LTCG by sale of shares of penny stock. Tribunal set aside order passed under section 263 on ground that Commissioner had invoked his jurisdiction solely based upon a proposal received from Assessing Officer. On appeal the Court held that Principal Commissioner had applied its mind and came to prima facie conclusion that Assessing Officer should have treated entire credit as bogus and added back same under section 68 rejecting claim for exemption under section 10(38). It was not a case where Principal Commissioner solely proceeded based on report of Assessing Officer but on perusal of report had examined facts. Court held that Tribunal committed a manifest error in setting aside order passed under section 263 of the Act. Referred, *PCIT v. Assessment was completed under section 143(3) of the Act. PCIT on the basis of a finding by the internal audit party took a view that during assessment proceedings no proper verification of purchase of new assets by assessee and depreciation claimed on assets had been made by Assessing Officer set aside assessment order with a direction to Assessing Officer to frame de novo assessment after making proper inquiry. Tribunal held that the assessee had not claimed depreciation in tax audit report for Income-tax Act purpose as new assets so purchased were not put to use. Tribunal after considering issue of claiming depreciation by assessee came to conclusion that assessment order was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to interest of revenue and quashed order passed by Pr. [S. 36(1)(viia), 260A]

Assessee is a non-banking financial company. The Assessment was completed under section 143(3) of the Act. The Commissioner under section 263 quashed the assessment and remitted matter back to Assessing Officer for a de novo adjudication as regards claim for deduction on account of provision for non-performing assets and interest rate swap on ground that Assessing Officer had not examined aforesaid two issues. In compliance of directions, Assessing Officer adjudicated aforesaid two issues afresh and held that expenditure were capital in nature and, consequently, disallowed same which was confirmed by Commissioner (Appeals). Tribunal held that there was no error or prejudice to interest of revenue as no deduction on account of provision for non-performing assets was allowed to assessee, interest rate swap was an actual loss and only net loss of Rs. 114.05 lacs after setting of gain of interest rate swap was claimed as deduction and, both abovementioned issues were duly examined by Assessing Officer vide questionnaire to which replies were duly furnished by assessee. Tribunal held that inadequacy of enquiry by Assessing Officer with respect to certain claims would not in itself be a reason to invoke powers enshrined in section 263. When the Assessing Officer had asked for allowability of claims with respect to issues in question which was consequently, replied by assessee it is not a case where no enquiry whatsoever had been conducted by Assessing Officer with respect to claims under consideration. Tribunal quashed the revision order. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. No substantial question of law. (AY. 2002-03)

Assessing Officer allowed the business expenditure after getting the replies from the Assessee. PCIT in terms of section 263 cancelled assessment order and directed Assessing Officer to pass fresh assessment order. Assessing Officer passed fresh assessment order and disallowed expenditure claimed under section 37(1) and also disallowed deduction claimed under section 57. On appeal against the Revision order, the Tribunal held that perusal of original assessment order would clearly show it not be a case of complete absence of enquiry and Assessing Officer had sent notice under section 142(1) along with a detailed questionnaire comprising 38 questions to which replies were submitted by assessee and Assessing Officer duly applied mind to same before passing assessment order. The order of revision did not record reasons of arriving at conclusion that assessment order is erroneous and prejudicial to interest of revenue. Order of CIT is set aside. [S. 2(11), 32, 72, 143(3), 260A] 2690

Assessee had sold depreciable assets and worked out short-term capital gain on sale of depreciable assets and after claiming set-off of brought forward long-term capital loss, net taxable capital gain was calculated. Assessing Officer while passing assessment order had taken short-term capital gain as long-term capital gain. Principal Commissioner passed order under section 263 on ground that there was error in assessment order by treating short-term capital gain as long-term capital gain by Assessing Officer. Tribunal accepted claim of assessee that its claim of set off of brought forward long term capital loss against short term capital gain returned under section 50 was in accordance with law. On appeal the Court held that the Assessing Officer having taken a plausible view in matter, assessment order could not be said to be erroneous so as to cause prejudice to revenue and, hence, Commissioner could not have exercised revisionary powers under section 263 of the Act. Assessee is engaged in business of providing telecommunication and related support services. Since year 2003, it was dealing in Internet Protocol-Virtual Private Network (IP-VPN) services license and in year 2006, Department of Telecommunication (DoT) granted National Long Distance-International Long Distance (NLD-ILD) license. It filed return of income declaring its total income as nil on basis of deduction under section 80I-A Assessment was completed. PCIT held that since business was commenced by assessee in assessment year 2004-05 having availed 100 per cent deduction from assessment year 2004-05 to assessment year 2008-09, assessee was entitled to claim deduction only to extent of 30 per cent from assessment year 2009-10 to assessment year 2013-14 and he denied deduction to assessee by invoking section 263. Tribunal set aside the Revision order. On appeal the Court held that no material was brought on record by revenue to show that merely by migration from IP-VPN to NLD-ILD license, a new and different undertaking of assessee within meaning of section 80IA(4)(ii) came into existence. Migration of licenses having occurred in December 2006 and Assessing Officer having allowed deductions for earlier years after making inquiries, assessee could not be deprived of similar deductions for subsequent period. [S. 32, 40A(2)(b), 115JB, 260A]

The PCIT exercising his powers u/s 263 called for revision of the order passed by the AO. The question before the Hon'ble Gujarat High Court was whether the issue of excess depreciation claimed on windmill @80% as prescribed under IT Act instead of the rate of 15. 33% for a continuous plant as per companies Act for the purpose of calculation of book profit u/s 115JB of the IT Act was erroneous or not. Another issue to be considered was whether determination of fair market value u/s 40A(2)(b) of the Act in respect of payments made to related parties during the year under consideration was made without appreciating the facts of the case. The Tribunal held that the PR. CIT has erred in holding that the assessment order as erroneous since the asessee is allowed to claim higher depreciation under the Income Tax rules as against the rate mentioned in the Companies Act. On the second issue, the tribunal followed the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pr. CIT v. Shreeji Prints (P.) Ltd. [2021] 130 taxmann.com 294/282 Taxman 464 (SC) and held that the PR. CIT cannot hold the assessment order to be erroneous if the AO has made inquiries and accepted the genuineness a plausible view so taken. (AY. 2010-11) The decision of the tribunal was confirmed.

2703 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Mistake in calculation of tax at slab rate instead of the rate mentioned in section 115BBE-Mistake can be rectified under section 154-Revision proceedings cannot be invoked. [S. 115BBE, 143(3), 154]
Tribunal held that the all the additions made by the AO are in consonance with the Income-tax statute. The calculation of tax as per Section 115BBE of the Act is a mistake which can be rectified under section 154 of the Act and therefore, the provisions of section 263 of the Act cannot be invoked as the prejudice is on account of a mistake in the assessment order made by the AO can be rectified. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Barred by limitation-Issue raised in the revision proceedings are different from re-assessment issue under section 147 of the Act-Time limit to be ascertained from 143(1) order and not under section 147 of the Act-Order is barred by limitation. [S. 143(1), 147, 148] 2704

Held that revision order against the order under 147 is barred by the limitation as the issue raised in revisionary proceedings are different from the reassessment issue under section 147. The time limit to be ascertained from 143(1) order and not from the order under section 147 of the Act. Relied on *Alagendran Finance Ltd v. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Formal education through music school-Education-Running a petrol pump whose receipts are claimed to be utilised for meeting its charitable objects-Assessment order is not erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of Revenue-Revision is quashed. [S. 2(15), 11(4), 11(4A)] 2705

Held that the assessee has demonstrated that the entire surplus from the petrol pumpoperated by it was utilized for the main charitable activities of the trust i. e., education, and separate books of accounts have been maintained in respect of such business, hence the twin conditions set out in s. 11(4A) stood satisfied and the petrol pump business carried on by the assessee-trust is to be regarded as business incidental to the attainment of the educational objects of the trust; order of the AO allowing exemption under s. 11 to the assessee cannot be held to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, more so as the view adopted by the AO was in accordance with the prevalent law at the material time. Allowing the appeal the Tribunal held that some rental income was earned with the intention of applying it for charitable purpose and educational activity. The AO is justified in accepting the claim of the assessee treating the gross receipts having been earned from carrying out educational activity. The order of the AO is neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interest of the Revenue. Judgment in *New Noble Educational Society v. Tribunal held that in the course of assessment proceedings specific questions were asked and the surrendered income was accepted as business income after the AO was satisfied with the explanation of the assessee. The Assessee has provided necessary explanation about the nature and source of such unrecorded transactions and the necessary nexus with assessee's business has been established. The view taken by the AO is clearly a plausible view considering the facts and circumstances of the case and nothing has been pointed out as to how the view so taken is unsustainable in the eyes of law. The order passed by the Principal CIT is set aside. (AY. 2017-18)

Held that the AO has verified and considered the various details in respect of the method adopted by the assessee for recognizing the revenue. Principal CIT has not disproved the material placed on record by the assessee in support of its claim that it has followed percentage completion method and not project completion method. Principal CIT has not substantiated that the assessment order passed by the AO is erroneous as well as prejudicial to the interest of Revenue. Order of PCIT is set aside. (AY. 2018-19)

Tribunal held that the AO while framing the assessment had taken a possible view, and the Revenue did not demonstrate the error on the part of the AO. In fact, when the AO has conducted the required enquiry and not violated any of the conditions mentioned for revision of order as required by Explanation. 2 of s. 263 the order passed by the AO could not be deemed to be erroneous so as to be prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. [S. 194C]

Tribunal held that the fact that the case of the assessee was selected limited scrutiny to verify the genuineness of expenditure with reference payments made to persons falling under s. 194C, same could not be enlarged to include other expenditure claimed by the assessee which are not subject to the provisions of s. 194C and, therefore, Principal CIT cannot initiate proceeding under s. 263 on that issue; since the payment made to the contractor has be duly examined by the AO and necessary documentation of the particulars of the contractor are on record, the claim of the assessee could not be rejected solely because the contractor has not filed its return of income and, therefore, the order passed by the AO cannot be held to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of the Revenue. [S. 28(i) 36(1)(vii), 36(1)(viia), 45, 48, 70 143(3)]

Tribunal held that while computing long-term capital gains by incorrect method assessee got the benefit of foreign exchange fluctuation as well as cost inflation index, both, which is not in accordance with the IT Act. Accordingly revision is valid. As regards bad debt there is no error in the order of the AO in allowing the claim of the assessee after calling for the explanation. Revisional order is not sustainable. As regards provision for depreciation on investment comprising of securities held as stock-in-trade as well as those held as investment the issue is squarely covered by Expln. 2 to S. 263 to such extent the order of the AO is erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of the Revenue. As regards excess deduction u/s 36(1)(viia), revision is up held. As regards deduction granted to rural branch, the AO has granted the deduction without examining the details. Revision is justified. As regards bad debt the AO has allowed the deduction without examining the details, hence revision is justified. (AY. 2015-16)

[S. 40A(2)(b), 142(1), 194I] 2717

Held that the assessee furnished copies of rental contracts in soft copy format. All these rental agreements were produced for verification during the course of scrutiny proceedings and the AO made verification thereof, but due to multiple number of contracts, the AO did not refer the same in the assessment order. AO verified the deduction of TDS on rental expenses and found nothing adverse to the details submitted in the soft copy format and also in respect of TDS of all quarters. Principal CIT did not venture to examine the same, and simply directed the AO to conduct inquiries. Revision is not justified. As regards freight forwarding expenses in the P&L a/c,in response to the said questionnaire, the assessee furnished such details. However, assessee has shown provision for freight outward charges. No details of actual payments were submitted before the Principal CIT. Revision is justified to the extent of freight outward expenses. (AY. 2015-16)

Held that AO has not followed the directions of said Circular without mentioning any reasons for not referring the matter to the TPO. The order is erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of Revenue despite the fact that the transaction may not have resulted into loss to the Revenue for the reason that both the parties were paying tax at similar rate. As regards remaining grounds, the assessee had made submissions to the Principal CIT that the issue was examined by the AO by raising queries to which assessee had responded by several letters. Revision is valid as regard to directions made to the AO to refer the matter to TPO but on other counts the order is not valid. (AY. 2019-20)

[S. 37(1), 40A(2)(vi), 40A(2)(b), 147, 148] 2719

The Assessment was reopened. The AO was satisfied with the explanation given by the assess regarding various issues raised by him and passed the order. The PCIT passed the revisional order on the ground that the AO has not carried out proper verification. On appeal the Tribunal held that AO having called for the details from the assessee and duly framed the reassessment after coming to the conclusion that there was no justification for making any addition as regards the issues raised in reassessment, Principal CIT was not justified in invoking his revision jurisdiction under s. 263 and directing the AO to carry out further enquiry as regards certain issues which were not subject-matter of the reasons recorded for reopening of assessment. [S. 2(24)(iv), 47(x), 49(2A), 56, 143(1)]

Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that the whole interest amount of Rs. 75.46 lakhs was deemed to be received by the assessee upon conversion of debentures into equity shares in this year. If the amount of Rs. 61.97 lakhs was not brought to tax, it would never have been brought to tax. The taxability of interest component of debentures that had accrued to the assessee up to the date of conversion. Therefore, the action of the Assessing Officer in accepting the return of income is not in accordance with law. The order had errors which was prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. The revision of the order is justified. (AY. 2013-14)

2722 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Conversion firm to limited liability partnership-Firm dissolving on date of conversion-Income earned recorded in hands of Limited Liability Partnership-Tax deducted at source appearing in Firm's name only allowed to firm and not limited liability partnership-No double grant of credit-Revision is not valid. [S. 142(1), 143(2)]
Held that on the date of conversion of the firm, the firm is dissolved and a new entity was created as a limited liability partnership. Accordingly, the income earned after the date of conversion was recorded in the hands of the limited liability partnership and not the dissolved firm. Therefore, during the year under consideration, since no income was earned by the dissolved firm, no return of income was filed by it. However, the limited liability partnership duly accounted for all the transactions, offered to tax all the income credited to its account and filed its return for the year under consideration. The firm had requested all the deductors to issue new certificates of tax deduction at source in the name of the limited liability partnership formed on dissolution of the firm. However, certain deductors issued the certificate in the name of the erstwhile firm. In the reassessment proceedings, statutory notices under sections 143(2) and 142(1) were issued and served on the firm which were duly responded to by it with the clarification that no income was earned by it and, therefore, no return was filed for the year under consideration. The income earned belonged to the limited liability partnership and had been so shown in the return filed by it. The Assessing Officer completed the assessment at the returned income without making any additions in the hands of the firm. There is no basis in the findings of the Principal Commissioner that due verification was not made by the Assessing Officer. Since, the tax deducted at source as appearing in the name of the firm is only allowed to the firm and not to the limited liability partnership despite the corresponding income being offered to tax by the limited liability partnership, no prejudice had been caused to the Revenue. Revision is quashed. AY. 2016-17)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Additional depreciation-Revision order is quashed. [S. 32, 115JB, 147, 148] 2723

Held that the order of the Assessing Officer is neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interest of Revenue. The Principal Commissioner had not appreciated the fact that the assessee had credited the excess depreciation of the earlier 11 assessment years to the "reserves and surplus" account in the balance-sheet in terms of the amended provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 and following the guidance note issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India in regard to reversal of depreciation based on the life of the asset irrespective of the method of depreciation followed. The tax effect of expenses or income adjusted directly against the reserves or securities premium account either pursuant to court order or under transitional provisions prescribed in the Accounting Standard, any income credited directly to a reserve account or a similar account should be net of the tax effect. However, reversal of the provision of depreciation was not an income. Therefore, the assessee's method of crediting the reversal of excess depreciation to the "reserves and surplus" account is in accordance with law and, hence, the Assessing Officer's action of accepting the return could not be disapproved. Revision order is quashed and set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

Held that loss on the capital account by way of reduction of capital invested and any loss on capital account is a capital loss and not a notional loss. That the reduction of capital was extinguishment of rights in the shares and it amounted to transfer within the meaning and scope of section 2(47). That the assessee did not receive any consideration on reduction of capital but its investment had reduced to loss resulting into capital loss and while computing the capital gains, capital loss had to be allowed or set off against any other capital gains. The view of the Assessing Officer is a possible view. The Assessing Officer had rightly allowed the computation of long-term capital loss to be set off against the capital gains shown by the assessee. Revision order is set aside. (AY. 2009-10)

Held that the Assessing Officer had verified the claim of interest expenses through detailed inquiries. The Principal Commissioner had merely substituted his opinion for that of the Assessing Officer without identifying any specific error in the Assessing Officer's findings or procedure. The Principal Commissioner's observation that the assessee has claimed excess interest is factually incorrect. The assessee had restricted its claim of interest paid on loans to the actual interest received from various parties to whom the amount was advanced for earning interest income. The revision order is quashed and set aside. (AY 2017-18)

Held that the Assessing Officer had allowed the set-off of loss per the assessee's return of income, which is an error. No details were filed by either party with respect to the current position of the pending litigation and the resultant figure of income after finally giving effect to the orders of the appellate authority. The order of the Assessing Officer is erroneous as well as prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. As regards lease hold land since necessary adjustment had already been made in the books of account at the end of the year under appeal, no asset remained in the project. Under these circumstances, the current year's interest income could not be reduced from the cost of asset of the project. The direction given by the Principal Commissioner is contrary to the facts of the case. Revision is not valid. (AY. 2020-21)

[S. 133A, 153A, 153B] 2730

Held that Order passed after getting approval from Joint Commissioner, after examining the documents, addition made on third-party based on documents and recorded statements, third party order is not revised which will lead to double taxation referred documents not of impugned assessment year or not belonging to assessee, hence revision order is not valid. The assessee issued 5,00,000 equity shares having face value of Rs. 10 at premium of Rs. 50 per equity share. As a consequence it had received Rs. 2,50,00,000 as premium. The assessee justified the premium received by calculating the fair market value of the shares under rule 11UA of the Income-tax Rules, 1962. The Principal Commissioner took the view that the fair market value of the shares was below the premium at which the shares were issued, as the assessee had not considered the unsecured loans in its working of fair market value of shares and accordingly the provisions of section 56(2)(viib) of the Act were liable to be invoked and that the Assessing Officer failed to properly inquire into the share valuation for the purposes of section 56(2)(viib). It was contended that the Principal Commissioner had not considered the assessee's submission that these 5,00,000 shares issued by the assessee were rights issue, which was given to the existing shareholders in their existing shareholding ratio against unsecured loans which were given by them to the assessee-company and that section 56(2)(viib) was not attracted to issue of rights shares. Revision order is set aside. (AY. 2014-15)

2733 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Business promotion expenses-Freebies-Change of opinion--Cannot revise the order where the Assessing Officer has conducted enquiry and allowed expenses. [S. 37(1)]

Held that it was apparent from the facts that the details of business promotion expenses were called for and examined in detail by the Assessing Officer in the course of assessment proceedings. After examining the details as brought on record by the assessee, the Assessing Officer had taken a considered decision that no disallowance on account of business promotion expenses was called for. It was evident from the details of business promotion expenses that the expenditure was not in the nature of freebies or monetary grant and that all the payments were not made to doctors as observed by the Principal Commissioner. The observation of the Principal Commissioner that this payment was in the nature of grant to doctors and that no tax was deducted at source on these payments was, therefore, not correct. When the matter was examined by the Assessing Officer in the course of assessment proceedings and no freebies was found to be provided to the doctors, there was no question of any disallowance in accordance with the Board's Circular No. 5 of 2012 (2012) 346 ITR 95 (St). That the Principal Commissioner had not brought anything adverse on record to substantiate her allegation that the claim of the assessee was liable to be disallowed under section 37 of the Act. Order of revision is quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Death of assessee-Commissioner was intimated of death of assessee-Order passed in the name of dead person-Order is bad in law-Additional ground is admitted. [S. 254(1)] 2734
Held that it was explicitly clear that it was in the knowledge of Commissioner that the assessee had expired. The Commissioner after having knowledge of death of the assessee was mandatorily required to pass an order in the name of the legal heir of the deceased, whereas, the order was passed in the name of the assessee, i. e., in the name of a dead person. The order passed in the name of a dead person was illegal and bad in law. Hence, any subsequent proceedings arising therefrom were non est. Additional ground is admitted. (AY. 2009-10)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Company-Book profit-Voluntary liquidation-Section 115JB is applicable even to a company under voluntary liquidation. [S. 115JB] 2735
Assessee-company is undergoing voluntary liquidation. Assessing Officer completed assessment without applying provisions of section 115JB of the Act. PCIT invoked revision proceedings under section 263 on ground that assessee had not computed income under provisions of MAT. Assessee contended that it was a company undergoing voluntary liquidation, and hence, is not preparing accounts from which any "book profit" could be worked out. On appeal the Tribunal held that neither did Assessing Officer conduct any enquiry nor did he attempt to apply provisions of section 115JB, and hence provision of Section 263 is correctly applied. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Capital gains-Full value of consideration-Stamp valuation-Property is transferred to Trust in assessment year 2017-18-Revenue has accepted the valuation-No addition can be made on account of stamp valuation in the assessment year 2018-19. [S. 11(IA), 45, 50C] 2736
During assessment year 2017-18, assessee-trust sold immovable property for consideration of Rs. 52.52 crores which was duly offered to tax. Sale deed was registered on 17.05.2017 (relevant to Assessment Year 2018-19). Subsequently, return of income for relevant year 2018-19 was filed by assessee declaring income at Rs. NIL which was accepted and assessment order was passed. Commissioner invoked revision for relevant year 2018-19 on ground that stamp duty value of immovable property sold by assessee was Rs. 82.31 crores as per provisions of section 50C, and therefore, difference between stamp duty value and transaction value was not examined by Assessing Officer which made his order erroneous so far as prejudicial to interest of revenue. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had offered capital gain in assessment year 2017–18, property was transferred in that year, property got registered in current assessment year, thus, capital gain offered by assessee had been assessed to income tax in assessment year 2017–18. Further there is no provision under section 11(1A) to substitute net consideration with full value of deemed consideration. Even otherwise in case of assessee, a trust, according to provisions of section 11(1A) where a capital asset was sold, transferred, net consideration was required to be utilized for acquisition of another capital asset and in those circumstances, net consideration was deemed to have been applied for charitable purposes to extent consideration was utilized. Therefore order under section 263 passed by CIT for relevant year is unjustified. (AY. 2017-18)

Held that the assessment order was passed under section 143(3) after due scrutiny by the Assessing Officer after collecting information through various notices issued to the assessee. The Assessing Officer had collected the information from the assessee and according to the assessment records there was no evidence to show that the Assessing Officer had not verified it in detail. The assessee had submitted all the relevant information, the basis of allocation and adjustment of exempt income before the Assessing Officer. If the Assessing Officer had not verified the adjustment of exempt income claim made by the assessee his order could be considered an erroneous order. The Principal Commissioner had not brought on record how it was prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. Revision order is quashed. (AY. 2016-17)

2738 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Limited scrutiny to full scrutiny-No mention in order-sheet that limited scrutiny converted into full scrutiny-Neither Principal Commissioner nor Department producing any document or approval for converting limited scrutiny into full scrutiny in case of assessee-Revision order and consequential proceedings bad in law-No appeal is filed against 263 order-Revision jurisdiction in this case by the Principal Commissioner was wrong and illegal, the consequential order passed under section 143(3) of the Act was also not sustainable in the eyes of law and was accordingly quashed. [S. 143(3)]
Held that the main reason why the Principal Commissioner exercised his power of revision was that though the case of the assessee was converted from limited scrutiny to full scrutiny, the Assessing Officer failed to examine these issues. The order-sheets revealed that the case was selected for limited scrutiny relating to the investigation for purchase and sale of shares. However, the issue relating to cash deposits and sundry creditors was not part of the limited scrutiny. The order-sheets further revealed that there was no mention in the order-sheet that the limited scrutiny was ever converted into full scrutiny. Neither was any proposal made by the Assessing Officer for converting limited scrutiny to full scrutiny nor was there any mention of any order of the higher authorities for converting limited scrutiny to full scrutiny. The Assessing Officer after asking the assessee to furnish the details relating to the transactions in purchase and sale of shares and after examining them had completed the assessment without making any addition and thereby accepting the returned income. There was no mention that the limited scrutiny was converted into full scrutiny. Neither had the Principal Commissioner mentioned in the order any document, whereby, the limited scrutiny was converted into full scrutiny, nor could the Department produce on file any such document or approval for converting the limited scrutiny into full scrutiny in the case of the assessee. Therefore, under the circumstances, the order passed by the Principal Commissioner under section 263 of the Act is bad in law and accordingly the consequential proceedings were also bad in law. Tribunal also held that the assessee had not filed appeal against the section 263 order itself but had challenged the validity thereof in the consequential proceedings passed pursuant to the order passed under section 263 of the Act. Since the exercise of revision jurisdiction in this case by the Principal Commissioner was wrong and illegal, the consequential order passed under section 143(3) of the Act was also not sustainable in the eyes of law and was accordingly quashed. [S. 37(1)] 2739

Order of CIT is affirmed there is no dispute on the aggregate expenditure mentioned and claimed in the profit and loss account. In case of dispute about the apportionment of expenses at micro levels (amongst projects), that could have been sorted out with the help of original bills and vouchers of expenditure. Therefore, in the interest of justice, the assessee deserved reasonable opportunity of being heard. The order was to be set aside and the issue of the computational mistake or error referred to in the order of the Tribunal remanded to the Principal Commissioner for decision afresh. The assessee should ensure compliances during the proceedings before the Principal Commissioner. The Principal Commissioner is also required to provide reasonable opportunities of being heard to the assessee before deciding the case on the merits. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Excess provision of Corporate Social Responsibility expenses of earlier years should have been first written back to profit and loss account and not in Balance-Sheet-No discussion in the assessment order-Revision is justified. [S. 143(3)] 2740
Held that there was an adjustment of prior period expenses in the statement showing reconciliation of equity from the previous generally accepted accounting principles to Indian Accounting Standards. This adjustment in the balance-sheet and not in the profit and loss account needed further verification. Prima facie, the Principal Commissioner had sufficient grounds to form an opinion that the order had been passed by the Assessing Officer without making inquiries or verification which should have been made. Considering the facts and the quantum at issue, the Principal Commissioner had properly assumed jurisdiction under section 263. That that the Principal Commissioner had not disallowed the claim but had set aside the assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer and directed him to pass a fresh assessment order to the extent of the issue, after allowing adequate opportunity of being heard to the assessee. The order of the Principal Commissioner is affirmed. (AY. 2018-19)

2741 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Cash deposits-Share capital-share premium-Reassessment –Limitation-Relevant date for purpose of determination of period of limitation-Date of original assessment order and not date of reassessment order-Revision order is quashed. [S. 68, 147, 148]
Assessing Officer reopened assessment on ground that assessee had made certain cash deposits in its bank account which were not explained and reconciled in its books of account. The Assessing Officer passed an order without making any addition with respect to cash deposits. Commissioner invoked revision under section 263 on ground that Assessing Officer failed to carry out necessary verification on two issues, viz., share capital/premium and unsecured loans received by assessee. On appeal the Tribunal held that when Assessing Officer had not made any addition with respect to cash deposits made in bank account of assessee, i. e. issue, based on which, its case was reopened by him under section 147, Assessing Officer was divested of his jurisdiction from making any further independent addition /disallowance. Therefore, Pr. Commissioner could not have held re-assessment order so passed as erroneous for reason that he had failed to carry out verification on such independent issues viz. share capital/premium and unsecured loans received by assessee which were not subject matter of reassessment proceedings. Tribunal also held that where subject matter of re-assessment is distinct and different from issues regarding which revision jurisdiction under section 263 has been invoked, then in that case relevant date for purpose of determination of period of limitation for exercising powers under section 263 would be date of original assessment order and not date of reassessment order. During search operation conducted in case of 'H' Group, a copy of ledger account of assessee was seized which provided details of unsecured loans. The assessee's case was reopened. In response to reopening notice, assessee filed return. Assessing Officer completed assessment under section 147 wherein returned income was accepted. Thereafter, Principal Commissioner invoked revisionary proceedings on ground that Assessing Officer failed to make necessary inquiries on issue of unexplained cash transactions which were recorded in assessee's ledger account seized during search. On appeal the Tribunal held that since whole case was framed based on material found during search, course of action was required to be taken under section 153C and not under section 148. Therefore, Assessing Officer had erred in invoking reassessment proceedings under section 147 and as such, subsequent cause of action based on invalid order was without jurisdiction Revision order is quashed. On basis of information from Bureau of Investigation, Commercial taxes, that there were certain deposits in bank account of assessee in name of his proprietary concern, Assessing Officer reopened assessment in both assessment years. Assessee submitted that he had not opened any of Bank accounts and that might have been done by some unknown person by using fake identity of assessee. Assessing Officer was not satisfied with submissions of assessee and he was of view that said sum was to be treated as unaccounted sales of assessee and he assumed this figure as turnover of assessee and estimated profit at 8% and estimated unexplained investment. Appeal was filed against said assessment order. Additional Commissioner forwarded a proposal to CIT for initiating proceedings under section 263 against assessee. CIT issued a notice under section 263 and observed that alleged credit of sales ought to be treated as unexplained cash credit against name of assessee and Assessing Officer had erred in treating it as a gross turnover. CIT passed the Revision order. On appeal the Tribunal held that since Commissioner had just reproduced proposal sent by Additional CIT and there was no independent application of mind at his end for taking cognizance under section 263, order passed under section 263 is quashed, particularly when said issue was pending in appeal before Commissioner (Appeals). S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Capital gains-Penny stock-Failure to make enquires-Revision is held to be valid. [S. 45, 147, 148] 2744

The assessment was reopened under Section 147 and assessment was finalized, by accepting returned income. PCIT held that assessee undertook transaction of trading in shares of ECL, a penny stock and modus operandi of whole business was to facilitate introduction of unaccounted income in form of exempt capital gain or short term capital loss, over years. PCIT held that Assessing Officer failed to analyze documents to verify genuineness of transaction and set-aside assessment order as being erroneous and prejudicial to interest of Revenue. Tribunal held that since assessee had dealt in shares relating to penny stock companies and it had neither declared Long Term Capital Losses on sale of shares of ECL nor declared LTCG on sale of shares of Saya assessee had not filed it's return of income correctly. Since Assessing Officer failed to enquire into these important aspects which were both not reflecting in return of income, assessment order passed by Assessing Officer is erroneous in so far as prejudicial to interest of Revenue. [S. 37(1), 80G, 143(3), Companies Act, S. 135]
Assessee incurred expenditure on account of Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR). Assessee in its books disallowed said expenditure. However, expenditure included some donations which were eligible for deduction under section 80G. Assessee claimed deduction under section 80G in respect of such donations made under CSR. Assessing Officer examined assessee's claim of deduction under section 80G and accepted same. Principal Commissioner invoked revisional jurisdiction under section 263 on ground that claim of deduction under section 80G is not allowable to assessee as said claim had been made on expenditure incurred towards CSR. On appeal the Tribunal held that Tribunal in past had considered this issue in various cases and had been consistently holding that CSR expenses which were mandatory under section 135 of Companies Act were not allowable as deduction under section 37(1) but if any part of CSR contribution that was otherwise eligible for deduction under Chapter VI-A there was no bar on companies to claim same as deduction under section 80G. Merely for reason that Principal Commissioner did not agree with view taken by Assessing Officer, assessment order did not become erroneous. Revision order is quashed. (AY. 2016-17)

[S. 68, 147, 148]
Tribunal held that cash deposits during Demonetisation period in respect of retail sale of petroleum products revision is not justified since it is not practicable to maintain customer-specific records. When the Assessing Officer having discretion in examination of transactions and level of inquiry to be conduted, order cannot be erroneous. As regards Audit report available for download and examination. Assessing Officer's choice not to download and file copy for record does not make the order prejudicial to interests of revenue. 2747 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Survey-Surrender letter-Business income-No findings were recorded by the Principal Commissioner how the deeming provisions were applicable and the order passed by the Assessing Officer was erroneous-Survey operation at business premises alone cannot be basis for revision. [S. 68, 699, 69B, 69C 69D, 115BBE, 133A]
Held, that there was a difference between undisclosed income and unexplained income which was apparently absent on the face of the show-cause notice. The very basis of invocation of jurisdiction under section 263 suffered from serious fallacies, that the unexplained income found and surrendered during the course of survey proceedings was sought to be brought to tax straightway under section 115BBE of the Act. There were no findings recorded by the Principal Commissioner whether any explanation was called for from the assessee in terms of these undisclosed transactions either during the course of survey proceedings or during the course of assessment proceedings and how the explanation offered was not found acceptable to the Principal Commissioner. There was no inquiry or investigation which had been conducted by the Principal Commissioner and there was no positive evidence brought on record why the deeming provision read with section 115BBE of the Act were applicable. The assessee had been asked specific questions not only regarding the discrepancy found during the course of survey and also the nature and source thereof during the course of survey. The nature of advances was unaccounted business advances and source of income surrendered was the assessee's share of diagnostic laboratory fees received from S, who ran the diagnostic lab from the business premises of the assessee and had shared 70 per cent. of laboratory fees with the assessee which remained unaccounted and undisclosed at the time of survey. Though these transactions were not recorded at the time of survey qualifying as unrecorded transactions, the assessee had provided the necessary explanation about the nature and source of the unrecorded transactions and the necessary nexus with the assessee's business had been established. Thus, it could not be said that these were unexplained transactions. The Assessing Officer had duly taken cognisance of the findings of the survey team, the documents found during the course of survey, the statement of S, the surrender letter and the return of income and after examination thereof and due application of mind, the income had been rightly assessed under the head "Business income". There were no findings recorded by the Principal Commissioner how the deeming provisions were applicable and the order passed by the Assessing Officer was erroneous. Therefore, the order passed by the Principal Commissioner was set aside and that of the Assessing Officer restored. (AY. 2017-18)

Allowing the appeal the Court held that it was clear that the assessee was confronted with all the facets of the claim and had furnished the requisite information based on which the Assessing Officer had completed the assessment. The assessee had clarified the confusion of the figures noted considering which the Principal Commissioner did not establish the order to be prejudicial. The term "records" not only means records available with the Income-tax Officer at the time of passing the assessment order but also includes records available with the Commissioner at the time of passing his order. The Assessing Officer had called for the details on as many as nine aspects and had examined the issues before allowing the assessee's claim. Once the Assessing Officer, based on the details placed on record, takes up a plausible view of the matter, it could not be subjected to revision under section 263 even in light of the revised Explanation 2 thereto. The jurisdiction under section 263 could not be invoked for making short enquiries or go into the process of assessment again and again merely on the basis that more inquiry ought to have been conducted to find something. As the Assessing Officer had passed the assessment order after relevant inquiries, the order passed by the Principal Commissioner was not in accordance with law. Revision order is quashed. (AY. 2018-19)

Held that the Assessing Officer had verified the issue of lease equalisation charges and its treatment in the books of account and computation of income during the course of assessment proceedings and after considering the assessee's submissions had accepted the claim of the assessee. [S. 14A,80JJA, 143(3), R. 8D]]
Held that when the th Assessing Officer in the original assessment order had taken cognisance of all the aspects and no case was made out by the Department that the assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. For the disallowance of expenditure on exempt income, the assessee had not taken into account the equity shares investment as that has not yielded any dividend income in the particular year and, thus, the Principal Commissioner should have taken cognisance of this aspect. The Assessing Officer had categorically raised the query relating to disallowances and the assessee had given the details of disallowances under section 14A of the Act including the relevant monthly closing and opening balance of investment as well as the monthly closing details. The assessee had claimed the deduction @ 30% under section 80JJAA of the Act, which was in continuation of the earlier year in respect of employees employed in the earlier year and this was allowed by the section. The assessee had not claimed this as there was a loss due to fire. Revision order is bad in law. As regards the issue of employees' compensation the scope of section 263 notice was expanded by the Principal Commissioner at the time of passing the order and the assessee was not confronted or given opportunity to present its case on the said issue. This issue was beyond the scope of notice and is not admissible for revision. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Merely because explanations and documents not filed before Assessing Officer during assessment proceedings-Revision is not valid. 2751

Allowing the appeal the Tribunal held that the authorities can exercise revisionary powers only on fulfilment of the essential conditions of finding error in the order sought to be revised and the error being such as causing prejudice to the Revenue. In the absence of any of the two conditions the power of revision under section 263 of the Act cannot be exercised. Having found no error in the assessment order himself, there was possibly no scope of the issue being examined again by the Assessing Officer, an officer junior in rank to the Principal Commissioner. There was no case therefore, for the Principal Commissioner to exercise any revisionary power under section 263 of the Act on the issue. The order passed by the Principal Commissioner under section 263 of the Act is not sustainable in law. (AY. 2013-14)

[S. 263, Explanation 2, R. 11UA(1), Companies Act, 2013, S. 53] 2752

Held that the Assessing Officer had not applied his mind to the relevant facts in right perspective of law or carried out required enquiries in respect of short-term capital loss declared by the assessee. To this extent, the assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer was erroneous. Tribunal also held that since, the transactions between the assessee and the eight companies were not at arm's length price the resultant loss declared by the assessee from transfer of equity shares could at best be treated as structured transactions to derive undue benefit of short-term capital loss. The Assessing Officer having failed to carry out the required enquiries he ought to have carried out in the light of Explanation 2 to section 263 of the Act, thus, the assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer under section 143(3) of the Act was prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. Therefore, the findings of the Principal Commissioner were proper. (AY. 2017-18)

Mercantile Ventures Ltd. v. ACIT (2024)110 ITR 41 (SN)(Chennai)(Trib)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Capital gains-Investment of gains in residential house within time specified-Purchase of land with intention of constructing house-Time of three years from date of transfer of original asset allowed-Revision on ground that purchase was beyond two years allowed for purchase of house is not proper. [S. 45, 54F, 143(3)] 2753

Held that according to section 54F of the Act, time of three years is provided to the assessee for construction of a house property for claiming exemption of capital gains under section. The exercise of revisionary power by the Principal Commissioner was based on an incorrect interpretation of the provisions of law on the issue. Accordingly the revision order is quashed (AY. 2018-19)

Viral Rajendra Patel v. PCIT (2024)110 ITR 79 (SN)(Ahd)(Trib)

2754 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Capital gains-Sale of immovable property and purchase or construction of new residential property-Information required under notices, and replies submitted leaving no doubt as to the adequacy of inquiry caused by AO-No substance to conclude assessment order is erroneous-The revision order is not sustainable. [S. 54]

Held that details required and obtained by the AO by way of notices clearly showed that the AO had caused sufficient inquiry on the aspect of the sale of the residential house. No intervening facts between the sale deeds were brought on record by the Pr. CIT to reach a different conclusion that what was sold by the assessee was not what he acquired. On his inquiries and perusal of the sale deeds, the AO satisfied himself with the state of affairs obtained through those documents. The Pr. CIT also did not cause any inquiry as to the event after the sale deed to entertain any doubt about such physical features. There was no substance in the revision order to conclude that the assessment order was erroneous. To invoke the jurisdiction u/s. 263, the twin conditions of error in the order and also prejudice to the interests of the Revenue must be established independently. Since the assessment order was not erroneous, the revision order was not sustainable. (AY. 2015-16)

Ahmed Alam Khan v. Dy. CIT (2024) 111 ITR 34 (SN) (Hyd.)(Trib.)

2755 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue AO conducted a proper inquiry and after proper application of mind-taking permissible view-PCIT was wrong in holding the order of AO erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of revenue. [115JB, 143(3), 144C]

The assessee initially declared a total income under the normal provisions and book profits u/s. 115JB of the Act. After a revision in 2015, the declared income under the normal provisions became nil while book profits remained unchanged. The assessment was completed, and later, the Pr. CIT found the assessment order to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue and thus directed the AO to frame a fresh assessment order.

Held that the AO did conduct proper inquiries during the original assessment proceedings u/s. 143(3) and 144C of the Act. Hence, the assessment order was not prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. (AY. 2003-04)

SREI Infrastructure Finance Ltd. v. PCIT (2024) 111 ITR 95 (Kol)(Trib.)

2756 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Limited Scrutiny-The other issues related to revision were duly scrutinised and accepted by the AO by taking into consideration full details filed by the assessee-Revision order is quashed. [S. 14A, 36(1(iii), 80JJAA(b)]

The return filed by the assessee was subjected to limited scrutiny on three issues A) deductions claimed under Chapter VI-A; B) issue of share capital and C) Refund claimed. The assessee furnished all related details. The assessee filed complete details in respect of deduction claimed u/s. 80JJAA, share capital issued. The assessment was completed u/s. 143(3) of the Act after taking into consideration details filed by the assessee. Subsequently, CIT sought to revise the assessment on the ground that the A. O. had not properly examined the four issues during the assessment i. e. a) Deduction of Rs. 99.23 lakhs claimed u/s. 80JJAA b) issue of non-cumulative preference shares c) Disallowance of interest u/s. 36(1)(iii) and d) disallowance u/s. 14A of the Act.

The assessee challenged the revisional order passed by the CIT before the Tribunal. The DR and Tribunal accepted the contention of the assessee that revision in respect of disallowance of interest u/s. 36(1)(iii) and 14A of the Act could not be made as these issues could not be examined by the A. O. under the limited scrutiny without the permission of the higher authority.
In respect of deduction u/s. 80JJAA of the Act and issue of share capital, the assessee demonstrated that the assessment was completed based on the submission of details called for and that the CIT, without pointing out any defect, infirmity or inadequacy, merely directed the A. O. to revise the assessment. In the circumstances, the Tribunal held that the A. O. had caused adequate enquiries and the CIT had not pointed out what additional enquiries were required to be made by the A. O. The Tribunal quashed the order passed by the CIT by holding that simply holding that the Assessing Officer was required to make more enquiries is not a valid ground to hold assessment order as erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. S. 263 : Commissioner – Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue – Assessment order which is nullity in law – Cannot be revised. [S. 132A, 143(3)] 2757
Rs. 20 Lakhs in old currency was seized by the ITO during municipal elections. Scrutiny notice u/s 143(2) was issued for assessment. After assessment, the order passed was called for revision by the PCIT u/s 263. The assessee contended that when a requisition has been made under s.132A of the Act, the jurisdiction to complete the assessment is governed by the provisions of Section 153A of the Act. The normal provisions of assessment under s.143(3) of the Act would not apply in the case where action has been taken either under s.132 of the Act or under s.132A of the Act.
The Tribunal held that the order which is a nullity in law and has no legal effect, cannot be revised under s.263 of the Act. The assessment order being infructuous in law, the consequential action under s.263 of the Act is equally infructuous. The assessment, in the instant case, has not been framed under s.153A of the Act despite requisition under s.132A of the Act. The error committed by the AO in contravention of express provisions of Act is incurable and has rendered the assessment void ab initio and a nullity in law. Such an assessment order being devoid of any legal effect could not be revised. The revisional order is accordingly quashed and set aside. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Income from other sources-Compensation for acquisition of agricultural land-Interest on compensation-Two views possible-Revision order is quashed. [S. 4, 56(2)(vii), 143(3), Land Acquisition Act, 1894,S. 28] 2758
Held that the order of the Assessing Officer was based on the decision of the Supreme Court in CIT v. Ghanshyam (HUF) (2009) 315 ITR 1 (SC) on the issue of taxability of interest received by the assessee under section 28 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894. The order could at best be said to be a debatable issue on which two views were possible and the Assessing Officer accepted one of the views. In this view of the matter too, the Principal Commissioner could not assume revisional jurisdiction. (AY. 2018-19)

2759 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Revision-Possible-Commissioner giving directions to Assessing Officer without pointing out how view taken by Assessing Officer was wrong-Revision is quashed. [S. 142(1), 143(3)]
Held that the revisionary jurisdiction was exercised in respect of five issues but in the set aside proceedings, the Assessing Officer accepted the reply of the assessee on three issues whereas only two issues were added to the income of the assessee. During the assessment proceedings, the Assessing Officer had specifically called for information after issuing notice under section 142(1) of the Act and the assessee specifically replied and offered its explanation why these items did not warrant disallowance or addition and it was accepted by the Assessing Officer. The Assessing Officer had taken a plausible view which also appeared to be correct and therefore the Principal Commissioner could not invoke the jurisdiction under section 263 of the Act to substitute his view for that of the Assessing Officer. The revisionary jurisdiction had been invalidly invoked and consequently the revision jurisdiction exercised by the Principal Commissioner is quashed. The Principal Commissioner had simply exercised jurisdiction by giving directions to the Assessing Officer without pointing out how the view taken by the Assessing Officer was wrong thereby rendering the assessment passed by him erroneous and prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue. 2760 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Dividend-Allocation of expenses-Order of Assessing Officer is not erroneous –Limited scrutiny-Enquiry as to source of investment in mutual fund units neither envisaged nor called for Revision order is quashed. [S. 10(35), 142(1), 143(3)]
Held that the assessee submitted the details of sale and purchase of shares and securities transactions along with proof of transaction ledger and dematerialised trading account. It was thus abundantly clear that the discrepancy as per show-cause notice issued by the Principal Commissioner was reconciled by the assessee by bringing on record the documentary evidence filed before the Assessing Officer. The Principal Commissioner denied giving credence to them on the flimsy ground that these were not found available on the assessment record. For non-availability of the documentary evidence filed by the assessee in assessment record, the assessee could not be faulted and it would be against the principles of natural justice to draw adverse inference therefor. That the direction of the Principal Commissioner to the Assessing Officer to reconcile the information on purchase of mutual fund units and to examine the sources of investment therein was beyond reason since it was not an issue selected for scrutiny. The details of purchase and sale of mutual fund units were furnished in the assessee's reply to the notice under section 142(1) of the Act issued by the Assessing Officer. Enquiry as to the source of investment in mutual fund units was neither envisaged nor called for. Revision order is quashed. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Limited scrutiny-Declared net profit from business more than 8 Per Cent. of total turnover-Furnished all details in the course of assessment proceedings-Revision is not justified. [S. 44AD, 143(3)] 2761

Held that the Principal Commissioner's main observation was that the assessee had not disclosed its total turnover and had not claimed the profit as per the actual calculations but this was not correct. The assessee at the stage of assessment order had given all the details including total turnover which was summarised and put together and gave the profit quantification of the total turnover in terms of section 44AD of the Act and, therefore, the invocation of section 263 of the Act was not justifiable when the assessee has given all the details. The assessment order was not erroneous or prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue and, therefore, the order passed under section 263 of the Act was not justified. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Assessment order passed after making necessary inquiries-Held, revision proceedings cannot be initiated simply because PCIT was of the opinion that further inquiries should have been made on the issue. [S. 143(3)] 2762

The ITAT observed that the AO had passed the assessment order after making necessary inquiries, in respect of which replies were duly filed by the Assessee from time to time furnishing the requisite information. Revision proceedings were initiated by the PCIT because he was of the opinion that sufficient inquiries were not conducted by the AO. The ITAT held that merely because the assessment order is not a detailed order that itself, does not mean that the AO had not made enquiries in this respect. Further, the Pr. CIT had not pointed out any error or discrepancy in the explanations and details furnished by the Assessee, neither did he examine such evidence or raise any counter questions to the Assessee on the relevant points and he also did not consider the submission of the Assessee furnished in reply to the show-cause notice. Therefore, the PCIT was not justified in setting aside the assessment order. Accordingly, the impugned order of PCIT was set aside. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Salary-Perquisite-Difference in salary as per Form No. 16 and salary disclosed in ITR-Amount received on VRS-The Assessing Officer had not conducted proper inquiries in respect of claims made by assesseee-Revision is held to be justified. [S. 10(10C),10(10CC), 10(10B), 16, 17(2), 40(a)(v), Form No. 16] 2763

Assessment was completed under section 143(3) and returned income was accepted. Pr. Commissioner initiated proceeding under section 263 and held that order of Assessing Officer was erroneous and pre-judicial to interest of revenue, as certain exemptions were wrongly allowed, contrary to provisions of law, in respect of salary income. Accordingly, the assessment was set-aside to Assessing Officer with a direction to pass fresh assessment order de novo. On appeal the Tribunal held that since Assessing Officer had not conducted proper inquiries in respect of claims as made in return of income, order was rightly treated as erroneous and pre-judicial to interest of revenue. Huge difference was found in the salary as per per Form 16 and the salary disclosed in their respective ITR. Revision order is up held. (AY. 2018-19)

Assessee is a co-operative society. During year, it claimed deduction under section 80P(2)(d) in respect of an interest income earned on FDs kept by it with a co-operative bank. Assessing Officer allowed same. PCIT invoked revision jurisdiction on ground that interest income earned by assessee-society on investment with banks was not eligible for deduction under section 80P(2)(a)(i) and should be taxed under section 56. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee society, being a cooperative society, is entitled to exemption under section 80P(2)(d), in respect of interest income derived from FDs with cooperative banks. Since Assessing Officer had duly applied his mind to issue of assessee's claim of deduction under section 80P and only thereafter he had allowed it while passing assessment order, Pr. CIT had erred in invoking powers under section 263 and setting aside assessment order. (AY. 2012-13, 2013-14)

2765 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Cash credits-Bank deposits-Capital gain-Purchase of agricultural after due date of filing of return-Reassessment proceedings initiated-No addition was made-Order is not erroneous and prejudicial to interest of revenue on issue of capital gain. [S. 45, 54B, 68, 139(1), 147, 148]
Assessing Officer reopened assessment of assessee to examine cash deposit of certain amount in bank account. Assessing Officer inquired about cash deposit and he was satisfied with explanation given by assessee and did not make any addition on issue of cash deposit. Thereafter, Assessing Officer dealt with issue of sale of agricultural land sold by assessee and proceeded to compute capital gain on sale of agricultural land at nil. Commissioner invoked section 263 on ground that Assessing Officer should not have allowed exemption under section 54B to assessee on investment in agricultural lands purchased after due date of filing return. On appeal Tribunal held that since Assessing Officer did not make any addition for reasons recorded at time of issue of notice under section 148, he could not have made any addition on account of capital gain in assessment proceedings under section 147/148 and, thus, assessment order was not erroneous and prejudicial to interest of revenue. [S. 143(3), 254(1)] 2767

The Tribunal condoned the delay in filing of appeal. The Tribunal held that the questionnaire issued under section 142 had not been placed on record. It was not discernible whether the Assessing Officer had verified the aspect regarding the source of cash available with the assessee for making deposits in two bank accounts, as narrated by the Principal Commissioner. Though the assessee had provided detailed records in tabulated form, including bank passbooks of the two banks, the cash available with the assessee and host of details running into more than 50 pages, neither had the Assessing Officer examined this aspect during the assessment proceedings nor the Principal Commissioner. Thus, the Assessing Officer was directed to verify the source of cash available with the assessee for deposits in the two bank accounts. If the Assessing Officer was satisfied with the explanation of the assessee, no additions were to be made. However, if unsatisfied, the alleged cash deposits were to be treated in accordance with the law. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Specific notice-Failure to file required information –Share premium-Cash deposit-Demonetisation-bad debt-Revision is justified. [S. 36(1)(vii), (36(2), 56(2)(vii), 143(3)] 2768

The Principal Commissioner initiated revision proceedings on the ground of failure by the Assessing Officer to consider three issues : the increase in share premium in light of provisions of section 56(2)(vii) of the Act, cash deposits made during the demonetisation period and bad and doubtful debts. On appeal the Tribunal held that although the assessee had received huge share premium, the Assessing Officer had failed to examine the issue of increase in share premium in light of provisions of section 56(2)(vii) of the Act by calling for specific details with regard to the price charged by the assessee and valuation of shares. He had simply accepted the explanation of the assessee without any verification with regard to price determined for allotment of shares. As regards huge cash deposits during demonetisation period, the assessee had deposited a sum of Rs. 19. 53 crores in various bank accounts but the Assessing Officer had not verified the issue in light of standard operating procedure issued by the Central Board of Direct Taxes for verification of huge cash deposits during that period. Similarly, the claim of deduction for provision for bad and doubtful debts written off was not verified with reference to provisions of section 36(1)(vii) read with section 36(2) of the Act. The Assessing Officer had issued notice under section 142(1) in response to which the assessee had not furnished any details called for. The Assessing Officer had completed the assessment on the basis of available information on record and accepted the income declared by the assessee for the relevant assessment year. Therefore, the assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer was erroneous in so far as it was prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue, on the issue of increase in share premium, cash deposits during demonetisation period and deduction claimed towards bad and doubtful debts. The Principal Commissioner had rightly set aside the assessment order passed by the Assessing Officer. (AY. 2017-18)

2769 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Cash credits-Share capital-Share premium-Facts examined by Assessing Officer-Not a case of no enquiry or lack of enquiry-Order is neither erroneous nor prejudicial to interests of revenue-Revision order is set aside-Revision jurisdiction cannot be exercised on same issue for second time. [S. 68, 133(6), 143(3)]

Quashing the revision order the Tribunal held that in the proceedings pursuant to the first revision notice the Assessing Officer deleted the addition made under section 68 of the Act in respect of share capital and share premium and assessed the income at Rs. 1,240. Before deleting the addition, the Assessing Officer called for the necessary details from the assessee and also from the shareholders under section 133(6) of the Act which were fully replied by filing the details as requisitioned. The Assessing Officer gave a detailed finding in the assessment order for deleting the addition after carrying out detailed examination and enquiry into the matter. This was not a case of no enquiry or lack of enquiry as the Assessing Officer had made an enquiry and taken a view on the basis of examination of the evidence furnished by the assessee as well as by the subscribers. The twin conditions for revision were not satisfied as the order was neither erroneous nor prejudicial to the interests of the Revenue as all the facts were examined by the Assessing Officer on the basis of details and explanation of the assessee before the Assessing Officer and he had taken a correct view based on his examination of records furnished by the assessee as well as by the subscribers. The Tribunal also held that revisionary jurisdiction under section. 263 of the Act is not available on the same issue for the second time. (AY. 2013-14)

[S. 50C, 143(3)]

Assessing Officer received information that assessee had sold an immovable property and observed that there was a difference between sale value of property as declared by assessee and as adopted by stamp duty authority. He reopened assessment and thereafter, assessment order was passed and additions were made on account of LTCG. Principal Commissioner invoked revisionary proceedings on ground that Assessing Officer had not ascertained cost and year of acquisition of capital asset. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had expired at time when assessment order was framed in name of assessee. In absence of any specific statutory provision under Income Tax law which requires legal heirs to intimate Income Tax Department about death of assessee, assessment order could not be held to be valid only for reason that legal heirs of deceased assessee had not informed about death of assessee. Since original assessment order framed in name of a deceased person was not valid in eyes of law, same could not be revised by taking recourse to section 263 proceedings and thus order passed under section 263 was to be set aside. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Capital gains-Interest-Enhanced compensation on compulsory acquisition Act 1894-Debatable-Revision is not valid. [S. 10(37), 143(3), Land Acquisition Act, 1894, S. 28] 2771

Assessee received interest under section 28 on enhanced compensation for compulsory acquisition of his agricultural land and claimed that said interest is a part of enhanced value of land and same is exempt under section 10(37). Assessing Officer accepted claim of assessee and passed an assessment order. PCIT invoked revision under section 263 on ground that Assessing Officer should have taken into consideration binding decision of High Court in Mahendu Pal Narang v. CBDT [2021] 279 Taxman 74 (SC) wherein it was held that interest received on compensation or enhanced compensation would be taxed as per amended provisions introduced through Finance Act, 2009 under different head of income and not under head capital gains. He accordingly, treated order of Assessing Officer as erroneous and prejudicial to interest of revenue. On appeal the Tribunal held that the order of Assessing Officer was based on decision of Supreme Court in CIT v. Ghanshyam HUF (2009) 182 Taxman 368/315 ITR 1 (SC) [2009] on issue of taxability of interest received by assessee under section 28 of Land Acquisition Act. Tribunal held that at best be said to be a debatable issue on which two views were possible and Assessing Officer having accepted one of views, Pr. Commissioner could not assume revisional jurisdiction. (AY. 2018-19)

Assessee is engaged in providing BPO services, IT enabled services and software consultancy service. Assessee had earned rental income from a property owned by it under head current assets and offered same to tax as income from house property which was accepted accordingly. Commissioner invoked revisionary jurisdiction on ground that rental income should have been treated as income from business. On appeal the Tribunal held that since assessee is not engaged in business of earning rental income, but is engaged in providing IT services, rental income earned by assessee on such house property would be chargeable to tax under head Income from house property and not as business income. Revision order is set aside. (AY. 2018-19)

2773 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Property held for charitable purposes-Application of accumulated income-AO failed to examine said issue during assessment proceedings, CIT(E) rightly set aside matter to file of AO for making a de novo assessment. [S. 11(2), 11(3), 11(3)(d), 143(3)]

AO completed assessment of assessee-trust under section 143(3), for assessment year 2017-18. Subsequently, CIT(E) noticed that certain amount had been donated by assessee to other institutions out of accumulated fund in earlier previous year and AO failed to tax same. As per Explanation to section 11(2) read with section 11(3)(d), donations given out of accumulated funds under section 11(2) of earlier previous years are not allowable as application of income for charitable or religious purposes, and therefore, same would be deemed to be income of assessee of previous year 2016-17, and AO ought to have examined this issue during assessment under section 143(3). Therefore, CIT(E) rightly set aside matter to file of AO for making a de novo assessment after proper examination of issue involved. (AY. 2017-18)

Assessee-company is merged with other company with effect from 1-10-2009. PCIT passed the revision order on the ground that (i) during assessment year 2008-09 assessee made payments to non-residents without deduction of tax at source and Assessing Officer had not examined/verified said issue, and (ii) assessee also earned exempt income under section 10(38) and issue relating to exempt income had not been examined by Assessing Officer and directed the AO to reframe assessment afresh. Tribunal held that since order had been issued by PCIT clarifying entire status of assessee-company and factor of amlagamation, argument of assessee on maintainability of order impugned was devoid of any merit. Tribunal also held that since duty to examine aforesaid issues though cast upon Assessing Officer had not performed by him, order passed by PCIT setting aside order passed by Assessing Officer upon considering it erroneous insofar as prejudicial to interest of revenue is just and proper. Simens Healthcare Diagnostics Ltd. v. PCIT (2024) 206 ITD 810 (Ahd) (Trib.)

2775 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Donation to political parties-No enquiry was made by the Assessing Officer-Revision is held to be justified. [S. 80GGC]

Assessee claimed deduction under section 80GGC for donation made to political party. Principal Commissioner held that assessee had furnished copy of three donation receipts being made to said party but on perusal of such receipts, it was found that receipts did not contain details of cheque number, bank name, date of cheque issued etc. Principal Commissioner also noted that list of donors did not include name of assessee for three different receipts which clearly proved that donation was bogus. He held that donation made by assessee was bogus and cash had been received back by assessee in lieu of cheque and thus assessment order was erroneous and prejudicial to interests of revenue. Since Assessing Officer simply accepted version of assessee and did not make any attempt to verify genuineness of receipts issued by political party, there was an evident lack of enquiry by Assessing Officer, while accepting claim of deduction of donation by assessee, while framing assessment order. Therefore, there was no infirmity in order passed by Principal Commissioner. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Examined all details-Possible view-Revision is not valid. [S. 10(21)] 2776
Assessee, a charitable trust, which was engaged in Scientific research associations conducting research and development activities in textile sector. It claimed exemption under section 10(21). Assessing Officer accepted assessee's claim.commissioner (E) was of view that income derived by assessee from Auditorium Hire charges, hoarding site and service charges, and rent was not incidental to objectives of assessee-trust and, thus, not eligible for exemption under section 10(21). On appeal the Tribunal held that since issue as to whether impugned income was incidental to objects of assessee-trust was a debatable issue, revisionary authority was not justified in setting aside order of Assessing Officer. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Income from other sources-Share premium-Discounted Cash flow (DCF) method-Selected for scrutiny on the ground that large share premium received during relevant assessment year-Assessing Officer accepted the claim-Commissioner was not justified in setting aside order of AO under section 263 on ground that AO had merely accepted claim of share premium without making enquiry with respect to valuation of shares. [S. 36(1)(va), 56(2)(viib), 142(1), R. 11UA] 2777
Assessee's case was selected for scrutiny where one reason for selection was large share premium received during relevant assessment year. However, Assessing Officer passed assessment by making disallowance under section 36(1)(va) on account of late payment of ESI/PF. Principal Commissioner held that Assessing Officer had made no enquiry with respect to valuation of shares and merely accepted assessee's claim of share premium. He passed revision order setting aside assessment. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee had produced valuation report prepared under rule 11UA. Also a notice under section 142(1) was issued wherein assessee was specifically asked questionnaire on said issue. Tribunal held that since assessee had already produced all details in respect of issue of large share premium received during year under consideration at time of original assessment proceedings itself which had been already dealt by Assessing Officer, order of revisional authority is set aside. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Dealer in gold-Loss through MCX transactions for hedging its stock-in-trade-Loss is business loss-Not speculative-Revision is not valid. [S. 28(i)) 43(5)(d), 143(3)] 2778 Assessee is a dealer in gold and silver bullion. It suffered loss through MCX transactions for hedging its stock-in-trade and claimed allowance of same. Assessing Officer accepted that loss claimed by assessee from hedging its stock through MCX transactions was not a speculative loss and allowed same for setting off against other income. PCIT held that MCX transactions would fall under clause (a) of section 43(5) and Assessing Officer had accepted claim of assessee under clause (d) of section 43(5) and accordingly, he set aside assessment order and directed AO to make fresh assessment. Tribunal held that since from provisions of section 43(5) it was clear that even according to PCIT assessee's case of MCX transactions for hedging loss falling under clause (a) of section 43(5) is not covered under speculative transaction and MCX transactions were done in normal course of business of assessee, loss suffered was business loss of assessee and thus, order of Assessing Officer allowing loss is not erroneous and prejudicial to interests of revenue. 2779 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –-Exemption-Investment in residential house-Time limit-Date of transfer of shares-Capital gains-Investment in a residential house-Investment made in land beyond period of two years-Revision is not justified-Entitle to exemption. [S. 45, 54F]

Assessee claimed exemption under section 54F on account of purchase of land for construction of residential house and same was allowed in regular assessment. PCIT exercised his power under section 263 and held that exemption claimed under section 54F by assessee on account of purchase of land was wrongly allowed to assessee since land had not been found to have been purchased within prescribed period of two years from date of transfer of shares. On appeal the Tribunal held that section 54F provides a time period of three years to assessee for construction of a house property for claiming exemption of capital gains under section 54F. PCIT had misinterpreted provision of law to hold that assessee was ineligible to claim exemption under section 54F on investment made in land beyond two years. Order of PCIT is set aside. 2780 S. 263 : : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Capital gains-Urban agricultural land-Capital asset-Liable to be assessed as capital gains-Revision is affirmed. [S. 2(14), 45]
During relevant year, assessee sold an urban agricultural land and a capital asset as per relevant provisions of Act and claimed same to be treated as agricultural land not exigible to capital gains tax, which was accepted by the Assessing Officer. Commissioner passed the revision order directing the Assessing Officer to assessee the capital gains. On appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessee accepted that said land in question was a capital asset under Act. On such confession, PCIT has set aside the assessment order. On facts, sale consideration of land is exigible to capital gains tax. (AY. 2012-13)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Winnings from lotteries or crossword puzzles-Online gaming-Winning amount paid to players of games available on its website-Revision is justified for limited purpose of examining issue of deduction of TDS under section 194B. [S. 194B] 2781

Assessee company is engaged in business of providing online gaming services. It had filed detailed submissions before Assessing Officer regarding withholding taxes on winning amount paid to players as well as withholding tax on online promotional expenses. In support of its submission, assessee also furnished TDS payment challans under section 194B. Assessee deducted TDS at source at rate of 30 per cent under section 194B only when winning amount exceeded Rs. 10,000. However, Assessing Officer, without conducting any enquiry, passed assessment order. Commissioner invoked revisionary proceedings on ground that Assessing Officer failed to conduct enquiries and verification as to why payments made for winning from lotteries/ crossword puzzles were not routed through profit and loss account and as to why TDS was not deducted on full amount of payment made. On appeal the Tribunal held that since under section 194B as it stood during relevant year, there was no requirement to withhold tax on entire payment made by assessee, allegation of Principal Commissioner that assessee failed to deduct tax on entire payment made towards winning from lottery/crossword puzzle was without any merit. However, it was evident from record that Assessing Officer had not examined/verified details so filed by assessee and, thus, Commissioner was justified in setting aside assessment order for limited purpose of examining issue of deduction of TDS under section 194B. S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Share application money-Issue of equity shares to 21 persons-Only four persons filed their balance sheet etc-Failure to make necessary and adequate enquiries into source of investment in shares-Order is erroneous-Revision is justified. [S. 68, 143(3)] 2782

Assessee-company had issued equity shares at Rs. 10 each to 21 persons thereby raising equity share capital and had also availed fresh unsecured loans. Assessing Officer accepted said share capital investment. Pr. CIT noticed that assessee furnished copies of IT, bank statements and confirmations from all persons (Shareholders and/or loan providers) but out of 21 shareholders, only 4 persons had submitted their balance sheets and that bank statements of some of these persons also revealed that in some cases cash/ cheques were deposited/credited in their bank accounts immediately prior to issuing funds to assessee-company either as share capital or as loan. PCIT set aside assessment order as erroneous and prejudicial to interests of revenue, since same was passed by Assessing Officer without making necessary and adequate enquiries into source of investment in shares of assessee-company. In case of said four persons who had filed their balance sheets, it was found that huge amount of unsecured loans was availed by them and accordingly, aforesaid investments in share capital of assessee-company were made out of borrowed funds and further, said shareholders gave substantial amount as unsecured loan but they did not have sufficient means. On appeal the Tribunal held that enquiry made by the Assessing Officer was not adequate and he simply accepted version of assessee without application of mind. Accordingly, order passed by Assessing Officer was erroneous and prejudicial to interests of revenue. Revision order is affirmed. (AY. 2016-17)

2783 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –Donations to NGOs out of accumulated funds-Not allowable as application of income-Deemed to be income of the assessee-Revision order is affirmed. [S. 11(2), 11(3), 12AA, ITAT R. 18(6)]
The assessee has made donation to NGOs and claimed as application of income. Assessing Officer accepted said explanation and completed assessment. Commissioner (E) invoked revisionary proceedings on ground that contribution to deserving NGOs even if working in collaboration with assessee would be donation and would be hit by section 11(2) as the donations to NGOs out of its accumulated funds, same could not be allowed as application of income for charitable or religious purposes and would be deemed as income of assessee. Tribunal affirmed the order of Revision. (AY. 2017-18)

2784 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Employment of new workmen-There was proper verification and application of mind by Assessing Officer-Report in Form 10DA for claiming deductions under section 80JJAA was filed-Revision is not valid. [S. 80JJAA, 143(3)]
Principal Commissioner observed discrepancies in assessment records, including addition of fixed assets with claimed depreciation, commission payment without TDS deduction, and a deduction under section 80JJAA. Consequently, Principal Commissioner proposed revised assessment under section 263, asserting that Assessing Officer did not verify these aspects. In response to show cause notice, assessee argued that assessment was conducted with due verification and application of mind by Assessing Officer. However, Principal Commissioner remained unsatisfied, deeming assessment as erroneous and prejudicial to revenue. On appeal to Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer had conducted inquiries during assessment proceedings, as evident from notice issued under section 142(1) and replies provided by assessee. There was no flaws in submissions made by assessee in response to notice under section 263. Additionally, report in Form 10DA for claiming deduction under section 80JJAA was duly filed without specific defects highlighted by Principal Commissioner. Since there was proper verification and application of mind by Assessing Officer while framing assessment under section 143(3), revision order would not be sustainable. (AY. 2018-19)

2785 S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Scientific research expenditure-Donation-Approval granted was expired-Claim of weighted deduction was incorrect-Order is erroneous. [S. 35(1)(ii)]
Assessee-company made donation to a trust during year and claimed weighted deduction at rate of 175 per cent under section 35(1)(ii). Assessing Officer allowed the deduction. Commissioner invoked revision jurisdiction on ground that approval granted to said institute for receiving donations under said section had expired long back. He set aside order of Assessing Officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that since institute to which donation was made by assessee during relevant assessment year was not approved for said purposes for impugned year as approval granted to said institute expired long back, Assessing Officer had committed an error in allowing said claim of assessee for weighted deduction. Order of revision is affirmed. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Educational institutions (Approval)-New institute which was not included in list of institutes run by assessee-trust which was granted approval under section 10(23C)(vi)-Revision is held to be valid. [S. 10(23C)(vi), 11, 12A] 2786
Assessee-trust was granted approval under section 10(23C)(vi) in respect of five institutions only. Subsequently, assessee added a new institute to trust. However, name of said new institute was not appearing in list of institutes which was granted approval. Commissioner revised the order. On appeal the Tribunal held that approval granted to assessee-trust under section 10(23C)(vi) in year 2012 could not apply to a new institute added to trust subsequently. Since approval originally granted could not have extended to new institute added subsequently, order granting exemption to income of new institute was erroneous. Merely because assessee had been granted registration under section 12A, exemption under section 11 was not automatic and same needed verification. Accordingly, revision order setting aside assessment order is upheld. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue –CSR expenses-Donations-Business income-Explanation 2 to section 37(1) which denies deduction for CSR expenses by way of business expenditure is applicable only to extent of computing 'business income' under Chapter IV-D and; there would be no bar for assessee to claim benefit under section 80G, falling in Chapter VIA. [S. 37(1), 8OG] 2787
Assessee contributed certain sum as part of CSR towards various charitable trusts and claimed same as deduction under section 80G. The Assessing Officer allowed the claim. Commissioner passed revision order set aside the order. On appeal the Tribunal held that Explanation 2 to section 37(1) which denies deduction for CSR expenses by way of business expenditure is applicable only to extent of computing 'business income' under Chapter IV-D and; it could not be extended or imported to CSR contributions which was otherwise eligible for deduction under Chapter VI-A. Since genuineness of transactions and identity of donees were not under challenge, there would be no bar on assessee to claim benefit under section 80G, falling in Chapter VIA. (AY. 2018-19)

[S. 14A, 32(1)(ii), 32AC] 2788
Held that where assessee had not earned any exempt income during year, no disallowance under section 14A was called for. Additional depreciation was allowed for the Assessment year 2012-13. Held that extraction of minerals from beach sand involved change in non-living physical object/article into a new and distinct object/article having different name and use, activities carried out by assessee amounted to manufacture and thus, claim of assessee for deduction under section 32AC was in order. Revision order is quashed. (AY. 2015-16)

The PCIT had invoked his jurisdiction u/s 263 of the Act despite admitting that based on evidence available on record, the AO could not doubt the purchase and sale of shares. After completion of assessment, some investigation was carried out by the department, which allegedly revealed that the share transaction was through an entry operator, hence, non-genuine. However, what was the nature of such investigation, what was the material brought on record therefrom was not forthcoming either from the SCN or the order passed u/s 263 or to what extent the Assessee or the concerned broker was involved in such non-genuine transactions has not been discussed by the PCIT. Further, in spite of repeated requests, such adverse materials/ investigation report was never confronted to the Assessee. In such circumstances, the assessment order cannot be considered to be erroneous and prejudicial to the interest of revenue. (AY. 2017-18)

2790 S. 263: Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Long term capital gains-[S. 45, 115O, 115P]
Where revisionary proceedings were invoked on grounds that the assessee wrongly adjusted LTCL twice once with LTCG and then again with STCG since the same was a case of bona fide mistake committed by the assessee purely based on verifiable facts which had no bearing on income-tax liability for the year under the consideration and effect was on availability of MAT credit in the subsequent year for which assessee submitted to make a course correction, revisionary proceedings under section 263 would not be justifiable.
Revision of an order under section 263 presupposes the existence of an order since levy of interest under section 115P and any liability of DDT under section 115-O gets fastened on the assessee by provisions contained under Chapter XIID and did not form part of assessment order under section 143(3), Principal Commissioner could not have invoked revisionary proceedings to direct AO to impose DDT liability in reference to assessment order passed under section 143(3) (AY. 2018-19)

[S. 45, 139(1)]
Tribunal held that merely because capital gain was not deposited in capital gain account scheme within time, the assessment order allowing assessee's claim under section 54 could not be treated as erroneous and prejudicial to interest of revenue where capital gain was invested in purchase/construction of residential house within time limit prescribed under section 54(1). Revision is held to be not valid. (AY. 2012-13)

S. 263 : Commissioner-Revision of orders prejudicial to revenue-Order without Document identification No (DIN) quashed -Order is bad in law. [S. 153C] 2792
The additional grounds relate to the validity of Order under Section 263 for the reason that the Order issued was a manual order and did not contain document identification number (DIN) which was not in accordance with the instruction of CBDT issued vide Circular No. 19 of 2019 dated 14th August, 2019 [2019] 416 ITR (St.) 140.
Held that according to Circular No. 19 of 2019 dated 14th August, 2019 all communication must have a computer-generated identification number. However, in exceptional circumstances, manual issuance was allowed, but in such cases, it must be explicitly mentioned that the communication was issued manually without a document identification code and must have written approval of the Chief Commissioner or Director General of Income-tax. Failure to comply with these mandatory requirements rendered the communication invalid and deemed never to have been issued. Therefore, the order was not in conformity with CBDT Circular, hence, the orders passed under Section 263 for assessment years 2014-15 to 2016-17 were invalid and deemed to have never been issued. The Assessee company made donation to a trust and claimed weighted deduction at rate of 175% under section 35(1)(ii). Assessing Officer also allowed the same. The Commissioner invoked the revision under section 263 on the grounds that approval granted to said institution for receiving donation under said section had expired long back and set aside the order of the assessing officer. On appeal the Tribunal held that the institution to which donation was made by the assessee during the impugned year and weighted deduction claimed thereon under section 35(1)(ii) was not approved for the said purposes for the year and also the approval granted to the said institution was expired on 31-3-2006. CIT, CPC-CPC only acts as a facilitator to the JAO and merely because the return is processed by CPC the regular jurisdiction of the JAO is not curtailed and he continues to hold the jurisdiction-Order dt. 25th March, 2022 is quashed and set aside-Principal CIT-5 is directed to dispose assessee's application in accordance with law. [S. 120, 143(1), 143(2), Art. 226]

Allowing the petition the Court held that the CPC only acts as a facilitator to the JAO who holds jurisdiction over assessee under S. 120. Merely because the return is processed by CPC, the regular jurisdiction of the JAO is not curtailed and he continues to hold the same jurisdiction. This is evident from the fact that a demand resulting from the processing of a return under S. 143(1) by CPC is also enforced by the JAO. It is JAO who issues a notice under S. 143(2) if the return is to be selected for scrutiny and frames the assessment. Even under the faceless regime, once the assessment has been framed by the Faceless Assessing Officer (FAO) all records are transferred to the JAO for recovery of demand and other incidental matters. In fact in many matters Principal CIT have exercised jurisdiction in identical situation. Therefore, for respondent No. 1 Principal CIT-5 to say that he will have no jurisdiction to entertain assessee's application under S. 264 because the Dy. CIT, CPC is not reporting to him is not correct. Commissioner is directed to dispose the application on merits. (AY. 2016-17)

The CIT, held that income received from BALIC was never offered to tax, the assessee is not entitled to be accorded credit of the TDS which was deposited. On writ the Court held that the view taken by the CIT is clearly misconceived since it ignores the fact that the assessee had consistently asserted that the income received from BALIC would not be taxable in India by virtue of S. 90. The CIT also fails to bear in consideration the indisputable fact that the return of the assessee for asst. AY. 2015-16 was duly processed under S. 143(3) with no additions being suggested. The position as taken by the assessee thus appears to have been duly accepted. Therefore, the CIT has clearly erred in holding that the assessee was liable to offer that income to tax before being entitled to claim the benefit of tax deducted at source. (AY. 2015-16)

S. 264: Commissioner-Revision of other orders-Rejection application under section 154-Intimation-Remuneration to partners-Expenses claimed-Directed to file an appeal-Writ petition is dismissed-Delay in filing the appeal or Revision against the intimation is directed to be condoned. [S. 143(1), 154, 246A, Art. 226] 2797

Assessee had declared in the return, Rs. 10,08,359 as remuneration paid to the partners which would be exigible to tax in the hands of the partners. However, the remuneration paid to the partners as declared in the very same return came only to Rs. 3,54,000. There are a number of expenses shown under Annex. 3, P&L a/c and it requires a process of deduction, as to the expenses claimed, to come to the conclusion that those were in fact to be declared as 'other expenses', wherein, there is specific indication that the assessee should specify the nature and amount. Hence, it cannot be said that even if it is a bona fide mistake, there can be a rectification made under S. 154. In such circumstances neither the order under S. 154 can be assailed nor can the rejection of a revision, from that order under S. 154-In a revision against the intimation under S. 143(1), a due enquiry can be carried out, wherein the assessee would be able to point out the specific instances, of the expenses incurred and its nature, thus enabling exemption from payment of tax to that extent. Assessee is advised to file an appeal or revision from the intimation under S. 143(1), the delay in which would be condoned. (AY. 2016-17)

Held, that the application for revision had been filed on the ground that certain subsidies received by the assessee were erroneously treated as revenue receipts instead of capital receipts. After the receipt of the order of the Tribunal for the Assessment year 2012-13, the petitioner filed Revision application on July 1, 2019, within five months from the date of receipt of the order of the Tribunal and the time limit for filing revision application was expired on January 16, 2018 Commissioner has not condoned the delay and dismissed the petition. Assessee, public charitable trust with approval under section 10(23C)(vi), filed revision petition under section 264 against rejection of rectification request for inadvertent error in income tax return. Commissioner rejected revision petition without examining merits, citing delay and errors in filing returns. On writ the Court held that Commissioner's powers under section 264 are wide enough to warrant examination of merits of revision petition. Court also held that rejection of revision petition solely on grounds of delay and filing errors, without considering assessee's prior approval under section 10(23C)(vi) and substantive claim for exemption, was improper. Accordingly the order rejecting revision petition was to be set aside and matter was to be remanded to Commissioner for reconsideration on merits. (AY. 2018-19)(SJ)

2800 S. 264: Commissioner-Revision of other orders-Income wrongly offered to tax and paid taxes-Assessment completed under section 143(1)) Time for filing revised return under section 139(5) has expired-Double addition-Order of Commissioner dismissing the revision application is set aside-Commissioner is directed to allow the claim of the assessee by passing an appropriate order. [S. 43B, 139(5), 143(1), Art. 226, 265]
Petitioner was making a provision for bonus, ex-gratia and incentives payable to employees, at the time of preparation of the financial statements. In the computation only the actual payment was claimed and excess provision was disallowed under section 43B of the Act. However in the next year the assesseee has offered entire provision to tax. The petitioner has realised the mistake while finalising the accounts of latter years. The petitioner moved an application under section. 264 of the Act and prayed for refund of excess amount offered for taxation. The Commissioner rejected the application on the ground that the assessee should have filed revised return under section 139(5) of the Act and also in view of judgement of Apex court in Goetze (India) Ltd v. CIT (2006) 284 ITR 323 (SC) the revision application is not maintainable. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that Commissioner was not correct in rejecting the revision application filed by the petitioner on the ground that the petitioner had not filed a revised return within the prescribed limitation. Court also held that Section 264 is a salutary provision which also bridges the gap and / or removes vacuum to remedy a bona fide mistake and / or for correction of an inadvertent situation, which may take place in the assessment proceedings. By remedying such mistake by orders being passed under Section 264 of the Act, any illegality or injustice which would otherwise be caused to the assessee can be corrected so as to maintain a lawful course of action being followed in the course of assessment. The object of such provision also appears to be that the law would not be oblivious to any bona fide human mistake which may occur at the end of the assessee and which if otherwise permitted to remain, may lead to injustice or the provisions of law being breached. As regards the decision in Goetze (India) Ltd v. CIT (2006) 284 ITR 323 (SC) it is not in the context of the revisionary powers as conferred under the provisions of section 264 of the Income-Tax Act, but in the context of deduction claimed by the assessee by a letter, after the return was filed, without filing of a revised return. Accordingly the Revision petition is allowed and the Commissioner is directed to pass the order accordingly. (AY. 2019-20, 2020-21, 2021-22)

S. 264: Commissioner-Revision of other orders-Delay of two years-Pedantic-Genuine hardship cannot be restricted to severe financial crises is only unwarranted-The Authorities have to do substantial justice-Directed to condone the delay and decide the matter on merits-Rectification of mistake-Duty of Assessing Officer-Pendency of rectification application for six years-The Assessing Officer duty bound to pass order expeditiously-The Hon Court directed to place copy of this order to the Chairman of CBDT, so that suitable actions are taken to comply with the directions given by this court. [S. 44AB, 80IC, 119(2)(b), 143(1), 154, Art. 226, Form No 10CCB] 2801

Petitioner had engaged the services of Chartered Accountants who audited petitioner's accounts and also of the undertaking M/s Creative Industries, which was run by petitioner as the sole proprietor. The audit report obtained under Section 44AB of the Act was filed along with the return of income and there was no reason to believe that Form 10CCB had not been uploaded by the Chartered Accountants. No unfair advantage has been obtained by petitioner on account of this inadvertent error. Therefore, the inadvertence/ oversight in uploading Form No. 10CCB by the auditor/ the Chartered Accountants of petitioner were circumstances beyond the control of petitioner and would constitute a reasonable cause for not uploading Form No. 10CCB along with the return of income. The legislature has conferred power on CBDT to condone the delay to enable the authorities to do substantive justice to the parties by disposing the matter on merits. Routinely passing the order without appreciating the reasons why the provisions for condonation of delay has been provided in the Act, defeats the cause of justice. In the circumstances, the impugned order was set aside and quashed. The Hon Court directed to place a copy of this order to the Chairman of CBDT, so that suitable actions are taken to comply with the directions given by this court. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 264: Commissioner-Revision of other orders-Rectification of mistake-Long term capital gains-Time-Limit-Sale of flat inherited-Indexed cost of improvement-Omission of claim of deduction of Indexed renovation expenses in return of income-Rectification application is rejected on the ground that new claim was not raised earlier-Claim was accepted in other co-owners-Matter remanded for de novo consideration. [S. 45, 48, 50(C)(2), 143(3), 154, Art. 226] 2802

Allowing the petition the Court held that there was no delay in filing the application under section 264 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, because the application under section 264 of the Act was against the order passed under section 154 of the Act and not that passed under section 143(3) of the Act. The order under section 154 of the Act was passed within one year from the date of application filed under section 264 of the Act. In the assessment order passed in the case of another co-owner of the flat, the Assessing Officer had accepted certain amount as the indexed cost of renovation. Therefore, the amount had to be accepted as correct and suitable allowance should be made while arriving at the long-term capital gains. The order was quashed and set aside. The matter was remanded to the first respondent for de novo consideration and to pass a reasoned order after providing the assessee with an opportunity of hearing. Court also observed that, Section 264 confers wide jurisdiction on the Commissioner. The proceedings under section 264 of the Act are intended to meet a situation faced by an aggrieved assessee, who is unable to approach the appellate authorities for relief and has no other alternate remedy available under the Act. The Commissioner is bound to apply his mind to the question whether the assessee was taxable on that income and his powers are not limited to correcting the error committed by the subordinate authorities but could even be exercised where errors are committed by the assessee. It would even cover situation where the assessee because of an error has not put forth legitimate claim at the time of filing the return and the error is subsequently discovered and is raised for the first time in an application under section 264 of the Act. Assessee was a promoter of a company and held 3,34,700 shares in said company. He, along with other promoters, had entered into subscription and purchase agreement (SPA) with a company and sold 100 per cent of their company shares for a consideration of certain amount-Assessee filed its return of income disclosing LTCG on sale of shares including amount kept in escrow account. Assessment was completed under section 143(3). Thereafter, certain statutory and other liabilities arose in company for period prior to sale of shares and amount kept in escrow account was withdrawn. Assessee filed petition under section 264 seeking refund of excess tax paid on excess capital gains shown earlier in its income. Principal Commissioner rejected same on ground that intimation under section 143(1) was not an order amenable to revisional jurisdiction under section 264. In case of other promoter on similar issue High Court held that capital gains on transfer of shares of company should be computed after reducing proportionate amount withdrawn from escrow account from full value of consideration and allowing refund of additional tax paid with interest. Allowing the petition the Court held that intimation under section 143(1) is an order amenable to revisional jurisdiction under section 264. Subsequently, Pr.commissioner passed an order dated 23-3-2021. On writ the Court observed that date of order was 23-3-2021 and not 16-3-2021 and though matter was fixed for 10-3-2021 but no order was passed by officer concerned on that date and in fact, matter was posted for a subsequent date wherein no notice was given to assessee. As revision application was filed by assessee under section 264, officer concerned ought

In course of filing its return of fringe benefit tax, assessee included certain amounts as chargeable to tax out of abundant caution. Subsequently, Commissioner (Appeals) allowed assessee's claim and held that amounts included in FBT returns were not chargeable to FBT. Thereafter assessee filed an application under section 264 for refund of amount paid as FBT.commissioner, however, rejected said application on ground that there was a substantial delay in filing same. Court held that Commissioner (Appeals) took almost 5-6 years to decide assessee's appeal therefore while considering question of condonation of delay under section 264, Commissioner should not take a pedantic approach but should be liberal and words 'sufficient cause' should be given a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice when no negligence nor inaction nor want of bona fide is imputable to assessee. Revisional power is coupled with a duty to exercise it in interests of justice of parties and revisional authority must act according to rules of reason and justice. Delay is condoned and directed the Commissioner to decide the matter on merits. (AY. 2009-10)

S. 264 : Commissioner-Revision of other orders-concessional rate of tax on dividend distributed to its foreign holding company-Not justified in rejecting revision application on ground that assessee could have filed a revised return or an appeal under section 248-DTAA-India-Mauritius-Matter remanded to decide on merit. [S. 9(1)(i), 90, 139(5), 195, 248, Art. 10(2), Art. 226] 2806

Assessee is engaged in business of providing IT and IT enabled services, declared and paid dividend to its holding company, a company incorporated in Mauritius and in respect of such dividend, assessee paid Dividend Distribution Tax (DDT). Based on assessee's return, DDT was assessed by CPC as being payable at rate of 20. 36 per cent. Assessee became aware that, as per section 90, it was entitled to benefit of DTAA between India and Mauritius, namely, concessional rate specified in article 10(2). Accordingly, assessee filed application for revision under section 264 before Principal Commissioner, Application was rejected on grounds that assessee could have filed a revised return or an appeal under section 248. On writ the Court held that first ground of rejection in impugned order was untenable, as time limit for filing revised return had expired. Further since section 248 applies to a case where tax deducted on payments made under section 195 to a non-resident, other than by way of interest, is required to be borne by person by whom income is payable as per contract or arrangement between parties and person making deduction claims that tax was not payable whereas instant case pertained to declaration and distribution of dividend by assessee to its shareholders and tax payable thereon, and, thus, impugned order was to be set aside and matter was to be remanded back to Principal Commissioner for reconsideration on merits. For the assessment year 2014-15, the Assessing Officer passed an order under section 143(3) against the assessee. Thereafter, the assessee filed an application before the Principal Commissioner under section 264 in which it submitted that it had commenced its business operations during the previous year 2013-14 and accordingly the assessment year 2014-15 was the first year under assessment and that though it was entitled to claim deduction under section 80-IA because of a bonafide error it did not claim it either at the time of filing the return of income or during the assessment proceeding. The assessee also sought condonation of delay of 52 days. The Principal Commissioner condoned the delay and observed that the assessee did not opt to make the claim to deduction under section 80-IA and that in the subsequent assessment year 2015-16 also, the assessee did not make such claim before the Assessing Officer. He opined that the assessee chose not to claim deduction under section 80-IA and declined to interfere under section 264 in the order of the Assessing Officer. On a writ allowing the petition, that there was no limitation on the exercise of power under section 264 by the Principal Chief Commissioner or Chief Commissioner or Principal Commissioner or Commissioner. On appeal before Tribunal, revenue contended that though tax effect was below prescribed monetary limit provided in circulars of CBDT but these cases would fall under exception provided in para no. 10(c) of Circular No. 3/2018 being case of audit objections. Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that in latest CBDT Circular i. e Circular No. 5 of 2024, dated 15-3-2024 there was no exception to monetary limit regarding any audit objection. Therefore CBDT circulars prescribing monetary limits for filing appeals by revenue would also be applicable on pending appeals on date of circular. 2822 S. 270A : Penalty for under-reporting and misreporting of income-Not specifying the limb-Levy of penalty is not valid. [S. 270A(8) 270A(9)]

The AO levied penalty us 270A(8) of the Act wherein show cause notice was issued without specifying the corresponding limb in sub-sec. 270A(9) of the Act. The tribunal found in favor of the assessee, citing judicial precedents submitted by the Assessee and stating that the failure to specify the relevant limb at the initiation of the penalty proceedings invalidated the entire process. Consequently, the penalties were deleted for both assessment years. Delay in filing one of the appeals was condoned for reasons of justice. S. 270A:Penalty for under-reporting and misreporting of income-Mens rea must be present-Mere additions penalty cannot be imposed. [S. 40A(3), 270A(9)(d), 270AA] 2823
Held, that the additions and disallowances made by the Assessing Officer were not in the nature of misreporting of income. In misreporting of income, mens rea on the part of the assessee is required to be present. Wilful default constitutes misreporting of income. The assessee had inadvertently made a wrong claim but had disclosed the facts fully and truly. Penalty is deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 270A:Penalty for under-reporting and misreporting of income-Gratuity-Claiming exemption-Public sector undertaking-Not Government-Maharashtra State Electricity Distribution Company Ltd-Levy of penalty is not valid. [S. 10(10AA)(ii), 270A(8)] 2824
The Assessee was an employee of an erstwhile state electricity board whose business was demerged to a public sector company. The assessee retired as an employee of Maharashtra State Electricity Distribution Company Ltd. and received a gratuity and leave encashment as his retirement benefit in the previous year. In his return for this year, the assessee claimed exemption of the sum received as gratuity u/s. 10(10)(i) and leave encashment u/s. 10(10AA)(ii) of the Act. On the ground that MSEB, was a public sector undertaking and not the Government, the AO restricted the exemption regarding gratuity and leave encashment, and the excess amount was disallowed. Treating the excessive claims as misreporting of income, the AO initiated penal proceedings for misreporting of income u/s. 270A at an accelerated rate of 200 percent of tax sought to evade u/s. 270A(8) of the Act. Held that the levy of penalty was not warranted for the reasons that, the service the assessee was a State Government employee whose employment by enforcement of the Electricity Act, 2003 and the Maharashtra State Electricity Distribution Company Employees Service Regulations, 2005 was converted into non-Governmental service. Therefore, the belief under which full exemption of retirement benefit was claimed in the return filed was not incorrect in its entirety and certainly, it was bona fide. Further, the explanation offered by the assessee in support of his mistaken but bona fide belief and all material facts of his service disclosed and the circumstances under which he claimed full exemption squarely fell within clause (a) of sub-section (6) of section 270A of the Act, and therefore pardonable; and finally, the imposition of penalty was at the discretion of the AO, since sub-section (1) of section 270A of the Act, refers to the word "may" and not "shall". The penalty imposed by the AO and confirmed by the CIT (A) at the accelerated rate was unwarranted. (AY. 2018-19)

S. 270A:Penalty for under-reporting and misreporting of income-Penalty notice was only regarding underreporting of income-Penalty levied u for misreporting of income and under reporting-Not specifying the specific charge-Salary received is shown in the return-Penalty of Rs 44, 90,048 levied under section 270A(8) of the Act is deleted. [S. 139(9), 192, 270A(8), 270A(9)(e), 274, Form No. 26AS] 2825
The assessee filed the return of income and claimed the refund of tax deducted at source, though the salary income was not offered to tax. The Assessing Officer issued notice under section 139(9) to rectify the mistake however the return was not rectified.

In the course of assessment proceedings the Assessing Officer issued the notice u/s 143 (2) and made addition of Rs. 62,93,742 to the total income of the assessee. In the course of penalty proceedings the assessee contended that inadvertently gross salary was not shown in the return. The Assessing Officer levied the penalty of Rs. 44,90,048 under section 270A(8) of the Act. The penalty order is affirmed by the CIT(A). On appeal the assessee raised the additional grounds on jurisdictional issue. The Tribunal admitted the additional ground. After analysing the provisions the the Tribunal held that in the assessment order, the Assessing Officer initiated the penalty under section 270A of the Act, without mentioning any sub-clause of section 270A of the Act or specifying any limb of the penalty proposed to be levied. In the penalty notice issued he mentioned under reporting of income. Subsequently during penalty proceedings another notice was issued without specifying any limb or sub clause of section 270A of the Act. The penalty was levied for misreporting of the income as well as under reporting of the income as per section 270A(8) of the Act, with the aid of section 270A(9)(e) of the Act. The Tribunal held that there was no whisper at all in the notice issue under section 270A read with section 274 of the Act, about misreporting of income, whereas penalty has been levied for both under reporting of and misreporting of income @ 200 % in terms of section 270A(9) of the Act, for which show cause notice was never issued to the Assessee. Accordingly the penalty is deleted. Referred *Saltwater Studio LLF v. NFAC (Delhi)(ITA No. 13/ Mum/ 2023 dt 22-5-2023, Jain Marketing & Associates v. Petitioner had received certain amount towards IT support services to its customers. Assessing Officer held that said receipts of assessee were liable to be taxed as royalty in terms of section 9(1)(vi) and DTAA, had issued show cause notices under section 270A for initiating consequential penalty proceedings. Petitioner moved an application to avail of statutory remedy as codified under section 270AA. Dy. Commissioner, however, rejected application for grant of immunity. Petitioner had duly complied with statutory pre-conditions set out in section 270AA(1). Notices in terms of which action under section 270A was initiated failed to specify whether petitioner was being tried on an allegation of under-reporting or misreporting. Court held that application for immunity could not be rejected and, therefore, impugned orders in terms of which application under section 270AA came to be rejected were liable to be quashed. S. 270AA: Immunity from the imposition of penalty, etc-No opportunity of hearing-No evidence to show misrepresentation of income or suppression of facts-Voluntary disclosure by the assessee and the failure of the authorities to properly apply the provisions, the court quashed the penalty order. [S. 264, 270A(9), 270AA(4), Art. 226] 2830

During the assessment proceedings, the assessee relied on the fact that the "provision for doubtful GST input tax credit" was claimed in the expense account, and the deduction was claimed in the return of income. The assessee, suo moto, surrendered the amount by revising its return of income and adding it back to the total income. The Assessing Officer passed an assessment order and imposed a penalty under Section 270A for misreporting of income. The assessee filed an application under Section 270AA against the penalty order. The Assessing Officer rejected the application. The assessee challenged the order on the grounds that no opportunity for a hearing was provided.
The court noted that the authorities had not detected the said aspect and that the assessee had voluntarily offered the amount. Regarding the application under Section 270AA, the assessee was not granted an opportunity for a personal hearing. The rejection of the application was a non-speaking order. From the order, it was evident that the authorities were uncertain whether it was a case of misrepresentation of income, suppression of facts, or an erroneous claim of expenses. Considering the voluntary disclosure by the assessee and the failure of the authorities to properly apply the provisions, the court quashed the impugned order. (AY. 2018-19)

High Court held that the Tribunal was not erroneous in adopting the finding arrived at in the assessment proceedings especially in the context of no material having been placed before the Assessing Officer to substantiate the sundry credits claimed. The mere disclosure of the name and addresses of the sundry creditors could not lead to substantiation of the credits especially when there was no evidence produced regarding the transactions which led to the credit. The mere acceptance of the entirety of the purchases in the appeal would not lead to substantiation of the credits claimed, since the purchases which led to the credit, had not been established before the Assessing Officer. The assessee filed a return for the assessment year 2011-12, declaring an income and a capital gain, which was processed under Section 143(1). The Revenue suspected suppression of capital gains and issued a summons under Section 131 on 19.05.2014. A penalty notice was issued without specifying whether it was for concealment of income or furnishing inaccurate particulars, and the Assessing Authority imposed a penalty. the notice proposing penalty, that was issued to the respondent/assessee, was inherently defective, in that, it had not specified the particular ground on which the Revenue was proceeding against the assessee for the imposition of the penalty. The Explanation clearly envisages that where a satisfactory explanation has been offered by the assessee, well before the issuance of a notice to him under Section 148 and the admission of additional income made by the assessee has been accepted by the Revenue which completed the assessment under Section 143 read with Section 147 on that basis, the explanation offered by the assessee with regard to the differential income has to be been seen as accepted by the Revenue for the purposes of the Explanation under Section 271. Axiomatically, therefore, the said additional income cannot be treated as concealed income for the purposes of Section 271(1)(c). (AY. 2011-12)

Assessee is a doctor in Apollo Hospitals. Assessing Officer levied penalty under section 271(1)(c) upon assessee. Tribunal sustained levy of penalty. On appeal the Court held that since assessee before issuance of notice under section 148 had filed revised returns of income voluntarily and material collected during search conducted under section 132 upon Apollo Hospitals was never put to assessee prior to his filing of voluntary revised returns and there was no material to show that assessee was aware of documents collected in premises of Apollo Hospitals, there was no deliberate or wilful omission on part of assessee. [S. 260A, 271(IB), Expln. 5A, 274] After the search and seizure operations and impounding of documents, the assessee declared certain undisclosed income which was added to the income disclosed in the returns apart from certain other additions. In the assessment order, the Assessing Officer mentioned that penalty proceeding under section 271(1)(c) had been initiated and show cause notice under section 274 for imposing penalty under section 271(1)(c) read with Explanation 5A was being issued separately. The assessment orders were followed by notices under section 271(1)(c) read with section 274. The respondent/assessee participated in the penalty proceedings for both the assessment years i. e. assessment years 2006-07 and 2007-08 and made submissions. The Assessing Officer considered the submissions of the assessee and imposed a penalty under section 271(1)(c) read with Explanation 5A for both the assessment years. The Commissioner (Appeals) dismissed the assessee's appeal against levy of penalty. The Tribunal cancelled the penalty on the ground that the show cause notice under section 274 was defective as it did not spell out the grounds on which the penalty was sought to be imposed. On appeal by Revenue the Court held that when Assessing Officer had recorded in assessment order particulars of concealed income/undisclosed income of assessee and on that basis initiated penalty proceeding under section 271(1)(c), then consequential notice under section 274 issued by Assessing Officer to assessee to afford him opportunity of hearing, was specifically a notice for penalty for concealment of particulars of income/undisclosed income. Such a notice complied with principles of natural justice and was a valid notice under section 274 and Tribunal had committed a manifest error of law by setting aside penalty orders on ground that grounds for imposition of penalty were not mentioned in show cause notice under section 274 and thus, show cause notice was defective. A fiscal statute has to be interpreted on the basis of language used therein and not dehors the same. No words ought to be added or deleted. Only the language used in the statute ought to be considered so as to ascertain proper meaning and intent of the legislation. The court is to ascribe natural and ordinary meaning to the words used by the legislature and the court ought not, under any circumstances, to substitute its own impressions and ideas in place of legislative intent as is available from a plain reading of the statutory provisions, vide Orissa State Warehousing Corpn. v. CIT (1999) 103 Taxman 623/237 ITR 589/ /4 SCC 197 (para 40). When the language is plain and unambiguous and admits of only one meaning, no question of construction of a statue arises, that the Act speaks for itself vide State of Uttar Pradesh v. Dr. Vijay Anand Maharaj AIR 1963 SC 946 and Arul Nadar v. Authorised Officer, Land Reforms [1998] 7 SCC 157 (para 5). It is well known principle of construction of a statute that when the language used in the statute is unambiguous and on a plain grammatical meaning being given to the words in the statute, the end result is neither arbitrary nor irrational nor contrary to the object of the statue, then it is the duty of the court to give effect to the words used in the statue as the words declare the intention of the law making for best vide Jagdish Ch. Patnaik v. State of Orissa [1998] 4 SCC 456 (para 24). In Molar Mal v. Kay Iron Works (P.) Ltd. [2000] 4 SCC 285 (Para 12,15) Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that normally the courts will have to follow the rule of literal construction which rule enjoins the court to take the words as used by the legislature and to give it the meaning which naturally implies. An exception to this rule is that when an application of literal construction of the words in the statue leads to absurdity, inconsistency or when it is shown that the legal context in which the words are used or by reading the statue as a whole it requires a different meaning. In view of these settled principles of law, provisions of the Explanation 5A to Section 241(1) has to be given full effect. The order of Tribunal is to be set aside and the matter is to be remanded to the Tribunal with direction to decide same on merit, in accordance with law. (AY-2006-07, 2007-08)

S. 271(1)(c) : Penalty-Concealment-Capital gains-Higher valuation as per S. 50C-Merely because higher valuation-Levy of penalty is not valid. [S. 45, 50C, 245C, 245D, Art. 226] 2846
The Settlement Commission imposed penalty u/s 271(1)(c) for accepting higher valuation of property as per section 50C of the Act. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that merely because addition may be made on the quantum side by invoking S. 50C, it did not itself establish that such estimated consideration had actually passed on to the assessee. Therefore, no conclusion of concealment may have arisen solely occasioned by that estimation of income by way of capital gains made by the Settlement Commission. In the absence of any independent evidence to establish receipt of extra consideration and in the absence of any finding to reject the explanation furnished by the assessee, both as to ignorance of the sale deed executed by his Power of Attorney and also with respect to the actual consideration received, element of concealment was not established. Accordingly, the levy of penalty under s. 271(1)(c) under the order dt. 27th Oct., 2010 passed by the Settlement Commission, is set aside. (AY. 2007-08)

S. 271(1)(c) : Penalty-Concealment-Furnishing inaccurate particulars of income-Sundry credits-Burden of proof on assessee-Order of Tribunal affirming the levy of penalty is affirmed. [S. 68, 260A] 2847
Held that the Tribunal was not erroneous in adopting the finding arrived at in the assessment proceedings especially in the context of no material having been placed before the Assessing Officer to substantiate the sundry credits claimed. The mere disclosure of the name and addresses of the sundry creditors could not lead to substantiation of the credits especially when there was no evidence produced regarding the transactions which led to the credit. The mere acceptance of the entirety of the purchases in the appeal would not lead to substantiation of the credits claimed, since the purchases which led to the credit, had not been established before the Assessing Officer. There was no material available on record before the Assessing Officer, the Commissioner (Appeals) or the Tribunal, to take a contrary decision except to confirm the penalty levied under section 271(1)(c).

[S. 32(1)(ii), 32(1)(iia), 43A, 143(3), 260A]
Assessee had claimed foreign exchange fluctuation loss under head finance charges of profit and loss account. During scrutiny proceedings Assessing Officer held that under provision of section 43A foreign exchange fluctuation loss was to be allowed on payment basis and was to be reduced/increased from corresponding cost of relevant plant and machinery. Assessee had admitted that due to bona fide error it wrongly claimed foreign exchange rate difference as an expense and after accepting said mistake it claimed depreciation on increased cost of plant and machinery, qua which foreign currency fluctuation loss had been incurred. The Assessing Officer disallowed depreciation on account of increase in cost of plant and machinery by amount of foreign exchange fluctuation of as per provision of section 43A read with section 32(1)(ii) & (iia). The Assessimg Officer levied penalty under section 271(1)(c) on account of wrong claim or incorrect computation made by assessee in statement of income. CIT(A) deleted the penalty. On appeal Tribunal affirmed the order of the Tribunal. On appeal by Revenue the Court held that since assessee could not have gained anything by claiming foreign currency fluctuation loss as deductible expenditure, as it would have only added to existing burgeoning losses and once error was pointed out by Assessing Officer, assessee made a course correction before assessment order was passed. Order of the Tribunal is affirmed, on the ground that merely making the wrong claim of deduction, penalty cannot be levied.(AY. 2009-10)

Held that Assessing Officer while initiating penalty proceedings under section 271(1)(c), should have alluded to limb under which penalty is proposed to be levied, i.e., should have stipulated as to whether penalty was proposed to be imposed on assessee for concealment of particulars of its income, or furnishing inaccurate particulars. Assessee was engaged in business of trading in shares. It had declared an income on sale of long term investments under head capital gain. Assessing Officer, treated said income as business income. He also levied penalty under section 271(1)(c) on ground that assessee had produced inaccurate particulars of income. Tribunal held that since assessee had not suppressed amount in question and had disclosed it in its return, merely because he declared it under a particular head of income, and Assessing Officer chose to treat same under some other head, assessee could not be accused of furnishing incorrect particulars of income or suppressing facts and, therefore, penalty under section 271(1)(c) is not leviable. High Court affirmed the order of the Tribunal. (AY. 2002-03)

Held, dismissing the appeal the Court held that the notice under section 274 of the Act showed that the Assessing Officer did not indicate to the assessee as to whether this was a case of concealment of particulars or furnishing inaccurate particulars or the case where both charges were sought to be levelled against the assessee. The penalty order, as a matter of fact, injected greater confusion. There was obviously an internal inconsistency in the penalty order. The Assessing Officer stated that the assessee had furnished inaccurate particulars of its income in respect of disallowance of various additions made by the Assessing Officer and then, while computing the penalty that he imposed on the assessee, he stated that the assessee had furnished inaccurate particulars of income or concealed income. There was obviously no clarity in the mind of the Assessing Officer as to which limb of section 271(1)(c) of the Act got attracted for initiation, followed by imposition of penalty. No substantial question of law arose for consideration. (AY. 2003-04)

Income assessed u/s 143(3). The original assessment was set aside by the CIT (Appeals). The order to that effect passed by the AO at the income assessed denying the claim of brought forward unabsorbed losses of the earlier years. Based on such assessment, the AO initiated the penalty u/s 271(1)(c). In the meantime, the CIT (Appeals) deleted the additions. The department filed the second appeal before the Tribunal. ITAT set aside and restored the order of the AO, thereby allowing the department's appeal.

Order u/s 271(1)(c) passed. The appeal before the CIT (Appeals) has been allowed. The department filed the second appeal before the Tribunal, decided in favour of the department. Before the Court, for the first time, the assessee raised the issue of defective notice as to the limbs of section 271(1)(c). The assessee filed its return of income for the AY 2014-15. The assessee had issued equity shares at premium. The assessing officer made addition to the total income of the assessee on the ground that the aggregate consideration for shares exceeded the fair market value. A notice under section 274 read with section 271(1)(c) was issued to the assessee on ground that assessee had 'furnished inaccurate particulars of income.', whereas the assessment order mentioned that the penalty should be imposed as it had 'concealed particulars of its income'.
Upon appeal to the High Court, it was held that the assessment order passed, and the penalty levied was on the ground that assessee has 'concealed particulars of its income' whereas the ground on which the notice under section 274 was issued on account of 'have furnished inaccurate particulars of income', without striking off the former ground in the notice. For initiation of penalty proceeding under section 271(1)(c) the satisfaction recorded should be on an existing ground on which the notice is issued. In this case the satisfaction recorded in the assessment order is regarding concealment of income, thereby the penalty order was not sustainable in law. (AY. 2014-15)

Assessee purchased a property for a consideration, which was less than FMV for the purpose of stamp duty valuation. Accordingly, AO added the difference to income of assessee under section 56(vii)(b). Thereafter, the AO levied penalty under section 271(1)(c). Assessee contended that addition was made by invoking "deeming provisions" under section 56(2)(vii)(b) and no penalty could be levied under section 271(1)(c) on "deemed addition". ITAT held that Addition was made by invoking "deeming provisions" under section 56(2)(vii)(b) and nothing was brought on record to demonstrate that assessee concealed particulars of income or deliberately furnished inaccurate particulars of income. Merely because the assessee agreed to addition on the basis of valuation made by stamp valuation authority, it could not be a conclusive proof that sale consideration as per sale agreement was deemed to be incorrect. Allowing the appeal the Tribunal held that the Assessing Officer did not specify the limb for which the notice under section 271(1)(c) was issued, i. e., whether for concealment of income or for furnishing inaccurate particulars of income. The notice was issued mechanically stating that the assessee had concealed particulars of income or furnished inaccurate particulars of income. The penalty order passed under section 271(1)(c) of the Act by the Assessing Officer was bad in law and liable to be quashed. (AY. 2011-12, 2015-16)
District Co-Operative Bank Ltd. v. Asst. CIT (2024)110 ITR 32 (SN)(Delhi)(Trib)

S. 271(1)(c): Penalty-Concealment-Remuneration and interest on capital received from the firm as a partner-Assessing officer processed original return though the claim may be wrong-No issue as regards concealment of particulars of income, not a fit case for levy of penalty. [S. 44AD] 2876
Held that the assessee had filed information in the return of income concerning remuneration and interest on capital received from the firm as a partner. This fact was disclosed by the assessee in its original return of income and the original return of income was processed u/s. 143(1) but the assessee claimed these two items, i. e. remuneration and interest on capital receipt from the firm on a presumptive basis u/s. 44AD and declared a net profit of eight percent. The assessee could not make such a claim and this was not allowable. But all the facts relating to these two claims were available before the AO and even the AO processed the original return and accepted the claim, which may be wrong. The assessee had disclosed the complete particulars of income relating to remuneration received from the firm and interest on capital invested with the firm. Once a fact, it meant that there was no issue as regards concealment of particulars of income. Hence not a fit case for a levy of penalty u/s. 271(1)(c). (AY. 2016-17)

Held that claim u/s. 80GGC was made based on the opinion of the auditor which was accepted by the commissioner (appeals). The claim is not tantamount to furnishing inaccurate particulars of income. It could not be held that the claim at the time of filing of return of income based on the opinion of an auditor was not bona fide. That claim was not tantamount to furnishing inaccurate particulars of income. Penalty deleted. (AY. 2011-12)

Held that the original assessment and reassessment were two independent proceedings as were the penalty proceedings respectively initiated therein. Even if the reassessment order was quashed for any reason, the original assessment order would continue to exist. The AO imposed a penalty qua the income assessed in the original assessment for which a separate penalty notice was issued. The originally assessed income was further enhanced in the reassessment and therefore the additional income assessed in the reassessment would have separate penalty proceedings u/s. 271 (1)(c), independent of the penalty qua the income assessed in the original assessment. That was the precise reason that the AO had initiated separate penalty proceedings in the order of reassessment. Matter remanded to CIT(A) on merits. (AY. 2012-13)

CIT(A), by following the decision of Co-ordinate Bench of Tribunal in the case of *Mukesh Shaligram Sharda v. S. 271(1)(c) : Penalty-Concealment-Not specifying the charge in the notice-Levy of penalty is not justified-Estimated addition of 100 Per Cent. of purchases reduced to 30 Per Cent. of purchases by Commissioner (Appeals)-Estimated addition involving inherent subjectivity-Penalty is not warranted. [S. 274] 2880
Held that the notice was in the nature of an omnibus show-cause notice issued without deleting or striking out the inapplicable part. The penalty order passed under section 271(1)(c) of the Act also did not spell out which limb of section 271(1)(c) of the Act was attracted for levy of penalty. Since show-cause notice itself did not spell out clearly as to what fault the assessee was being proceeded against for levy of penalty, the notice itself was bad in law, and consequently the penalty levied was vitiated. That moreover, in the quantum assessment the estimated addition of 100 per cent. of purchases was made by the Assessing Officer, which was reduced to 30 per cent. of the purchases by the Commissioner (Appeals). In such a scenario, penalty under section 271(1)(c) of the Act was not warranted because estimated addition involved inherent subjectivity. (AY. 2010-11)

S. 271(1)(c) : Penalty-Concealment-Self assessment tax paid prior to issue of reopening of notice-Penalty is deleted. [S. 139, 140A, 148] 2881
Assessee sold immovable property along with nine other co-owners and failed to file a valid return under section 139. Assessing Officer issued reopening notice and initiated penalty proceedings against assessee. Assessing Officer levied a penalty under section 271(1)(c) equivalent to 100 per cent of tax sought to be evaded. On appeal the Tribunal held that the assessee has paid the self assessment tax which was also reflected in Form No. 26AS. Tribunal held that since the assessee paid self-assessment tax prior to issue of reopening notice, as per Explanation 4 to section 271(1)(c), amount of tax sought to be evaded was to be determined by taking into consideration amount of tax on total income assessed as reduced by amount of advance tax, tax deducted at source, tax collected at source and self-assessment tax paid. Since Assessing Officer had determined total tax on income assessed at Rs. 2.08 lakhs whereas self-assessment tax paid by assessee was Rs. 2. 16 lakhs, amount of tax sought to be evaded was nil, penalty is deleted. S. 271(1)(c) : Penalty-Concealment-Deeming provision –Capital gains-Agreement value-Stamp valuation-Levy of penalty is not valid. [S. 50C] 2887

The assessee, an individual resident, sold an immovable property jointly owned by him and one Mr. X as per an agreement. The market value of the property as per Stamp Duty Authority was significantly higher and the value determined by the Valuation Officer was a figure intermediate to the selling price and the stamp duty value. The assessment of the assessee was reopened based on the information received from the assessment proceedings of Mr. X. The learned Assessing Officer made an addition under Section 50C of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (the Act), and levied a penalty under Section 271(1)(c) of the Act. The contention of the Assessee was that addition is made based on DVO report u/s 50 C of the Act. It is a deeming provision; there is no dispute about actual consideration. And that on deeming provision addition, penalty could not be levied. The assessee appealed against the penalty order before the learned CIT(A), who confirmed the penalty by an ex-parte order. The assessee further appealed before the Tribunal, challenging the ex-parte order and the levy of penalty.

The Tribunal concurred with the Assessee in holding that the penalty under Section 271(1)(c) of the Act is not applicable in a case of addition under Section 50C of the Act, which is a deemed provision. And that on deeming provision addition, penalty could not be levied. (AY. 2014-15)

AO levied penalty under section 271A for non-maintenance of books of account by assessee. The AO also levied penalty under section 271B due to non-audit of books of account under section 44AB by assessee. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that when the Assessing Officer had levied a penalty under section 271A, which assessee had accepted and paid, consequently, penalty under section 271B could not be imposed for non-auditing of books of account where assessee had failed to maintain same. The Assessee challenged the penalty imposed by the AO u/s 271A for non-maintenance of books of accounts as required by section 44AA. The AO initiated the penalty based on the Assessee's share transactions exceeding 10 lakhs. ITAT observed that the AO failed to produce any evidence which showed the Assessee's engagement in a business requiring the maintenance of books under section 44AA. The assessment order lacked conclusive evidence on the nature of the Assessee's share transactions as a business activity. The ITAT criticized the AO for prematurely concluding a violation of section 44AA without establishing the essential conditions. (AY. 2011-12)

[S. 92CA(3), 92D, 92E, 273B]

Held that the penalty had been initiated for non-reporting of the specified domestic transactions in form 3CEB entered into by the assessee whereas penalty had been levied for failure to maintain accounts as required under section 92E. The requirement to maintain information and documents were specified in section 92D and not section 92E and even if wrong-mention of the section was ignored, the bases for initiation and final levy of penalty were distinct. The assessee had explained that it had acted on the professional advice of its auditors to report only those transactions that exceeded the threshold and, consequently, the transactions undertaken with Y were duly reported in form 3CEB while the other transactions were not, since they did not exceed the prescribed threshold. Neither the Transfer Pricing Officer, nor the Assessing Officer, had commented adversely on the assessee's explanation before levying penalty. Therefore, as the assessee had a reasonable basis for non-reporting of transactions in terms of section 273B. Levy of penalty is deleted. (AY. 2014-15)

Held that the undisclosed income surrendered and admitted during the course of search has to fall within the four corners of the definition of the undisclosed income and only in a situation where it satisfies the said definition, the levy of penalty is justified and not otherwise. S. 271AAA : Penalty-Search initiated on or after 1st June, 2007 –Manner of deriving surrendered income-Failure to satisfy conditions-Order of Tribunal confirming levy of penalty is not erroneous. [S. 132(4), 260A] 2893

During a search and seizure operation conducted at the business and residential premises of the assessee under section 132(1), the assessee surrendered additional income in the statement under section 132(4) and declared in the return filed for the assessment year 2010-11. The surrendered income included the amount on account of excess stock and an amount as income from other sources. The assessee could not explain certain seized documents but stated that those could be included to form part of the amounts surrendered during the search and seizure operation and paid the tax with interest on the surrendered income. The Assessing Officer levied penalty under section 271AAA. The Commissioner (Appeals) deleted the penalty on the ground that if no specific question was put under section 132(4), it could not be concluded that the assessee had failed to reply or specifically substantiate the manner of concealment. On appeal by the Department, the Tribunal held that the assessee had failed to satisfy the conditions laid down in section 271AAA(2) to get the general amnesty under section 271AAA(2) since the assessee had neither specified nor substantiate the manner in which the undisclosed income was derived and accordingly confirmed the penalty. On appeal dismissing the appeal, that the assessee had failed to discharge the obligation under section 271AAA(2) of specification of the manner in which the undisclosed income had been derived and thereafter substantiate such disclosures. The imposition of penalty is dependent not merely on the disclosure of income having been made in the course of statement recorded under section 132(4). The order of the Tribunal confirming levy of penalty under section 271AAA is not erroneous. (AY. 2010-11)

S. 271AAA : Penalty-Search initiated on or after 1st June, 2007 –Undisclosed Income-Surrender of income-Specific charge-Burden of proof to establish there was undisclosed income is on Assessing Officer-Penalty is deleted. [S. 132, 132(4)] 2894

Held that the appeal, that the Commissioner (Appeals) had returned a finding that the surrender made by the assessee as apparent from the statement of the partner S recorded under section 132(4) of the Act was made to cover any discrepancy in the documents and books seized during the course of search, work-in-progress and stock. The Commissioner (Appeals) further held that in the absence of any discrepancy pointed out, the assessee's admission of undisclosed income did not fall in the definition of "undisclosed income" which was the very basis for giving immunity from penalty under section 271AAA of the Act, as all the sub-clauses of section 271AAA of the Act are related to "undisclosed income". The Commissioner (Appeals) had therefore rightly held that no specific discrepancy had been pointed out and merely because surrender had been made by the assessee to cover any potential discrepancy, would not mean that it fell in the definition of undisclosed income as so defined. In spite thereof, the Commissioner (Appeals) had confirmed the penalty holding that it was for the assessee to demonstrate that income surrendered fell in the definition of undisclosed income as so defined. It was for the Assessing Officer to record a specific finding that undisclosed income as defined had been found based on tangible verifiable material found during the course of search and the onus was on the Assessing Officer (and not on the assessee) to satisfy the conditions before the charge for levy of penalty was fastened on the assessee. The Assessing Officer had to record a specific finding as to the fulfilment of conditions specified therein which apparently had not been fulfilled in the instant case. Penalty is deleted. Application under Rule 27 of the ITAT Rules 1963 is admitted on legal issue in the appeal of the Revenue Since, the Commissioner (Appeals) had not discussed the issue or decided the issue raised by the assessee, the issue is remanded to Commissioner (Appeals) for considering the preliminary legal issue raised by the assessee on the validity of penalty proceedings initiated on the basis of vague notice issued under section 274 read with sections 270A and 271AAB of the Act. Held that the Assessing Officer had made an office note in the assessment order to the effect that the seized material had also been examined so far as considered relevant but nothing incriminating was found in relation to this case, that the bank account of the assessee was examined and no adverse view is required. Therefore when the Assessing Officer had himself acknowledged that there was nothing incriminating in seized material. When that was so, there was nothing of the nature of undisclosed income prescribed in clause (c) of the Explanation to section 271AAB. Penalty is deleted. (AY. 2017-18, 2018-19)

S. 271AAB : Penalty-Search initiated on or after Ist day of July 2012-Surrender of income in the course of search-Failure to disclose in the return-Penalty is justified in respect of difference added as undisclosed income-Limb under which penalty is to be levied spelt out and assessee not offered explanation-Limitation-Tribunal passing order in quantum appeal on 27-9-2019 and penalty order passed on 23-3-2020-Order is within prescribed time-limit-No violation of principle of natural justice. [S. 271AAB(1)(c), 274(1), 275(1)] 2898

Held that in view of the finding by the Tribunal that no reply was given by the assessee to explain the differential amount, it could not be said that the additions were merely estimated additions. The additional income was surrendered by the assessee, a part of which was admitted in the return of income whereas a part thereof was not. The Assessing Officer added the differential to the income of the assessee and finally, the additions to the extent for which reply could not be furnished by the assessee, were confirmed. Therefore, this was not merely an estimated addition. That the penalty order was based on the findings rendered by the Tribunal in quantum appeal. The differential so added to the income of the assessee would be undisclosed income within the meaning of section 271AAB. The assessee's case would squarely fall within clause (c) of section 271AAB(1) since the admission made by the assessee was not honoured in the return of income and clauses (a) and (b) would have no application in such a case. That adequate opportunity of hearing was given to the assessee to assail the penalty as required by the provisions of section 274(1) of the Act. Whether it was through statutory notice or a non-statutory notice would be immaterial. The only requirement was that opportunity of hearing should be given specifically mentioning the ground which the assessee has to meet. That had been done in the present case. That the limb under which penalty was to be levied was clearly spelt out and the assessee could not offer any explanation against the addition. That the Tribunal having passed order in quantum appeal on September 27, 2019, the penalty order passed on March 23, 2020 was well within the prescribed time limits under section 275(1). That the facts on record did not show any such violation of principles of natural justice as pleaded by the assessee. Adequate opportunity of hearing had already been afforded to the assessee. Held that the Assessing Officer concluded that the filing of the tax audit report belatedly showed the mala fide intention of the assessee to evade tax on his income. In view of the fact that the gross income disclosed by the assessee was accepted subsequently by the Assessing Officer and the total tax liability shown in such return was also accepted, the conclusion that the assessee filed the tax audit report belatedly with the mala fide intention to evade tax could not be sustained. The Assessing Officer concluded the plea that the return of income and audit report could not be filed in time due to severe lower back pain of the assessee appeared to be a fabrication to mislead the penalty proceedings. In support of the submission that the assessee suffered lower back pain, the order disclosed that photocopies of the doctor's prescriptions were provided. Once again, in view thereof and in view of the factual position with regard to the return of income, this conclusion could not be sustained. The imposition of penalty under section 271B was not valid.

2901 S. 271B : Penalty-Failure to get accounts audited-Legal representatives-Death of assessee-Penalty is not leviable on legal representative-Penalty is deleted. [S. 44AB, 159(1), 159(4), 274(1)]
The AO levied the penalty for failure to furnish audit report on legal representative. CIT(A) affirmed the order of the AO. On appeal the Tribunal held that words any sum referred in sub-S. (1) of S. 159 have been substituted in place of words any tax which occurred under section i 24B of the IT Act, 1922 so as to cover not only tax payable but also any penalty or interest. Therefore, legal representatives of the deceased are also liable to pay penalty on behalf of the deceased assessee pursuant to the provisions of S. 159(1). However, sub-S. (4) of S. 159 only empowers recovery of the tax liability to the extent of estate of deceased assessee succeeded by Legal Representative. Penalty is different and distinct in nature than tax, penalty proceedings abate on the death of the assessee. If recovery of penalty is permitted against the estate of deceased, then it would clearly lead to permitting the enforcement of crime against the right of Legal heir in the succeeded estate. Accordingly penalty under S. 271B is not sustainable and cannot be recovered from the Legal heir upon the death of the assessee. Penalty is deleted, Referred *Bhuban Mohan Mitter Charitable Trust v. Held that the appeal, that the penalty amount is not recoverable from the legal representative of accused as imposition of penalty is intended to penalise the accused ; therefore, recovery of penalty from the legal representative would amount to punishing the legal representative. Penalty order is set aside. The Tribunal also held that sub-section (4) of section 159 of the Income-tax Act, 1961 only empowered the recovery of the tax liability to the extent of estate of the deceased assessee succeeded by the legal representative. The conjoint reading of sub-section (1) and sub-section (4) of section 159 suggested that, in case of death of the assessee, the tax subject to estate of the deceased assessee could only be recovered (if any) from the legal representative. Conversely, nothing other than tax can be fastened to the estate succeeded by the legal representative. (AY. 2017-18)

Held that the assessee, a distributor of the Mother Dairy and Vegetables Pvt Ltd and a retired army personnel, was under the bona fide belief that no books of account were required to be maintained since the only source of earning income was commission as fixed by the Mother Dairy and Vegetables Pvt Ltd on the sale of milk and other products, and there was no need of any audit of accounts. Held that the assessee did not file any return of income under the provisions of section 139(1) of the Act. The return was filed in response to the notice issued under section 148 of the Act on account of income escaping assessment. Thus, there remained no ambiguity that the books of account of the assessee were not written up before the due date for filing the return of income as specified under section 139(1) of the Act. Once, it was established that the books of account were not written up in time, the question of getting them audited to comply with the provisions of section 44AB of the Act, would not arise. The first default of the assessee was non-maintenance of books of account under section 44AA of the Act which was a complete offence and was subject to the penalty under the provisions of section 271A of the Act. Therefore, the assessee could not be visited with the penalty for the offence of not getting accounts audited. (AY. 2011-12, 2012-13)

Assessee, a share broker, had earned commission income from sub-broker activity of shares and had also earned capital gains from purchase and sale of shares. Assessing Officer held that turnover of assessee from sale of shares was Rs. 6.06 crores. Accordingly, he levied penalty under section 271B for failure to get accounts audited in terms of provisions of section 44B. CIT(A) confirmed the penalty. On appeal the assessee contended that he being in business of sub-brokerage, only commission could be considered as income and not total receipts and sale consideration of shares sold by assessee on which it earned commission/brokerage was not turnover, and could not be constitute its turnover. Tribunal held that it was only commission income earned by assessee which could be treated as its turnover and same falling well below limit prescribed by section 44AB for subjecting books of account to audit, there was no case for assessee to have got its books audited in terms of provisions of said section. Suo moto disallowance sought by the assesee with regard to the provisions of section 40(a)(ia) of the Act. The AO passed assessment order. The JC submitted a proposal for levying penalty for failure to deduct tax at source. The AO issued a notice almost 11 years after the assessment order and 14 years after the return was filed. On appeal, the Hon'ble Delhi High Court observed that the word used in the provision of section 275(1)(c) is 'initiated', which is an act which would get triggered on the date when the proposal is made. This rationale ties in with the view taken by the coordinate Bench of the High Court in the case of Clix Capital Services (P.) Ltd. [2023] 149 taxmann.com 279 (Delhi) (HC). Hence, it was held that the action of the revenue is barred by limitation. (AY. 2005-06)

He levied penalties under sections 271D and 271E of the Act. CIT (Appeals) deleted the penalties, which is affirmed by Tribunal. Assessee received loan of Rs. 6.65 crores and repaid a sum of Rs. 7.70 crores. Assessing Officer held that assessee had accepted loans in cash. He further held that assessee paid an amount of Rs. 1.05 crores in excess. Assessing Officer taking note of letter of assessee, acknowledging receipt of amount of Rs. 6.65 crores made addition under section 69A on account of such excess amount which according to Assessing Officer was excess payment over and above loans accepted as unexplained money. Commissioner had initiated penalty proceedings under section 271D and levied penalty of certain amount. Assessing Officer, except to base his addition on letter of assessee, did not record any finding that there had been any violation of provisions of section 269SS by assessee, nor was any satisfaction recorded to effect that alleged transaction of acceptance of loan would attract penal consequences. On writ the Court held that since the Assessing Officer did not record any satisfaction in assessment order to effect that provisions of section 269SS were violated and did not contemplate levy of penalty under section 271D. Penalty levied is set aside.

2913 S. 271D : Penalty-Takes or accepts any loan or deposit-Share application money in cash-Looking into the object and purpose of S. 269SS and 269T read with the Explanation defining the words "loan and deposit", the share application money can neither be said to be loan nor a deposit-Order of Tribunal deleting the penalty is affirmed. [S. 269SS, 269T, 271E, 260A]

Dismissing the appeal of the Revenue the Court held that the words "loan or deposit" has been defined in Expln. (iii) to S. 269T which is not an expansive definition. It provides that "loan or deposit" mean any loan or deposit of money which is repayable after notice or repayable after a period and, in case of a person other than a company including loan or deposit of any nature. Share application money is neither repayable after notice nor repayable after a period. It is for participation in the capital of the company. Therefore, neither as per the definition of the words "loan or deposit" as given in the Expln. (iii) to s. 269T nor in ordinary sense, share application money can be said to be a loan or deposit. Once share application money is neither loan nor deposit, then neither S. 269SS nor 269T shall attract. Consequently, no penalty either under s. 271D or under S. 271E could be imposed. [S. 269SS] 2916

Held that the very basis of reference by the AO to the Jt. Similarly, the Jt. The AO levied penalty u/s 271D of the Act. on appeal the CIT(A) deleted the penalty. On appeal by Revenue the Tribunal held that provisions of S. 269SS is not attracted by accepting the precious metal commodities in physical form. As per Expln. (iii) to 269SS, loan or deposit for the purpose of this section means loans or deposits of money. Accepted loans/deposit of metal which did neither fall in category (1) i. e., loans or deposits of money nor in category (2) specified sum. S. 271D : Penalty-Takes or accepts any loan or deposit –Sale of property-Distress sale constitute reasonable cause-Cash deposited in the bank-Levy of penalty is deleted. [S. 269SS, 273B] 2918

Tribunal held that the objective of the amendment proposed in S. 269SS is to curb generation of black money. On the facts the cash received by the assessee has been deposited by him into the bank account. Hence the same does not attract the provisions of S 269SS since there is no suppression of cash receipts by the assessee. The assessee has also offered the capital gains to tax. Further, the explanation given by the assessee for receipt of sale consideration in cash that it was a distress sale constitutes a "reasonable cause" as contemplated in S. 273B and the assessee has accepted the cash under inevitably unavoidable circumstances as explained by the Authorised Representative in his arguments and immediately on receipt of the cash, the assessee deposited the same in the bank account which contemplates the genuineness of the transaction and moreover, the assessee has paid the capital gain tax thereon. Under these circumstances, the penalty levied by the AO under s. 271D and confirmed by the CIT(A) is unsustainable. Penalty is deleted. (AY. 2017-18)

[S. 269SS, 274]
Dismissing the appeal the Tribunal held that the registered document filed by the assessee, wherein all the pages were duly signed by both the vendor and purchaser, clearly showed that the assessee had received part of the sale consideration of Rs. 1,60,00,000 in cash. The contention of the assessee that the consideration clause of the deed of sale had wrongly entered the mode of transaction as cash while in reality it was an adjustment of an existing debt through a journal entry was not tenable in any court of law in the absence of any material evidence. If the assessee had a claim that a wrong entry had been made in a document, which was duly signed by both the vendor and purchaser and registered by the Sub-Registrar of the State Revenue Department the assessee should have approached the Appellate Authority of the Tamil Nadu State Revenue Department for any modification, addition or deletion, which was not done in this case. Under the above facts and circumstances, the Commissioner (Appeals) had rightly confirmed the penalty levied under section 271D of the Act. (AY. 2017-18)

S. 271D : Penalty-Takes or accepts any loan or deposit –Cash received from purchaser as final payment before Sub-Registrar at the time of registration of sale deed of property-Levy of penalty is not valid. [S. 269SS] 2922

Assessee sold a property and certain sale consideration was received in cash. AO levied penalty under section 271D for violation of provisions of section 269SS. The tribunal relied on the decision of Co-ordinate Bench in the case of ITO v. R. Dhinagharan (HUF) [ITA No. 3329/CHNY/2019, dt. 29-12-2023], wherein the term 'specified sum' as per Explanation to section 269SS, is only applicable for advance receivable, namely, 'as advance or otherwise' means advance can be in any manner, and therefore, this provision will not apply to transaction that happens when final payment at the time of registration of sale deed and payment takes place before Sub-Registrar for registration of property. Assessee received cash from purchaser, not as advance, but as final payment in front of Sub-Registrar at the time of registration for sale of property, there was no violation of provisions of section 269SS and hence, penalty under section 271D was not leviable. S. 271G : Penalty-Documents-International transaction-Transfer pricing-Arm's Length Price-Domestic transactions-Reference to Transfer Pricing Officer-Clause (I) Of Section 92BA(i)) is omitted By Finance Act, 2017, with effect from 1-4-2017-Penalty is deleted. [S. 92BA, 92CA] 2928

Held, that the transfer pricing adjustment was made with respect to the specified domestic transactions covered under section 92BA(i), which clause was omitted by the Finance Act, 2017, with effect from April 1, 2017. Since there was no applicability of transfer pricing provisions to the specified domestic transactions of the assessee covered under section 92BA(i), there could not be any requirement of maintenance of the document. The assessee cannot not be penalised for not mainttainng the documents. (AY. 2016-17)

S. 271G : Penalty-Documents-International transaction-Transfer pricing-TPO had not proposed any adjustment-Levy of penalty is not justified. [S. 92C, 92D] 2929

TPO had accepted ALP; however, he proceeded to levy penalty under section 271G for reason that assessee had not furnished required informations. CIT(A) deleted the penalty. On appeal the Tribunal held that since substantial compliance was made by assessee and reasonable cause submitted before TPO and particularly when there was no adjustment made in arm's length price, penalty under section 271G is rightly deleted. ACIT v. Eurostar Diamonds India (P.) Ltd. (2024) 205 ITD 324 (Mum) (Trib.)

S. 272A : Penalty-Failure to answer questions-Sign statements-Furnish information-Substantial compliance-Levy of penalty is not justified. [S. 143(3), 272A(1)(d)] 2930

Assessee for non-compliance of notices issued during the course of assessment proceedings. Assessee submitted that it made necessary compliances to various notices and also in many cases, it was granted less than two days to respond to notices, which was clear violation of principles of natural justice. Assessee further submitted that as it substantially complied with various notices and assessment was completed under section 143(3), the penalty so levied was to be deleted. Assessee had responded to notices by furnishing necessary information/documentation during the course of assessment proceedings and supporting evidences were placed on record, therefore, there could not be any basis for levy of penalty as far as non-compliance of said notices were concerned. Further three notices were issued, whereby assessee was asked to comply within a period of two hours and that too, on a day which was a public holiday, i. e. Sunday. Thus, it was clear that AO for reasons best known to him, issued three notices one after the another, and that too, on the day, which was a public holiday and asking the assessee to respond to said notices within period of two hours, which was evidently not reasonable and in any case, could not be a basis to press charges as far as deliberate non-compliance on the part of assessee. Further, considering the fact that substantial compliances were made by assessee and assessment was completed under section 143(3), there was no justifiable basis for levy of penalty under section 272A(1)(d) and hence, the penalty so levied, was deleted. Assessing Officer initiated penalty proceedings under section 272A(1)(d) on ground that during scrutiny assessment proceedings, notice under section 143(2) and section 142(1) were issued to assessee, however assessee had not responded to said notices. Though the assessee failed to respond to certain notices issued under sections 143(2) and 142(1), however, in response to subsequent notices, assessee had made necessary replies and accordingly assessment was completed under section 143(3). On appeal the Tribunal held that penalty imposed under section 272A(1)(d) was not justifiable as Assessing Officer himself had deemed to have condoned absence of assessee on earlier occasions and subsequently necessary information and evidences were furnished by assessee to assist in completion of assessment. 2933 S. 275 : Penalty-Bar of limitation-Natural justice-Delay of ten years in issuing show cause notice-Notice issued in November 2017-Barred by limitation-Order of High Court is affirmed-SLP of Revenue is dismissed. [S. 271, 274, 275(1)(c)]

The principles of natural justice are engrafted under section 274 of the Act, inter alia, mandate that no order imposing a penalty under the Chapter, i. e., Chapter XXI shall be made unless the assessee has been heard, or has been given a reasonable opportunity of being heard. Court held that the initial return qua the assessment year in issue, i. e., assessment year 2007-08 was filed on March 31, 2007, and the revised return was filed on March 31, 2009. The scrutiny assessment under section 143(3) concerning the assessment year 2007-08, was framed on October 28, 2011. Despite the fact that the issue concerning limitation was flagged as far back as on September 9, 2013, and then again in an internal communication dated July 11, 2014, no steps were taken for the issuance of a show-cause notice. The show-cause notice was issued only on November 9, 2017. The delay in issuing the show-cause notice dated November 9, 2017 was inexcusable. There was no explanation, whatsoever, available on the record, as to why the show-cause notice under section 274 of the Act was not issued in 2013-14, if not earlier. As a matter of fact, there was no explanation, even with regard to the period falling between the time when the scrutiny assessment was framed (i. e., on October 28, 2011) and the communication dated September 9, 2013. Thus, even if the period for commencement of limitation prescribed in terms of the second limb of clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 275 were considered, limitation would commence either from 2013 or 2014. There was a period of unexplained substantial delay, as the show-cause notice, concededly, was issued only on November 9, 2017. The show-cause notice dated November 9, 2017 was quashed. Order of High Court is affirmed. SLP of Revenue is dismissed. (AY. 2007-08)

S. 275 : Penalty-Bar of limitation-Concealment of income –Disallowance of claim-Depreciation. [S. 22, 24, 32, 271(1)(c)] 2934

Assessee is running a hospital. It filed its return declaring income from lease rent as income from house property claiming 30 per cent standard deduction under section 24 and also depreciation on fixed assets-Assessing Officer treated income of assessee as income from business and initiated penalty proceedings under section 271(1)(c) on ground of furnishing inaccurate particulars. The AO passed the penalty order dated 13-8-2021. Thereafter, he revisited penalty proceedings and passed another order dated 1-4-2022. CIT(A) confirmed the penalty. On appeal the Tribunal held that within six months from end of month in which Appellate Tribunal passed orders, Assessing Officer became functus officio and he had no jurisdiction to pass second penalty order beyond period prescribed under section 275(1). Therefore, Assessing Officer having passed second penalty order beyond period prescribed under section 275(1), said order is set aside. (AY. 2016-17)

[S. 131(IA), 132(1) 132(3), Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973, S. 34, 37, 120B, 155(2), 201, 206 217, 406, 409, 420, 462] 2935

High Court dismissed the petition to quash the criminal proceedings against Bank and its officials. On allowing the appeal the Court held that, for bringing out the offence under the ambit of section 420 of the Code, the first information report must disclose the following ingredients : (a) that the appellant-bank had induced anyone since inception ; (b) that the inducement was fraudulent or dishonest ; and (c) that mens rea existed at the time of such inducement. The appellant-bank was a juristic person and as such, the question of mens rea did not arise. However, even reading the first information report and the complaint at their face value, there was nothing to show that the appellant-bank or its staff members had dishonestly induced someone to deliver any property to any person, and that mens rea existed at the time of such inducement. The ingredients to attract the offence under section 420 of the Code would not be available. The Court also held that in so far as the provisions of section 409 of the Code were concerned, the following ingredients had to be made out : (a) that there had been any entrustment with the property, or with any dominion over property on a person in the capacity of a public servant or banker, etc. ; (b) that the person committed criminal breach of trust in respect of that property. For bringing out the case under criminal breach of trust, it had to be pointed out that a person, with whom entrustment of a property is made, has dishonestly misappropriated it, or converted it to his own use, or dishonestly used it, or disposed of that property. In the present case, there was not even an allegation of entrustment of the property which the appellant-bank had misappropriated or converted for its own use to the detriment of the Deputy Director (Investigation). The provisions of sections 406 and 409 of the Code would also not be applicable. That since there was no entrustment of any property with the appellant-bank, the ingredients of section 462 of the Code were also not applicable. That likewise, since the offences under sections 206, 217 and 201 of the Code required mens rea, the ingredients of these sections also would not be available against the appellant-bank. That the first information report or complaint also did not show that the appellant-bank and its officers acted with any common intention or intentionally co-operated in the commission of any alleged offences. The provisions of sections 34, 37 and 120B of the Code would also not be applicable. That, therefore, the continuation of the criminal proceedings against the appellant-bank would cause undue hardship to the appellant-bank. Accordingly the First information report is quashed consequently the prosecution against bank and its officials is quashed. Order of High Court is set aside.

In search proceedings it was found that the assessee had failed to maintain any proper books of account in accordance with accounting practice and had filed returns of income based on notional value, that the entire business was predominantly in cash, that sales were suppressed and expenses under-reported. Therefore, sales for the period from the financial year 2008-09 were worked out by reverse working the sales for each of the outlets from the date of the commencement of business operation at each of the outlet, giving 15 per cent. allowance for each of the assessment years 2010-11 to 2014-15 and the net profit was computed at around Rs. 22 crores. The assessee admitted a sum of Rs. 4 crores as undisclosed income. The Director (Inv) initiated criminal proceedings under section 277 on the grounds that the assessees had wilfully under-reported the income by filing false and incorrect returns of income thereby evading tax. The assessee filed the petition before the Settlement Commission which was allowed and order under section 245D(4) read section 245I was passed. The assessee filed criminal petitions to quash the proceedings initiated by the Director (Inv). Dismissing the petitions, the Court held that the assessee had filed an application before the Settlement Commission under section 245C of the Act, on January 22, 2018 whereas the prosecution was initiated two years before that, on November 17, 2016 itself. Therefore, the provisions under section 245-I of the Act were not applicable. The factum of pending prosecution was not brought to the notice of the Settlement Commission and the assessees had obtained immunity in respect of prosecution. That apart, as against the immunity granted by the Settlement Commission, the Department had filed an appeal and it was pending before the Board. Therefore, the criminal proceedings were not to be quashed. (AY. 2010-11 to 2014-15)

The assessee deducted tax at source under different sections in expenditure incurred but failed to credit same into Central Government account within stipulated time frame. Commissioner filed criminal complaints against assessee for offence under section 276B. The petitioner has filed petition to quash the Criminal proceedings. Allowing the petition the Court held that 90 per cent of students were admitted on fee reimbursement scheme and assessee had furnished information that they did not receive fee reimbursement from State Government within time. Immediately after receiving fee reimbursement amount, they had remitted amount to Central Government account along with interest for late payment under section 201(1)(a). Court held that since tax deducted at source could not be remitted to Central Government within time due to delay in grant of fee reimbursement by State Government, assessee was able to establish reasonable cause hence criminal prosecution is quashed. The application for compounding of application is rejected by the Commissioner on account of delay in filing of the application. On writ the Court held, that the application was filed on January 17, 2020 for compounding the offence under section 276B of the Income-tax Act, 1961. But it was not supported by an affidavit and was not complete. But when on February 5, 2020, the affidavit was filed, that affidavit was filed to verify the statements made in the application dated January 17, 2020. The appropriate authority, having adopted a technical approach, held the main application to have been filed beyond the prescribed period, i. e., January 31, 2020. That was a wrong approach. First of all, the affidavit was filed for verification of the statements in the application dated January 17, 2020. By filing the affidavit, the defect in the application stood removed. Thereafter, it could not be held that the application for compounding was filed on February 5, 2020. The rejection of application for compounding of offences was not valid. Court also observed that where there is a delay in filing an application for compounding an offence a power of relaxation has been granted to the authority who considers the compounding application. Such power shall be invoked in appropriate cases to advance the cause of justice.

Despite later depositing TDS amount with interest, prosecution was sanctioned under section 279(1). Assessee explained that delay was due to factors like market sluggishness, insolvency proceedings, and COVID-19 pandemic, with no mens rea involved. Allowing the petition the Court held that authorities ought to have taken into consideration explanation offered by assessee particularly for reasons that company had suffered I. B. proceeding and restriction imposed during COVID-19 pandemic. Further since in instant case prosecution indeed had been initiated by opposite parties after having received TDS amount along with interest, in such circumstances, entire proceedings initiated against assessee is quashed. Petitioner, CEO of assessee-company, was served with show cause notices treating him to be 'Principal Officer' and asking him to show cause in respect of default by the company to deposit TDS for financial years 2016-17 and 2017-18. Petitioner pointed out that he was appointed as Managing Director only on 2-5-2017 and had resigned from that post on 2-3-2018 and he could not be possibly held to be person responsible for financial year 2016-17 and for other year he was not connected with or in charge of accounting or financing activities pertaining to company. Department issued a corrigendum and declared that petitioner was Principal Officer of assessee-company. On writ the Court held that merely because a person holds an office in a corporate entity, it would not be sufficient to place that individual in clause (b) of section 2(35); he must be connected with management and administration of company. Accordingly order holding petitioner as principal officer for purpose of initiation of prosecution under section 276B is set aside and Assessing Officer is directed to examine afresh question as to whether assessee could be said to be a person connected with management or administration of company in question. The petitioner served as an independent, non-executive, and nominee director on the Board of a company from 27-6-2007 to 12-11-2011. For the financial year 2008-09, the company failed to deposit the TDS to the credit of the Central Government within the prescribed period; however, this amount was subsequently paid by the company in September 2010.
The petitioner became aware of the criminal case and the orders passed thereunder only on 5-9-2022, when he received a copy of the summons dated 3-8-2022. The petitioner submitted that he was never served with any notice treating him as a principal officer as required under clause (b) of section 2(35) to initiate a prosecution under section 276B read with 278B. Hence, he prayed to Court to quash the Criminal Case filed against him for the offence punishable under sections 276-B read with 278-B.
Section 276-B lays down the punishment for non-payment of tax deducted at source to the credit of the Central Government as required under Chapter XII-D or XVII-B of the I. T. Act. Court held that in order to treat a person as a Principal Officer as defined under section 2(35)(b), Assessing Officer must have served upon him a notice of his intention of treating him as principal officer of company. Where notice as contemplated under section 2(35) had not been served upon petitioner, who was an independent, non-executive, and nominee director on Board of company, before initiating prosecution against him under purview of sections 276B and 278B, prosecution proceedings initiated against him and orders are quashed and set aside. Complaint was filed against assessee company for delay in depositing TDS amount. The petitioner filed the criminal miscellaneous application to quash the proceedings on the ground that the entire TDS amount had been deposited before issuance of notice and delay was due to pending BIFR proceeding since 1991 and industrial sickness of company. Allowing the petition the Court held that pending BIFR proceedings and industrial sickness constituted a reasonable cause for delay in deposit of TDS amount within stipulated time due reasonable cause, section 278AA will apply. S. 276C : Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax-Search-Revised return-Claims of deduction were not accepted-Would not amount to wilful evasion of tax. [S. 132, 139(1), Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, S. 482] 2947

Allowing the petition the Court held that the assessee had filed a revised return waiving off claims of deduction of long term capital gains / short term capital loss after search was conducted, is a case of delayed payment of tax. Accordingly the proceedings pending against assessee for offence punishable under section 276C(1) is quashed.

S. 276C : Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax-Search and seizure-Jewellery found during search-Revision order-Pendency of assessment proceedings-Pendency of adjudication proceeding is not a bar on prosecution-Petition to quash the prosecution is dismissed. [S. 132, 153C, 263, 271(1)(c), 276C(1), 277, Art. 226] 2948

In response to notice under section 153C of the Act, the asseessee filed return of income and disclosed the gold ornaments which was found in the course of search. The AO assessed the income and levied the penalty u/s 271(1)(c) of the Act. On appeal the penalty is sustained. The Revenue has launched the prosecution against the assessee. On writ dismissing the petition the Court held that the Principal Commissioner had suo motu taken up revision proceedings by an order dated February 23, 2021, on the basis that no reconciliation was carried out. Though the proceedings were challenged by the assessee before the court, it was rejected by the court. That the assessee had already filed a petition for discharge and that was also dismissed by the trial court. Now the reassessment proceedings were pending with the Assessing Officer. Therefore, it could not be said that the proceedings attained finality. Hence, there was no exoneration of the assessee from all the charges. Further, the quantum of jewellery found during the search was not brought out in the earlier returns filed by the assessee. Therefore, the reconciliation of jewellery had not attained finality, in view of the pendency of the proceeding under section 263 of the Income-tax Act, 1961. The adjudication proceedings and the criminal prosecution were independent of each other and the pendency of any adjudication proceeding was not bar to proceeding with the prosecution. (AY. 2012-13)

2949 S. 276C : Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax-Concealment of income-Deletion of penalty-Prosecution is not valid. [S. 271(1)(c),
Allowing the petition to quash the proceedings the Court held, that the Commissioner (Appeals) held in the appeal that the assessee was under the bona fide belief that there was no tax liability to be discharged by him on account of his residential status as non-resident external accounts and the deduction of tax at source made by the bank. Thus, the intention to conceal income by furnishing inaccurate particulars was not established. Therefore, the Assessing Officer was directed to delete the penalty imposed on the assessee. Once the penalty is deleted, the prosecution initiated by the could not be sustained. (AY. 2008-09)

Assessee submitted income-tax return pointing out tax liability for relevant assessment year, however, tax liability was not deposited. Tax amount was deposited after certain delay and that was deposited with interest in light of section 140A. Assessing Officer initiated criminal proceedings against assessee under section 276C(1) for wilful attempt to evade tax. On writ the Court held that since tax amount was deposited with interest and there was no penalty provision against assessee, it would be presumed that there was no concealment and, thus, assessee could not be allowed to suffer and to face criminal trial and same could not sustain in eyes of law. Therefore, entire criminal proceeding including cognizance order, by which, cognizance had been taken for offence under section 276C(2) and section 277 against assessee is quashed. (AY. 2011-12)(SJ)

S. 276C : Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax-Failure to pay tax-Firm-Death of managing partner-Surviving partners unaware of tax dues-Self Assessment-Tax dues along with interest paid within five days of receipt of notice-No mala fide intention to evade tax-Mere failure to pay tax on time cannot be equated to wilful attempt to evade tax-Criminal prosecution quashed and set aside. [S. 276C(1), 276(2), 278B, Code Of Criminal Procedure, 1973, S. 482] 2952

Allowing the application the Court held that mere failure to pay the tax could not be equated with wilful attempt to evade tax. There was material to indicate that within five days of the notice under section 276C(2), the petitioners had deposited the tax due as declared in the return for the assessment year 2010-11 with interest thereon which showed that there was no intent to evade tax. Since the petitioners had declared the income and assessed the self-assessment tax, it could not be contended that there was an attempt to evade tax. It was neither a case of under-reporting of income nor that of showing diminished tax liability. On the date of the lodging of the complaint under section 276C(2) read with section 278B no tax was due including the interest, though there was delay of about eight years in paying the amount of self-assessment tax. The continuation of the prosecution for the offence punishable under section 276C(2) amounted to abuse of the process of the court. It was the conduct of the petitioners, after being served with the show-cause notice, that assumed significance. Payment of tax due under five days of the service of the notice, underscores the bona fides of the applicants. Therefore, the aspect of delay, did not detract materially from the applicants claim. No offence punishable under section 276C(2) had been made out. The criminal proceedings were quashed and set aside. *Kapildeo Prasad Sah v. S. 276C : Offences and prosecutions-Wilful attempt to evade tax-Territorial jurisdiction or conspiracy-Accused has no locus standi to file application or raise any objections qua territorial jurisdiction, conspiracy or bias at pre-cognizance stage-Conspiracy cannot be ascertained merely by appreciating either documents or arguments-Issue of fact to be proved or disproved by parties leading evidence during trial-Parties approbating and reprobating and taking mutually destructive pleas is impermissible. [S. 276(1), 277, 278, 278B, 278E, Indian Penal Code, 1860, S. 120B, 191, 199, 200, 204, Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, S. 200, 482] 2953

The Deputy Director (Investigation) made a complaint under section 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 against the assessees alleging commission of offences punishable under sections 276C(1), 277 and 278 read with sections 278B and 278E of the Income-tax Act, 1961 and sections 120B, 191, 199, 200 and 204 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860. The gravamen of accusation against the accused persons was that accused No. 1, an I. A. S officer in the State of Chhattisgarh, was engaged in movement of unaccounted cash through different channels with regard to sectors such as agriculture, mining, liquor trade and licensing in the State of Chhattisgarh in connivance with the other accused persons. The magistrate directed the return of the complaint to the extent of those offences, which, according to him had arisen beyond the territorial jurisdiction of Delhi. The Department filed an application seeking stay of that portion of the order whereby the magistrate had returned the complaint in respect of the offences under the 1961 Act and the Indian Penal Code for filing them before the court of competent jurisdiction Court held that the accused respondents had no locus to either file an application or raise any objections qua territorial jurisdiction, conspiracy or bias at the pre-cognizance stage. Equally, the magistrate had, by entertaining such application and retaining the arguments on such objections and considering them, acted with material irregularity. Till the accused person was summoned by the criminal courts, he had no locus to interject or interfere with the proceedings before a magistrate. Till the cognizance of the offence was taken, the accused was not a person who was identified as such, for him to be vested with any right of audience, apart from the fact that it was possible that even after the preliminary inquiry under section 202 of the 1973 Code, the magistrate might dismiss the complaint, without even calling upon the accused. That the magistrate had committed procedural illegality and irregularity by not only entertaining the application but also hearing detailed arguments on behalf of the proposed accused person, admittedly at a stage when cognizance was yet to be taken violating the law as declared by the constitutional courts. That though the magistrate had applied his mind, he had misdirected himself to reach definitive conclusions on issues such as territorial jurisdiction and conspiracy without there being evidence on such aspects. It would be relevant to consider the provisions of section 178 of the 1973 Code whereby different situations in respect of an offence, where the offence was committed partly in one local area and partly in another, or where an offence was a continuing one and continued to be committed in more local areas than one, or where it consisted of several acts done in different local areas might be inquired into or tried by a court having jurisdiction over any of such local areas. That the definitive conclusion reached by the magistrate regarding the conspiracy was unsustainable. The allegation that the conspiracy had continued at Delhi needed to be tested in trial. He had definitively concluded that the conspiracy had ended in Chattisgarh and no part of it had continued till Delhi. This conclusion could not and ought not to have been reached by him, particularly at the stage where cognizance of the offences was to be taken. If such an order was made to stand, then at the stage of taking cognizance, the accused by mere arguments would get an opportunity to show that no such conspiracy was hatched, that too without any evidence. This would be contrary against all cannons of law and procedure. That the submissions of respondent Nos. 1, 2 and 3, that since there was no territorial jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the offences arising under sections 276C(1) and 278 read with sections 278B and 278E of the 1961 Act and sections 120B, 191, 199, 200 and 204 of the Indian Penal Code and therefore, there was no prejudice caused to the Department since that portion of the complaint in respect of those offences has been returned to be filed at the court of competent jurisdiction in the State of Chattisgarh was erroneous and not only contrary but also destructive of the stand taken by them before the revisional court which granted stay on the basis that the magistrate had no right, authority or jurisdiction to split the complaint or the offences arising from the same transaction. A party could not be permitted to approbate and reprobate in the same breath or take mutually destructive pleas and their taking varying stands according to their own convenience was impermissible in law. That the operation of the order passed by the magistrate to the extent it returned the complaint qua the offences under sections 276C(1) and 278 read with sections 278B and 278E of the 1961 Act and sections 120B, 191, 199, 200 and 204 of the Indian Penal Code was restrained till further orders. The observations were prima facie in nature and were not tantamount to any expression on the merits of the matter at the present stage. Criminal conspiracy is an issue of fact and can be proved or disproved by the parties by leading evidence during trial and cannot be ascertained merely by appreciating either documents or arguments and therefore, no definitive conclusion on such issue can be reached by any court at the stage of taking cognizance. It is trite that conspiracy is an issue of fact which can be proved or disproved only during trial. Relied on *Purushottamdas Dalmia v. Allowing the petition the Court held that the respondent prosecuted the petitioners for the offences under sections 276C(1) and 277 of the Income-tax Act, 1961, for the assessment year 2013-14, alleging that the assessee had not explained the source of income for incurring cash expenses of Rs. 1,19,72,476. In penalty proceedings the Tribunal by its order found that there was no evidence that the assessee had made any cash payment which was unaccounted and the additions made by the Department were merely based on estimate and not based on any material records, and therefore deleted the penalty. A criminal prosecution on the same set of facts was not maintainable and was unsustainable and the same is quashed. (AY. 2013-14)(SJ)

The AO issued a show-cause notice u/s. 276CC for initiation of prosecution proceedings for non-filing of return of income in time. The assessee took a plea that since the office of the Director General had not given him a copy of the documents seized during the search and seizure operation in his business premises, he was unable to furnish the return. However, the authorized representative had already collected the original and photocopy of the documents seized but still, the petitioner had not filed returns of income. The Commissioner gave his opinion that the assessee had failed to comply with the notices of the Assessing Officer without assigning any reasons and had also failed to file the return of income and, thus, there was a wilful omission on the part of the assessee in filing returns of his income and, as such, accorded sanction u/s. 279 for launching prosecution u/s. 276CC for not filing returns of income without giving any reasonable cause and non-compliance with the notices of the AO. The High Court held that as the Assessee submitted for the block assessment period, the refund was found to be due to the assessee and refunds were already adjusted against the outstanding demand of the assessee. When there was no demand, filing of prosecution itself was bad in law and to allow to continue proceeding would amount to abuse of the process of law, hence, not justified. Where there was no penalty or assessment against the assessee, orders passed by the competent authority, entire criminal proceedings against the assessee were to be quashed. [S. 2(35), 276B, 278AA, 278B, 279, Art. 136] 2965

Allowing the revision petition, that the assessee and its principal officer had deposited the entire tax deducted at source with interest for the delayed deposit before the time of consideration of the matter as to launching of the prosecution under section 279(1) of the 1961 Act. The tax deducted at source with interest had been accepted and gone to the State exchequer when by then no loss to the Revenue stood to be viewed. The assessee and its principal officer in their show-cause had described all the difficulties which they had faced during the prevalence of the covid-19 situation. The real estate sector heavily faced the wrath of the pandemic covid-19 situation and there were serious labour migrations, stoppage of all forms of construction activities and also buying and selling of real estate projects which were all undeniable facts. The point for consideration by the authority was not to cull out the justification for delay in depositing the tax deducted at source but was whether to launch the prosecution. Hence, the order under section 279(1) passed by the Commissioner (TDS) suffered from the vice of non-consideration of the admitted factual settings as to the existence of reasonable cause for the failure to deposit the tax deducted at source and the complaint was vitiated since the failure was on account of the reasonable cause of the prevalence of covid-19 pandemic. The order of sanction having been passed without due application of mind and in a mechanical manner and putting the blame upon the assessee and its principal officer for not filing any exemption or relaxation notifications or circulars stood vitiated. Hence, the trial court ought not to have taken cognizance of the offences under sections 276B, 2(35) and 278B when even the latter two were no penal provisions and its orders were bad in law and, therefore, set aside. SLP of Revenue is dismissed. (AY. 2021-22)

On writ the Court held that the power of the Central Board of Direct Taxes under section 119(1) of the Income-tax Act, 1961 to issue circulars, directions and instructions should not be exercised beyond the scope of the Act but within the scope of the Act. The Central Board of Direct Taxes is not empowered to fix the time limit for filing the application for compounding of offences under section 279, which is contrary to the provisions of section 279(2) in terms of which the assessee can file the application for compounding of offences either before or subsequent to the launching of the prosecution. The Explanation to section 279 which empowers the Central Board of Direct Taxes to issue circulars, is only for the purpose of implementation of the provisions of the Act with regard to the compounding of offences and not for the purpose of fixing the time limit for filing the application for compounding of offences. [S. 139, Art. 226]

Assessee, a subsidiary of a Singapore based company faced a delay in filing its income tax return due to a disagreement between auditors in India and Singapore. It eventually filed its return on 14-5-2018. Prosecution was initiated based on a complaint dated 3-1-2019, leading to summons being issued on 9-11-2021. On 19-5-2022, after receiving summons, assessee filed a compounding application which was rejected on grounds of exceeding time limit specified in guidelines issued by Central Board of Direct Taxes on 14-6-2019. Which was rejected. On writ the Court held that neither sub-section (2) nor any of other sub-sections of section 279 prescribe a period of limitation with regard to compounding of offences. Even otherwise complaint was lodged on 3-1-2019 a period of about fifteen months lapsed between date of complaint and onset of Covid-19 pandemic and if period excluded under orders of Supreme Court, i. e. period running from 15-3-2020 to 28-2-2022, was excluded compounding application filed on 19-5-2022 would be within period prescribed in guidelines of Central Board of Direct Taxes. Order rejecting the application is quashed and compounding application of assessee was directed to be considered and disposed of on merits. CBDT guidelines dated 14-6-2019 (SJ)

S. 281 : Certain transfers to be void – Recovery of tax – Priority of debts – Secured creditors v. Crown debt - The orders of attachment passed by the Tax Recovery Officer being subsequent to the mortgage created in favour of the secured creditors set aside. [S. 226, Recovery Of Debts And Bankruptcy Act, 1993, 31B, Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002, S. 26E, Art. 226] 2968
The Division Bench held that the Income-tax Act, 1961 does not create a charge on the property of a defaulting assessee, and section 281 merely declares certain transfers void but does not create a statutory charge in favour of the Department. Crown debt has priority only over unsecured debts and not over secured creditors in the absence of an express provision. Sections 26E of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 and 31B of the Recovery of Debts and Bankruptcy Act, 1993 contain overriding non obstante clauses that accord primacy to secured creditors over all other debts, including government dues. Applying purposive interpretation, Parliament's intention to protect the rights of secured creditors prevails. Consequently, the attachment orders of the Tax Recovery Officer, being subsequent to the mortgage in favour of secured creditors, were invalid and set aside. (AY. 2009-10 to 2011-12)

Allowing the petition the Court held that on dates of initiation of proceedings and creation of the mortgage, to demonstrate that the mortgage was created after initiation of the proceeding. The Tax Recovery Officer has power under rule 83 in the Second Schedule empowering him to take evidence exercising power of a civil court. But in the exercise of the power, there must be laid evidence to substantiate the declaration of the mortgage being void. So far as rule 86 was concerned, the Department had not argued that the order was not one, which was conclusive in declaring the mortgage void. No finding that the date of initiation of the proceeding was before the date of creation of the mortgage could be located in the order. The order was bad for being vague.

2970 S. 281B : Provisional attachment-Protect the interest of the Revenue-Properties are mortgaged-Working capital-Order is passed directing the Revenue to lift the attachment on bank account to enable the assessee to avail the working capital facilities etc. from the banks. [Art. 226]

On writ against the provisional attachment the Court held that the first charge holders of the properties are the bankers and the IT Department is only the second charge holders of the assessee's properties. Therefore, the first charge holders of the assessee's properties, being the bankers, the assessee has to first satisfy the bankers, for availing loan facility and on the bankers are satisfied they would come forward to lend loan facility the assessees. The assessees have earned good reputation and credibility amongst the general public, based on which, the bankers have come forward to extend the loan facility and this is a continuous arrangements entered into between the bankers and the assessees, for the sake of running the business smoothly, and when the bank, having extended working capital loan facility to the assessees, and they will monitor the same so as to protect their interest. The question of non-repayment would arise due to deficit in service of working capital loan extended to the assessees. Therefore, the Department could have enabled the assessee to get their working capital loans extended by the bankers, and thereafter, monitor the assessee, whether such loan is being utilized by the assessee for the purpose, for which, such additional loan is extended, and by doing so, the interest of the Revenue, is not going to be affected any away, rather, it would promote much financial gain, and thereby, the interest of the Revenue would also be safeguarded. Therefore, the Department ought to have acted in such a way, in order to protect the interest of the Revenue. On the facts the Department has issued the attachment orders and the same got lapsed on 27th Aug., 2022, 22nd Feb., 2023 and 16th Aug., 2023 respectively. Finally, for the fourth time, the respondent Department has issued the provisional attachment orders dt. 16th Aug., 2023, and the reasons assigned is that to protect the interest of the Revenue. Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income And Assets) And Imposition of Tax Act, 2015

S. 2(11): Undisclosed asset located outside India-Assessment-Black Money-Income from undisclosed sources-Investments in UK-based trusts-Only source of information Department's common reporting standard information showing account balances in trusts and recitals in trust deed-Investment in trust represented immovable property sourced through bank loan-Balance in other trust owned up and explained by assessee's Non-resident son-Addition is deleted. [10(3), IT Act, S. 139, Explan 4, The Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999, S. 16] 2971

The assessee was a resident senior citizen aged about 100 years and his son shri Balaji Ramamoorthy was a citizen of the United States of America. For the assessment year 2016-17, the Assessing Officer issued notice under section 10(1) of the Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015, calling for bank statements relating to investments of large sums in two United Kingdom-based trusts, Windsor Trust and Dalham Trust, to explain the source of funds for making the investments. Not accepting the assessee's explanation for the initial corpus invested in the trusts, the Assessing Officer made additions towards undisclosed investment. The Commissioner (Appeals) sustained the additions. On appeal the Tribunal held that the sole basis for the Assessing Officer to arrive at the conclusion was the Common Reporting Standard information in the Department's Insight portal showing the account balances in the two trusts, on the basis of which he concluded that the assessee being a settlor of the trust became the principal beneficiary and, consequently, the investment in the trust was undisclosed income of the assessee under section 10(3) of the Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015. The Assessing Officer's findings was not tenable for the simple reason that except for the Common Reporting Standard information, he did not have any other evidence to allege that the assessee had made contribution to the trusts. The Assessing Officer neither had the assessee's bank statement to allege that the assessee had made outward remittance of funds nor could he prove that the assessee was deriving any income from the trusts outside India. Investment in trust represented immovable property sourced through bank loan. Balance in other trust owned up and explained by assessee's Non-resident son. Accordingly the addition is deleted. An order dated 23. 03. 2023 was issued against the assessee under the Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and the imposition of Income-tax Act, 2015. Such order was carried in appeal by the assessee before the Commissioner (Appeals). The assessee was called upon to provide documents, including bank statements relating to the assessee's account with DBS Bank. Assessee, sought 45 days to provide bank statements from a closed DBS Bank account. Such request was made by assessee because his son had travelled to Singapore to obtain statement, which was taking time due to account being closed. On writ the Court held that reason set out by assessee appeared to be reasonable, consequently, Commissioner (Appeals) was directed to consider and grant request for 45 days' time to provide all documents and information.

[IT Act, 132, Art. 226]

Assessee was a non-resident Indian living in Dubai. Search and seizure operations under section 132 were undertaken at premises of group of hotels which included assessee along with other family members. It was alleged that assessee had indulged in evading disclosure of a large amount of undisclosed foreign assets/income in offshore jurisdictions and had indulged in diversion of unaccounted assets/income with purpose of circumventing jurisdiction of Indian revenue authorities. Consequently, Look Out Circular (LOC) was issued against assessee. On writ, assessee had challenged said LOC on the ground that last summon was issued to assessee two years back and since then he had not been called by authorities. Court held that LOC could not be permitted to continue for such a long period without there being any cogent and valid reason. Since assessee had complied with summons and had cooperated with ongoing investigations against him by revenue and furthermore in absence of any material which indicated that assessee was likely to be called for investigation in near future, LOC issued against him was to be quashed. Mere fact that information sought through Foreign Tax and Tax Research from other jurisdictions such as UAE was still awaited could not be reason to keep LOC against assessee pending to curtail his fundamental rights and thus, LOC is quashed. [S. 2(11) IT Act, S. 17(2)] 2977

The assessee was resident of India during the years under consideration. It is alleged that assessee had foreign assets being investments with Equatex UK Ltd. (United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland) having account No. 1660701 but was not reported in schedule FA (Foreign Assets) of the income tax return filed for the years under consideration, as revealed in the enquiries conducted by the investigation Wing. According to the Ld. Assessing Officer, failure on the part of the assessee to make the said reporting attracted penalty of ₹ 10 lakhs under section 43 of the Act. Ld. Assessing Officer had issued a show cause notice seeking explanation from the assessee to this effect which was replied upon. Assessee submitted that he was an employee of Vodafone M-Pesa Ltd and was granted stock options that is ESOPs by the company as part of his employment. Assessee received equity shares of Vodafone Group PLC (foreign listed company of the Vodafone group) which were valued at ₹ 18,99,873/-by the employer for assessment year 2018-19. These shares were held in an online broking account bearing user ID: 1528635 which was opened by the employer itself to facilitate the allotment of ESOPs. These ESOPs were considered as perquisites in the hands of the assessee which were valued and disclosed as per the provisions of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (the IT Act) in Form No. 12BA issued by the employer. This perquisite was included in annexure to Form 16-Part B as per section 17(2) of the IT Act. The employer had deducted appropriate and full amount of tax at source (TDS) on the value this of perquisite. According to the assessee, since the entire amount of ESOP is fully taxed by way of TDS and which has been disclosed and offered to take under the head income from salary in his return form it does not fall within the definition of 'undisclosed asset located outside India' as per section 2(11) of the Act. A reference was also made to definition of assessee under section 2(2) of the Act. The AO levied the penalty. CIT(A) deleted the penalty. On appeal the assessee contend that, He has fully disclosed the income earned in the form of ESOP. (shares of a foreign company) which itself is the foreign asset, No further tax is payable on such income, This asset is generated out of the income, which is fully disclosed and taxed in India in the same assessment year, he has disclosed, beyond doubt, the source of investment in such asset. He has furnished the relevant information and particulars to the extent required to be submitted in the tax return, It is not a case of malafide intention of not disclosing either the income or the asset as the preamble to the said Act to understand the discretionary power vested with the Assessing Officer for imposition of penalty vis-à-vis object sought to be achieved keeping in mind the legislative intent. The purpose of reporting requirement of foreign assets/income in Schedule FA of the Income tax return is for tracking and monitoring the investments held abroad by the residents of India. Preamble to the Act describes its objective to deal with problem of black money, i. e., undisclosed foreign income and assets. The said Act must not be invoked for punishing a technical /venial /bonafide breach of any statutory obligation and therefore bonafide actions of the tax payers must be excluded from the application of provisions of this stringent legislation. Assessees were directors in companies, Glearing Snow World wide (GS) and Oriental Success Universal Corporation Ltd (OS) which were incorporated as British Virgin Island(BVI) companies in Singapore on 17-3-2008 and 12-5-2009. Thereafter, OS-company opened a bank account in Singapore bank and certain amount was credited in said corporations accounts. After closure of financial year, bank account was closed and subsequently, both companies were struck off at BVI. Revenue took recourse to section 72. Revenue registered a complaint against assessee invoking section 200 of Cr. P. C on ground that assessee had denied their investments, interests, beneficial ownership of entities and beneficial ownership of bank account maintained in Singapore in their statements recorded under section 131 of IT Act, 1961 on 10-5-2015 and 17-3-2017. High Court held that since all facts that became offences were alleged to have happened five years prior to BMI Act coming into force and law, as on date alleged, was not law of such disclosure of assessment, non-disclosure of an assessment of tax return for year 2007-08 or 2009-10 could not be used to criminally prosecute assessees. High Court further held that since prosecution initiated could not pass muster under article 20 of Constitution of India, criminal law could not be set into motion against assessees. On SLP it was noted that in criminal petition, there was no challenge to validity of section 72(c). Accordingly SLP was to be granted against order of High Court. Observations of the High Court in para 15 of the judgment, the High Court has observed thus:

xxx Therefore, the criminal law cannot be set into motion against the petitioners in the aforesaid facts of the case, as it cannot pass muster of Article 20 of the Constitution of India. A caveat, this Court is considering the criminal liability fastened upon the petitioners by the prosecution including under Section 72(c) of the Act and the consideration has led to an unmistakable conclusion that it falls foul of Article 20 of the Constitution of India. The Special enactment is a statute. Article 20 comes under Chapter III of the Constitution of India, a fundamental right. Constitution of India is not a statute. It is the fountain head of all statutes including the special statute. Therefore, the rigour of any provision of the Act should pass muster of Article 20 of the Constitution of India and it fails to pass such muster in the case at hand and the failure leads to obliteration of the crime against the petitioners. " The aforesaid part of the impugned order will remain stayed. (AY. 2019-20)

Magistrate under sections 50, 51(1) and 51(2) of Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of Tax Act, 2015. Assessee filed an application before High Court for grant of anticipatory bail. Court held that in view of submissions of assessee that Black Money Act was not applicable in assessment years 2009-10 to 2014-15 because it came into force and was applicable after 1-4-2016 and there was no need of his custodial interrogation and he was ready to co-operate with trial and furnish adequate surety, it was to be directed that in event of arrest, assessee be released on bail on furnishing a personal bond in sum of Rs. 5 lakhs with one solvent surety of like amount. Court directed the assessee to co-operate with the Income-tax Department in investigation, inquiry or proceedings conducted by the Department, if required. He will further abide by the following conditions:

(a) assessee shall make himself available for interrogation by the Income-tax Department as and when required;
(b) assessee shall not, directly or indirectly, make any inducement, threat or promise to complainant or witnesses;
(c) assessee will not leave India without the permission of Trail Court and surrender his passport before the Trial Court.

Allowing the criminal petitions, that at the relevant point in time, when the amounts were alleged to have been deposited by the assessees in the bank in Singapore in the year 2009-10, the Black Money (Undisclosed Foreign Income and Assets) and Imposition of tax Act, 2015 was not in existence and came into effect only on July 1, 2015. Therefore, all the facts had happened five years prior to the Act itself coming into force. What was given effect to under section 72(c) was a deeming section which created a criminal liability. It was a matter of record that all the facts that became the offences were alleged to have happened five years prior to the 2015 Act coming into force. A special enactment is a statute, whereas the Constitution of India is not a statute, but the fountain head of all the statutes including the special statute. Article 20 comes under Chapter III of the Constitution of India, a fundamental right, which makes it a fundamental right to a person who would be convicted of an offence except for violation of law in force at the time of commission of the act charged as an offence, not to be subjected to a penalty greater than that which might have been inflicted under the law in force. The prosecution initiated against these assessees did not and could not pass constitutional muster under article 20 of the Constitution of India. Therefore, the 2015 Act failed to pass muster of article 20 of the Constitution of India. Non-disclosure in an assessment of the tax return for the year 2007-08 or 2009-10 could not be used to prosecute the assessees, under an Act that had come into force in the year 2015. Search and seizure revealed two bank accounts in Hong Kong of the assesee and her husband that were disclosed in the assessment years. Charge of section 50 of the black money act on the assessee was framed. Assessee filed application u/s 205 of Cr. P. C before trial court for exempting her from attending trial. The Calcutta High Court observed that from the impugned order it is found that the learned Magistrate has not considered whether any useful purpose could be served by requiring the personal attendance of the accused or whether the progress of the trial is likely to be hampered on account of her absence. Since the nature of complaint precisely is based on documents, I am of the opinion that personal appearance of the petitioner may be dispensed with subject to certain conditions as follows:-

(i) That the accused petitioner shall submit a written undertaking before the learned Trial Court that she will not challenge her identity and the trial will proceed in her absence but in presence of her advocate-on-record.

(ii) The accused-petitioner shall also give written undertaking before the learned Trial Court that she will appear as and when required by the learned Court.

Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act, 2020

2982 S. 2(1) : Legacy Dispute Resolution-Deposit of tax arrears-Dropping of cheque in the drop box-Delay of three days in delay of deposit of cheque due to circumstances beyond control. [IT Act, 119, S. 3, 4, Art. 226]]

The assessee filed his declaration as required under section 3 of the 2020 Act before the designated authority before the last date, i. e., June 5, 2020 and on receiving the declaration of the assessee, the designated authority had also issued a certificate as required under section 5 of the 2020 Act, on November 9, 2020 after adjusting the tax paid by the assessee and also informed him that the tax payable by him was about Rs. 18,67,137 before December 31, 2020. It was also mentioned in the certificate that after December 31, 2020 the assessee would be liable to pay the arrears of tax of Rs. 20,84,351. The last date for depositing the arrears of tax was extended from time to time and lastly by notification dated June 25, 2021 ([2021] 435 ITR (St.) 25) till October 31, 2021. But the last date, i. e., October 31, 2021, was a Sunday ; therefore, the assessee dropped the cheque for Rs. 8,67,137 in the drop box of the bank, after adjusting Rs. 10 lakhs already deposited by him on February 4, 2019. The cheque was cleared on November 3, 2021 and duly deposited in the account of the Income-tax Department. The delay of three days occurred because on November 1, 2021, the assessee met with an accident and suffered a knee injury, and, therefore, he could not approach the bank to clear the cheque or credit the amount on November 1, 2021. Owing to this delay of three days, the Income-tax Department did not accept the amount deposited by the assessee under the "Vivad se Vishwas" Scheme. Thereafter, the assessee's application for condonation of delay of three days was also rejected by the Chairman of the Central Board of Direct Tax by order dated August 25, 2022. On a writ petition, allowing the petition the Court held that the fact of dropping of cheque in the drop box as well as the accident of the assessee was not disputed by the respondent in the counter affidavit. The delay of three days in depositing the arrears of tax is condoned. Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Scheme, 2020 in pursuance of the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020 ([2020] 422 ITR (St.) 121). 2983 S. 2(1)(a) : Appellant-Amount payable and time of payment-Disputed tax-Filing of declaration and particulars to be furnished-Appeal dismissed by the Commissioner (Appeals)-Time limit for filing an appeal before Income tax Appellate Tribunal is not expired-Eligible to apply under provisions of DTVSV-The revenue is directed to proceed with the application of the assessee in accordance with the provisions of the DTVSV Act and other applicable regulations. [S. 2(1)(a)(ii), 2(1)(j)(B), 4, S. 250, 254(1), Art. 226]

Aggrieved by the assessment order, the assessee preferred an appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals) which came to be dismissed on the ground of four years delay. This order of Commissioner (Appeals) however, was under challenge before the Tribunal. In the interregnum, on 17-3-2020, the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020 (DTVSV Act) came into force and on 23-12-2020, the assessee filed Forms 1 and 2 as per the provisions of the DTVSV Act. The said application was rejected by the revenue on the pretext that as on the specified date, no appeal was pending, hence, the assessee was ineligible to reap the benefits under the DTVSV Act. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that once Commissioner (Appeals) has rejected appeal of assessee whether on merits or on delay aspect, tax demand as reflected in assessment order gets confirmed unless it is set aside or modified by other appellate authority, thus, disputed tax arrears still exist as on specified date and consequently, assessee would be eligible to apply for settlement under DTVSV Act. Assessee's appeal before Commissioner (Appeals) was dismissed on ground of delay and admittedly time limit to avail remedy to appeal against Commissioner (Appeals) order was not exhausted as on specified date, assessee would be eligible to apply under provisions of DTVSV Act. Revenue could not have presupposed that assessee would not succeed in appeal before Tribunal under any circumstances. (AY. 2010-11)

Allowing the petition the Court held that the Vivad se Viswas Act does not make any distinction as to the mode in which the appeal was made as long as it is pending. Once the Tribunal condoned the delay on December 18, 2020, the appeal would be construed as having been instituted on the date it ought to have been lodged. The fresh appeal was filed before the 2020 Act received the assent of the President, i. e., on March 17, 2020. Therefore, the bona fides of the assessee, clearly, could not be doubted. The assessee would not have known that a viable appeal was one which was instituted in digital mode. Undoubtedly, the assessee suffered on account of its lawyer's failure. Therefore, the assessee's appeal was pending on the specified date, i. e., January 31, 2020. The rejection of the declaration was not valid.

[S. 2(1)(j), ITAct, 154, Art. 226] 2985

Allowing the petition the Hon'ble Court has held that in DTVSV Act, 2020, if there was a reduction or increase in income and tax liability of assessee as a result of rectification, disputed tax would be calculated after giving effect to said rectification order passed. Issuance of revised form is held to be not sustainable. The rejection order is quashed. The AO made addition for bogus purchases u/s. 68 of the Act for A. Y. 2011-12. The CIT(A) restricted the addition to 25%. Hence, both Revenue and the assessee filed appeals before the Tribunal which was disposed by order dated 26. 09. 2019 wherein it held that entire addition cannot be made but it should be restricted to the difference between GP on genuine purchases and GP on bogus purchases. For want of details, Tribunal restored the matter to the AO. Both Revenue and the assessee filed further appeals before High Court on 31.02.2021. The assessee filed Form 1 under VVS showing tax liability of Rs. 40,58,100 but certificate was issued for Rs. 1,62,32,404/-by relying on Q. no. 7 of Circular 9 of 2020 dated 22.04.2020. (2020) 422 ITR 131(St) Hence, the assessee filed Writ which was disposed holding that the reliance placed by the Revenue on said Circular was unstainable. Accordingly, the Revenue was directed to compute disputed tax demand by giving effect to the order passed by Tribunal and issue Form 3 within 3 months from date of the order. Agarwal Industrial Corporations Ltd. v UOI [2023 455 ITR 404 (Bom)(HC) (AY. 2011-12)

[S. 5, Form No1, Form No 3, Form No 4, Art. 226]

Assessee filed declaration in Form 1 giving particulars of tax arrears and amounts payable in respect of pending income tax dispute for relevant assessment year. Revenue issued Form 3 determining amounts payable as 14.04 lakhs (if paid on or before 31-3-2021) and Rs. 16.26 lakhs (if paid after 31-3-2021) Accordingly, assessee paid amount of Rs. 14.04 lakhs on 12-10-2021. However, assessee received a communication that her declaration was null and void as there was delay in filing of Form-4 and last date for payment of tax extended upto 31-10-2021 had also lapsed. Thereafter, assessee received another communication rejecting assessee's declaration with new reason that assessee ought to have paid Rs. 16.26 lakhs since such payment was made after 30-9-2021. On writ the assessee contended that in response to revised Form 3 made payment of disputed tax determined within 15 days in Form 4 and also payment made on 12-10-2021 was acknowledged by revenue. Requirement of paying an additional amount was informed to assessee only by communication dated 1-4-2022, long after the extended date of 31-10-2021 had lapsed. Allowing the petition the Court held that fact revenue should have either accepted assessee's payment made within 15 days from receipt of Form 3 or at least informed assessee that she was required to pay an additional amount on or before 31-10-2021. Since assessee determined amount payable under VsV Act correctly but had to struggle to get revenue's determination corrected, communications rejecting assessee's declaration is to be quashed. The Revenue is directed to accept the declaration, subject to making the payment within 21 days. (AY. 2017-18)

[S. 4,5, Art. 226] 2988
The petitioner in order to avail of the benefit of the scheme under the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020, was required to make a payment of up till March 31, 2021 and with interest at the rate of 10 per cent. amount of up till October 31, 2021. The petitioner was able to make 75 per cent. There was only balance of 25 per cent. amount payable by the petitioner which in the instant case had also been paid by the petitioner on December 31, 2021, i. e., which is within sixty (60) days time from the date the payment of the 75 per cent. earlier made. Respondent did not issue the form 5 on the ground that respondent has no power to condone the delay in payment of tax which was paid beyond the cutoff date. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that it was admittedly Covid pandemic period and there were compelling circumstances faced by every person including business entities. Prima facie, the petitioner had not tried to evade payment of tax at any point of time and if at all there was any delay, the delay was only to the extent of 25 per cent. of the total tax payable which too he had paid in its entirety within sixty (60) days beyond the date of October 31, 2021. The delay was condoned. Direction issued to the respondent to immediately take necessary steps for issuance of form 5 under the Direct Tax Vivad se Vishwas Act, 2020.

Petitioner has filed revision application under section 264 after the specified date on 31 St January 2020. The application of the petitioner was rejected on the ground that the Revision application was filed on March 1, 2021. On writ considering various circulars and notifications and budget speech (2020) 420 ITR 115 (St)(146) the Court held that the Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act is neither a taxing statute nor an amnesty Act. it is a remedial /beneficial statute. Court also observed that considering the Taxation and Other laws (Relaxation of certain Provisions) Ordinance, 2020(2020) 422 ITR ITR 116 (St) and the order passed on suo motu 3 of 2020 in Cognizance for Extension of Limitation in, re (2020) 424 ITR 314 (SC). [S. 3, 5(2), IT Act, S. 254(1), Art. 226]
The appeal filed by the assessee in the year 2015 was not pending as on 31st Jan., 2020. However, in view of order dt. 3rd Sept., 2020 passed by the Tribunal recalling its order dt. 26th March, 2019 whereby appeal filed by the assessee was dismissed, the appeal was restored to its file i. e., appeal filed in the year 2015. Therefore, the appeal of the assessee has to be considered as pending as on 31st Jan., 2020 which is the specified date as per the VSV Act. When the assessee has filed declaration under the VSV Act to claim the benefit of the Scheme, the Tribunal had already recalled the order dt. 26th March, 2019 and therefore, the appeal preferred by the assessee before the Tribunal was pending as on 31st Jan hence it cannot be said that no appeal was pending as on 31st Jan., 2020 when the assessee filed the application/ declaration under the provisions of the Scheme. On writ the Court held that the action of the respondent authority of rejecting the declaration filed by the assessee is not tenable and accordingly, the same is quashed and set aside. The respondent authority is directed to consider and process the declaration filed by the assessee under the provisions of the VSV Act within a period of 12 weeks from the date of receipt of copy of this order. S. 4 : Filing of declaration and particulars to be furnished-Rectification of order-Allegation of false declaration-Determination of tax attained finality-Once certificate is issued by Designated Authority-Rectification notice is barred by limitation. [S. 3, 4(6), 5, IT Act, 154, Art. 226, Form No 5] 2993

The assessee obtained a settlement of all disputes pertaining to tax demands and form 5 was issued and the total liability determined and conferred finality in terms as contemplated under the provisions of the Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act. Thereafter, the Assessing Officer invoked the power conferred by section 154 of the 1961 Act to revisit the computation of liability which had stood settled, up to the stage of appeal before the Commissioner (Appeals). On a writ allowing the petition the Court held that the validity of notice for rectification had to be evaluated on the basis of the date of its issuance as opposed to when the same may have been drawn. The reasons for rectification under section 154 of the 1961 Act, stated that the Assessing Officer while computing the additions in the original order of assessment, dated December 22, 2017, had referred to and applied an incorrect tax rate. The Commissioner (Appeals), while according part relief had recomputed the taxable income of the assessee and even at that stage, the issue of a wrong tax rate having been applied had not been either raised or alluded to. Even assuming that the power under section 154 of the 1961 Act was available to be exercised, notwithstanding the conclusion of proceedings under the Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act and the issuance of form 5, it would not be sustainable since the statutory period of limitation which would apply. That the rectification order, which was asserted to be passed in exercise of the powers conferred under section 154 of the 1961 Act, would not fall within the ambit of section 154 of the Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act. It was not the case of the Revenue that the assessee had failed to make a disclosure with respect to any material particular or any disclosure so made subsequently being found to be false. The rectification notice, rectification order under section 154 of the 1961 Act, the notices and order of demand under section 156 of the 1961 Act were quashed. The assessee and the Revenue should proceed in terms of the determination of tax made under the Direct Tax Vivad Se Vishwas Act (AY. 2015-16)

Assessee filed Form Nos. 1 and 2 on 22nd Dec., 2020 to get the benefit of the DTVSV Act, however, on the date on which the assessee filed the Form Nos. 1 and 2 as per the provisions of s. 4 of the DTVSV Act r/w r. 9 of the DTVSV Rules, no appeal either before the Tribunal or before the High Court was pending. The assessee submitted that because the order of the Tribunal was not served upon the assessee, the appeal before the Tribunal is to be treated as pending and the assessee is entitled to get the benefit of the provisions of the DTVSV Act. Rejecting the petition the Court held that submission of the assessee is not acceptable for the only reason that the assessee was aware about the disposal of the appeal by the Tribunal on 4th June, 2019. Further, it is to be believed that the order dt. 4th June, 2019 passed by the Tribunal was sent to the assessee by the Tribunal through the registered A. D. post on 19th Aug., 2019 as per record of the Tribunal. Merely because the assessee received certified copy of the order from the Tribunal on 22nd Dec., 2020, the assessee cannot contend that the appeal was pending before the Tribunal on the date of filing of the application.

Amount paid by the assessee during the asst. yr. 2012-13 towards "advance tax" and "self assessment tax" after due date for filing of the return under S. 139 was whereas tax liability of the assessee for the said assessment year was reduced by the assessee in the declaration filed under the Income Declaration Scheme, 2016. But for the aforesaid issue regarding the tax liability of the assessee for the asst. yr. 2012-13 in the declaration filed by the assessee under Income Declaration Scheme, 2016, there is no impediment in allowing the assessee to adjust the amount paid as "advance tax" and "self assessment tax" towards tax liability of the assessee under Income Declaration Scheme, 2016. Matter is remanded to the respondent along with the AO for redo the exercise after examining the accounts of the assessee for asst. yr. 2012-13 and ascertain whether the assessee has indeed made a correct declaration of income for the Assessment year. 2012-13 in the declarations Court held that the declaration filed by the assessee may be accepted and closed under the provisions of the income-tax and Income Declaration Scheme, 2016. There are also certain arithmetical error in so far as the amounts to be paid by the assessee under the Income Declaration Scheme, 2016. Wealth-tax Act, 1957

S. 35B: Failure to furnish returns of net wealth-Mechanical approval-High Court quashed the proceedings-Death of assessee-Criminal appeal abated - Non-filing of return is not a continuing offence-Court held that since sole assessee had died and she had been discharged, criminal appeal stood abated and disposed of. [Art. 136]

A complaint was filed against assessee under section 35B on ground that assessee wilfully failed to file return of wealth, even though she was having assessable wealth for relevant year. Complaint was admitted by Trial Court. Assessee filed a petition to quash proceedings on ground that sanction order was not proper as assessment order had not been placed before sanctioning authority. Trial Court dismissed petition. High Court held that since relevant assessment order had not been specifically referred to by sanctioning authority in his sanction to prosecute assessee under section 35B, same would be a case of mechanical signing of order on part of sanctioning authority and it would vitiate order of sanction and, accordingly, order of Trial Court was set aside and assessee was discharged. Court held that since sole assessee had died and she had been discharged, criminal appeal stood abated and disposed of. As regards tax liabilities of previous years were to be deducted from wealth to find out net taxable wealth, since income tax and wealth tax assessment for previous assessment years were not finalised and concluded, assessee was not able to file a correct and complete return and thus, failure on part of assessee to file wealth tax return in time was not wilful and only a wilful failure to file return shall be a punishable offence under section 35B High Court held that non-filing of return is not a continuing offence and failure to submit a return within a time will led to assessment of wealth-tax to best of judgment of Assessing Officer and after such an assessment, there would be no question of assessee filing a return and therefore, only for escaped assets, further particulars can be called for and consequential prosecution can be made under other provisions of Act and not for offence under section 35B and thus, assessee had established a case for discharged. Court held that since sole assessee had died criminal appeal stood abated and disposed of. (AY. 1993-94)

[Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. 18 R. 24]

The Trail court had repeatedly granted adjournments for plaintiff to present witness, but on final date, original lawyer engaged by parties could not reach Court within time, Trial Court closed the evidence stage. On writ allowing the petition the Court held that party cannot be penalised for fault of counsel. One more opportunity was granted to plaintiff to adduce evidence subject to payment of costs of Rs. 5000. Court also observed that, parties are completely dependent upon their lawyer to represent their case. Every lawyer is expected to keep in mind that he is also an officer of the Court and judicial system is based upon co operation of the lawyers. It is also expected from the concerned lawyers of parties to positively remain present before Court on the date given by the trail court. However, if the lawyer is not in a position to remain present, he shall make alternative arrangement for proceedings of the case in order to avoid inordinate delay.

S. 21A : Board of Discipline-Professional misconduct-Power of Central Government to make rules-Matter referred to Disciplinary Committee-Reference is held to be valid-Appeal is dismissed. [S. 21A(4), 29A(1) Chartered Accountants (Procedure of Investigations of Professional and Other Misconduct and Conduct of Cases) Rules, 2007, Rule 9(3)(b)]

Appellant, a member of an audit firm, was involved in auditing work for a bank. Some suspicious transactions occurred in bank's branch, but they were not flagged by audit firm. Complainant bank registered a complaint with Director (Discipline), who initially found appellant not guilty of any misconduct. However, Board of Discipline disagreed and decided to refer matter to Disciplinary Committee. Appellants challenged action of Board in High Court via a writ petition, seeking to declare rule 9(3)(b) of Rules, 2007 invalid on ground that this rule was ultra vires section 21A(4). However, Division Bench of High Court rejected this challenge and upheld validity of rule 9(3)(b) of Rules, 2007-Rule 9(3) provided additional option to Board for proceeding to deal with complaint by itself or referring it to Disciplinary Committee. Court held that rule 9(3) (b) is completely in sync with object and purpose of framing Chapter on 'Misconduct' under Act. Further, even if rule 9(3) could not be saved under section 29A(2)(c), it directly related to furthering purposes of Act in ensuring that a genuine complaint of professional misconduct against member was not wrongly thrown out at very threshold and therefore, impugned rule fell within scope of general delegation of power under section 29A(1). Appeal is dismissed.

Assessee's family rented out certain property to Income Tax Department for office space since 1999. Lease agreements renewed several times, with last agreement ending on March 31, 2024. Income Tax Department published notice for new office space and assessee submitted bid, but was disqualified. Assessee filed writ application for challenging Income Tax Department's decision to vacate leased premises and contended that Income Tax Department had rented property for over 24 years and decided to vacate it without justification and had not explained why his technical bid was rejected. It was noted that assessee did not allege any lease violation and a notice inviting bids for leasing space was published on 16. 02. 2024, and assessee, after submitting a bid, was disqualified and therefore, having failed, assessee could not challenge premises' vacation. Further, bids were evaluated by Building Hiring Committee, which assessed premises' suitability through technical bids and an on-site visit. In view of above facts, High Court held that there was no merit in assessee's claim and accordingly, dismissed writ application. Against said order assessee filed instant SLP. SLP is dismissed.

The Appellant, an advocate was hired by Mr. DK Gandhi for legal services. Disputes arose between them and the Respondent filed a consumer complaint before the district forum for deficiency in services. The District forum decided the complaint in favour of the respondent. The State Commission held that the services of lawyers/advocates did not fall within the ambit of "service" defined under section 2(1)(o) of the CP Act, 1986. The NCDRC, however in the Revision Application preferred by the respondent passed the impugned order holding that if there was any deficiency in service rendered by the Advocates/Lawyers, a complaint under the CP Act would be maintainable. Being aggrieved by the said impugned order passed by the NCDRC, the present set of appeals has been filed by the Bar of Indian Lawyers, Delhi High Court Bar Association, Bar Council of India. Court held that, with regard to the nature of the work of a professional, which requires a high level of education, training and proficiency and which involves skilled and specialized kind of mental work, operating in the specialized spheres, where achieving success would depend upon many other factors beyond a man's control, a Professional cannot be treated equally or at par with a Businessman or a Trader or a Service provider of products or goods.

3006 S. 2(c)(i) : Contempt of Court-Criminal contempt-For making Scandalous, unwarranted and baseless imputations against several sitting Judges of the High Court and district Courts-Court has sentenced a lawyer to six months imprisonment after holding him guilty of criminal contempt. [S. 5, 14, 15]

Contemnor has made certain allegations against the learned sitting Judges of the High Court and learned Judges of the District Court. The learned Single Judge held that a bare perusal of the averments made show that they are scandalous and aimed at lowering the dignity and majesty of this Court. They have been made malafidely to interfere with administration of justice and amounting to contempt, intrinsically contemptuous in nature and fall within the definition of "Criminal Contempt" of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 under Section 2(c)(i). On appeal the division bench held that the contemnor/ respondent has made contumacious allegations in the appeal making scandalous, unwarranted and baseless imputations against the learned Judges of this Court as well as District Courts who have been discharging their judicial function. Moreover, being an Officer of this Court making such averments in the judicial pleading are more serious in nature. It is incumbent upon the Courts of justice to check such actions with a firm hand which otherwise will have pernicious consequences. Court also observed that having considered the material placed on record, submissions of contemnor, Court held that the contemnor has no repentance for his conduct and actions. Goods and Service Tax Act, 2017

S. 73 : Determination of tax not paid or short paid or erroneously refunded or input tax credit wrongly availed or utilised by reason of fraud or any wilful-misstatement or suppression of facts-Challenge against show cause notice under the CGST-Writ against show cause notice is dismissed-Alternative remedy –No violation of principle of natural justice-Frivolous petition only to avoid recourse to statutory remedy and take its chance with filing petition in High Court-Cost of Rs 5 lakh is awarded on the petitioner to be paid to the Maharashtra Legal Services Authority within four weeks.. [Maharashtra Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, Art. 226] 3007

The Hon'ble Bombay High Court, recently, had an occasion to adjudicate upon a petition challenging a show-cause notice in a writ petition. The impugned notice dated 7th December 2023 have been issued under the CGST Act. After issuance of the show-cause notice (7th Dec'23), the Petitioner had filed its reply/objections and subsequently an order had been passed on 22nd July 2024, in pursuance of the show-cause notice. The Petitioner had filed detailed reply/objections, against the said order, raising various defences before the issuing authority. The Petitioner filed the petition impugning the show-cause notice, on 5th Sept'2024 viz. after the final order was passed. The prime grievance of the petitioner was that the show-cause was vague and being vague, it denied the Petitioner opportunity of setting up its defence viz. the vague notice made it difficult for the Petitioner to present its case since the Petitioner could not understand (owing to vagueness) what was the case of the Department. In other words, the Petitioner was not made aware of what was the case against it, that it was supposed to meet. And this, according to the Petitioner, resulted into violation of principles of natural justice. As a corollary, the Petitioner contended, the order passed in consequence of the show-cause notice was a nullity.

The Hon'ble Bench rendered the following findings:

a) The show-cause notice was, far from being vague, a detailed one and clearly raising various facts/issues. The notice stated/referred to information/ intelligent inputs that were received by the Dept, on the basis of which the notice was issued and the notice was unambiguous.

b) The Hon'ble Court noted that the Petitioners had filed detailed reply to the show-cause notice before the authority and while filing reply/ies, the petitioners were not handicapped by any vagueness; in fact the Petitioner had raised detailed defences/ propositions in its reply. No where in its reply had the Petitioner alleged any vagueness.

c) All in all, the show-cause notice was very clear and detailed. Since the Petitioners had filed detailed replies raising various propositions/defences, it meant that the Petitioners fully understood the contents of the notice and the alleged 'vagueness' did not prevent the Petitioners from filing reply. In other words, the allegation of vagueness was misconceived.

d) Further, if the Petitioners were genuinely affected by vagueness of the notice, they ought to have moved the Court forthwith whereas the show-cause notice dated 7th December 2023 was challenged on 5th September 2024.

e) Referring to the decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Whirlpool Corporation v.. Registrar of Trade Marks (1998) 8 SCC 1, the Hon'ble Court held that recourse to writ jurisdiction can be sought where Petitioner seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights or where there is a violation of the principles of natural justice or where the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction, or vires of the Act is challenged. The Hon'ble Court lamented that the trend in recent times was to assail, in a challenge to the show-cause notice in a writ petition, validity of some statutory provision so as to circumvent the statutory appellate remedy.

f) Alluding to the decision in UOI v. Coastal Container Transporters Association (2019) 20 SCC 446, the Hon'ble Court held that writ petition can be entertained only where there was either of lack of jurisdiction or any violation of principles of natural justice.

g) Referring to the case of Special Director v. Mohd. Ghulam Ghouse (2004)3 SCC 440, the Hon'ble Court, observed that unless the show-cause notice is totally non-est in the eyes of the law for absolute want of jurisdiction of the authority, writ petitions should not be entertained for the mere asking and as a matter of routine.

The Court concluded that the above facts led to the inference that the Petitioner had filed a frivolous petition only to avoid recourse to statutory remedy and take its chance with filing petition in High Court. the petition was dismissed with exemplary cost of Rs. 5 Lakhs to be paid to the Maharashtra Legal Services Authority within four weeks. Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988, Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Amendment Act, 2016.

S. 2(8) : Benami Property-Shell companies-Transactions involved in case were related to period prior to Amendment Act, 2016-Pendency of review petition-Provisions of section 5 cannot be applied retrospectively-Order of Tribunal is affirmed. [S. 3, 5] 3008

Pursuant to search, investigations revealed multiple layering of funds through shell companies. Show cause notices were issued under Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988, classifying certain properties as benami. Adjudicating authority held that property was benami and confirmed attachment order. Appellate Tribunal set aside order of Adjudicating Authority holding that as transactions involved in case were related to period prior to Amendment Act, 2016 brought with effect from 1-1-2016, proceedings for prosecution and confiscation would be legally unsustainable. Relied on UOI v. Ganapati Dealcom (P.) Ltd. [2022] 141 taxmann.com 389/289 Taxman 177/447 ITR 108 (SC)) wherein, it was categorically held that 'provisions under section 5 of 2016 Act, being punitive in nature, could only be applied prospectively and not retrospectively. Court held that as on date, decision of Supreme Court in Ganpati Dealcom (P.) Ltd. (supra) holds field and hence, arguments advanced on side of revenue that provisions of section 5 of Amended Act, 2016 have to be applied retrospectively, could not be countenanced. Further, pendency of review of decision in UOI v. Ganapati Dealcom (P.) Ltd. (supra), could not be a ground to interfere with order passed by Tribunal. Order of Tribunal is affirmed.

S. 2(9) : Benami Transactions-Provisional attachment order-Alternative remedy-Writ petition is dismissed. [S. 24(1), 24(3), Art. 226] 3009

Petitioner challenged show cause notice and provisional attachment issued under Act of 1988 on ground that alleged benami transaction had taken place prior to 1-11-2016, date when Act of 1988 stood amended. Dismissing the petition the Court held that provisional assessment order as name suggests, is provisional in nature and adjudicating authority is best suited to decide question of Benami nature of property. Since show cause notice was a detailed notice running in several pages containing several factual basis and it was within province of adjudicating authority to decide whether property was Benami in nature and whether petitioner was liable for any action under Act of 1988, petitioner should avail remedies under Act of 1988 and take all possible factual and legal grounds before adjudicating authority. [S. 2, 3, 4, 5, 24, 27(3), 27(5), 53, 54, 54A, 67 Art. 14, 20(1)]

The assessee-company purchased property in its name from various sellers on 2-5-2011. The Initiating Officer invoked amended section 24(1) and issued notice to assessee on the ground that said property was benami property. The Hon'ble High Court, thus, held that revenue could not apply amended definition of 'benami property' and 'benami transaction' on basis of Benami Transactions Amendment Act for immovable property which was purchased much prior to said amendment and quashed the impugned order. Thus, 2016 Act could only be applied prospectively. On appeal, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India initially ruled that Section 3 of the unamended 1988 Act was unconstitutional due to being manifestly arbitrary, which also rendered Section 5 unconstitutional. This decision meant that authorities could not initiate or continue criminal prosecution or confiscation proceedings for transactions that occurred before the enforcement of the 2016 Act, which commenced on October 25, 2016. However, the Hon'ble Supreme court left the questions open to be adjudicated as it was not concerned with the constitutionality of the independent proceedings contemplated under the 2016 Amendment Act. Further, a review petition was filed which was allowed and restored for fresh adjudication as there was no challenge to the constitutional validity of the unamended provisions and the submissions of parties recorded in the judgement did not squarely address the issue of constitutional validity. Decision recalled and restored for reconsideration.

S. 24 : Benami Transactions-Notice and attachment of property involved in benami transaction-Corporate debtor-Liquidation by NCLT-Notice of attachment-Notice is issued in SLP filed by the Liquidator. [Insolvency And Bankruptcy Code, 2016, 60, 238] 3012
Corporate debtor had been ordered for liquidation by NCLT. Respondent attached property of corporate debtor under Prohibition Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988. Appellant-liquidator filed an application before NCLT stating that attachment of property by respondent was illegal. NCLT held that there was no conflict between two statutes as there was no bar in selling property of corporate debtor solely on ground that corporate debtor was under Liquidation, and that Liquidator was also not barred by IBC to add said property into liquidation estate. NCLT further held that liquidator was open to approach appropriate forum to raise attachment or any other relief as per provisions of Act. NCLAT held that Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988, and I&B Code, 2016, operate in their own field and issues/disputes, pertaining to an attachment, effected under Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988, cannot be gone into, by Adjudicating Authority (Tribunal), under I&B Code, 2016. Further, liquidator could not bypass a remedy, provided under Benami Act in assailing order, passed by Adjudicating Authority, before Appellate Tribunal, under Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 and, therefore order passed by NCLT was free from legal infirmities. On SLP appellant/liquidator submitted that in this case, company under liquidation was not owner of any benami property and that purchase of shares in a company under liquidation did not make company itself owner of benami property Notice is issued in SLP filed by appellant, however, appellate proceedings shall continue in accordance with law.

S. 24 : Benami Transactions-Attachment of property-Satisfaction of initiating Officer that person in possession of property held benami may alienate property during period specified in notice-No material in possession of initiating officer, to show property held benami is likely to be sold-Attachment order is set aside. [S. 2(8), 2(9), 24(1), 24(3), Art. 226] 3013
By notice under section 24(1) of the Act, the respondent-authorities proposed to treat the constructions being raised by the petitioner on her plot to be a benami transaction, being carried out by the petitioner on behalf of her son-in-law. The plot in question was purchased by the petitioner by a sale deed dated April 23, 2016. By notice under section 24(3) the property was provisionally attached. On a writ petition allowing the petition, the Court held that the Act was amended with effect from October 25, 2016. The sale deed of the petitioner was admittedly prior to the amendment. The purchase of the land being prior to the coming into force of the amendment to the Benami Transactions

Act, 1988 no proceedings with regard to it could be initiated by the Department. That the total value of the constructions in dispute was around Rs. 1.05 crores and out of that sum an amount of Rs. 95 lakhs had been transferred to the builder from the bank account of the petitioner herself. Admittedly, the construction of the house was still under way, when the show-cause notice was issued. The mere statement of the contractor without any substantial supportive evidence is made the basis of the entire proceedings. Such a mere statement without any supportive evidence was not under law sufficient material in the possession of an Initiating Officer to arrive at a reason to believe that constructions were benami. The contractor had not given any reason for making such a statement, and the Department had also not even asked him on what basis he was making the statement. There was not even an iota of material placed by the Department before the court, referred to in the show-cause notice, on the basis of which the court could conclude that a reason to believe can be arrived at. Admittedly, the petitioner had already submitted her Income-tax returns for the relevant period and the proceedings were not yet completed. In the absence thereof the Department also could not claim that her earnings for the relevant year were beyond her known sources of income. There was no material in the possession of the Initiating Officer sufficient to believe that the assessee was a benamidar of her son-in-law, with regard to the constructions in question for initiating proceedings under section 24(1) of the Act. That no material had been referred to by the Initiating Officer in the attachment order or placed before the court which could demonstrate that the property was likely to be sold requiring him to resort to provisional attachment under section 24(3). The order of provisional attachment was without any basis.

3014 S. 24 : Benami Property-Provisional Attachment of property-No provision warranting authorities to provide opportunity of Cross-Examination of witnesses whose statements have been relied upon-Orders continuing provisional attachment of property till order of adjudicating authority is not erroneous. [24(2), 24(3), 24(4)(a)(i), 26(3), IT Act, S. 132, Art. 226]

Dismissing the appeals against the single judge order the Court held that in the absence of any provision of law and compelling circumstances warranting the authorities to provide an opportunity of cross-examination of witnesses, whose statements had been relied on by the authorities, at the stage of proceedings under section 24 of the 1988 Act, the plea raised by the assessees in this regard, could not be countenanced. The assessees had failed to furnish the necessary documents to substantiate their stand that the alleged transactions were not benami transactions. The Deputy (Commissioner) after making enquiry and calling for reports or evidence and taking into account all the relevant materials and with the prior approval of the approving authority had passed separate orders under section 24(4), continuing the provisional attachment of the property till the passing of the order by the adjudicating authority under section 26(3), which were provisional in nature. The provisions of law mandate the authorities to furnish the requested documents, particulars or evidence and provide an opportunity of being heard to the assessees only at the stage of adjudication proceedings and there is no provision under the Act to provide an opportunity to the appellants to cross-examine the witnesses at the preliminary stage. Therefore, there was no error in the orders passed by the Deputy Commissioner (Benami Prohibition), as an interim measure, continuing the provisional attachment order of the property in question till the passing of the order under section 26(3) by the adjudicating authority. The court had rightly affirmed the orders and directed the authorities to proceed further in accordance with law. (AY. 2012-13 to 2018-19)

Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988

3015 S. 13 : Criminal misconduct by a public servant-A Government Servant-Prevention of corruption-Criminal misconduct-Offences and prosecution-Discharge of accused-Special bearer bonds-Unexplained investments-Assets acquired in the name of son-Trust-Separate entity-Proceedings under Income Tax Act which were sought to be relied upon were related to assessment of income of assessee and not related to source of income and allegation of disproportionate assets under Prevention of Corruption Act, thus, said orders could not be basis to abort criminal proceeding-Trial court is directed to complete the trial expeditiously. The Court is only required to consider judicially whether the material warrants the framing of charge without blindly accepting the decision of the prosecution. Appeal is dismissed. The Trial court is directed to complete the trial expeditiously [S. 13(1)(c), 13(2) IT Act, 1961, S 69, 254(1), Art. 136]
The assessee is an architect in NDMC. Based on certain information, it was noted that assessee owned assets disproportionate to known sources of income. Consequently, charges were filed against assessee and his son under sections 13(1)(e) and 13(2) of the PC Act, 1988. The main ground for charges were that assessee's son received substantial amount through encashment of special bearer bonds and he had facilitated commission of offense inasmuch as assets were acquired by assessee in the name of trusts and other firms in which his son was the sole beneficiary. The Trial court passed order on charge and the framing of charges. Meanwhile, on the income tax front, the case of the assessee was reopened by the Assessing Officer based on the search conducted by CBI. Accordingly, additions were made in the hands of the assessee with respect to income of a trust on ground that source of investments in said trust were not explained and special bearer bonds which were encashed in the account of said trust were not of investments from the trust. On appeal, on the income tax front, the Tribunal deleted the additions on ground that trust was a separate entity and since assessee's son was running its business, trust's income could not be added in the hands of the assessee. Income tax Appellate Tribunal deleted additions made by Assessing Officer in hands of assessee on ground that trust was a separate entity and since assessee's son was running its business, trust's income could not be added in hands of assessee. Assessee relied upon findings recorded by authorities under Income Tax Act and contended that in view of order of Tribunal there was no ground to proceed with criminal trial. However, High Court upheld order of charges. On appeal the Court held that scope of adjudication in both proceedings (Prevention of Corruption Act and Income-tax Act) were markedly different and therefore, findings in latter could not be a ground for discharge of accused persons in former. Proceedings under Income Tax Act which were sought to be relied upon were related to assessment of income of assessee and not related to source of income and allegation of disproportionate assets under Prevention of Corruption Act, thus, said orders could not be basis to abort criminal proceeding. Court held that even a strong suspicion founded on material on record which is ground for presuming the existence of factual ingredients of an offence would justify the framing of charge against an accused person. The Court is only required to consider judicially whether the material warrants the framing of charge without blindly accepting the decision of the prosecution. Appeal is dismissed. The Trial court is directed to complete the trial expeditiously. (AY. 1989-1990 to 1995-1996, 1997-1998 to 2001-02)

S. 13 : Criminal misconduct by a public servant – Automatic vacation of stay – Power of High Court v. Supreme Court under Article 142- A reasoned stay order once granted in any civil or criminal proceedings, if not specified to be time-bound, would remain in operation till decision of main matter or until and unless an application is moved for its vacation and a speaking order is passed adhering to principles of natural justice either extending, modifying, varying or vacating same. [IT Act, 1961, S. 254(2A), Constitution of India, 1950, Art. 141, 142, 226(3),227, Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, 397, 482, Indian Penal Code, 1860] 3016

The Supreme Court (larger Bench) held that its earlier directions in Asian Resurfacing mandating automatic vacation of stay after six months were unsustainable, as such blanket directions would amount to judicial legislation. The High Court, under Articles 226/227, has inherent jurisdiction to stay proceedings, and such power cannot be curtailed by a time-limit fixed by the Supreme Court under Article 142. A reasoned stay order, unless expressly time-bound, continues until the matter is decided or until modified/vacated upon proper application and hearing. Article 142 jurisdiction cannot be exercised to nullify substantive rights, defeat natural justice, or impose automatic lapses of judicial orders. Constitutional Courts should not ordinarily impose time-bound schedules for disposal of pending cases, except in exceptional circumstances. Consequently, there cannot be an automatic vacation of stay once granted by the High Court. (Impugned Asian Resurfacing directions overruled to this extent).

3017 S. 13 : Liability of guarantor is joint and several with principal debtor-Bank is entitled to proceed under SARFAESI Act for properties mortgaged by guarantor. [S. 13(4), 17]
Respondent stood as a guarantor in respect of loan taken by borrower company and mortgaged his properties. Due to non-payment of loan, bank had taken recourse of section 13(4) to take possession of mortgaged property, which was quashed by High Court. On SLP the Court held that there being a mortgage and loan amounts recoverable, bank was entitled to proceed under SARFAESI Act. Further, liability of guarantor is joint and several with principal debtor set aside. Bank is entitled to proceed under SARFAESI Act, including notice under section 13(4).
